French to Try Air Evacuation of WoundedFort Guns to Fall Silent in Dramatic Attempt on Monday

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indochina—(AP). The French clung grimly, without further retreat, to their battered Dien Bien Phu fortress Saturday night and announced a spectacular attempt would be made to evacuate their wounded by plane Monday.

Gen. Henri Navarre, commander of French Union forces in Indochina, said he planned to land mercy planes, marked with the Red Cross, in Dien Bien Phu's shell-pocked airfield about noon Monday while a plane load of neutral observers and newsmen of the International Press Corps watched the operation from the air.

The landing will be made, he said, after the Communist-led Vietnamese forces have been advised by Col. Christian de Castries, the Dien Bien Phu commander, of the exact time of the operation.

French guns at the fortress 175 miles west of Hanoi will fall silent at the time, except at points where attacks are in active progress, and the sky will be swept clear of all other planes, Gen. Navarre said. He recalled that the Vietnamese had failed to reply to his March 27 appeal for a cease-fire on mercy planes.

The neutral observers, he added, will assure that the Red Cross-marked planes carry no supplies into Dien Bien Phu—only medical corpsmen and crews.

The crucial battle for the dusty plain, ringed by hills, died down somewhat in its third day Saturday. Unconfirmed reports said the Vietnamese commander, Gen. H. Nguyen Giap, had called for a fresh division from Hanoi's Red River delta area to reinforce his attack.

Authoritative French sources estimated the Vietnamese had suffered around 7000 killed and 14,000 wounded—roughly half the 11 sieging force—since Mar. 13 when Ho loosed his first all-out attack in an effort to win a decisive victory before the Geneva conference on Korea and Indochina that opens Apr. 26.

Hush Session Eyes Crisis
in Indochina

WASHINGTON — (U.P.). Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, reviewed the grave situation in war-torn Indochina Saturday in an extraordinary meeting with a bipartisan group of congressional leaders.

The two-hour and 15-minute conference was held at the State Department with Secretary of State Dulles participating. Soon afterward Dulles met with French Ambassador Henri Bonnet who returned here from Paris Friday night.

Dulles and Bonnet, who would have the French government's latest views on the situation, "exchanged views on the Geneva Conference and Indochina," the statement said.

The unusual Saturday meeting underscored the grave concern American and French officials feel over the fate of the beleaguered French outpost of Dien Bien Phu, now under constant attack by the Communists.

Participants at the Radford briefing were close-lipped.

L.A.C. SAYS:

New Political Look

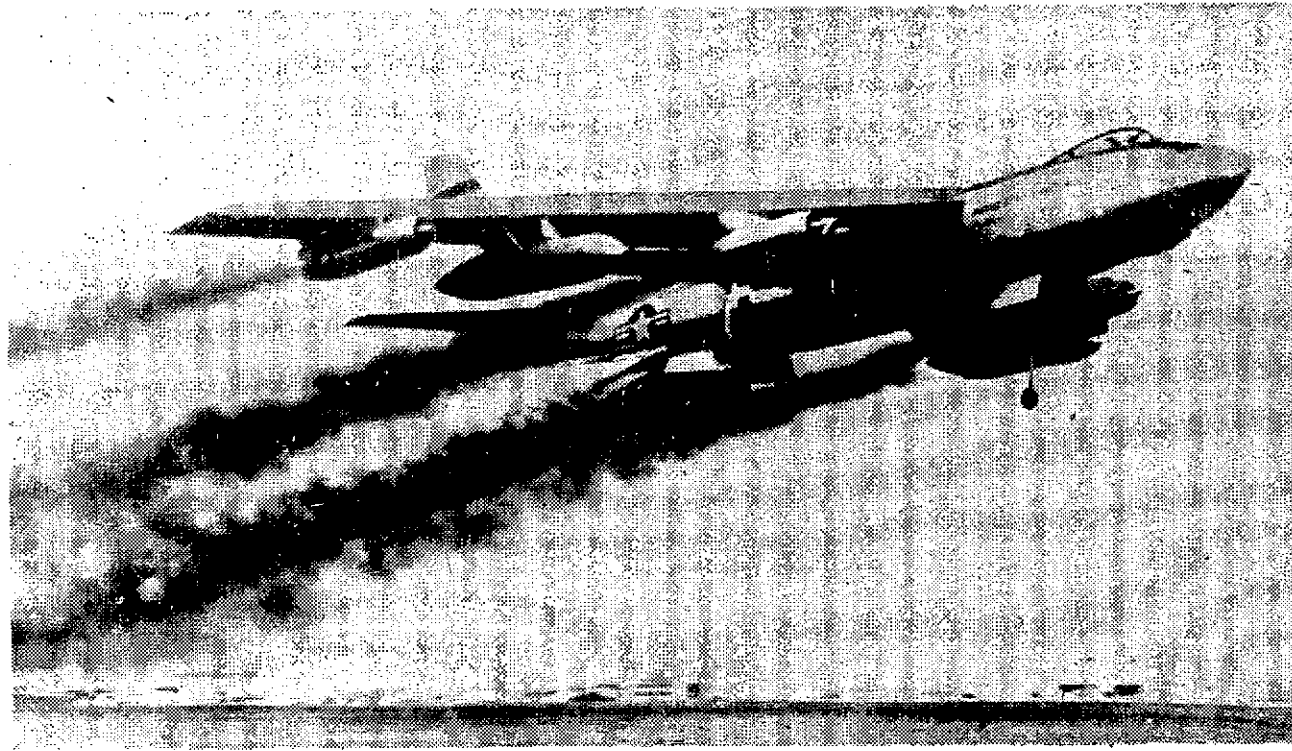

Chances of candidates in California winning both party nominations in the primaries are greatly reduced this year compared with the past. This year for the first time the candidate's party will be shown below his name on the primary ballot. Many will file on both party tickets, as in the past, hoping to win in the primaries. But the party designation makes a big difference in their chances. This is shown in a carefully conducted survey made here during the past two weeks. It should be enlightening to candidates all over the state.

Under our primary system a candidate can file on both party tickets. If he gets the highest vote on both tickets he is virtually elected, because he is then the candidate of both parties in the final election. For many years in the past the voter had no way of knowing, from the ballot, whether he was voting for a Democrat or Republican. Result has been a high percentage of candidates winning in the primaries on both tickets.

To check on how the people would vote under the old

Guided Missile Nike Called 'Unbelievable'

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON — (UP). Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) Saturday termed the guided missile Nike "the most unbelievably fantastic weapon" he ever saw.

He said that once it is launched at an enemy plane "there is no escape."

Hebert was among the House members who flew last week end to the Southwest for a demonstration of Nike and other new Army weapons. He wrote his eye-witness report of the demonstration for publication in the New Orleans States.

"In simple language Nike is able to be sent into the sky in search of an enemy aircraft," Hebert reported. "Shorn of the details, which obviously can't be given because of security reasons, Nike, with uncanny precision, is able to track down the enemy airplane, intercept it, explode and blast the airplane and its occupants into debris of thousands of small splinters. There is no escape."

Hebert said millions of Americans now must rely on Nike for assurance they will live through a possible enemy air attack.

He said Nike anti-aircraft batteries already have been authorized for 10 target areas, including Washington, and that eventually all major cities will be protected.

The Army has said the missile can seek out and destroy miles away an oncoming enemy bomber.

Hebert wrote of the Nike: "It is approximately 20 feet in length and about one foot in diameter. It has a speed of approximately 1500 miles an hour when airborne, which is much faster than any airplane, even supersonic, built to date."

Hebert said Nike—named for the Greek goddess of victory—should have been named Kyon, after the Greek word for bloodhound.

"As the bloodhound on the ground, given the scent of the killer, drives forward with tenacious fury, never faltering or halting until his prey is trapped, so does Nike, dispatched from its launcher and guided by radar scent, never cease its quest of an enemy airplane until it has been intercepted and destroyed," he wrote.

White Rats
Take Over
His Garden

What would you do if you found 18 white rats rooting around in your flower garden?

Faced with this situation Saturday afternoon, Raymond D. Pickrell, 36 Santa Ana Ave., a retired oil man, called the animal shouter.

A shelter man came around and picked up half of the "critters." A neighborhood boy had taken the others home.

Pickrell admits he is at a loss to explain the sudden appearance of the white rats. "I had cultivated that section of the garden just an hour before," he recalled. "They weren't there then."

Pickrell is concerned, too. "Supposing they were laboratory rats—maybe they have been injected with something, you know, like testing some germs," he said.

And just after dusk Saturday, when Pickrell thought the rat problem had been solved, he received a telephone call. It seems the mother of the boy who had taken the rats home made him bring them back and put them in the yard.

Pickrell said he went out and looked for them. "I couldn't find them," he said. "Guess I'll have to search again in the morning."

Driver Saves Elderly Man and Vanishes

RIVERA—A man crept on his hands and knees into a blazing dwelling here Saturday night, pulled a sleeping 82-year-old man to safety, then drove off without giving his name before fire fighters arrived, the Sheriff's officers reported.

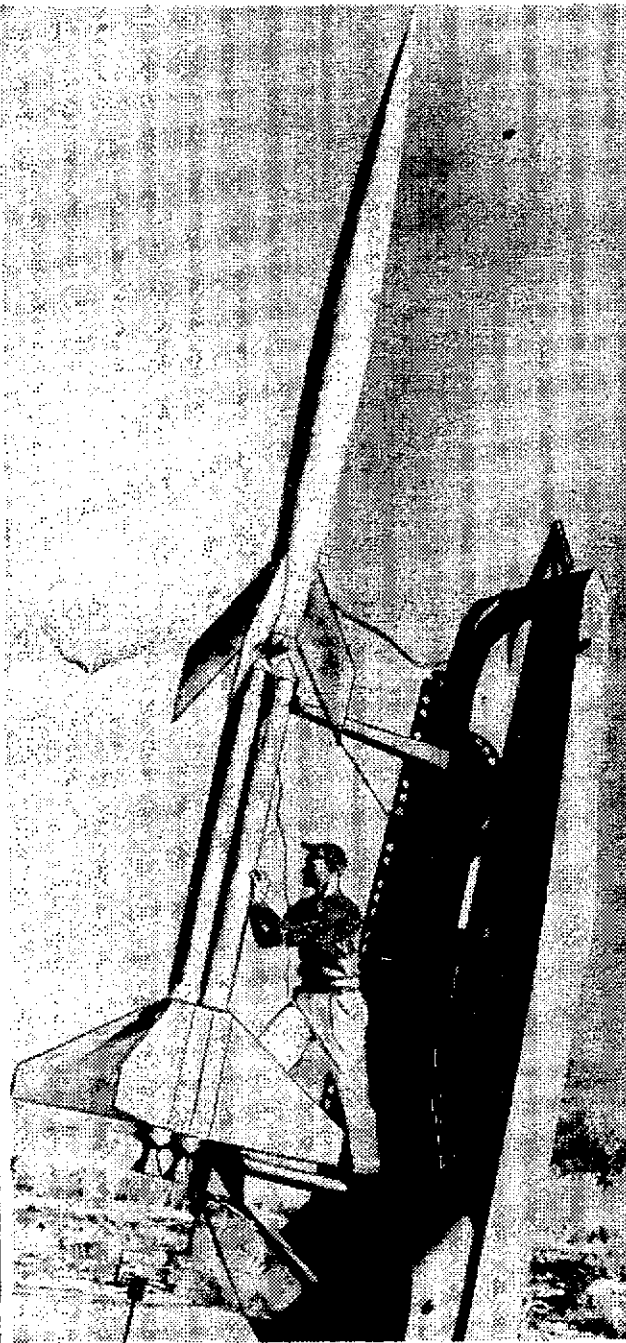

Gene Buck, a service station operator near Miguel Hernandez, one-room home at 7014 Rosemead Blvd., said he discovered the fire and rushed to call authorities.

He returned in time to see the man, whose 1953 Cadillac was taking on gasoline at the station, emerge from the smoke-filled building dragging Hernandez.

The elderly victim was not seriously hurt, deputies said. His rescuer left the scene before the fire units arrived and put out the blaze.

VFW War to Bar Commie
Party Told at L.B. Ritual

The Veterans of Foreign Wars get it done that we've ever had," the commander declared.

"People are more alert to communism now and we feel that it can be proved that the Communist party in this country is controlled by a foreign power."

The 43-year-old operator of a farm machinery business in Arkansas City, Kans., said that the VFW representatives in Washington will intensify their efforts this week to get a bill outlawing communism out of the House Judiciary Committee.

Richards served as installing officer at the fourth annual mass placement of post and auxiliary offices of the VFW Fourth District Council, in Municipal Auditorium.

"The VFW has worked since 1926 to outlaw the Communist party, but this time we feel that we have the best opportunity to

He said that the VFW was instrumental in preventing Congress from continuing a cutback in Veterans Administration hospital bed space. The VFW managed to get more bed space, he added.

"We believe Congress will continue this trend unless a great deal of money is spent by such organizations as the American Medical Assn. to stop our program," Richards stated.

He said that the average number of patients in all VA hospitals is 105,000, out of 21,000,000 veterans who are eligible for government medical treatment and hospitalization.

"Some are trying to make the people believe that the veteran is getting a completely free ride," he said. "That's not true. Out of the 3,341,000 veterans with service-connected disabilities, 1,421,000 are not drawing compensation, although they are

Ike's Policy
Deters China

DETROIT — (U.P.) Vice President Nixon said Saturday night the Eisenhower administration's "massive retaliation" military policy has "reduced to a minimum" the chance that Red China will send troops into the Indo-Chinese war.

In an address to a testimonial banquet here for Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.), Nixon said:

1—"The American people can be completely confident that the problem (of internal security) is being handled by people who know their business and who will protect America from those who would destroy freedom, without endangering freedom in the process."

2—"We are convinced that the adoption of the Eisenhower (legislative) program will bring an unparalleled period of prosperity in peace time for the people of the United States."

3—"The very existence" of the hydrogen bomb "may in itself prove to be the greatest force for peace in world history," because the Soviets, Nixon said, know that for them to start a war might mean "national suicide."

In a speech that obviously had White House approval, Nixon said that critics of the "massive retaliation" military policy had assumed that "the only choice we have is between a big war or a little war."

Nixon said that what these critics "fail to understand is that because of the threat of massive retaliation action we may avoid having any war at all."

Already the existence of this policy has reduced to a minimum the chance that the Chinese Communists will resume their aggression or that they will move overtly into Indochina," Nixon said.

"Had this same policy been in effect at the time they entered the Korean War it is extremely unlikely that they would ever

Woman Dies in Car Crash,
Two Injured

A Glendale woman was dead and her husband and baby in critical condition here late Saturday after their auto was involved in a collision with a stolen taxi driven by an immigrant Mexican farm laborer.

Torrance police said the collision culminated a violent spree by Corrales Acosta, 25, during which he assaulted cab driver, took the vehicle after running over the cab's foot, then later tried to steal a second car to flee the accident scene.

Dead in the crash at Pacific Coast Hwy. and Hawthorne Ave. in Welteria was Mrs. Patricia Von Delton, 21. Her husband and driver of the car struck by the taxi, Douglas Von Delton, 23, and their 17-month-old son, Kim, were in critical condition in Harbor General Hospital.

Piecing together the story, Torrance police said Acosta apparently got in a hassle with Cabbie Frank Griffith, 30, of 1706 McKay Ave., Redondo Beach.

The Mexican routed Griffith from his cab after a fierce struggle and drove off, rolling over Griffith's foot, south on Hawthorne.

After the accident in which the cab rammed into the side of the Von Delton auto, Acosta, with a badly injured arm, got out of the taxi and ran.

He was apprehended while allegedly trying to start a second car near by. Torrance police said they probably would file manslaughter and car theft charges, among others, against Acosta.

Hermosa Tot

HERMOSA BEACH — (U.P.). A 19-month-old boy believed drowned near his ocean front home Friday was still missing Saturday, despite an all-day vigil by county lifeguards.

While swimmers nearby took advantage of the sun, crewmen of a county rescue boat dragged for the body in and beyond the surf where Michael McDonald is assumed to have met death.

JUST ASK ME
---IT'S PAINT!
NOT H-BOMB

Harry G. Nicholson, 69 W. Pleasant St., Saturday reported small particles of "white waxy" stuff fell out of the sky onto his lawn early in the afternoon.

"I thought it might be ash from that H-bomb," Nicholson explained.

But his wife had her own explanation.

"It's white paint," she said. "That's what it is."

Pray Against Hell-Bomb,
Cries Graham

LONDON — (U.P.). Billy Graham, the American evangelist, stood under Lord Nelson's column Saturday and led thousands in Trafalgar Square in a prayer to save the world from the hydrogen bomb.

He proposed that President Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth II join in proclaiming a "World Day of Prayer."

It was Graham's first open air meeting since he came to Britain and started on March 1 a series of meetings that have drawn more than a half million persons to his indoor religious gatherings.

A crowd estimated at 50,000 filled the square Saturday. Graham asked those who promised to go to church today and pray for peace to put up their hands. An instantaneous field of fluttering hands was the response.

Graham moved right into his subject.

"This hydrogen bomb—this terror bomb—this hell-bomb as somebody has said, that could destroy civilization."

"All over the United States, throughout Great Britain, in India, South Africa, throughout Russia and the entire world men's hearts were quaking in fear as we look into the future. As one great British leader has said, our problems have got beyond us. I do not know myself but I know this, that the great problems facing the world at this hour are not the hydrogen bomb or the nitrogen bomb but human relations. What are we going to do with this tremendous power?"

"History teaches us that man has never been able to bring about world peace. The only program for peace that has any chance of working is the peace of Jesus Christ. His book has the answer to the problems we are facing at this hour."

Turkish Plane Explodes in Air; 26 Killed

ISTANBUL, Turkey — (U.P.). A Turkish State Airways plane exploded in the air near Adana Saturday, killing 26 persons aboard.

The accident occurred at 1500 feet shortly after the plane had taken off from Adana for Istanbul. Reports here said that among the 21 passengers—all Turkish—were Prof. Remzi Ogunzarik, leader of the Peasants' Party, and Istanbul Deputy Salomon Adatto. The crew numbered five—including two stewardesses.

Air line officials said the pilot was attempting to return to the Adana airport with one engine afire when the plane blew up. Adana is the site of one of Turkey's major jet air fields. It is located in southeastern Turkey.

It appeared likely that the Eisenhower plan would figure at some stage in the proposed secret talks.

It was shortly after passage of that resolution that President Eisenhower put forward a plan for a world bank of atomic energy to be devoted to medical, agricultural power and other peaceful uses.

It appeared likely that the Eisenhower plan would figure at some stage in the proposed secret talks.

Senators Will Quiz McCarthy 'Referee'

WASHINGTON — (UP). Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) changed his mind under Democratic pressure Saturday and decided Senate investigators should ask Counsel Samuel P. Sears again about his past stand on Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

As temporary chairman, Mundt said he would call a meeting of the Senate Permanent Investigating Subcommittee Monday so senators could ask some pointed questions of Sears, Boston lawyer, whom they unanimously hired last Thursday as impartial counsel to investigate McCarthy's feud with the Army.

Mundt had said earlier he did not plan a subcommittee meeting when Sears reports for work Monday. He had said Sears would remain as counsel unless there is "solid" new evidence that he is pro-McCarthy.

But Democrats were disturbed because Sears told them—and later repeated to a press conference—that he had never taken a stand on McCarthy. And Boston newspaper files promptly yielded reports that he had offered to raise re-election funds for McCarthy in 1952 and had said the Wisconsin Republican was doing a great job.

After talking with Democratic members of the subcommittee, Mundt told newsmen Saturday:

"When Sears arrives, I will call the members together and discuss with him this information that has come out in the press, of which we knew nothing at the time."

Mundt said the meeting would be held Monday unless Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) asks that it be postponed until Tuesday. Dirksen was not expected to return to Washington until late Monday.

Mundt said the meeting will be held "so we know the extent and degree of any past statements that might have an impact on his (Sears) present assignment, and to reassure ourselves that there are no statements in the background indicating any conclusions or points of view on the factors involved in the present controversy."

Democrats apparently were not so much disturbed about what Sears might have said about McCarthy as the fact that he did not tell them about it when asked.

Mundt said that he did not question Sears about whether he had taken a stand on McCarthy when Sears met with the subcommittee last Thursday before his appointment. He said he assumed that Sens. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) and Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) had asked him that and received satisfactory answers.

The Democrats reported that they had, in fact, asked Sears such a question and that he replied in the negative.

Mundt said part of the confusion might arise from the fact that Sears was asked a double question at the news conference Thursday when his appointment was announced.

The question, by May Craig of Maine newspapers, was whether Sears had ever taken a stand on "McCarthy or McCarthyism."

Sears replied that he had not publicly or privately.

If the question had been split up — if he had been asked whether he had taken a stand on McCarthy — obviously, he was, Mundt said. "I don't see anything in the record (of Sears) on McCarthyism—I don't know exactly what it is."

McCarthy Is Topic of Special Series

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy is one of the most discussed men of our time. Mostly, people discuss him in questions.

Does he want to be President? What are his motives? Is his a sincere hunt for Communists in government and in the Army? Are left-wing influences succeeding in confusing the picture of Red infiltration?

Are attempts to challenge him based in part on fears of further disclosures? Are innocent being smeared in the search for the guilty?

There are few people without an opinion, and this raises still another question. What is there in McCarthy and his methods that appeals to some but repels others?

Monday, the Press-Telegram will begin a 10-part series of articles which will bring into perspective McCarthy, his aids, his operations, his results, his future.

Two of the articles will be made up entirely of a question and answer interview with the Senator.

The top reporters of Associated Press have worked many weeks preparing this series of stories about McCarthy. It starts Monday in the Press-Telegram.

have embarked upon aggression that would result in the event there."

Beyond the political objectives, the Nixon speech was regarded in some quarters as a partial preview of what Eisenhower is expecting to say in a nationally broadcast talk Monday night aimed at quieting fears of the American people on international and domestic situations.

Nixon said that recent Pacific "experiments with the hydrogen bomb have understandably increased the fear of war throughout the world.

Joe's Filmed Reply Ready for Murrow

BOSTON — (UP). Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said Saturday he has completed a filmed reply to television commentator Edward R. Murrow for showing on Murrow's CBS-TV show next Tuesday night.

McCarthy said the film would show "that Murrow is (1) a liar, and (2) has been of great assistance to the Communist cause."

He added he would make the film available to any television station that wants to show it.

The senator's comment was made in the course of a brief news conference at Logan airport as he arrived to speak Saturday night at a closed meeting of the Beacon Society, composed of Boston business and professional men.

The film the senator referred to is his reply to a telecast a few weeks ago in which Murrow was critical of McCarthy and his methods of investigating alleged Communist infiltration.

"It was not possible to give the complete picture of Murrow in 25 minutes," McCarthy said.

Globetrotter Cage Star Hurt

PINE BLUFF, Ark. — (UP). Julius Kellogg, Harlem Globetrotter and ex-Manhattan College cage star, is in a critical condition at a hospital here from injuries suffered in a car wreck in which three other Negro professional basketball players were hurt.

Kellogg, a member of the 1951 Manhattan team, provided a tip that paved the way for a nationwide investigation of gambling in college basketball circles.

He suffered a possible broken neck, his physician said, and has been in a coma since Friday night when the car in which he was riding overturned about 16 miles north of here.

CURSE PUT ON LOST UMBRELLA

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — (UP). A bus passenger in Minas Gerais state has advertised that his lost umbrella is "bewitched" and is apt to cause a serious accident to the person using it, the newspaper O'Globo reported Saturday.

"A magic curse has been applied to this umbrella by famous Italian magicians," the advertisement said.

O'Globo said four umbrellas have been returned as a result of the advertisement, but the bewitched one was not among them.

'NOAH'S ARK' FLYING TO AID KOREA

SAN FRANCISCO — (UP). There's a reason why a Transocean Air Lines DC-4 will fly to Pusan, Korea, at 4000 feet instead of the normal 8000 Monday—so syrup feeders will keep operating for the 200,000 bees on board.

Two milkers will go along—to attend 60 pregnant nanny goats. The goats, 80 in all, will be in special crates strong enough to prevent them from butting their way through the fuselage.

Also on board will be 500 rabbits.

The cargo is being sent to Korean orphanages by Church World Service.

Screen Writer Dies

HOLLYWOOD — (UP). Ernest Vajda, screen writer and playwright, died Saturday after a heart attack at the Motion Picture Country Hospital in Woodland Hills. He was 67.

Fast Life by PETRONIUS JR.

THE PAST WEEK gave Long Beach a perfect reason why extreme care must be taken in developing offshore oil pools.

The example was the bursting of an oil pipeline under the ground in the harbor area.

CRUDE OIL spouted high in the air for a long time and spread over a wide area of streets and other property.

Had such a pipeline broken on an island in front of the city or a line leading from an island to shore or a barge, the entire beach would be oil soaked.

WE ARE ASSURED such things just couldn't happen under present scientific methods.

But they do happen and, in our opinion, will happen as long as there are oil wells.

IT IS THE REASON why development of oil in front of our beaches must be well planned by competent experts before any action is taken.

The frantic efforts to get control of oil money by the City Council, in the recent special election, is evidence of why we should go slowly.

THE OIL IS NOT getting away from where it is stored, deep under the ocean.

Barbara Mum on Gary's Pin

SAN CARLOS — (UP). Barbara Stanislaus, who is 21, blue-eyed and blond, acknowledged Saturday that she was wearing the fraternity pin of Gary Crosby, who is 22 and the eldest son of crooner Bing Crosby.

But she denied they were engaged and remarked, "You'd better ask him" when told that wearing a man's fraternity pin usually means an engagement.

Will Baja California Become a Utopia?

By Hubbard Keavy
Associated Press Writer

MEXICALI.

Mexico's new State of Lower California is worth watching. Its first elected governor is a man zealously determined to put Baja California on the economic map.

Until a year ago, the upper half of this peninsula was a province and the governors were appointed by the president of Mexico. When the state was formed a year ago, the PRII (Peoples' Revolutionary Party) chose Braulio Maldonado as its candidate. There was only token opposition.

Maldonado is small in stature and, at first glance, undistinguished. A lawyer and a legislator before his election, he may be an old 40 or a young 60.

When I met him in his home he was wearing a gray flannel shirt, inexpensive blue suit, scuffed brown shoes. He would not stand out in a crowd until he began to speak. Then he'd take over.

His interpreter said His Excellency speaks English, but prefers Spanish because he thinks in that language. My questions seldom needed interpreting; usually the Governor began his reply as soon as the question was given. As a youth, Maldonado worked for three years in the shipyards of San Francisco, where he acquired a good bit of colloquial English.

Upon taking office last Dec. 1, he issued a statement of policy. If he can accomplish a small portion of the ambitious program laid down in that statement, a Utopian life — and it's about time — should follow. So far Baja California, with a population of 280,000, has had little claim for glory, except perhaps for the ardor of its patriots.

THE STATE. adjoining U. S. California, is one of the richest virgin areas in the world. One authority for this is Carl W. Schooss, general manager of the Imperial Publishing Co. of El Centro, who has hunted and fished in most of Baja and in so doing has become an expert on conditions.

Another is Maldonado, who speaks glowingly of the long-neglected potentialities—in agriculture, in oil, in ores and, as profitable as any crop, tourists. Seven and a half million crossed the border into Baja last year, most of them to buy gewgaws in Tijuana. Maldonado wants better roads to bring in more tourists. A project not far off, he says, is a freeway to Ensenada, a resort and fishing spot on the Pacific side visited each year by thousands of Southern Californians.

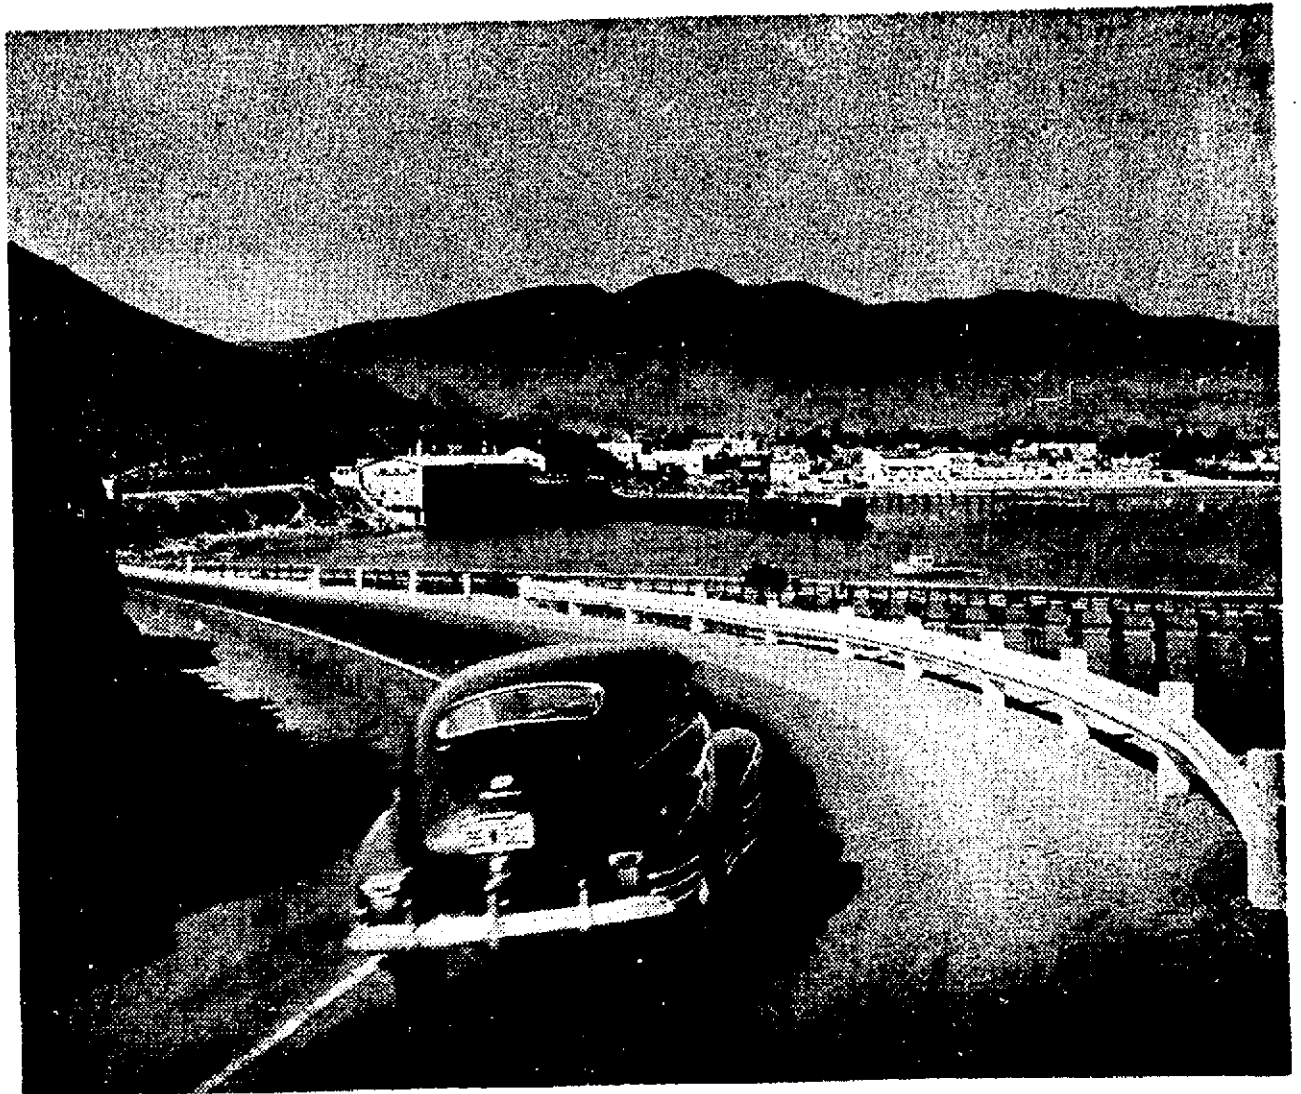

Primarily, Maldonado wants new industries — matches and cement, to name two. All the resources exist. Matches and cement are imported from the United States.

Mining? There are 37,000,000 tons of iron ore south of Ensenada, the governor says. The Henry Kaiser interests want to mine it and so do the Krupps of Germany. There are sulphur and copper, too.

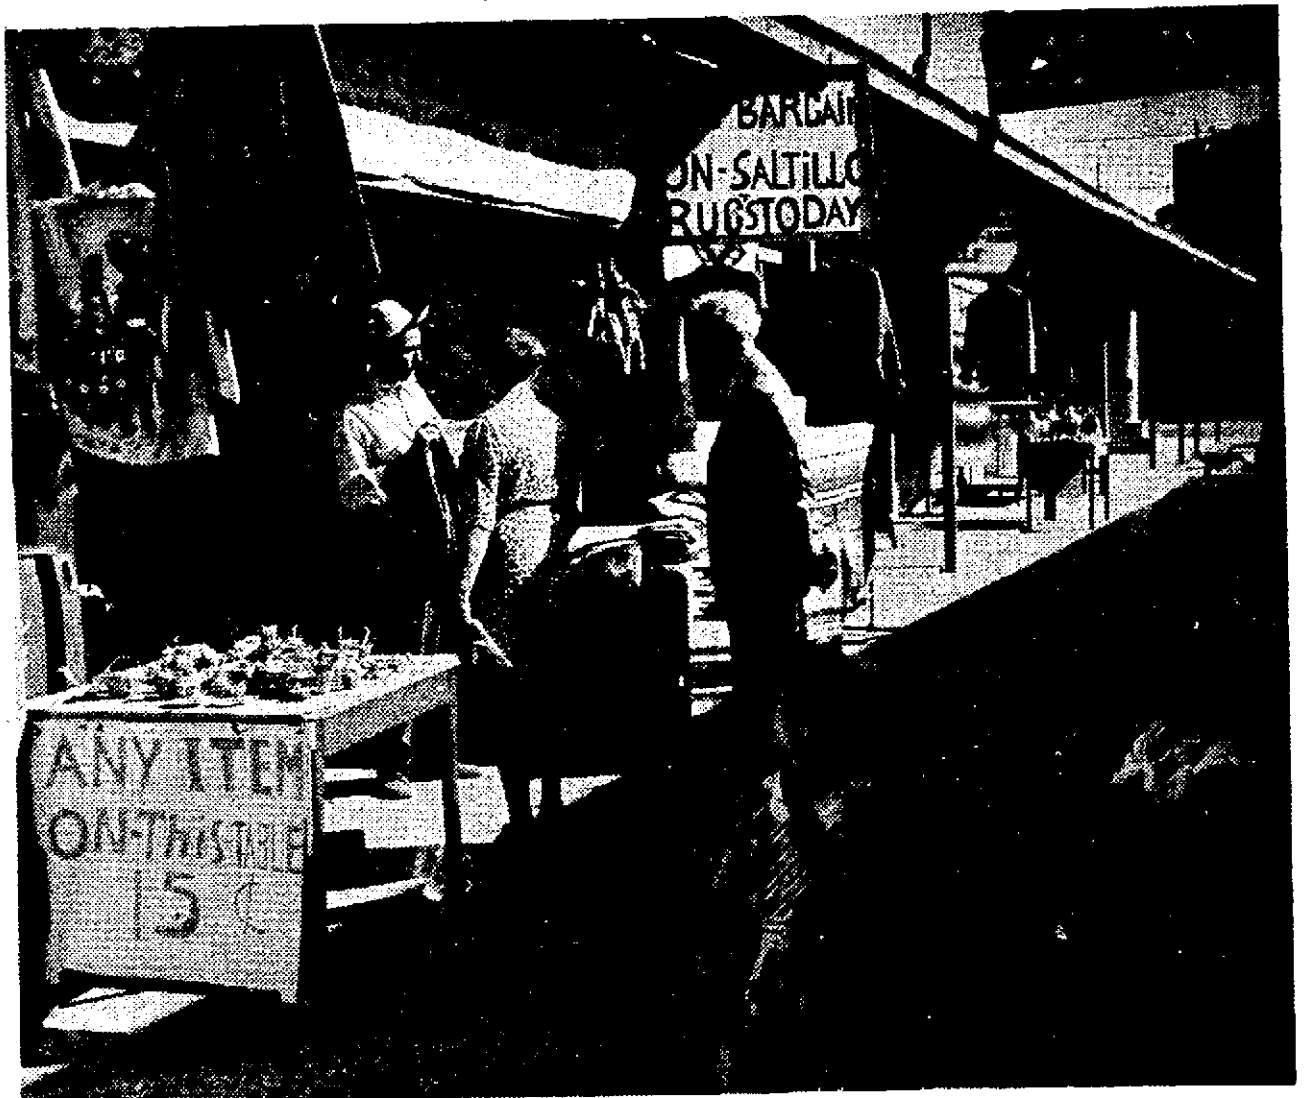

Farming? Only 150,000 acres are now under cultivation in the whole state, and many say the soil is as good or better than that of the Imperial Valley of California, one of the world's fabulous agricultural regions. Imperial has a half million acres planted. Maldonado says the potential in his state is 1,000,000 acres. Water, however, will be a problem; Mexico does not get enough Colorado River water to support so much acreage.

He wants more roads, electrification, hospitals, elementary schools, trade schools and a university. The people of Baja have had little. After hearing Mal-

He Stood on the Bastions of Heaven

By Douglas Nelson Rhodes

ROMAINE WILHELMSSEN of Pasadena has an attention-getting reply for friends who inquire casually, "Done anything interesting lately?"

"Well, yes," the handsome, 29-year-old explorer answers, "recently I stood on the Bastions of Heaven and saw the work of men who died a hundred centuries ago."

And Wilhelmsen isn't kidding. He can prove his statement by showing skeptics more than 5500 feet of color movies he photographed in a fantastic lost city perched on a three-mile-high, mist-shrouded peak in the Peruvian Andes. He is believed to be the first white man to visit the place since Spanish conquistadores stumbled on it more than 400 years ago.

Young Wilhelmsen, a noted explorer-archaeologist who has made many successful Mexican and Guatemalan explorations, recently returned from a seven-month expedition into the wilds of Colombia, Bolivia, Ecuador and Peru. He brought back priceless artifacts and films from the legendary lost city of Huasachugo, a square-mile ancient metropolis, and its sister city, Acque, a smaller but equally remote mountain fortress. Both cities are situated nearly 16,000 feet above sea level. Though a few rugged explorers have visited Acque, the only other white visitor known to have seen Huasachugo was a Spanish soldier who found it in 1540. The Spaniard returned to Lima and wrote an account of the lofty city which Wilhelmsen found in Peruvian historical archives. It was from this document that the Pasadena explorer positively identified his find.

"The names 'Huasachugo' and 'Acque' are from ancient Inca words meaning 'brother' and 'sister,'" Wilhelmsen explained. "About 2000 years ago they were among the most important political and agricultural centers in Peru. Huasachugo, the 'brother' city, however, was a larger and more progressive metropolis than 'sister' Acque, according to Peruvian legends.

DISCOVERY of Huasachugo came as a victorious climax to a gruelling 20-day trek during which the athletic Wilhelmsen lost 35 pounds. Leaving the civilized portion of Peru, he journeyed up rivers aboard ancient stern-wheeler riverboats that once plied the Mississippi River before 1900. Then, with three Indian guides, he crossed blistering desert areas and finally reached an ancient Inca trail skirting a deep abyss on one side and a series of lofty overhanging cliffs on the other. Using a tracing of the faded primitive map made by the 16th Century Spanish soldier, Wilhelmsen's little party climbed craggy mountainsides, crossed scorching deserts and cut through dense undergrowth for several weeks without encountering a sign of human life. The faint trail petered out eventually and, after a three-day futile attempt to pick it up again, Wilhelmsen decided that perhaps Peruvian savants at Lima were correct when they had advised him not to waste his time in quest of the lost city. "Huasachugo has certainly mouldered into dust over the centuries," they scoffed. "You'll never find a trace of it."

"I was about to admit defeat," Wilhelmsen recalls, "when suddenly one of my guides pointed to the sky northward and exclaimed in native dialect: 'Behold! Behold! The Bastions of Heaven!'"

"A gust of icy wind parted the everlasting mist and there before us was revealed a sight I'll never forget. High overhead and due north was a tremendous peak (later proved to be 15,750 feet high) topped by the battlements of Huasachugo — a mighty citadel perched in majestic loneliness above the clouds like the illustrations in fairy tale books. Giant condors wheeled in spirals over the silent city like guardian angels watching over a ghostly kingdom. It was truly an unearthly spectacle," Wilhelmsen declared.

Another two days of hard travel passed before the young explorer stood at last on the fabulous Bastions of Heaven. But he feels the effort was well worth while because Huasachugo remains in a remarkably good state of preservation. Though no sign of original woodwork is evident, most of the finely executed stone construction is in as good a state of preservation as the day it was built, about 20 centuries ago.

THE CITY, about a square mile in area and surrounded by a 30-foot-high, 12-foot-thick stone wall, is a formidable fortress, indeed. At regular intervals on the wall are huge battle turrets and the wall itself is topped by hundreds of tremendous boulders poised in delicate balance—apparently as an ever-ready defense against attack. Narrow streets, laid out in geometrical patterns, criss-cross the site and are lined with thick-walled stone buildings, market places and huge Inca shrines. Though no mortar was used in construction, the buildings are solid and many boast roomy interiors. One structure, erected solely of big granite blocks piled one upon the other without bonding material, is particularly interesting as an archaeological find, Wilhelmsen said, because it is three stories in height without windows and doors at each level — a genuine rarity in Inca architectural design.

From Huasachugo's massive

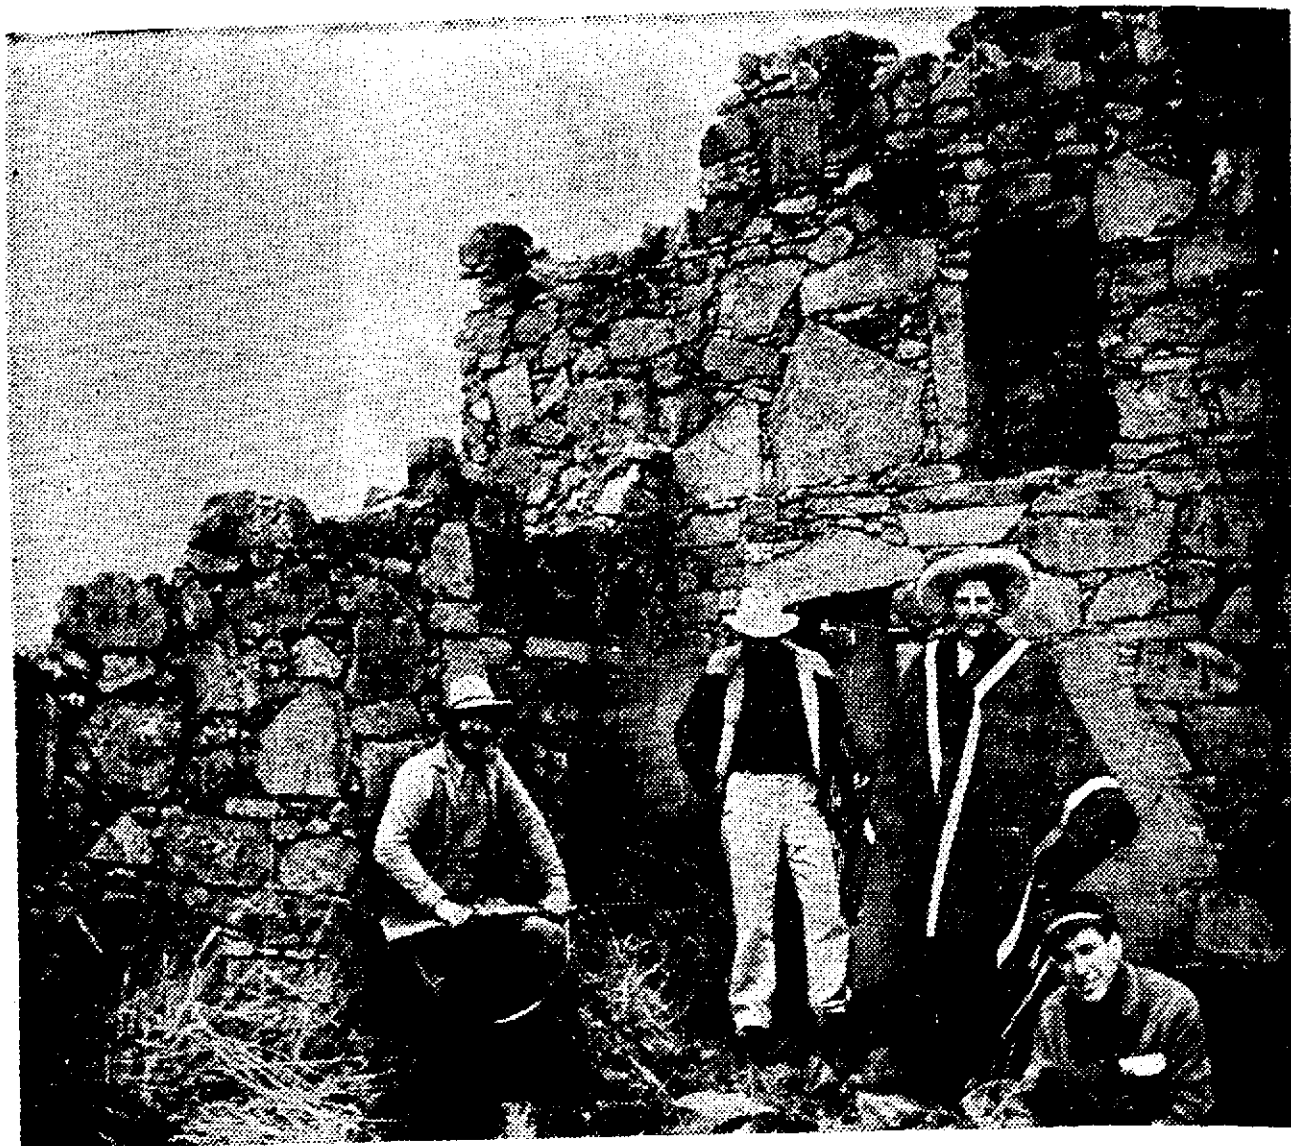

ramparts two lower peaks are visible on each side of the city. These were Inca equivalents of suburban development. Terraces below the city obviously were used for farming purposes. Faint traces of ancient irrigation ditches still can be seen from above.

Discovery of some hitherto unknown pre-Inca civilization was made when Wilhelmsen dug into the rubble for relics — a find that has created a new mystery for ethnologists and archaeologists to unravel. About 20 feet below the foundation courses of Huasachugo he uncovered still another set of foundations indicating organized community life of far greater antiquity than the newer city atop it. The sub-surface foundations were of an entirely different architectural pattern than that of the known Inca culture. Wilhelmsen believes it to be the remains of a 10,000-year-old civilization.

How does he set the time of this city's existence? His theory will be a hard one to explode, the young explorer insists, because it is backed by simple analysis of the material forming the geological strata between Huasachugo and the city beneath it.

"My ground samples show that the layer of earth material, forming the 'meat' in this geological 'sandwich,' is almost entirely of pure volcanic ash — in an area where the last volcano erupted about 7000 years ago!" Wilhelmsen explains. "Therefore, unless the accepted geological timetable is in gross error — and that seems hardly likely, scientists agree — then I must have found real clues to bolster the growing belief that man trod the Western Hemisphere at least a hundred centuries ago."

WILHELMSSEN has contributed before to this latter-day scientific school of thought. Several years ago, when on a Mexican exploration, he filmed the uncovering of a pyramid which

CAMPAIGN MAPPED

Cancer Drive States Door-to-Door Calls

This is Cancer Week, proclaimed by Mayor Lyman B. Sutter.

American Cancer Society's crusade will observe today as Cancer Sunday with special prayers and sermons.

Virgil Gillespie is chairman of the Long Beach area campaign, which will send scores of volunteers into action Tuesday night in a Long Beach-Lakeview neighborhood drive.

The door-to-door campaign will be conducted by Junior Ebell with Mrs. Earl V. Reynolds as drive leader. Mrs. Wilbur Seils is club president.

Similar neighborhood crusades are scheduled in Compton, Paramount and Norwalk at the same hours Tuesday, from 6 to 9 p. m. The campaigners will wear identification badges.

"About half of those who die of cancer today could be saved by early diagnosis and treatment," declared Frederick E. Rathgeber, Los Angeles County campaign chief.

"That's one reason why we hope to raise our full goal of $595,000 in the county. We want to reach more industrial groups with lifesaving educational programs, stressing need for early detection of cancer."

Rathgeber also pointed out that money is needed to start a home visitation program for cancer patients and to speed research into causes and cures of cancer, now the second leading cause of death.

Red Zone Wary of West's Lure

BERLIN — (AP). The Soviet zone's free German youth movement (FDJ) is holding another rally in Berlin in June, with precautions to guard the delegates against the lures of capitalist West Berlin.

Communist informants said border guards will be reinforced, and the youngsters will be housed in tents and barracks on the outskirts of the Soviet sectors.

During the last such rally here, thousands of youths from all parts of the Soviet zone spent hours hiking and window shopping in the freedom of the Western sectors.

Beach Suit Parade Billed for Exhibit

Selection of Miss Welcome to Long Beach to reign as official hostess during the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant here in July, and a bathing suit review, showing feminine swimsuit fashions from 1890 to 1934 are just two of the entertainment high lights of the Long Beach Do-It-Yourself Show in Municipal Auditorium, April 30 through May 8, it was announced Saturday by Fred Taylor, president of Civic Enterprises, Inc., sponsors of the event.

More than 100 exhibits, including a radio controlled garage door, a sewing machine with an "automatic brain" and a full-size owner-builder, swimming pool, free lessons in Judo, a complete kit for building your own speedboat, and a home-outfit for glassblowing, will provide one of the most unusual attractions ever held in Long Beach.

The Miss Welcome Contest, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, May 3, 4, 5 and 6.

The bathing suit review, sponsored by the manufacturers of Catalina swim suits, one of the co-sponsors of the Miss Universe contest, will be conducted around a full-size owner-builder swimming pool to be installed in front of the Auditorium. It will be held in the afternoon and evening of April 30, May 1, 2, 7 and 8.

This display swimming pool will be given away the last night of the show as a grand door

THIS LESSON RATES AN 'A'

ST. LOUIS — (AP). A high school boy from suburban University City had some help with his history lesson Friday night — from the Belgian government.

Robert A. Hamilton Jr., 15, assigned to make a report on the Belgian Congo, wrote to the Belgian government short-wave station ORU at Brussels asking for written material and explaining he was a short-wave fan.

The station did even better. It broadcast a special program on the Congo, just for Bob, including music by a 1500-voice choir of Congo natives. Bob recorded the program and will submit it along with a written report in his history class.

Bobo Sees Sick Father After 31 Years

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UP). Bobo Rockefeller, estranged wife of millionaire Winthrop Rockefeller, was reunited with her sick father Saturday after a separation of 31 years.

Mrs. Rockefeller said she rushed to the bedside of her father, Julius Paulekas, 66, Friday night after she learned he had been stricken with a heart attack.

Paulekas, a retired coal miner who formerly lived at nearby Ontario Mine, was taken to Washington Hospital in critical condition last Wednesday. Mrs. Rockefeller said it was the first time she had seen him since her parents were separated when she was six year old. "He didn't recognize me when I arrived," she said. "I walked into the room and told him that it was 'Jieute'—that's what he called me when I was little—but he was too sick to remember."

However, she said he was feeling better Saturday and recognized her. She said he asked about his 5-year-old grandson, Winthrop III, whom he has never seen. Mrs. Rockefeller said the child was not feeling well and remained in New York in the care of her sister, Mrs. Henry Hellman.

U.S. to Cut in Half Port Patrols Against A-Smugglers, Saboteurs

WASHINGTON — (UP). The United States' port security program designed to prevent A-bombs or saboteurs from being slipped into the country, is scheduled to be cut in half on July 1.

The decision to cut the port program was taken many months ago. Presumably the high military and civilian officials who made the decision did so after taking into account all possible dangers.

The cutback affects shoreside patrols on piers and docks primarily. In the current fiscal year ending June 30, there are 3936 personnel engaged in security work. With the new fiscal year this number will be cut to 1883.

During budget hearings, Rear Adm. A. C. Richmond, assistant to the Coast Guard commandant, said the service was trying to persuade steamship companies to become more security conscious.

"We had hoped to get all of them (the piers) returned to complete control of owners except as such times they were actually moving military cargo and our people would go back," he testified. "But under this (curtailed) program, our people would not be able to go back."

Act of Love

Love makes the world go 'round—the movie world, anyway. Here are a few examples: Above, Gary Cooper and Helen Hayes in World War I "Farewell to Arms."

"Red Dust" was the first of five pictures in which Clark Gable and Jean Harlow heated up the screen with their brand of love. "Red Dust" was a hit for M-G-M in 1932.

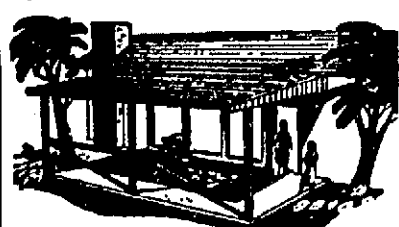

Doug Fairbanks Sr. and Marguerite de la Motte in "Three Musketeers."

Greta Garbo and John Gilbert show what clinch should be like in "Flesh and the Devil."

Rudolph Valentino was the films' great lover. Above, "Son of the Sheik," with Vilma Banky.

In the modern mode, Kirk Douglas makes love to Dany Robin in Paris story: "Act of Love."

Most movie fans know that charming Ann Blyth is a fine dramatic actress, but most of them did not know — until a few nights ago — that she also is well on her way to become one of Hollywood's top musical stars. First inkling to many a fan came during the nationally televised Academy Award ceremonies when she sang "Secret Love," the Oscar-winning tune. She drew rave notices everywhere, over coffee cups and in the press. Now, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is releasing her newest film, and it's a musical.

Gibraltar of the Pacific

Morro Rock, a hunk of granite 576 feet high, towers above Morro Bay, west of San Luis Obispo.

NO SPOT along the central California coast offers more varied interests for the visitor than Morro Bay, named for the 576-foot hunk of granite known as Morro Rock, which is often referred to as the Gibraltar of the Pacific, on Highway 1 just 13½ miles west of San Luis Obispo.

30 years ago. It now thrives in the sheltered waters of the bay. Oysters develop within two years while on the east coast growth takes about four years. Commercial growers hope to supply California markets in the near future with these tasty bivalves.

Clams are also found in the sands of Morro Bay. If you do not have a clam fork for digging them, you can rent one by making a small deposit. A California fishing license is necessary for any one over 16 years of age who wants to go "clamming." Some things to remember: (1) Take only 10 legal size clams; throw undersized ones back in the water. (2) A legal-size clam, according to the game warden, is a clam that is five inches in length.

Prices for lodging and meals in Morro Bay compare favorably with those of other vacation spots in California. You may stay at a hotel or a motel, or you may park your trailer in a private court along the bay front. You may prefer to register at Morro Bay State Park for a 10-day period and a nominal fee. Here there are trailer and camping spaces. Besides boating, golfing, hiking, rustic trails, swimming or loafing on the beach, the rugged area is a paradise for rock hounds, camera fans and naturalists.

German Dance Band Escapes to West; U.S. Jazz Was Discord to Red 'Critics'

BERLIN — (AP) An 18-piece vocalist arrived in free West German dance band that hit Berlin from the Soviet zone city blue note with the Red East of Germany and was followed German regime for playing here Saturday by the band leader "Provocative American jazz" has er's wife and child. American officials said the Chemnitz band was one of the best jazz combinations that had remained in the Soviet zone. It was known as the Dasso Orchestra Walter, led by Karl Walter. Details of the band's dramatic getaway could not be learned immediately but American officials who interviewed some of the musicians before they were turned over to refugee authorities gave this account:

Nine months ago, the band got into trouble with Communist district authorities at Chemnitz, now known as Karl Marx city. One member was arrested and the band was forbidden to give public performances.

Band leader Walter appealed to the authorities and his organization was, finally permitted to perform again. Last month, however, Communist Party organizers in Chemnitz factories began whipping up sentiment against the band and got the workers to pass a resolution condemning the band for "corrupting German culture."

Following this, the local Communist-controlled press at Chemnitz immediately began carrying "letters from irate readers" protesting against the band, a usual Communist tactic in such situations. The feeling mounted so high that fist fights broke out in the factories and authorities banned further appearances by the band and apparently were on the point of making arrests.

With that, Walter and his musicians decided to flee to the West.

Pay Hike Ends Strike

MINNEAPOLIS — (AP) A wage dispute that shut down most Minneapolis groceries was settled early Saturday and the stores opened their doors after two days. Some 2000 members of the AFL Meatcutters and Foodhandlers Union, Locals 653 and 653-A, got $3 a week pay hikes.

LEGISLATION STATUS

WASHINGTON — (AP) Status of major legislation in Congress:

TAXES — Senate Finance Committee opens hearings Tuesday on House-passed $1,397,000,000 general tax revision bill.

WIRE-TAPPING — House Rules Committee cleared for House vote this week bill authorizing federal wire-tapping to obtain evidence in subversion and espionage cases.

TAT-HARTLEY — Senate Labor Committee approved Tatt-Hartley revision bill embracing nearly all of President's 14-point program. House labor committee may complete own version next week.

TRADE — President's request for tariff-cutting powers in revised reciprocal trade act faces Senate-House pigeonhole.

STATEHOOD — Senate passed and sent to hostile House bill granting statehood to both Hawaii and Alaska. Speaker Martin says House won't accept Alaskan provision. This could kill legislation this year.

HEALTH — House Commerce committee opened hearings on President's request for health insurance program.

SEAWAY — House Rules Committee refused to report Senate-passed bill authorizing $105,000,000 Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep seaway. May hold hearings late this month.

POSTAL RATES — House Post Office Committee plans mid-April hearings on bill raising out-of-town postal rates from 3 to 4 cents and airmail from 6 to 7 cents.

PAY HIKES — Senate leaders hint pigeonhole treatment for House-passed bill raising congressional and judicial salaries to $27,500 a year.

SOCIAL SECURITY — House Ways and Means Committee opened hearings on bill to raise old age benefits, increase employer-employee tax and expand coverage to 10,000,000 self-employed.

HOUSING — House passed administration's omnibus housing bill after knocking out public housing provisions.

HIGHWAYS — Senate votes next week on House-passed federal-aid-to-highways bill. Senate version would authorize $1,010,000,000 over three-year period as against $875,000,000 House total.

YOUNG VOTERS — Senate action still pending on constitutional amendment to permit 18-year-olds to vote.

PRICE SUPPORTS — Senate Agriculture Committee continues hearings on President's bill for flexible price supports on major farm crops.

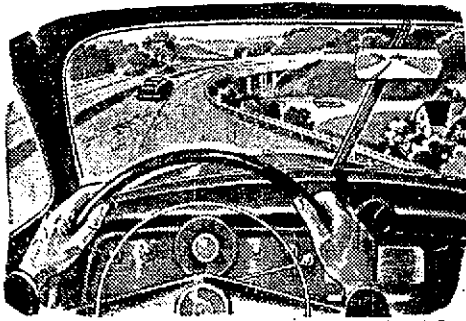

BRICKER — Motion to reconsider defeated Bricker amendment to redefine President's treaty-making powers pending before Senate. Early vote doubtful.

COFFEE PRICES — House action still pending on Senate-passed Gillette bill to put New York Coffee Exchange under federal regulation.

Calls for Half of Alaska to Become State

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Alaska Gov. Frank B. Heinzelman, in a move to break the stalemate statehood issue, proposed Saturday that only the more developed area of Alaska be granted immediate statehood.

Heinzelman made his proposal that only the eastern half of the territory of Alaska be granted statehood in a letter to House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr.

The Senate approved statehood for both Hawaii and Alaska last week but the bill faces an uncertain fate in the House. In answer to the administration's request, the house has approved only statehood for Hawaii, and house leaders have indicated they have no intention of bringing up a bill to admit Alaska to the union.

Heinzelman noted that there has been "a feeling in the past in the minds of many that Alaska cannot carry the financial burden of statehood in its present stage of development."

"The extreme vastness of the remote and undeveloped land areas within the present territory are largely responsible for the misgivings on the part of those who have opposed the granting of statehood at this time," he said.

Students on Spree Crash Plane Into House

BATON ROUGE, La. — (AP) Two Louisiana State University students who began their evening with a night club tour in a state ambulance wound it up early Saturday by "borrowing" a plane and crashing into a house, killing the pilot and injuring three other persons.

The pilot killed was Edwin White Jr., 19-year-old sophomore from Mansfield, La. His companion on the lark, who was critically injured, was Robert M. Heard, 18-year-old freshman and son of the university's well-known athletic director, T. P. (Red) Heard.

Young White was a licensed pilot. He received his license July 23, 1953.

Two of the eight persons in the house struck by the plane were slightly injured when the Cessna 140 plowed into the living room and knocked a wall over on some of the sleepers, state police said.

Investigators began tracing the youths' movements when they found young Heard's automobile parked behind the Louisiana capitol and a state emergency ambulance missing from its nearby parking place.

Louisiana state police Sgt. Lee Arledge said the boys were seen across the Mississippi River from Baton Rouge in a night club row known as the "Gold Coast" before the crash.

The ambulance later was found parked at the airport after the plane crashed.

The plane, wheeled out of the Hair Flying Service hangar, took off and circled about 30 minutes before it plowed into the dwelling near municipal airport at 3:35 a.m. Airport authorities said White had asked for permission to land a few minutes before the crash.

Mrs. Henry Smith, who lived in the house with her husband and daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Carlick, said the plane crashed sounded like a "car had run into the house."

"I got out of bed and felt my way in the dark along a corridor to the living room," she said. "I felt the side of the plane, but thought at first it was a bathtub because of its smooth surface."

She said she stumbled over White's body, which had been thrown from the wreckage, and later found Heard lying bleeding and unconscious on the floor of her kitchen.

J. V. Vinyard, Airways operation specialist at the airport, said he gave the plane takeoff instructions, unaware that it was being used without permission. The pilot reported only to the tower that he was making a "local flight." Vinyard said the plane made a "normal takeoff."

All the World grows Lovelier at Eastertime

At this glorious season all the world rejoices in new life and beauty. Blossoms reach skyward to receive the sun's blessing. Birds sing their sweetest songs in praise of Spring. The air, like heavenly incense, is softly perfumed.

Is it any wonder that we mortals feel a stirring in our hearts and souls? Isn't it a re-awakening of our faith — of all our faiths — regardless of the religion that we follow?

So, like nature herself, let us raise our faces and our voices in praise of God for the glory that

He shares with us, His children.

They Put Spunk in Their Golf

Few patrons of Recreation Park golf links are as ardent as this group (l. to r.) Steowe Neal, 75; Bill Gage, 61; Phil Campbell, 86; Dr. E. E. Gage, 79; Frank Hyde, 91; H. E. Doolittle, 71; Nat Leipsic, 70, and Norm Stoneback; "youngster" of 53.

THE MUNICIPAL GOLF COURSE at Recreation Park can boast of thousands of visitors annual from all parts of the nation but few as ardent or colorful in their pursuit of the pars and birdies as a band of ten elderly gentlemen from Sioux Falls, S. D., who make wintering in Long Beach and golfing at the park a yearly event.

Elderly?

"Not I," asserted 79-year-old Dr. E. E. Gage.

"Isn't true," echoed 86-year-old Phil Campbell.

"Poppycock," affirmed 91-year-old Frank Hyde.

"Age is for people who like to sit home and get sympathy," answered 70-year-old Nat Leipsic. "We believe in being out-of-doors and staying young and healthy."

And five days a week, Monday through Friday, for the four months of their visit, the park undergoes this South Dakota invasion.

Then ten -- Hyde, Campbell, Dr. Gage, Leipsic, Steowe Neal, 75; Bill Gage, 61; H. E. Doolittle, 71; Clint Halladay, 61; H. L. Dow, 75, and the self-avowed "youngster" 53-year-old Norm Stoneback are as enthusiastic a group of golfers as can be found anywhere, according to chief starter Gene Combs.

"They make me feel young, myself," quipped Combs. "I've seen many elderly golfers play the park, but rarely do they possess the spunk of our South Dakota friends."

"It's that cold Sioux Falls climate," said Za Mona Schoepflin of the park pro shop and a former native of the town.

Spunk is a good word to characterize the whole troop.

Take the time they planted a fake ball loaded with water on the tee from which Dr. Gage was about to drive. The good doctor put everything he had into the swing and the result was a small squirt of water.

"Guess I put too much power into the backswing," said Gage, shaking his head in puzzled fashion.

Then there was the occasion that a foursome with 91-year-old Hyde overtook a foursome with 79-year-old Doug Young, a Recreation Park regular. Someone pointed Young out and commented, "isn't he spry for 79."

"Bah," grunted Hyde, "when the young fellow grows up to my age, then we'll be able to tell!"

HYDE IS A GOLF MARVEL, shooting his age or close to it almost every time out. He

Americans Cut Costs of Travel in Foreign Lands

AMERICAN TRAVELERS are becoming more and more familiar with ways to cut the costs of their foreign travels. As a consequence more travelers are buying their foreign money in the United States before leaving the country. Increasing numbers of American tourists and business men are finding that by buying the currency of the foreign countries before departing they are able to secure the currency from 1 per cent to 60 per cent under the official rates of exchange.

According to an estimate recently released by Nicholas L. Deak, president of the foreign exchange firm of Deak & Co., Inc., New York City, foreign exchange dealers supplied the American traveler through banks, travel agencies and through their own offices with more than $45,000,000 worth of foreign currency during 1953. This was an increase of about 15 per cent over 1952 and an increase of about 25 per cent over 1951.

In addition to the individual travelers taking advantage of the saving by buying their foreign funds in the U. S., an increasing number of travel agents and hotel representatives are drawing on blocked foreign funds to meet their obligations in foreign countries. Instead of remitting U. S. dollars in payment for services given their traveling clients, blocked funds are purchased at a substantial discount and settlement is made in the foreign country. (Blocked funds can generally be used freely inside a country. They are blocked against conversion into U. S. dollars or other hard currencies).

In Deak & Co.'s estimate this type of payment amounted to approximately $20,000,000 in 1953. It is expected that 1954 will show an increasing use as more and more travel agents and hotel representatives learn that that they are able to increase their profits by settling their foreign accounts with blocked foreign funds.

More Families Take to Air

ALTHOUGH MORE than half of the airline passengers are men, more women and children are flying than in previous years. Families are taking advantage of early-in-the-week rates.

These facts were revealed by a survey made by Trans-World Airlines of men, women and children travelers based on 38 selected flights which represented about 24,500 passengers.

The report shows there was an increase of 3.1 per cent in women passengers last year. Although women's travel is slightly higher on tourist flights than on standard flights, the proportion has increased on each class of service.

The percentage of men shows a decrease, but men continue to constitute well over half of the passenger miles.

On standard flights, the long-haul Super Connie flights carry the highest percentage of women. Mama, Papa and children, traveling at a discount on the first three days of the week, accounted for an average of nearly $600,000 a month in passenger revenue in 1953.

The increasing popularity of TWA's "Family Fare" plan is indicated by the fact that dollar revenue from this source of traffic increased by 10 per cent over the volume in 1952.

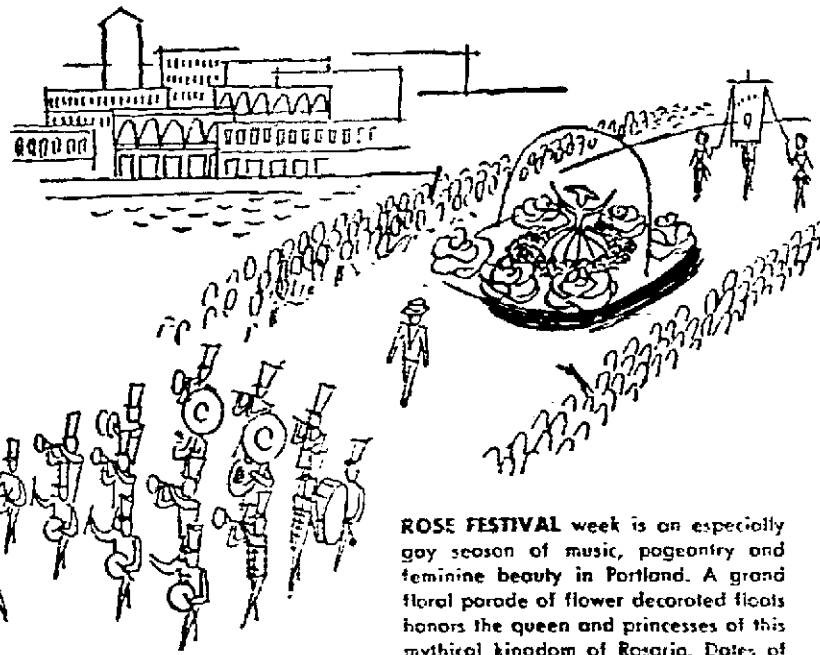

Under the plan, a family group may travel on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday for the price of one full fare for the head of the family and half-fare for his wife and each child under 22 years of age. The plan applies to all TWA domestic flights except Sky Tourist services.

To Help You Plan how to get the most fun out of your 1954 vacation, Oregon offers you the free literature listed in the coupon, below. Oregon's many kinds of Pacific Northwest playlands and the things to enjoy in them are described in text and pictures in the 32-page color booklet, "Oregon, Cool, Green Vacationland." Dates of more than 200 community celebrations and shows are listed for you in the folder of coming events. The map, of course, is of Oregon's network of easy-to-drive scenic highways. Adm. Kimmel Denies Pearl Harbor Guilt

NEW LONDON, Conn.—(AP)—Adm. Husband E. Kimmel challenged Saturday the contention of Col. H. A. Toulmin Jr. that he (Kimmel) "cannot escape the guilt" for the heavy Navy losses in the Pearl Harbor attack.

"I am not interested in the opinions of Col. Toulmin because I do not know that he has any qualifications to give them," Kimmel told the New London Day in an interview. "The statement attributed to him has no relations to the facts."

Toulmin, Dayton, Ohio, and

Washington lawyer, made the statement earlier this week at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in commenting on Rear Adm. Robert A. Theobald's book, "The Final Secrets of Pearl Harbor."

Theobald blamed the late President Roosevelt for the Dec. 7, 1941, disaster at Pearl Harbor, where Kimmel was in command of American naval forces. The President, Theobald charged, forced Japan into the war with the United States and lured the Japanese into the surprise attack.

Toulmin, a member of the Army Pearl Harbor Board and author of its report, said Theobald's statements have "no foundation in fact." He also said that as early as Nov. 27, Kimmel received what amounted to a "war warning" but took no action.

Kimmel asserted Saturday that the warning was a "blanket notification without specifications or instructions which in time I have come to believe was intended simply to cover Washington on the events that followed."

Kimmel said that on the day of the warning, Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, now dead but then Army commander in the Hawaiian area, messaged Washington that an alert against sabotage had been established.

Attlee Blocks Party Jab at U.S. Unity

By TOM OCHILTREE

LONDON—(AP). Clement Attlee held a tight rein on the Labor Party Saturday in what political informants said was an effort to prevent hydrogen bomb fears from being exploited to harm British-American relations.

Former Prime Minister Attlee has also talked his fellow Laborites out of launching a full-scale assault on the prestige of his aging political rival—Prime Minister Churchill.

This unusual political situation has developed out of the U. S. H-bomb tests in the Pacific, which have caused concern to all sections of the British public.

In the House of Commons debate on the H-bomb Monday, the Laborites will not seek to ensure the Churchill government. Instead they will ask the prime minister to try to arrange a Churchill-Eisenhower meeting with Malenkov on the subject.

Attlee will open Monday's debate, Churchill will follow him. Political writers believe Churchill will agree when the time is ripe—for Britain to take the initiative in suggesting a Big Three meeting on thermonuclear problems.

The 71-year-old opposition leader won the Laborites over to a moderate approach at a party caucus Thursday night. Persons present said Attlee delivered the speech of his life.

The meeting was closed but newspapers carried reports Attlee had said, "We are not going to make party capital out of this issue." He said the party must avoid the temptation to embarrass the government.

The censure motion originally sought by leftwing Laborites would have called for the halting of further American hydrogen bomb tests. It would have forced a debate in which British-American relations would be an issue.

Attlee's call for restraint appeared to strike a responsive cord even among Aneurin Bevan's left-wing Laborites and the party's pacifist bloc.

As newspapers and pictures told of the awesome force of American H-bombs, these undertones developed both in Parliament and outside:

1—There was a fear that Britain, now closely allied to the United States and highly vulnerable geographically, had lost control of her own fate.

2—There were suggestions—later categorically denied from Washington—that the scientists engaged in the tests had unleashed forces beyond their control.

Churchill made a statement on the subject in the House of Commons Tuesday and the Laborites then were in full cry against him.

Then the Laborites, with the leftwingers in the van, called for the halting of further American tests and asked that Britain press for more information from Washington.

Now the official Labor Party leadership will press only for the Big Three meeting.

Churchill said Tuesday that the prospect for such a meeting should not be thrown away by urging it at the wrong moment and getting a refusal.

U.S. Backing Churchill on Bomb Policy

WASHINGTON—(AP). British Prime Minister Churchill was reported Saturday night to have sought and received American help and cooperation in preparation for his defense in parliament, beginning Monday, of America's hydrogen bomb development.

United States cooperation was authoritatively described as having taken two forms:

1—Joint action with Britain and France in moving to revive disarmament talks under the United Nations disarmament commission.

2—The providing of information to Churchill on the hydrogen bomb test series to the extent that such information may be useful to him and can be readily supplied under the rigid restrictions of the Atomic Energy Act.

THE LOVELY, wild beauty of Scotland, the country of Robert Burns and Sir Walter Scott, may be seen in one-week tours which the Scottish have arranged for visitors next summer.

To be seen on these tours are the lovely Loch Lomond, immortalized by the poet, and also the awesome beauty of the Trossachs, in which Loch Katrine lies surrounded by a range of mountains, so aptly described by Scott.

Glasgow, because of its location near Prestwick Airport, is the ideal starting point for tours of Scotland.

One tour from Glasgow in the space of a week includes Edinburgh, the lakes, the Trossachs, the Firth of Clyde and the Burns country. It is unique in guided tours in that three forms of transportation — bus, rail and boat — are used. It costs $25 for the complete week, including lodging, breakfast and dinner, transportation and tips.

The most expensive of the Glasgow-based tours comes to about $50 for the week.

Glasgow, an industrial city, boasts, however, of churches of great beauty and antiquity and a city hall with lavish marble staircases and ceilings.

One aspect of its industrial nature which must be seen to be believed are the Clyde Shipbuilding works outside the city. Some of the world's greatest ships, including the Queens, were launched here.

EDINBURGH is also an ancient and solid city, but it is filled with reminders of Scottish history. Its buildings have a mellowed beauty all their own. It is 40 miles and a pound's fare ($2.80) from Glasgow, which lies 33 miles from Prestwick Airport.

The best way to see Edinburgh is to walk. It takes a bit of walking, but armed with a guide book, which may be obtained at the information center on George St. in the center of the city, and a sturdy pair of legs, the Scottish capital may be seen in a day.

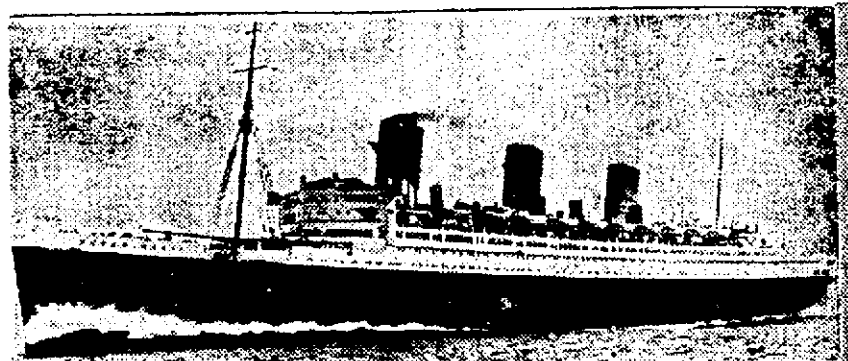

Edinburgh also offers the opportunity for side trips by bus and train to near-by towns with historic interest. An excursion to St. Andrews, holiday resort, ancient university center and birthplace of golf, costs $2.50 round trip. The train makes it in two hours from Waverley Station.

THE BIG EVENT in Scotland this summer, as it has been for the last seven summers, will be the Edinburgh Festival from Aug. 22 to Sept. 11. Artists from all over the world will take part in the program of opera, drama, ballet, symphony concerts and chamber music.

On the program are the Glyndebourne Opera Co., the Copenhagen and Hamburg Symphony Orchestras, the Halle Orchestra and the Philharmonia Orchestra, as well as the Sadler's Wells Ballet and a performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" by the Old Vic.

Round-trip fare from New York to Prestwick by Pan American's Rainbow Service is $258 one way, $464 round trip.

THE HITCHCOCK CHAIR

For the person who appreciates a bit of authentic Early American in their home, the Hitchcock Chair is the answer. First made in 1818, the chair made by Lambert Hitchcock was probably the originator of the sturdy, distinctive type of chair that bears his name. He was one of the first large manufacturers of furniture in America and according to the old records made "Chairs and cabinets—stands of all descriptions."

Lambert Hitchcock died in 1852. At that time he was called "America's most famous chair maker." The settlement in which his factory operated was named Hitchcockville and the entire population of about two hundred men, women and children depended upon the factory for their livelihood. After the Civil War the village was renamed Riverton. The famous Hitchcock Chairs are still being made in this original factory.

Hitchcock signed his chairs with the famous stencil signature that is still in use today.

HITCHCOCK, HITCHCOCKVILLE, CONN. WARRANTED. These beautiful chairs, true in every detail to their famous and valued predecessors of more than a century ago, are sold only in selected stores throughout the country. Alexander Shultz Furniture Co. at 3838 Atlantic Ave. is honored to be appointed the exclusive Hitchcock representative for the entire Long Beach area.

These superbly constructed, authentic replicas with frames of selected hardwood, genuine hand-woven rush seats and authentic decorative stencils are available in beautiful finishes of black with gold; antique maple with gold; and antique cherry with gold.

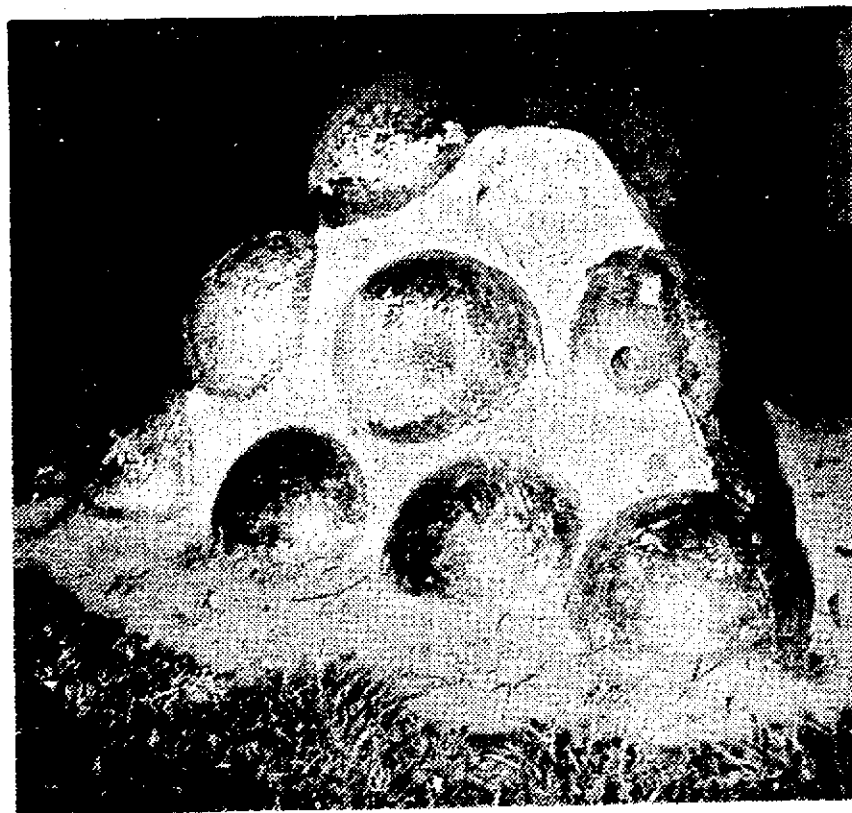

Watch for the special offer we are making this week on these famous Hitchcock chairs.

Alexander Shultz invites you to inspect these fine chairs and the many other exclusive lines in Modern, Maple, Cherry and Mahogany in his new and only store at 3838 Atlantic. Open every Monday and Friday evenings 'til nine.

Strange Case of the Missing Cannonballs

By J. L. Combs

ANYONE HAVE A PAIR of Long Beach parks superintendent? Civil War cannon balls — These cannon balls are needed preferably of northern make — to replace the two stolen from they will donate to the city of Lincoln looked sternly on while theft took place.

one of the stacks which stand on each side of the Civil War cannon in Lincoln Park.

It's sad enough to think of this sort of thievery, but not 20 feet away stood "Honest Abe," high on his pedestal, watching the culprit and unable to raise his voice in furious objection.

What long, bitter hours he must have endured while the thief chiseled the balls from their cement encasement.

City Park Superintendent Ernest Barker could shed no light on the missing ordnance except that his department didn't have them.

Frank Anderson, foreman for the park commission, said they have been gone for quite some time, which eliminates the possibility that some patriotic citizen removed them and shipped the pair to Korea to help relieve the ammunition shortage.

"And," said Anderson, "we don't have any more in stock. Furthermore, I have no idea where replacements can be found."

AS AN AFTERTHOUGHT, he suggested Ft. MacArthur as a possible place for locating the needed replacements.

But Maj. E. W. Sullivan, in charge of the fort's ordnance department, only added more gunsmoke to the situation.

"They aren't necessarily Union," said the major. "Around 1867, Jeff Davis of the Confederacy shipped cannons and ammunition to the old drum barracks in Wilmington. Perhaps that's where the city of Long Beach got theirs in the first place."

Jeff Davis? Confederate cannons? In Lincoln Park? Certainly this couldn't be true.

"Actually," the major continued, "we can't help the city, anyway. We don't have either of the two types at the fort, but I suggest if the city finds replacements they should weld them together instead of using cement."

Thanks to the major, the problem has turned from where the cannon balls went to where did they come from. The South or the North?

THIS TIME, Park Superintendent Barker shot for the files on Lincoln Park.

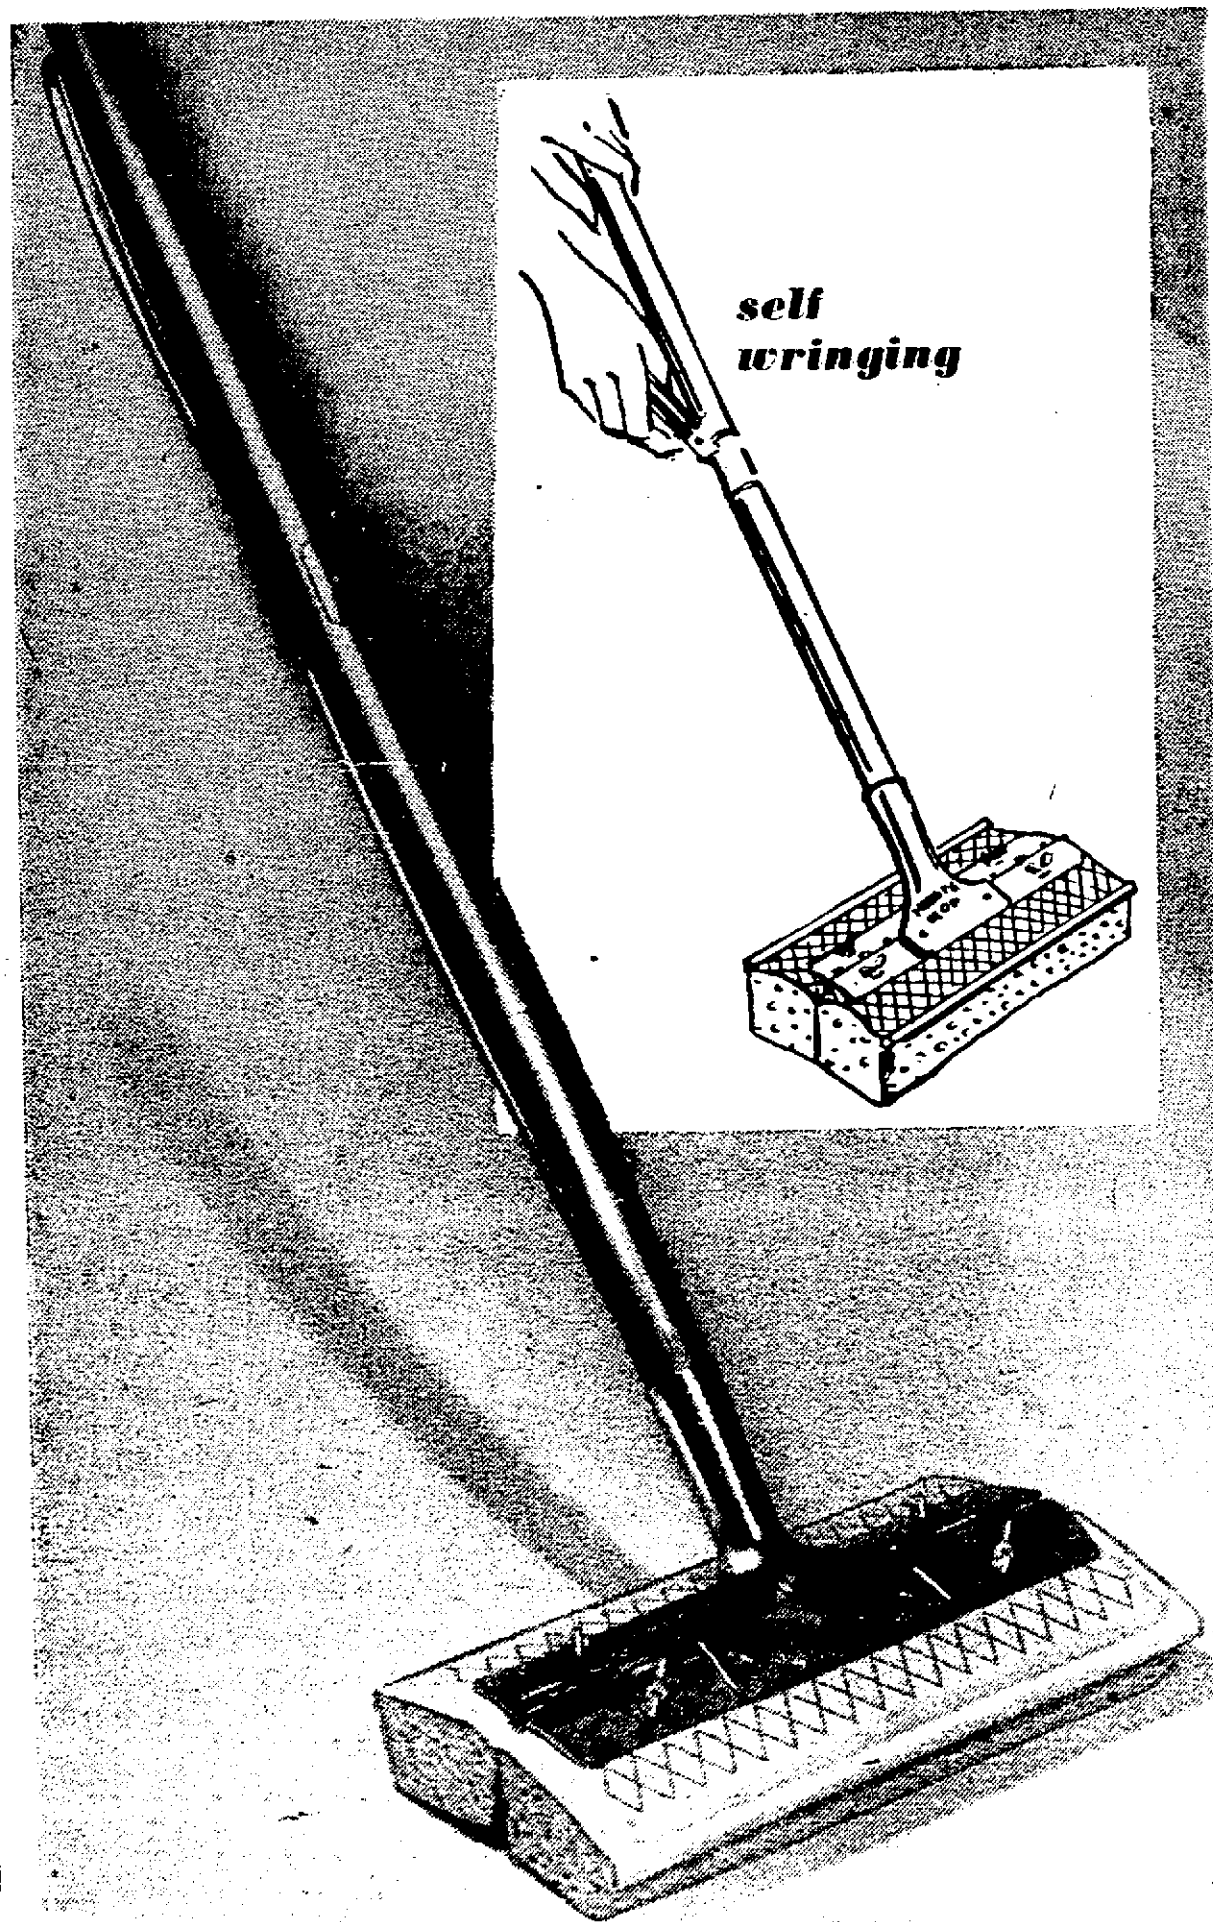

He scored a direct miss. Plenty of information on the statue, but nothing on the cannon or the ammunition.

Superintendent Barker reloaded, aimed at now retired City Engineer Col. Jesse A. Jackson and fired.

Whammo — a bullseye.

"Yes," Col. Jackson said. "I

Store Clerks Rap New L.B. Bus Schedules

A group of employees of downtown stores complained Saturday about the new bus schedules and fares which went into effect here Friday.

The consensus was that riders get less service yet pay higher fares now than before the change.

The women, all workers in a downtown department store, said they have to wait up to 25 minutes longer under the new set-up than previously.

Mrs. C. D. Hall, 921 Molino Ave., said she feels the poor service may hurt downtown business and added she thinks the merchants should look into the situation.

"I have to wait 40 minutes now after I get off work," Mrs. Flossie Knott, 2511 Termino Ave., said. "I used to catch the bus home in 10 or 15 minutes at the most."

Mrs. Nona Dyer, 107 Bennett Ave., said she had to take a taxi Friday morning after she missed one bus at 8:30, 25 minutes earlier than the bus she formerly took, and would have been to work late if she had waited for the next one.

"It seems the more money we pay, the worse service we get," Mrs. Bea Robinson, 827 St. Louis Ave., summed up.

2 Mothers, 11 Children Die in Fires

GLOUSTER, O.—(U.P.)—A mother and her five small children perished Saturday when a kerosene-fed fire flashed through their small four-room cottage on the outskirts of this southeastern Ohio village.

The frame dwelling burned to the ground in 20 minutes after the mother, Mrs. Garnet Richards, 25, apparently had attempted to revive a fire in a heating stove with kerosene. The liquid exploded when it hit hot coals in the stove.

She and her five children, Mildred, 8; Robert, 6; Lawrence Ray, 4; Freda Mae, 3; and William, nine months, burned to death.

RESCUES SIXTH CHILD
The father, Lawrence Richards, 29, snatched up a sixth child, Charles Edwin, 2, and staggered to safety. Police said the fire started in a room in which the entire family slept.

The remains of the mother and her five children, almost consumed by the intense flames, will be buried together in a single casket here Monday afternoon.

Tragedy has plagued the Richards family. The father's sister, her husband and their three children, burned to death in a similar fire in 1931. Mrs. Richards' father, John Williams, was a member of 73 coal miners who were killed in a Millfield mine explosion Nov. 5, 1932.

Richards told officers after the fire that he had no idea which of his children he had saved until he was outside the roaring inferno. He said he simply grabbed the nearest child he could find.

FOUND WANDERING
The father was found wandering barefooted, clad only in his nightclothes, near the home. He appeared in a dazed condition, officers said, and suffered burns about the back and arms. The child was not seriously burned.

TUTTLE, N. D.—(U.P.)—A farmer's wife and six of her seven young children burned to death today in a fire that swept their farm home 12 miles northwest of Tuttle. The seventh child, a 13-year-old son, suffered burns.

Dead were Mrs. Elmer Miller, 33, and her children, Sharon, 11; Jean, 10; Larry, 8; Ronnie, 7; Alene, 2; and Debbie, 8 months. Elmer Jr., 13, suffered face burns as he ran from the home to summon help.

Miller, 37, was in the barn doing chores when the fire broke out. He and Elmer were being treated for shock.

'AND NOT SORRY'

Admits Killing Strong, Silent Type Husband

DETROIT—(U.P.)—Mrs. Beatrice Manderschied stabbed her husband to death Saturday, and police quoted her as saying, "I did it and I'm not sorry."

Police said Mrs. Manderschied described her husband, Leo, 37, as "the strong silent type... I hated him."

She was held without bond for investigation of murder. Manderschied, a New York Central system freight conductor, was stabbed in the chest with a kitchen knife as he lay in bed.

Homicide Bureau Det. Dave Harris said Mrs. Manderschied, 35, gave this account of the stabbing:

"Our marriage was one of constant bickering and unhappiness. Yesterday I told him that our son was not his. He just picked

'Win Friends' Group Picks New Officers

Flanked by signs "Act Enthusiastic and You'll BE Enthusiastic" and "It's What You Learn AFTER You Know It All That Really Counts," Dale Carnegie followers elected officers late Saturday in Wilton Hotel.

Wallace Monnett of La Crescenta, wholesale food salesman, was elected California division governor of Dale Carnegie Club International. Frank Rakow, in the produce business in Sacramento, was elected deputy governor and Matt Shultman, retail meat dealer of La Crescenta, was elected treasurer.

Then President-elect Monnett named Matt Shultman's wife, Millicent, secretary.

All new officers listed "improved human relations" as their greatest gains in studying the "how to win friends and influence people" technique of Dale Carnegie.

Shultman summed it up: "I've been in the meat business 20 years. For 25 years I just made a living. For the past five years since I've studied Dale Carnegie I've made a nice piece of change."

The convention will close today.

Direct Bullet Hit Fatal to Gallery Man

Edwin A. White, 35, Pike shooting gallery owner killed late Friday night by an accidental shot from one of his own target guns, died of a direct hit by the .22-caliber slug, an autopsy Saturday showed.

Police for a time thought White may have been the victim of a ricocheting bullet. Later, it was believed a rifle accidentally discharged as Orvie D. Woods, 15, of 602 Burris Ave., Compton, picked it up to shoot.

Services and interment for White will be in Mt. Pleasant, Tex., with local arrangements being handled by Dilday Mortuary where friends may call.

White, a native of Mt. Pleasant, came to Long Beach a year ago. He leaves his wife, Mary; a daughter, Martha; his father, David W. White, and a sister, Mrs. Dwight Free.

5 Abandoned Tots Taken in Custody; Parents Hunted

ARTESIA—Five children, aged from 10 months to five years, deserted for two days without food or care, were moved to Juvenile Hall in Los Angeles Saturday night and a search for their parents was intensified.

Listed as the missing parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Robinson of 22-23 Clarkdale St. The children are Wayne, 5, Bertha, 4, David 3, Steven, 2, and Linda, 10 months.

Norwalk Sheriff's Juvenile Officers G. S. Wood and J. R. Wagon said that they answered a complaint of neighbors Friday night that the youngest child, Linda, was running naked in the street.

The parents left the children in the care of a 12-year-old boy Friday morning and have not been heard from since.

The deputies said that when they arrived at the Robinson residence Saturday afternoon the house was a shambles, the result of nearly two days of playing by the unguarded quintet. They also said that there was no food in the house.

SHE 'BURNS'

And So Does Friend's Car

SAN PEDRO—Accused of setting fire to her boy friend's car, Mrs. Vera Malley, 37, was jailed on charges of suspicion of arson here Saturday.

Mrs. Malley is accused of setting flames which ripped the interior of a 1953 sedan owned by Fred Davis, 34, of 421 E. 229th St., Keystone, while it was parked in front of the home of William Davis, 2724 Dennison St.

Davis told officers the woman came from the Dennison St. address following an argument and pounded on his door seeking admittance minutes later. When refused, he said she shouted, "Okay. Your car is on fire."

The woman was arrested near the scene and officers said she had dark stains resembling soot on her coat.

Grant III Commemorates Bitter Shiloh Battle

By RUSS DALEY
SHILOH CHURCH, Tenn. — (AP) — Grant III returns in peace today to the Shiloh battlefield where his grandfather fought one of the Civil War's bitterest battles 92 years ago.

Grant, namesake of the Union general who later became President, is a retired Army general. He will speak at ceremonies in Shiloh National Military Park commemorating the great Civil War battle of April 6-7, 1862.

The battle began on a Sunday and took its name from the original Shiloh meeting house. Shiloh means "House of Peace." Anniversary services always are held on the Sunday nearest the battle dates.

Appropriately, Grant made the trip here from Washington with a descendant of Confederate General Daniel Ruggles, whose troops took part in the fight which saw 20,000 casualties suffered by both sides.

Nobody knows what happened to the original log church, where Confederate General R. G. T. Beauregard set up his headquarters after General Albert Sydney Johnston was killed.

But soon after the war another church sprang up on the original site and several years ago a new brick structure was built.

Shiloh Church is now part of the National Park, a beautiful rolling, wooded area studded with monuments to the dead of both North and South.

Dark and quiet now is "Bloody Pond," which ran red with the blood of wounded soldiers who washed in its waters during the battle of Shiloh.

A monument and a cannon mark the "Hornet's Nest" where the fighting was thickest and where one soldier said bullets were as hard to avoid as the hornets.

Picnic tables, trails and paved roads now are on spots where soldiers wearily trudged, fought and died 92 years ago.

Grant was to spend Saturday night at Cherry Mansion in Savannah, Tenn., where his grandfather had his headquarters from March 17 to April 29, 1862.

The mansion was built in 1834 and still in the parlor is the piano upon which Grant requested Southern ladies to play for him. But most of the songs they played and sang were Confederate tunes.

Historians long have delighted in refighting the Battle of Shiloh, which saw Beauregard order

TEETH RESET IN NEW BASE AFTER GUM SHRINKAGE

When you buy new dentures, you expect them to LAST A LONG TIME, and they usually do. But, even though your dentures don't change, YOUR GUMS DO. So look ahead—BE THRIFTY—and prepare for this, so it won't cost you a lot of needlessly spent money. With every new denture you buy from me comes the right to buy another at less than ONE THIRD THE PRICE of my most popular denture. This second denture is as new as the first in every respect except the teeth. Your old teeth are RESET into a new fitting denture. This way, when gums shrink and mouth tissues change, it costs you only a FRACTION OF THE COST of my most popular denture to get a new fit.

WHAT THIS MEANS IN SAVINGS

My prices for new dentures are SO LOW that this cost, plus cost of reset dentures, may be LOWER than you'd expect to pay for new dentures alone. SAVE A LOT of money on my denture renewal service.

donado, I am convinced he will accomplish many times more than all of the previous appointed administrators.

MALDONADO is an intense man with deep-set, fiery black eyes. His patriotism and sincerity cannot be questioned. He speaks with compelling, dramatic enthusiasm, a native characteristic.

But determination alone is not enough to increase the economic and cultural well-being of a region. "I know what you mean," says Maldonado. "Yes, we will need pesos — many millions. We will encourage industry to come here, make inducements to foreign investors.

"Our generous land and our great resources can do much. And we will continue to buy as much as we'll sell. We spend $60,000 a day in your country now for consumer-level products."

Maldonado speaks often of

can probably answer your questions."

When asked about the missing missiles he replied, "They were stolen about 16 years ago and at that time we didn't think we could find replacements for them so nothing was done about it.

"As for their origin," he continued, "I took it for granted they were Northern cannon balls.

"But that shouldn't be hard to determine because there was a great deal of difference between Northern and Southern steel during the Civil War. Maybe Maj. Sullivan will send over an ordnance technician to measure the size of the shot and take samples of the iron for analysis."

SIMPLER YET, how about the culprit returning the missing two? Then we'll return the monument to its original condition with no questions asked.

Until then, though, don't mention any doubt of the Lincoln Park cannon balls' possible Dixie origin. It's bad enough to see the Great Emancipator's stony glare concerning the missing balls, but the shock of learning they could have come from the South might topple him off his pedestal.

"our people," promising his government will be "a leader of the human liberties: Freedom of work, freedom of speech in all its forms, freedom of creeds."

A key to the Governor's philosophy may be seen in this statement: "The big companies have great reserves, but they have forgotten the human reserves."

The Governor stood to conclude the interview, explaining through the interpreter that he had to return to an important conference. Then, in fine English, he added: "A couple of big shots from L. A."

Like Springtime in Paris

SPRINGTIME in Paris is no more enchanting than springtime in the Huntington botanical gardens at the Henry E. Huntington library and art gallery, San Marino.

Visitors relaxing in the shade of a mammoth 200-year-old oak rest their eyes on the wide sweep of lawn centered by the majestic tree.

and white masses of rhododendrons hobnob with azaleas and camellias. South of the art gallery, the "powder puff" and "pom-pom" bushes are billows of feathery lightness near the cup of gold vine that clings to the balustrade.

Strolling west across the lawn from the art gallery, visitors pass through the rose arbors that overlook the gardens where the newest roses of the All-American selections are displayed. Then they walk down stone steps to the Oriental garden where a tranquil pool reflects the Japanese maple and the Oriental bridge.

ELSEWHERE in the gardens, Chinese magnolias, white and purple-tinged, bloom early in the season and later the fringe tree is a canopy of snow.

At the foot of the sloping lawn the lily ponds offer lotus and water lilies, while just around a bend visitors find themselves in another world — the far-famed cactus garden. Here 15 acres are planted with 2000 varieties of cacti and other succulent plants, the low, dainty echeverias contrasting sharply with the tall, white yuccas and the orange and red aloes and agaves.

Just now interest centers on

1000 varieties of camellias in the five-acre garden. A number, including the white "Margarete Hertrich" were developed in the Huntington gardens. The "Margarete Hertrich," of the formal double type, is of the species camellias japonica. Specimens blooming on the hillside west of the Oriental garden have attained a height of 10 feet.

Displayed in the seven principal galleries and 15 smaller galleries and halls are 400 objects of art, including 65 paintings, and tapestries, furniture, rugs, clocks, porcelains and miniatures produced in England and France in the 18th Century and rare manuscripts and books.

AMONG CANVASES exhibited are 11 paintings by Gainsborough, 12 by Reynolds, 11 by Romney and seven by Lawrence. Among others represented are Constable, Hogarth, Hoppner, Kneller, Raeburn, Ramsay, Stuart and Turner. The most popular paintings include "Sarah Siddons as the Tragic Muse" by Sir Joshua Reynolds, "Pinkie" by Sir Thomas Lawrence and "The Blue Boy" by Thomas Gainsborough.

Gardens and galleries are open each afternoon except Mondays and certain holidays from 1 to 4:30 p. m. Admission is free but reservations must be made in advance by telephone or mail. Cards of admission are dated

Let's Start All Over

BOTH SIDES in the row between the Army and Sen. McCarthy should be eager to see Samuel P. Sears rejected as special counsel.

The Boston lawyer's ability to investigate the controversy impartially is seriously questioned. That is the worst possible start. For the main idea in retaining a prominent outsider was to assure the public of an objective investigation.

Mr. Sears may be fully capable of conducting an objective probe. But the point is that a segment of the public lacks confidence in him from the very beginning. His presence may well raise more questions than will be settled.

The big trouble is that Mr. Sears told the press and the Senate investigating group that he'd never taken a stand on McCarthy or McCarthyism.

But newspaper files show otherwise. It appears that he expressed himself enthusiastically in behalf of McCarthy on several previous occasions. That was his perfect right, of course. In fact, that in itself might not disqualify him as special counsel in the present McCarthy-Army squabble.

It would certainly be a difficult task to find a man who hasn't had some degree of feeling or shade of opinion one way or another regarding McCarthy.

At the same time, it would be hazardous to assume that a man who supports or opposes McCarthy in one situation will automatically and consistently support or oppose him in another.

However, Mr. Sears is in the peculiar position (1) of having taken a stand on McCarthy and then (2) when under consideration as special counsel for a probe concerning McCarthy, contending that he'd never taken a stand either publicly or privately.

This raises the question in many minds whether he is qualified as an objective counsel. Though Mr. Sears either may have forgotten his past statements or considers them separate from the present issues, the question is inevitable, and public acceptance of the probe's results jeopardized.

Why opponents of McCarthy might not want Sears to act as counsel is obvious. And it should be obvious to McCarthy backers why it could be a disadvantage to McCarthy for Sears to go through with the job.

For when the investigation gets under way and material favorable to McCarthy's side of the controversy is presented, there are bound to be loud wails of "foul" from McCarthy enemies—and they will have an excellent arguing point, whether or not the facts actually bear them out.

There very likely will be loud cries of foul from both sides under any circumstances. Certainly the Senate committee should not want to open the door to such complaints from the very beginning.

We have no idea what evidence McCarthy and the Army may present to support their charges against one another. It is without prejudice on the controversy itself that we suggest Mr. Sears should be rejected. Otherwise, whatever facts are brought out may be clouded in a haze of public emotionalism more dense than that which usually hangs over issues in which McCarthy is involved.

JOHN S. KNIGHT

Dangerous Moment

DURING THE TRUMAN administration, there was much criticism of the conduct of our Asiatic relations. Most of it was deserved.

But now, inescapably, the responsibility for what we do falls on a Republican President and a Republican Secretary of State. It is a terrifying responsibility to find solutions for apparently insoluble problems.

In a speech to the Overseas Press Club, Secretary Dulles correctly stressed the importance of the Indo-China conflict to the future of all Southeast Asia.

He startled both American and European opinion by a declaration that the "imposition of the Communist system on all Southeast Asia" could not be "passively accepted" by the United States.

He urged resistance, in a form not specified, no matter what "serious risks" are involved and called for "united action." The first reaction in London was what Chicago Daily News Foreign Service Correspondent William McGuffin called "a new case of jitters over the possibility that any muscle-flexing might lead to more serious consequences."

The London Daily Express nervously asked: "Do we face Korea No. 2?"

In this same speech that counseled against "passive acceptance" of a totally Communist Asia, Dulles gave firm reasons for not recognizing Red China or admitting it to the United Nations.

But what, other than war, is the alternative to "passive acceptance" of a Red China if the rebels win?

What does Dulles mean by "united action" and "serious risks?"

Is he merely attempting to fortify his position for the Geneva conference, without giving away everything to the Communists in advance?

Or, is he preparing American public opinion for the cruel possibility that American boys may have to fight in Indo-China?

From another quarter, Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois is saying that the United States ought to "get ready for the worst" by enlisting the forces of the Pacific free nations to fight communism in Indo-China if they are needed. Douglas says that he hopes and prays "with all my heart and soul that it will never be necessary for us to send the Army to resist communism in Asia" but "we ought to get ready . . . with other free nations for the worst."

Haven't we yet learned from Korea that "united action" in Asia would be little more than a phrase; that the French and the British have no stomach for fighting in Indo-China; that we could expect only token assistance from "other free nations"?

Can't we recognize the dangers of gradual involvement? That they inevitably lead us to war? Don't we know that the "serious risks" mentioned by Secretary Dulles would not be fully shared by the war-weary French and the pragmatic British, eager as they are for more and more Communist trade?

It is a difficult and dangerous moment in our diplomatic history. President Eisenhower has promised the public that no direct military action would be undertaken by us in Indo-China without a declaration by Congress.

Reassuring as this is, our course looks suspiciously like the pre-war diplomatic pattern which led us into previous conflicts.

Members of Congress, now talking about Joe McCarthy, tax cuts and the hydrogen bomb, must be made to see the folly of engaging our land forces in the jungles of Indo-China.

The course of events in Asia may not be wholly within our own control.

It is wholly within our control, however, to keep out of another fruitless bloody war that neither side can win.

It is rank hypocrisy for anyone—particularly for some of the newspaper publishers who themselves benefit by special favors which they never hesitated to request through their Senators and Congressmen—to pretend that there is anything unusual in the Cohn-Schine requests. And it is particularly ridiculous for writers to say that the special favors demanded by Cohn or McCarthy for Schine had "devastating" effects on the morale at Fort Dix. That is hypocritical bunk, and those

McCarthy-Army Probe Should Signal General Cleanup of Mess in Congress

WASHINGTON—Selection of Samuel Sears of Boston to be counsel for the Senate subcommittee which is to investigate the dispute between the Secretary of the Army and members of the staff of Sen. McCarthy's committee is the beginning of what may prove to be a long, drawn-out inquiry into the whole subject of political pull in Washington.

What is the political influence, for example, reaching into the armed services to get promotions? What part do members of Congress play in such inner maneuvers? How are civilians given important commissions? What communications, oral or written, have passed between the offices of the three armed services and the members of the Senate and House, with particular reference to the committees in both houses which deal with legislation affecting the military establishment?

This is the time for Congress to clean up its own mess. For many years now it has been well known that "favored treatment" for constituents has been obtained. The Schine-Cohn case cannot be tried fairly unless it is put into perspective—that is, unless all the facts concerning the atmosphere in which the case has been projected are fully disclosed.

This correspondent is in receipt of a memorandum from a man who served as a special assistant to one of the high civilian officials of the armed services during World War II. He writes as follows:

"Of course, you are probably more familiar than I am with the large liaison staff that the Army and Navy have maintained to process requests from the offices of Senators and Congressmen which are passed on from constituents asking for special favors for their sons."

"General Persons, who headed the Army liaison for many years, was so indispensable and irreplaceable that he was made an exception to Army regulations and retained on Capitol Hill to keep Congressmen and Senators happy. I mean no disrespect to him because I admire him. In fact, he did a superlative job for the Army. It was so good that people in the Navy were constantly hearing unpleasant comparisons between his handling of requests for special favors in contrast to the stuffy Navy practice of the Bureau of Personnel in putting 'P. I.' for 'political influence' on the files of men for whom politicians had intervened."

"I know that at the request of the Secretary of the Navy, his assistant made a survey of the superior legislative relations of the Army over the Navy, and this led to recommendations to improve the Navy's service to Capitol Hill—patterned on what the Army was doing."

"RANK HYPOCRISY"

"It is rank hypocrisy for anyone—particularly for some of the newspaper publishers who themselves benefit by special favors which they never hesitated to request through their Senators and Congressmen—to pretend that there is anything unusual in the Cohn-Schine requests. And it is particularly ridiculous for writers to say that the special favors demanded by Cohn or McCarthy for Schine had 'devastating' effects on the morale at Fort Dix. That is hypocritical bunk, and those who write it must know it or they don't know what makes Washington, Capitol Hill or the Army and Navy tick.

"I have within the last few days talked with an officer whose duty it has been to serve in the legislative liaison section of one of the armed services. He tells me that they keep daily logs of telephone and written requests affecting personnel which were received from the offices of Senators and Congressmen. He also gave me a table of organization of personnel engaged in processing these requests. May I suggest that the newspapers would perform a service to the public if they published, with appropriate charts, the tables of organization of the machinery or handling requests from Capitol Hill about personnel and also statistics of the number of requests.

"I cannot conceive that the Department of Defense would dare to place themselves in a position of tacit admission that their detailed records on Cohn and Schine amount to persecution of only two boys, which they certainly will be doing if they can't come forward promptly with similar records and statistics on the thousands of other Senatorial and Congressional requests for special favors. I am informed that such records are kept. I submit that the public interest would be particularly served if each Senator who will sit in judgment on Cohn and Schine be analyzed and published. I learned at law school something to the effect that 'he who comes into equity must come with clean hands.'"

Brannan Plan Gains Favor Among Former Opponents

WASHINGTON—Just five years ago this week—April 7, 1949—a new Secretary of Agriculture named Brannan recommended to Congress certain changes in the price support laws. Almost overnight the proposed changes became known as the "Brannan Plan" and the man who proposed them was called almost every name under the sun from "wastrel" to "Socialist."

Even Clifford Hope of Kansas, a sober, usually fair-minded Congressman, distributed a pamphlet on the Brannan Plan entitled "Fines and Jail Sentences for Farmers."

Well, that was five years ago. But on Jan. 11, 1954, the first real move to adopt the Brannan Plan was made. It was made not by a Democrat, but by President Eisenhower himself who recommended that Congress change the price-support program for wool by adding the key and most controversial element of the Brannan Plan—direct subsidy payments.

This meant that, instead of the government buying or lending money on a commodity, and putting it in storage, the government would let the farmer's price seek its natural level in the open market but would pay the farmer direct the difference between his market price and his fair support price.

Charlie Brannan's plan was so bitterly attacked it never had a real chance to pass Congress. In fact, even a bill to test out his plan on wool and two other commodities was turned down by the House of Representatives, 169 to 239.

BIG BUSINESS AND BRANNAN

Despite this, Eisenhower, who attacked the Brannan Plan all during his election campaign, recommended that it be put into effect for wool, and this has now been carried out. On top of this, Secretary Benson has been considering the principle of the Brannan Plan regarding butter—namely, selling it at a cheaper price and having the government absorb the difference.

Even more amazing is the manner in which certain big businessmen are proposing that the Brannan Plan be adopted for other commodities, especially cotton. The three biggest cotton manufacturers in the United States have now gone on record as favoring the essence of the Brannan Plan, while the American Cotton Manufacturers Institute has drafted legislation to adopt it.

The big three of cotton textiles are C. A. Cannon, president of Cannon Mills; W. A. L. Sibley, president of Deering, Milliken & Co.; and C. C. Hertwig, president of the Biff Manufacturing Co. These three make up the spinner representatives of Secretary Benson's cotton advisory committee, and their recommendation to Benson is dated Dec. 15, 1953. The key part of their document reads:

"At the present time we are piling up large stocks (of cotton) in warehouses which should be moving into normal channels of trade. This being true, it is necessary that we look for an answer."

"We recommend a compensatory payment program." The American Cotton Manufacturers Institute bill for putting the Brannan Plan into effect on cotton is dated Jan. 15, 1954, and has attached to it an explanation of the measure which concludes with the flat statement:

"The proposed compensatory payment plan could and should be put into effect for the 1954-55 crop."

Note—Meanwhile the man who had the reputation of being the most abused and baldest-headed in the Truman cabinet, Charlie Brannan, has been living quietly in Denver where he has said little, but friends want him to run for governor of Colorado. It looks as if he would not do so.

L. B. Rich, but Not 'Crazy Rich'

WHEN I hear Long Beach described—as it often is—as the richest city in the world, I'm reminded of the Klamath Indians of Oregon, who are sometimes called the nation's richest Indian tribe.

The Klamaths have a beautiful 50-mile-square area for their reservation, and on it are stands of fine pine timber which constitute the major wealth of the tribe. Figuring up the total value of the timber, and dividing it by the 1500 or so enrolled members of the tribe, you get a rather startling per capita wealth.

But the average Klamath Indian doesn't look, act or live like a wealthy man. The timber stand isn't readily available cash, by any means. The timber is harvested gradually, on a sustained yield basis, and the returns are sufficient only to give each tribesman something less than $1500 annually. It would be economic folly and morally wrong to harvest or sell all the timber at once, disposing of the wealth in one fell swoop.

While the situation of Long Beach isn't precisely analogous to that of the Indian tribe, the use of the adjective "richest" is liable to misinterpretation in both cases.

Long Beach's claim to being the richest city is due, of course, to its great oil wealth. When the figures on the balances in the oil funds and the annual income from royalties are quoted, listeners shake their heads in awe. Probably, there's nothing in the world that quite compares with it.

But as we know, there are restrictions on its use that need to be fully understood, and better understood by some of its own citizens.

Only a small part of the oil money can be spent for current operation of city government. A substantial sum is set up in reserves which the people themselves have decided can be spent only for capital improvements upon a vote of the people. Only one-half of the oil money can be spent anywhere but on the tidelands. And the half that is technically available for upland use is currently tied up, awaiting the outcome of litigation.

Because of such limitations, Long Beach's city government must follow in general the customary rules of sound economic operation. It cannot toss money about like the proverbial "drunken sailor." There can even be periods in the fiscal year when the government of the world's "richest city" is a little short of ready cash.

And like the Indian reservation, Long Beach must look to the future; its wealth entirely to squander it for the benefit of the present generation. Therefore, the widely supported policy is to spend most of the oil money on enduring projects, that will be beneficial for decades.

It should be made clear, however, that the oil resource is of substantial direct benefit to the people living here now. We not only can make current use of the capital projects developed in our time with oil money, but the oil income does to a considerable extent lighten the burden of current taxes.

Because of oil, Long Beach taxpayers do not pay interest on general bonded indebtedness, as is required in most cities. Some $3,750,000 from resultant dry gas goes into the city's general fund. This year $1,746,000 from upland oil sales went into the general fund. It costs the taxpayers nothing to develop and operate a great harbor. There are other immediate benefits.

The oil is a miraculous community asset. Long Beach is, indeed, rich. But it isn't "crazy rich."

Thoughts

For I am ready to halt, and my sorrow is continually before me.—Psalms 38:17.

The capacity of sorrow belongs to our grandeur; and the loftiest of our race are those who have had the profoundest grief, because they have had the profoundest sympathies.—Henry Giles.

Thank God You're Mine

I thought I gave you all my love . . . The moment that we met . . . That I could have no greater love . . . For anyone and yet . . . Somehow I love you more and more . . . With every passing day . . . And always it grows stronger in . . . A new and sweeter way . . . Each second you are at my side . . . Your presence seems to bless . . . My heart and soul with faith and hope . . . And every happiness . . . And so, perhaps, my only one . . . Your heart will understand . . . Why all my thanks and praise for you . . . Go out to all the land . . . I cherish you, each moment and . . . I love you more each day . . . And thank our God that you are mine . . . In every prayer I say.

system and the new, a survey was made of voters. A ballot, carrying a number of candidates expected to run for state and federal offices in the coming June 8 primary was used. First, a voter was shown a ballot with the names of the candidates without the party designation. Then the house next door was visited and shown a ballot with the same candidates, but with the party designation shown, as it will be on the June 8 ballot. The test was made over areas throughout the city so as to get a cross-section.

Let's take two well known candidates as examples. We refer to Congressman Craig Hosmer, Republican, and Joseph Kennick, Democrat, who will oppose Hosmer. We found that Kennick has very little support among the Republicans. But we find that among Democrats Hosmer got a 38 per cent vote on a ballot on which his party was not shown. But when the party was shown, he got only 19 per cent of the Democratic votes. This means that he got twice as many votes from Democrats who did not think of him as a Republican. When it was shown he was a Republican, he got half as many Democratic votes.

Checking on two candidates running for a state office, we found the Democratic candidate was virtually unknown. When shown a ballot without party designation, he got only a 6 per cent vote from Democrats. But when his Democratic affiliation was shown below his name he got a 25 per cent vote. Thus, an absolutely unknown candidate starts off with a solid vote from his party under the new system. About half the voters had not made up their minds. But the significant point is that a large number of persons indicate they will vote for the party rather than for the man.

Much the same pattern was shown as regarding other offices and candidates. It is evidence that the big fight this year will be to get the vote of persons registered in the opposing party. It means there will be more runoff races in the finals than in the past. Republicans will have a lot harder fight than in the past when it comes to winning in the primaries. The old system has had much to do with the Republican party control of the state. It will make this year's primary election one of the most interesting we have ever had.—L.A.C.

TOWN MEETING

Burnt Whale

TO THE EDITOR:

I don't know whether you'd be interested in this item, but while I was fishing off the extreme end of the Newport breakwater, an enormous whale surfaced, not 20 feet from me just as I had cast my line out, causing the line to become entangled on him.

This in itself is not why I am writing you. Rather my topic is the appearance and color of this whale.

It must have been approximately 70 feet long and was covered with what appeared to be huge blisters. The skin over the entire upper half of the side facing me was completely covered with huge patches, as though he'd been in a fire.

I've never seen a whale thus marked with scars and blisters. Could it be possible that this whale at one time or another was in some area where atomic weapons were being exploded and thus received radiation burns?

I just thought you'd like to know.

Park Plan Praised

TO THE EDITOR:

The park and city beautification program proposed by Mr. Allen is long overdue. Mr. Allen pointed out that Long Beach is one of the most backward cities with regard to park development. We do not have a single forest-type park, nor is there an adequate reserve of land set aside for future park development.

We need only compare our situation with that of San Diego, which has one of the most beautiful zoological gardens in the country, to realize what poor park facilities we do have relative to our population. This situation should be remedied as soon as possible so that Long Beach gets facilities commensurate with its size.

Mr. Allen is to be commended for an imaginative and progressive plan for park development which would make life richer for every age group.

Beautification

TO THE EDITOR:

We supposed the Women's Council for Long Beach Beautification plan was to make Long Beach a beautiful city, but instead it is the plan to make beautiful parks at the outer edge of our city. So when people come to see one of the most beautiful cities in this hemisphere, will we still have to take them out through our dirty streets, trash-filled gutters, weedy vacant lots, unkempt lawns, and broken sidewalks to the beautiful parks?

Or will the Women's Council for Long Beach Beautification get ordinances passed and get things cleaned up and repaired?
1030 E. Ocean Blvd.

Note: Park and beautification plans proposed by Park Consultant Elwood Allen envision improvements throughout the city. The Women's Council has worked tirelessly to get a park program started. It has exerted pressure in other directions—for instance, to get unsightly wooden oil derricks removed. To a large extent, beautification is a matter of individual self-respect and enforcement of existing ordinances and laws.)

Banning Park Fete Salutes Famous Vine

The famous wisteria vine in Banning Park, Wilmington, planted late in the 19th Century and considered to be one of the most beautiful in the southwest, is in full bloom.

A wisteria festival program will open at 1:45 p. m. today. Minstrels from the Tipica Orchestra, the Wilmington Youth Chorus and the Banning Park Square Dance group will participate.

The festival also will mark the opening of the 20-room colonial style home of Gen. Phineas Banning, constructed in 1864, in the park. Beginning today, guided tours will be conducted from 1 to 4:30 p. m. Sundays throughout the spring and summer. Admission is free on Wisteria Festival Day. Other Sundays a small fee is charged. For many years the Banning residence was a Southern California social center.

At the rear of the mansion are the general's stables and coach house. On display are several horse-drawn vehicles, including a surrey, complete with fringe, and a phaeton.

DELICACY FOR LENT

Curried Deviled Eggs

By Mildred K. Flanary

(Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor)

WHILE THE LENTEN SEASON does have a special significance, life goes on very much as usual. Hostesses will still reign over luncheons, buffets and supper parties and their desire to please their guests will be just as keen.

Fortunately, there are just as many taste-tempting recipes available for this special season as for any time of the year and, better still, a change from the usual is a mighty good morale builder.

Contrary to general thinking, however, these dishes need not be fish in any form whatsoever. Eggs, cheese, casserole dishes which contain the bulkier foods such as rice, noodles, macaroni, etc., are all popular and interesting to prepare.

One Long Beach homemaker and popular hostess who anticipated this particular season is Mrs. Oliver P. Roemer, 4211 Pacific Ave. She's perused her file and has sent along two recipes which she has found to be the favorites of her family and friends. They're for Curried Deviled Eggs and Cheese Cake. The Curried Eggs recipe is featured elsewhere on this page today and the recipe for Cheese Cake is given below.

Cheese Cake

- 20 graham crackers (single)
- 1/2 cube melted butter
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- Dash of cinnamon

Roll graham crackers fine and add sugar, cinnamon and butter. Mix and pack into large pie plate as for pie crust.

Filling

- 4 eggs, beaten foamy and lemon color
- 1/2 cup sugar beaten well into eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 4 packages cream cheese (soft)

Beat cream cheese until soft and creamy. Then mix with egg mixture and beat until smooth and creamy (can be done with electric mixer). Pour into crust and bake at 375° until set (about 20 to 30 minutes). Remove and cool 10 minutes. Cover with topping of

- 1 pint sour cream
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Return and bake 8 to 10 minutes more at 400°. Cover and chill in refrigerator six hours or more. This can be frozen and kept in your deep freeze.

Cheese Fondue

- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 cup grated sharp cheese

Mrs. Roemer's Curried Deviled Eggs:

8 deviled eggs (16 halves)

(Add dash of curry powder to yolks)

Place in single-layer in flat casserole and cover with following sauce:

- 5 tbles. butter or margarine
- 2 to 3 cups milk (after thickened)
- 3 tabs. flour (heaping)
- Add 1 1/4 cups grated nippy cheese
- 1/2 teaspoon season salt
- 1/2 tsp. Lea & Perrin
- Few grains of cayenne

Just let cheese melt. Do not cook or let boil. After covering eggs let stand (can be overnight). Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees. Just long enough to heat through.

When you swing open the door to ANDY'S HOT CAKE HOUSE

643 1/2 Pine Ave.

The friendliness of this informal restaurant greets you. It seems to say: "Welcome! Please come in. Andy's cooking is just about as close to home cooked foods as you're liable to find. His patronage are folks who, like as not, eat all their meals with him. Breakfast, lunch, dinner—they dine with ANDY. The fussiest diners savor his cooking—real home flavor away from home.

The dinner hours at Andy's are different from most places. Of course, he serves breakfasts and lunches. But his dinner time begins at 4 and he closes his doors at 6:50 and lunches. But his dinner time begins at 4 and he closes his doors at 6:50 and lunches. But his dinner time begins at 4 and he closes his doors at 6:50 and lunches.

Andy's proud of his products. He uses only the largest, freshest eggs in his baking and old-fashioned buttermilk hot cakes, which he serves throughout the day. They make a mighty pleasing meal—breakfast, lunch, supper or snack. He always serves them with all the golden Danish butter you wish, plus rich, deep flavor Log Cabin syrup.

As you move along the line at dinner time looking at the varied array of foods, you have fun watching Andy carve juicy Prime Ribs, tender Roast Turkey, Ham, baked to perfection. It's also a real pleasure when you eat the food. Cranberries, of course. The complete turkey dinner—vegetables, salad, stinky rolls, coffee is under a dollar—$55.

On THURSDAY a complete fried chicken dinner including the menu. A quarter of golden fried chicken, real Southern Cream Gravy, homemade breads better than you'll find south of the Mason-Dixon line.

BAKED HALIBUT and again his renowned ROAST TURKEY. Every day evening shoppers a choice of dinner specialties. Andy always serves a mouth-watering "Hot Plate" for $1.00.

SATURDAY the specialty of ANDY'S HOT CAKE HOUSE will be the best Swiss Steak. Whether you order these daily specialties or the everyday staples of hot cakes, Southern Pineapple, tender fried chicken, fried oysters and the quality food, the place is available.

Sunday 7 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Curried Deviled Eggs as prepared by Mrs. O. P. Roemer, add zest to Lenten dining.

- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Few grains cayenne
- 2 teaspoons butter or fortified margarine
- 2 eggs
- 2 slices buttered bread
- Heat milk and cheese in top of double boiler until cheese is melted. Remove from heat. Add salt, cayenne, butter and well-beaten eggs. Cut bread into 1/2-inch pieces and add to cheese mixture.

Place in four greased heat-resistant glass custard cups, five-ounce size. Bake in moderate oven (325° F.) for about 35 minutes or until delicately browned and firm to touch. Serve in the custard cups. Yield: 4 servings.

Baked Cheese Puff

- 8 slices bread
- Butter
- 4 slices American cheese
- 4 eggs
- 2 cups milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Make two ordinary cheese sandwiches with the bread, butter and cheese. Place the sandwiches in shallow baking dish.

Beat eggs slightly (as for custard). Add milk and salt. Pour this mixture over the cheese sandwiches and bake in slow oven (325° F.) about 45 minutes. Serves 4.

Kitchen Tip:

Mrs. Roemer's Kitchen Tip: A recipe card can be kept handy and clean while mixing ingredients by placing the card between the tines of a fork in a tall glass.

He Stood on the Bastions of Heaven

But, probing deeper into the Huasachugo area's hoary mysteries was impossible for the young archaeologist during his stay, since he was alone — except for the two guides — and had only a few hand tools to use in excavating. He spent several weeks in filming the lost city's wonders and poking about the ruins but finally was forced to return to civilization when his food supplies and film were exhausted.

Returning to Lima by a slightly different route, as indicated on his ancient map, he made one of white man's rare visits to Acque, sister city of Huasachugo but many days' travel southward. He postponed extensive explorations there, however, until his next Peruvian expedition planned for next year, when he will return with special equipment and additional manpower to resume and extend his scientific snooping.

"I've more than just archaeological reasons for wanting to return real soon," the tall, boyish-looking Wilhelmsen admits. "Another explorer recently turned up a half million dollars' worth of gold artifacts, bullion and a pint jug of pink pearls while he was scouring around the remains of a Peruvian village once occupied by relatively poor Incas. I believe Huasachugo was an upper crust community populated by members of the ruling class. That suggests the existence of an Inca-style First National Bank somewhere in that maze of stone buildings. If so, I want to be first in line to present my withdrawal slip at the cashier's window!"

Unarmed Citizens Join Chase in Capture of Robbery Suspect

SAN PIERRE, Ind.—(AP). Three unarmed citizens chased a bank robbery suspect at speeds up to 85 miles per hour Saturday and paved the way for his capture.

A school bus driver, a grocer and another man jumped into two cars and pursued a red truck driven by the suspect in a wild chase that lasted more than an hour.

Tom Daly, cashier of the San Pierre State Bank, said the gunman took $1505 in the holdup.

The suspect was identified as Calvin Inman, 45, Westville, Ind. He was captured by Sheriff Lee James, who joined the chase after spotting the two cars in pursuit of the truck.

Inman denied the holdup. He said he is a fuel oil salesman.

Irvin Danford, a school bus driver, said he and grocer Robbins chased the truck for miles over gravel roads and a paved highway.

Robbins, driving alone in the second car, stopped frequently to telephone authorities the location of the chase, then caught up with Danford and Kingman to join the pursuit again.

The sheriff finally overtook the bandit in the rape that reached breakneck speeds. He brought the truck to a halt at rifle point, but he credited the chase bystanders with making the pursuit a success.

Indiana State Police Supt. Frank A. Jessup said it was a

Southwest Faces Crisis in Drouth

DALLAS, Texas.—(U.P.) Drouth has hit the Southwest early this year and unless it rains bountifully in the next two months, the farmers of Texas alone stand to lose an estimated $1,000,000,000.

Actually, the Southwest has been suffering from drouth for three to five years. But this winter rainfall has been less than it has during previous dry years.

Great dust storms, like those that created the Dust Bowl of the 1930s, have been sweeping across Colorado, New Mexico, Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma. Three storms have laid 180 tons of dust on each 640-acre section of the Texas Panhandle.

The dirt has been stripped away from thousands of acres of winter wheat by the searching wind. In the southern part of the Southwest, crops that should be in the ground haven't even been planted because it is too dry.

"It is much worse than it was last year at this time," Commissioner of Agriculture John C. White said. "The outlook is terrible."

White said that drouth cost Texas farmers $500,000,000 last year. If rainfall follows the trend it did last year, he said, the same farmers will lose $1,000,000,000—half of the state's agricultural income in a normal year.

This, for example, is what has happened in Dawson County, in West Texas: It raised 175,000 bales of cotton in 1949. It raised 8000 bales of cotton last year. The population of the county has dropped 5000 in 18 months and 119 families are on relief. This is the situation, state by state:

COLORADO. The Dust Bowl includes 3,000,000 acres in the southeastern part of the state. In some places, topsoil has been stripped down to the bedrock.

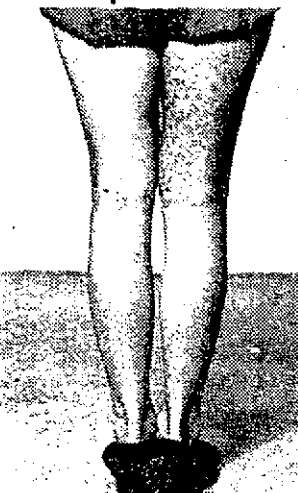

KANSAS. Wind has been eroding the soil, particularly in the western part of the state, with a ferocity unmatched in 20 years. One section of western Kansas went through six straight days of blowing dust.

OKLAHOMA. All of the state needs rain and officials report the drouth the worst since Dust Bowl days.

NEW MEXICO. The Dust Bowl of New Mexico takes in about 1,000,000 acres in the northeastern part of the state. The Cattle Growers Assn. reports that ranchers "haven't made a dime in three years."

TEXAS. Agricultural Commissioner White said farmers and ranchers "need rain terribly everywhere west of Fort Worth and are beginning to need it in east Texas," normally the wettest part of the state.

DR. CHAN SAYS: NO LONGER MUST YOU SUFFER FROM

ASTHMA-DIABETES HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

For the past two generations, the offices of Dr. Chan, D. C., located at 928 American Ave., have had outstanding results in treating chronic ailments such as ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, ARTHRITIS, NEURITIS, RHEUMATISM, HIGH OR LOW BLOOD PRESSURE, HEART TROUBLE, STOMACH OR LIVER DISORDERS, KIDNEY OR BLADDER AILMENTS, OR A GENERAL RUNDOWN CONDITION. Men and women from all walks of life come to take these treatments because other methods of healing have failed to help them. Many have spent a fortune in seeking cure before they try this simple, effective natural method of Dr. Chan. Our patients tell us that they wish they had known of our wonderful treatments sooner so that their suffering could have been avoided.

928 American Ave.

READ THESE AMAZING TESTIMONIALS

Dear Dr. Chan: "The day I came to your office with my mother and brother I was about to give up hope of getting rid of my asthma attacks. I spent hundreds of dollars for shots and pills, but yet found no results. After reading your advertisement, I tried you for my last resort and was thrilled to find that I responded wonderfully. After the first treatment, I was able to breathe normally and could sleep better for the first time in months. Now I am feeling fine and hoping others will benefit from my experience with Dr. Chan's Natural Method."

Signed: Mrs. Vivian Murray

To Whom It May Concern: "For over 30 years I have been going from one doctor's office to another hoping to find someone to help me with my asthma and stomach condition. No one knows how much I had suffered until I came to Dr. Chan. Right after night I had to sit up because I wasn't able to lie down to sleep. I was coughing and wheezing most of the night. Besides my stomach was full of gas. After taking Dr. Chan's Natural Therapy for one week, I began to improve. Now, after five months of continuous treatment, my asthma and stomach troubles are just about over. I wish to recommend this treatment to anyone who is anxious to get well. I am sure that Dr. Chan will do all he can to help you as he has helped me."

In a matter of hours a new house is under way. In eighteen days, house will be completed, ready for occupancy, under a newly-devised construction plan.

Still to be reckoned in a matter of hours is the building time at this period of the construction. Photo shows how beams and panels fall into place.

Roof's on and work is speeding toward completion in this photo. New idea in building, called Panel Aire, was devised by Henry C. Cox, Garden Grove.

Bare Lot to House in Only 18 Days!

GARDEN GROVE.
SOMETHING NEW in home construction has, figuratively speaking, popped out of the ground in this community — something that has attracted attention far beyond this immediate community. By this new construction, a complete home can be built ready for occupancy, starting with a bare lot, in 18 days!

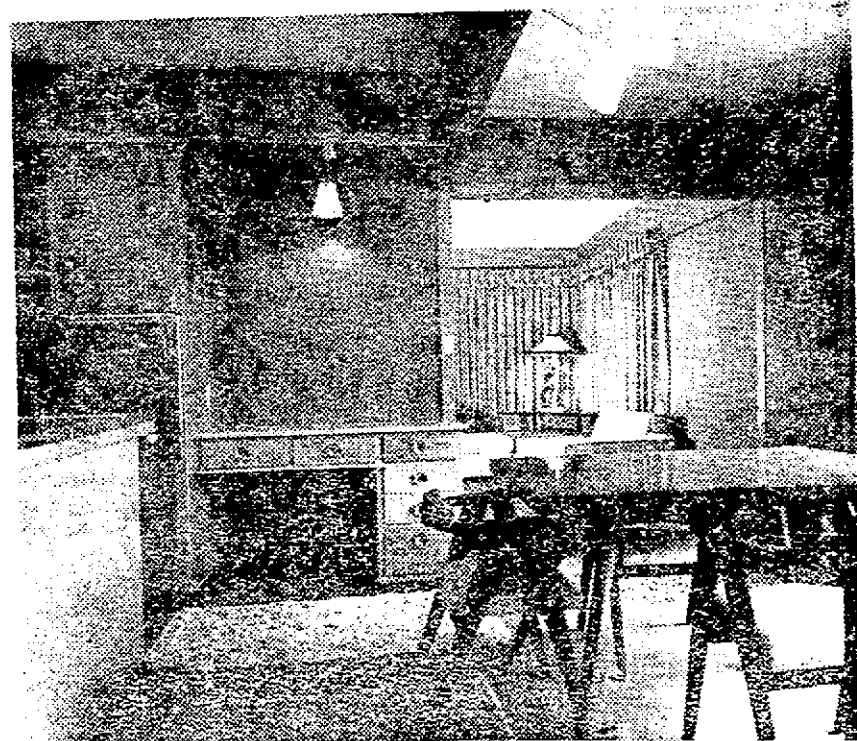

Furthermore, this high-speed home is stronger, more conservative of heat and less costly to construct than the conventional type of building that takes three months to erect. Or so its originator, Henry C. Cox, 9999 Lamson Ave., and his associates claim — and they have laboratory studies and model homes to back up their assertions.

The magic of the new plan is achieved with panel-and-beam construction. Original model home — given the name of Panel Aire and located at 12552 Edith St. — is laid on double-poured, insulated concrete slabs but the method is suited to wooden floor construction. First Panel Aire units are all-mahogany where exposed panels and beams are concerned. Beam construction is steel-doweled for sturdiness, electric wiring is concealed in raceways detailed in the beams. A sliding glass window has been designed to be an integral part of the panels, but present models are air-conditioned for both heating and cooling and windows are sealed.

More elegant of the two models from the standpoint of fittings, including built-in electric range and oven, touch plate switches with master panel, full year-around heating aid air-conditioning, massive fireplace, birch cabinets, indirect lighting, ceramic tile wainscoting and counters, electric exhaust fans in bath and kitchen, dishwasher, garbage disposal, flood-lighted yard, can be duplicated on the prospective householder's lot for $13,900, its maker's claim. A smaller 3-bedroom unit, including all above features except air-conditioning, dishwasher and master panel, can be duplicated for $10,500.

The completed home is of modern design and is flexible in style or size and arrangement. This flexibility suits the style of construction to lavish home, guest house, mountain cabin or suite of offices, Cox claims. He developed the Panel Aire method of building over a two-year period of research. Patents are pending.

Massive fireplace, beamed ceiling, free movement between rooms are features of this Panel Aire dwelling.

Junior Statesmen Elect Arcadia Boy as Governor

A lad who expects to be a lawyer and one who aspires to be a doctor head the Junior Statesmen of America, organization of teen-agers with the motto, "Make Democracy Work." Steve Tallent, 16, of Arcadia, was elected governor and Ron Bondoc, 15 of Fresno, lieutenant-governor of the Junior Statesmen Saturday afternoon in the Statesmen's spring convention in Hotel Lafayette.

Tallent had served a year as lieutenant governor and Bondoc a year as expansion chairman. Both expect to go to Stanford. Steve to become Bondoc was elected in a hard, three-cornered race. Other candidates were Jim Ragan, 16, of Long Beach, a Wilson High School student, and Bob Miller, 16, of San Jose.

Tallent said he hopes in his year as governor the number of chapters in California will be doubled and better communication established among the chapters. He reported that there now are between 60 and 70 chapters.

Clinton D. McKinnon, president and publisher of the Los Angeles Daily News, praised the delegates Saturday for their interest in government. He declared:

"Our country has grown strong on our basic freedoms, freedom of worship, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of a man to be considered innocent until he is proven guilty."

"Freedom of the press is a two-way proposition: freedom of an editor to print his opinions and freedom of the man on the street to choose which newspaper he will buy."

Two Days to File for City Race

By THE LOOKOUT

State primary election candidates were all identified and on the campaign starting line today, but there are still two filing days for last-minute candidates for Long Beach city offices.

The list of municipal candidates is already long but it will be no surprise if a few last-minute filings occur before the deadline Tuesday at 5 p.m.

The state primary for which filings closed Friday evening, will be held on June 8. The municipal primary is May 11.

The state deadline passed with only a few unexpected developments, one of which was the candidacy declaration of Republican Fred N. Howser, who filed for his old job, state attorney general.

Until Howser's last-minute filing, it looked as if Democrat Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, the incumbent, would go back into office without GOP opposition. Howser filed on both major tickets. And at about the same time Claude A. Watson filed for the Republican nomination for attorney general, and Edwin M. Cooper filed on the Prohibition ticket.

In spite of all this, it still looked as if Brown, the only Democrat holding major state office, will have a fairly easy time winning re-election. Howser failed to get his party's nomination four years ago.

MAIN EVENT

The main competition in the governor's race still appears to be between Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, Republican, and Democrat Richard Graves, who have crossed. Entering the lists as gubernatorial candidates on the last day were Cornell L. Gabrish, Republican, who crossed on the Independent Progressive ticket, and Roderick J. Wilson, Hollywood, who filed on the Democratic side only.

Principal contenders for the U. S. Senate seat open this year are the Republican incumbent, Thomas H. Kuchel, and Democrat Samuel W. Yorty, now a congressman. Adam C. Derkum and Leo Gallagher, Los Angeles Democrats, also filed in that contest.

Three Republicans, all prominent, are entered in the race for lieutenant governor. They are Lt. Gov. Harold J. Powers, Assembly Speaker James W. Silliman, and Judge Frederick P. Houser. Lone Democrat in that event is Edward Royball, Los Angeles city councilman.

As has been indicated, County Supervisor Burton W. Chace of Long Beach came through the filing period without opposition and is virtually assured of election to fill out the unexpired term of the late Supervisor Raymond Darby. Chace has been serving on appointment.

Supervisor Herbert C. Legg in the First District has one opponent, William R. Bradley of Whittier.

A new candidacy in the 23rd Congressional District, lying just north of the local 18th, is that of Mrs. Olive T. Thompson, Democrat. Rep. Clyde Foyle, Democrat seeking re-election; Frank Bussing, Republican, and Forrest Cleveland, Democrat, are others running in the 23rd.

There were no other late major changes in the candidate lineup, which has been forming slowly during the now-closed filing period.

On the municipal front, a late development was the filing of City Councilman Max Livoni, Sixth District, the last incumbent expected to file for the Council in the May 11 primary. Only incumbents not running are Mayor Lyman B. Sutter, a candidate for municipal judge, and Councilman Lynn Parnley of the First District.

KNIGHT DAY COMING

Thursday will be Goodwin J. Knight day in the Long Beach area, with the governor spending the entire day on a busy schedule in Lakewood and Long Beach.

Highlights include a press breakfast at the Wilton Hotel, a noon meeting at Lakewood Country Club sponsored by the governor's Greater Lakewood Campaign Committee, and a speaking appearance at the First Baptist Church in the evening, when the famed Voices of Victory Choir of Los Angeles will be on the program.

Knight's campaign is well organized here under direction of City Prosecutor Kenneth Sutherland as manager and Robert M. Devitt as chairman.

HEADQUARTERS

Coy Sanders, candidate for 44th District assemblyman, has opened campaign offices at 5934 Orange Ave., 4001 Pine Ave., and 132 W. Ocean Blvd. Area directors for Sanders' campaign are Edward Dash, Frank Furry, Kennet Anger, Dave Stapleton, Mrs. Lois Dalton, James Shurer, Willard Stephenson, Mrs. Anna Sykes, John W. Reed, Mrs. Homer C. Bard, Don Foltz, Kate McLaughlin, Lou Fasnacht, Mary Ann McDonald and Don Williams.

Many candidates showed up Saturday at the festivities celebrating the establishment of the new City of Lakewood held at Lakewood Country Club.

These included Rep. Craig Hosmer, Lt. Gov. Harold Powers, Assembly Speaker James Silliman, who is running for lieutenant governor, Assembly Candidates Herbert Kierulff, W. S. Grant and Ven O. Fahney, Municipal Judge Candidate Lyman B. Sutter, Councilman Basil U. Carleson, Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown, Supervisor Burton W. Chace and Sheriff Eugene Bischoff.

A GLOSSARY OF TERMS
USED BY PIPE JOCKEYS

Jet pilots have a jargon all their own. It makes little sense to anyone else, but when spoken at an air base, labels the user as a gent who's been around. For instance, they do not say a pilot started the engine when he really "hit the wick." If he does something wrong while airborne, he "takes a star." And they don't say he doesn't get excited; instead, they say "he doesn't hit the panic button." If he makes a tight turn and a smooth landing, they say he "hawks it and spikes it on." Tony Miller adds more terms to the Directory of Jet Lingo with these drawings.

With Living Room Topside

AWAY FROM THE CITY and enjoying a beach all its own is the two-story home of Mrs. Helen Ringler, 23-A Surfside Colony.

This attractive dwelling of cocoa stucco and driftwood has the sort of "nonchalant elegance" that comes with a well designed beach home.

But possibly more exciting than its exterior is the unusual floor plan of this 2300-square-foot home. For, with no thought for tradition, Mrs. Ringler specified that her living room be located on the second floor while the den and dining room share equal honors downstairs. And once one has visited Mrs. Ringler in her home, it becomes perfectly logical why this was done. An excellent cook and charming hostess, Mrs. Ringler has long been characterized for her pleasant dinner parties. And this unusual room arrangement lends itself ideally to such entertaining.

Mrs. Ringler may invite her guests upstairs into the living room where, apart from the bustle of the kitchen and the preparation of the dining room, the second-story ocean view inspires tranquility and leisurely pre-dinner conversations. And then, when everything is in readiness, the group may go down to the dining room, which is situated adjacent to the den area with its great open fireplace.

large room, is a Louis XVI sofa, its downy cushions upholstered in a rich rose brocade. Diaphanous, fully-pleated sheer rose fiberglass draperies fall in deep folds over the windows, casting a soft glow over the room. Pulled back, they reveal an entire wall of view windows that overlook the sea. The carpet is a carved design in wood-rose tone. And adding a needed note of coolness to the scheme are the pale blue-green walls.

List Major Provisions of Housing Bill

WASHINGTON—(UP). Major provisions of the 120-page housing bill passed by a 352-to-36 vote in the House Friday:

1—The administration could set the minimum down-payment as low as five per cent on houses costing up to $10,000. The minimum would jump $250 for each $1000 increase in cost above $10,000. This would not take effect unless the government dropped the minimum and banks agreed to make loans on more liberal terms.

2—Monthly down-payments could be lowered under a proviso allowing FHA-insured loans to run for 30 years. Most now are limited to 20 years.

3—Bigger loans would be possible on easier terms for modernizing or repairing homes. The maximum FHA-insured loan would be $3000 with five years to pay, compared with the present $2500 limit with three years to pay. The monthly repayment rate would drop to $21 compared with the present $32.

4—A two-point slum clearance program would offer more liberal mortgage insurance for building or repairing slum housing. Low-income families living in the slums could move into no-down-payment homes costing up to $7600.

5—The government would be able to insure an added $2,000,000,000 worth of mortgages—enough to carry it through June 30, 1955.

6—Government mortgage-buying would be curbed. The Federal National Mortgage Association, a federal agency now holding more than $2,000,000,000 worth of mortgages, would be converted into a new agency financed partly by private capital. The aim is to make it "self-supporting."

7—Builders of FHA and VA-insured housing would have to give buyers a warranty that construction meets required specifications.

8—No one could buy or live in any housing built—or sold—in the future under federal mortgage insurance programs unless he swore he is not a member of an organization designated as subversive by the Attorney General.

SALEM, Ore.—(UP). A Grant County woman, Mrs. Orpha Clement, 35, enroute to Salem to serve a year in Oregon State Prison for manslaughter, was killed late Friday when a car driven by Grant County Deputy Sheriff Earl Cummings swerved off the North Santiam Highway a mile west of Detroit and plunged over a 100-foot embankment.

Public Takes First Look at Ike Museum

ABILENE, Kan.—(UP). The public got its first look Saturday at the Eisenhower Museum, erected beside the President's boyhood home to house his unique personal collection, valued at more than $1,000,000.

Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the President, represented the family at the brief opening ceremony. Official dedication was to be held later this year, when museum officials hoped the President would be able to participate.

His brother, president of Pennsylvania State College, spoke briefly and cut the ribbon sealing the doors of the museum.

Bostonian Seized in Crackdown on Reds

BOSTON—(UP). Massachusetts reporters a sharply critical statement. "The attorney general doesn't want to test the constitutionality of the law," he said. "He apparently wants to get his name in the papers."

The arrest came the day after Hood had filed a petition in superior court for an injunction to restrain Fingold from enforcing the anti-Communist law on grounds of unconstitutionality. It provides up to three years imprisonment and $1000 fine for membership in the party. The law simply declares the party to be subversive so that specific acts of disloyalty need not be proved.

The law never has been tested in the courts.

Acting on an anonymous telephone tip that Hood was fleeing the state, Asst. Atty. Gen. Samuel H. Cohen obtained a warrant and arrested the tall, heavy-set admitted Communist at his home in the Roxbury section. The arrest followed by less than 24 hours a raid on Communist Party headquarters here in which Atty. Gen. George Fingold said enough evidence was turned up to seek indictments. Hood, a sculptor by profession, was released in $10,000 bail for municipal court arraignment Monday.

"I have other names in mind," Cohen said. "The investigation doesn't stop with Hood's arrest." Hood chatted amiably with the arresting officers, but gave abra and intricate figurines. The most fragile are displayed in an antique cabinet of English origin. Wedge-shaped, it shows off its precious contents on mulberry velvet through its pie-shaped plate glass doors.

A view of the sea is again important in the second-floor living room in the home of Mrs. Helen Ringler at Surfside Colony. Quiet, seclusion are evident.

Across the hall from the living room is the master bedroom. Uncompromisingly feminine, it is memorable for its hunter's green and shell pink color scheme.

The ceiling and the wardrobes are painted pale pink, while the walls are papered in a very high-styled pattern involving pink cabbage roses superimposed on a deep green ground.

The furnishings are traditional mahogany, the beds spread with rose quilted taffeta.

The guest room is considerably less formal with its pale yellow walls and matching curtains. Spreads on the maple twins are white, royal blue and yellow provincial print.

Mrs. Ringler's daughter has a room with a sweeping view of the ocean. The view sets off the bedroom, which has aqua, chocolate and coral paper to its best advantage. Draperies are heavy brown linen-like fabric, and the twin spreads have been custom-made to match.

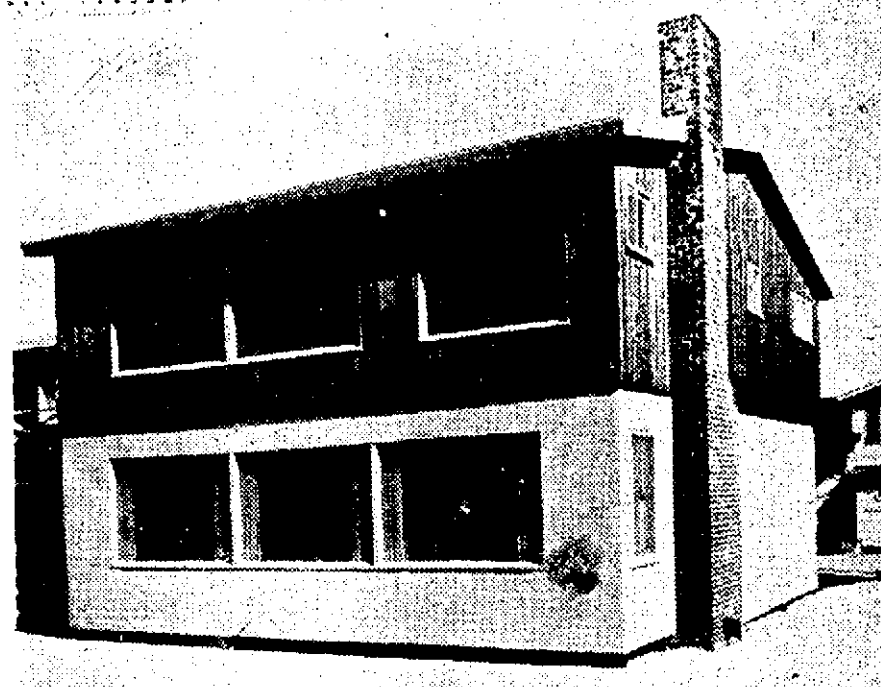

DOWNSTAIRS, the den-playroom and the dining room occupy the entire front of the house. The den is paneled with cedar. And set into a magnificently paneled wall, flanked with open bookshelves, is the large open fireplace that warms and cheers both the den and the dining area beyond. Amber-tinted windows are hung with split bamboo draperies and draped with a soft fabric in an avocado green tone.

Furnishings throughout this area are carried out in shades of cocoa, chocolate, soft green and gold.

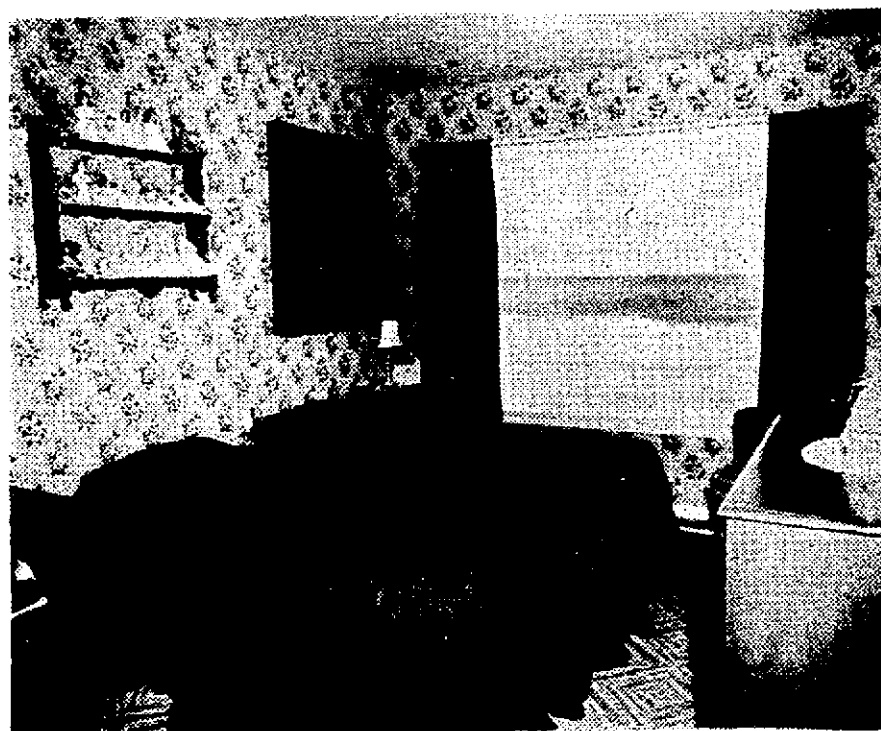

The dining area is somewhat more formal with its oval French provincial table and open

Welch cupboard. Lending a great deal of charm to this end of the room is the antique oil lamp that Mrs. Ringler had converted into an over-the-table light fixture.

Kitchen cabinets have been crafted of cedar. The hardware is hammered copper, which adds a note of the provincial to the room. The tile and the walls are butter yellow, and the gaily-ruffled curtains are bright yellow trimmed in chocolate.

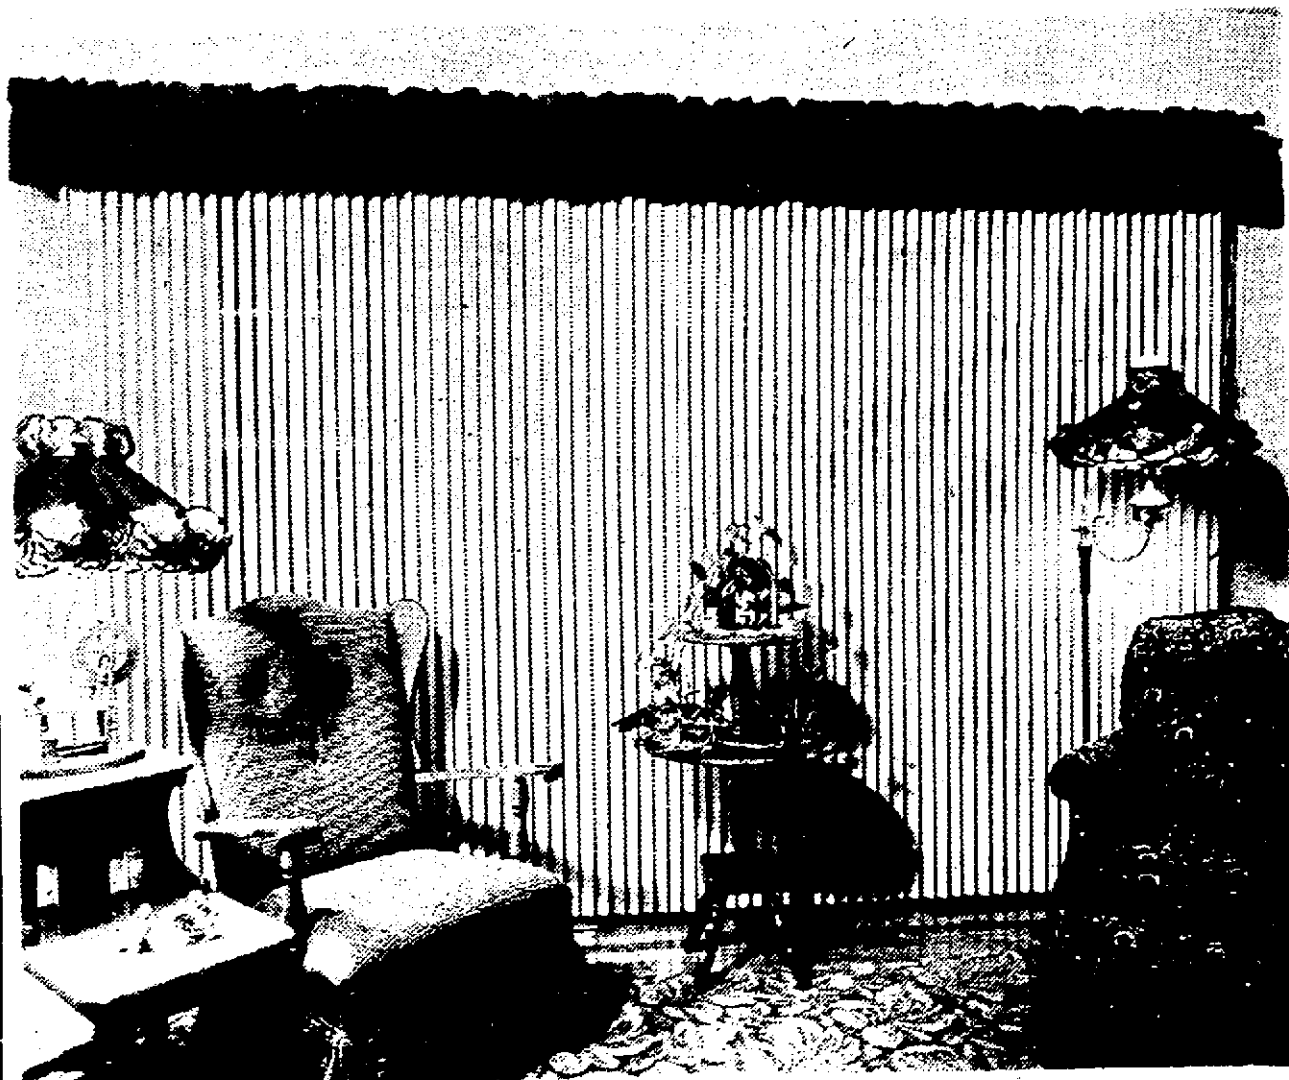

Exterior finish in driftwood style and cocoa-colored stucco is pleasing at the home of Mrs. Helen Ringler.

Mrs. Ringler's daughter enjoys the luxury of a view window surveying a wide expanse of the rolling sea.

GOLF SPUNK

Campbell, at 86, has been golfing for 56 years and still delights at a par hole.

"You can tell everyone that we love it here in Long Beach and plan to be here every year," said Leipsic.

"We've played the best courses in Florida and Texas, but none have finer greens than they do here at Recreation Park."

"How do their wives feel being daily golf widows?"

"I think they are secretly glad to get rid of us," Hyde said. "They like sitting around the hotel (the Villa Riviera)."

To the question if they showed any aches or pains from their daily golfing, Dr. Gage replied, "they brought me along to take care of them, and I'm happy to say I haven't done a moment's work. Too busy playing golf, anyhow."

"Why, son, I would have died 30 years ago if it weren't for golf," Hyde concluded.

This is a good example of a human interest snapshot with universal appeal. In fact, it won a top prize in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards contest.

CAMERA ANGLE

Snaps that 'Catch On'

By the Shutterbug

HAVE YOU EVER noticed how often newspapers use pictures that aren't connected with any important news development and are not of local origin? Chances are these are pictures that immediately catch the eye, and perhaps cause you to smile to yourself, or murmur, "Isn't that cute?"

Probably there are people or animals involved — people and pets you don't know, will never see. Yet you like the picture because of the situation, because it has what the editors would term "human interest."

What has this to do with your snapshotting? Well, you can use these pictures to help make yours even more interesting. If they are set up in such a way that they have universal appeal, that the picture is of interest to people thousands of miles away, couldn't you profit from them in making pictures of subjects that in themselves could make almost any type of snapshots satisfactory to you?

Most of the newspapers' "human interest" pictures involve people. This isn't surprising, since people are one of the most popular amateur photographic subjects. But these aren't just pictures of people — they are pictures of people who are doing something.

If these people were simply standing staring into a camera, the paper wouldn't use the picture in the first place, and if they did, you wouldn't stop to look at it. Usually, the activity in which they are engaged is the key to the interest of the picture. It is the factor that makes it appealing.

Keep this in mind in snapping pictures of your favorite people. It'll make a picture you'd enjoy in any case even more enjoyable.

LONG BEACH CAMERA GUILD will have a black and white print competition at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. Winners of the last color slide competition were Bill Jordan.

March Pulls Sag Out of Nation Trade

NEW YORK—(AP). The nation's business had more zing in March than in January and February. But it was off from March, 1953.

That was the pattern which emerged Saturday from an Associated Press survey of economic trends in 51 major U. S. cities.

The aim of the survey was to size up general business conditions at the grass roots—in the month President Eisenhower said would be a crucial one for employment.

This was the broad view: Unemployment leveling off. Automobile sales up sharply, but inventories still high.

Retail trade picking up more slowly than a year ago, partly because of the late Easter.

BOOM IN HOMES
A developing boom in construction of homes, factories, schools, toll roads, office buildings, utilities and churches.

A pronounced sag in steel production.

By itself, March improvement was nothing to shout about. A March pickup is normal and seasonal for many lines. This year, however, there had been indications that the tempo of business activity might run counter to the established trend. It may have been significant that this did not happen.

The survey covered manufacturers, farmers, auto dealers, labor union chiefs, chamber of commerce officials, Federal Reserve statisticians, merchants, railroad men and bankers—a cross-section of American businessmen from Main St. to Wall St.

Most were cautiously optimistic.

UNEMPLOYMENT
The payoff statistics were those on unemployment. They failed to show any substantial rise.

In many areas the unemployment curve definitely was downward: fewer new and continued claims for unemployment compensation; fewer overall unemployment totals; more people at work. Of the 51 areas surveyed, concrete figures on March employment were obtained from 45. Of these, 24 indicated a decline in joblessness during March and four said conditions at least were not any worse.

Seventeen showed an increase. The rise was most pronounced in the great steel and coal centers. March unemployment in West Virginia industries amounted to 10 per cent of the working force; state officials called the March load of unemployment compensation claims the heaviest in five years. Unemployment claims in Illinois were more than twice the year-ago total; in Indiana the number rose above 85,000 in March as compared to 83,791 in February and only 17,454 a year earlier.

Ohio registered a sharp upswing; March unemployment in Pennsylvania was up 126 per cent from 1953. In each instance the rise coincided with a drop in steel production—down in March to the lowest level in four years.

In Washington the Census Bureau reported an increase of 54,000 in unemployment across the nation to a four-year high of 3,725,000. The increase was the smallest in six months, and officials said the number of jobless was "leveling off." The March figure was the highest since the 4,123,000 in March, 1950.

RETAIL BUSINESS
Retail business picked up in March, but not as much as many merchants would have liked. And, they said, it wasn't only because of the delayed Easter shopping season (Easter falls on April 18; last year it was April 5).

January and February were "awful," said a spokesman for a big New York department

AIN'T 'MISS UGH' LOVELY?

Newest candidate for honors in the Miss Universe and Miss America competitions is the beauty on the right, but frankly she hasn't got a chance. store, "and if it hadn't been for our big sale, March would have been lousy, too. You've got to be fiercely promotional to come anywhere near equaling last year's volume."

A spot check of nation-wide retail trends showed cities with higher volume in March outnumbing cities where trade was down by nearly 20 to one. The February-to-March gains, to be sure, were mostly unimpressive, and in a great many instances department store volume was down substantially from the stratospheric levels of March, 1953. But, said many merchants, there was no comparison at all with the depressed conditions of 1949 and early 1950.

Appliance sales marked time in March—too many people were waiting for excise tax reductions—but smaller housewares sold briskly and scattered cities reported good demand for room air-conditioning units, in the North as well as the South. Furniture was in a slump; smaller, low-priced TV sets did well, especially in areas newly opened to television where they stole the play from other categories of merchandise. Sales of shoes and apparel were somewhat below expectations; merchants figured Easter shoppers were waiting until April.

Retailers, pondering a mid-March commerce department report on curtailed consumer buying plans, leaned heavily on such traffic-boosting devices as price-cutting and store-wide promotions.

AUTO SALES
New car sales rose sharply in March in all except a handful of reporting cities, but in most instances they were down from a year ago. Even where unit sales were the same as last year, profits were off sharply because of "deals" calling for fat allowances for used cars taken in trade.

The president of New York Automobile Merchants Assn. estimated that more new cars were sold in the big town last month than in March, 1953, albeit at lower net cost to the buyers. But the inventory squeeze continued. Los Angeles reported auto dealer mortality at its highest point since World War II, with three of the city's

Polio Vaccine Development Watched by Therapists

Physical therapists, as well as doctors, nurses and the general public, are watching with intense interest the success of the new polio vaccine, says Marjorie Hyer, representative of the American Physical Therapy Association, with headquarters in New York.

Miss Hyer was in Long Beach last week conferring with Mrs. Gladys B. Neff, superintendent of Tichenor Orthopedic Clinic, and Mrs. Dorothy Anderson, program and entertainment chairman, respectively, for the therapy association's annual conference June 27-July 3 in Los Angeles.

Neuro-physiology will be the conference theme with emphasis on the aid physical therapists can give victims of strokes, cerebral palsy, polio, brain injury and the like, according to Miss Hyer. Between 800 and 1000 physical therapists from most states of the Union, plus Hawaii, Puerto Rico and foreign countries will attend.

After laboratory tests the polio vaccine was tried out on the staff of the D. T. Watson Home for Crippled Children in Pittsburgh, and then on Pittsburgh school children, according to Miss Hyer, who terms the results "successful—with no bad after effects."

$18 Million More Due for State Jobless

SACRAMENTO—(AP). The State Employment Department predicted Saturday that 510,000 Californians will pocket an additional $18 million dollars through legislative passage of an increase in unemployment insurance benefits.

About 70 per cent of those receiving jobless benefits, the department said, will receive the full $5 increase to $30 a week. The other unemployed, who don't qualify for the top amount because of lower earnings, will gain from $1 to $4. The increase when signed by Gov. Knight will become effective July 1. Knight hasn't signed yet, but said Friday he will.

The department said the new bill means that those claimants receiving the maximum weekly benefit can draw about $130 a month and up to $780 during their maximum 26-week benefit period.

Employment Director William A. Burkett told a reporter he has not yet made any recommendation about signing the bill to Knight, and won't until an actuarial study is completed early next week. But Burkett said, "There isn't a chance in a million that anything is wrong with the bill."

Gov. Knight asked the Legislature for the increase.

Law for Senior Citizens Topic
Elsworth M. Beam, local attorney, will speak on "Law for Senior Citizens" in the final Senior Citizens Forum lecture at 2 p. m. Tuesday in Dewey auditorium, Eighth and Locust.

Topics to be covered include joint tenancy; property laws, wills and general probate procedure. The lecture, sponsored by the School for Adults, is open to the public without charge.

Jobs for Handicapped Subject of Speaker

F. V. Cowing, vice president of the Repeal Brass Manufacturing Co., Los Angeles, will be guest speaker of the Long Beach Chapter of the International Council for Exceptional Children Thursday at 7:45 p. m. at Burroughs Elementary School.

He will speak on "Placement of the Handicapped in Industry." The Repeal Co. makes a policy of hiring all types of handicapped in every possible capacity.

Governor Warned of Trouble for Queen

KAMPALA, Uganda—(AP). A letter to Gov. Sir Andrew Cohen, signed by "Bakopi (peasants) of Buganda," says Cohen will be responsible for any harm befalling Queen Elizabeth II on her visit to this British East African protectorate April 28.

"There is bad feeling here—there is plenty of hatred itself," the letter said. "There is sure to be disturbances during the visit."

The exile of Buganda's King Mutesa II is the chief sore point.

FURLOUGH DEN

Book Pushes Wheelchairs

When Al Young gave a wheel chair to Mrs. Shirley Trimmer, 1245 Washington St., at the Masonic luncheon last week for her invalid son, David, 7, it marked the 33rd wheel chair presented from receipts of Young's book, "Furlough Den." He also gave $500 from book receipts to the Indoor Sports for their building fund.

During World War II, Young, who then was a North Long Beach real estate man, fitted up a den in the rear of his office, and "Furlough Den" was occupied free by 51 service couples.

Mr. and Mrs. Young, who now live at 6206 1/2 Leland Way, Hollywood, traveled a total of 40,000 miles after the war visiting the couples.

Young wrote the book on the den and its young occupants, dedicating all proceeds to the crippled and blind.

'NICK' NICKED

Three Beat, Rob Wrong (?) Man

"Are you Nick?" Melvin E. Beachler, 21, glanced around in front of his home, 1636 W. 19th St., late Friday night to reply and was attacked by three men, he told police.

Beachler was knocked down, beaten, about the head with fists and stomped upon. During the melee, one of the attackers grabbed the victim's wallet, containing $65, out of his pocket.

The three then fled in a car. The men were in their early 20s and each weighed about 185 pounds, Beachler told police. They spoke in Spanish to each other, he said.

Twenty-one-year-old Joyce Neiderberger Saturday was leading in the second straight week in the contest for queen of the Pan-American Festival and Fair in Lakewood Apr. 28-May 2. Standings were listed in a report on ticket sales at a meeting in Lakewood Country Club.

Pat Allen was in second place with Betty Downey, Darlene Hendricks and Jane Edwards following in that order.

'I Bilked Bank for Diner'

NEW YORK—(AP). A pleasant-faced bank teller told the FBI Saturday she pigeonholed $40,000 in bad checks because she didn't want to embarrass persons who wrote them.

In addition, the FBI said, Mrs. Helen De Berto, 41, admitted taking $22,000 to pay expenses of an unprofitable diner operated by her husband.

Those disclosures rocked the little city of Wappingers Falls, N. Y., where Mrs. De Berto was born, raised and worked for 21 years.

Since she was 20 she had been bookkeeper and teller at the National Bank of Wappingers Falls.

Last Monday the bank fired Mrs. De Berto and reported its suspicions to police. Since the Federal Reserve Act was involved, the FBI stepped in. Saturday the agency said Mrs. De Berto broke down.

Little Talent Eyeful Likes to Look Awful

Most girls, especially if they are pretty to start with, want to appear to advantage on a stage. They want modish clothes, a becoming hair-do.

But Diane Guidry, 15, will sacrifice appearance for effect any day. She does good hula numbers, she plays an accordion well, but she is at her best in pantomime. And pantomimes that send her audiences into stitches are those that make her look awful.

For instance, Diane does that "Hooray!" number of a demented woman watching out for "the man in the little white coat." For it she wears a birdcage hat, a too-short dress, long soiled gloves, stocking with runs and shoes that collapse and trip her.

And she does "A Day at the Races" in mannish attire with broad clothed shoes.

Diane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Guidry, 2226 Spaulding St., was born in San Diego and reared in Long Beach. She is a sophomore at Wilson High School, and is 5 feet, 5 inches, with black hair and dark eyes.

She recently won a watch on the TV "Make Believe Stars" program and a corn-coppper on the Gene Norman show. She won a trophy for appearing in 80 shows of various kinds last year.

IN Military SERVICE AIR LAND SEA

Capt. Thomas V. Mistrretta, adjutant of the 77th Air Depot Wing (Reserve), was awarded the Commendation Medal at a formal review at Long Beach Municipal Airport. Capt. Mistrretta, 3523 Cedar St., Lynwood, is active in the Air Force Reserve program in this area.

AS FAR AS Mrs. Henry Dyer is concerned, the twin sons born to her at Seaside Hospital during a sizable shake not long after the earthquake of March 10, 1933, are about the same after a year in Korea.

CAPT. THOMAS MISTRRETTA Reservist Honored

The "earthquake twins," Dean and Gene, are recent graduates of an Army noncommissioned officers school in Korea. Gene entered the school a week ahead of Dean. During this week the mother got letters from the now 180-pound, 6-foot redheads telling how lonesome they were separated from each other.

This, Mrs. Dyer said, is a pattern noted during the twins' attendance at Roosevelt School, Lindbergh Junior High, Jordan High and in the Army. You just can't keep them apart.

Roller Festival Dates Are Set

One hundred young roller skaters, aged 6 to 22, are brushing up on their techniques for the fourth annual Roller Festival at 8 p. m. April 25, 26 and 27 at the Long Beach Skating Palace, Third St. and Alamitos Ave.

New York will be the theme of this year's show, directed by Milton and Joanne May, the first half given over to daytime street scenes and the second half to night scenes. Chorus numbers and singles, pairs and fours in free-style skating will be offered.

Proceeds will be added to the fund to enter skaters in state, regional and national competitions, according to Mrs. Eileen Blyeth, 2464 Chestnut Ave., press chairman.

More Benefits Asked for Ute Campaign Vets

By WESLEY PEYTON
(Independent Press-Telegram Washington Bureau)

WASHINGTON. — The eight surviving veterans of the Ute Campaign, a part of the Indian wars in North Dakota in 1906, will obtain larger veterans benefits if Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) has his way.

Hosmer urged the House Veterans Affairs Committee to approve his bill giving the campaign official war status, and thereby qualify its survivors for slightly larger pensions.

Considering the small number of individuals involved, the Long Beach Congressman pointed out, the cost to the government would be exceedingly small. He called the Ute campaign "gruelling and dangerous" and said it was an historical extension of the Indian wars that raged "from the time the first settlers landed on Plymouth Rock."

Hosmer's bill was introduced at the behest of Harry L. Suder of Long Beach, national commander of the United Indian War Veterans.

The committee deferred action on the bill.

Hosmer also urged the committee to look with favor on legislation designed to make German and Japanese widows of American service personnel eligible for survivor benefits paid by the Veterans Administration.

Such payment to widows living in Germany and Japan is precluded because those countries are former enemy powers.

Hosmer pointed out pensions and the like would not be paid in U. S. dollars but in "equivalent local currency." A similar bill was introduced at the last session of Congress with State Department approval but was killed because of technical objections from the VA.

How To - Apply Quick Wood Finish

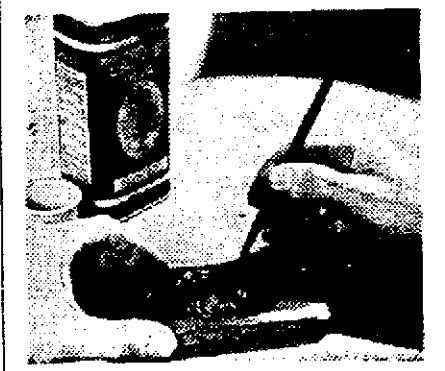

NOTHING SPOILS THE APPEARANCE of anything made of wood so thoroughly as a poor finish. Yet there is little excuse for a shoddy complexion on wood. With modern materials and reasonable care, even the unhandy man can do a good finishing job.

Actually, some of the most pleasing and durable of finishes are the easiest and quickest to produce. Four quick finishes are pictured. Before a satisfying finish can be applied, the wood must be properly prepared. Here are four preparation points to remember:

1. When you finish, strip off all traces of old finish with paint remover. Fine steel wool is helpful. If your remover contains wax, wash the residue away carefully with turpentine.
2. Use fine sandpaper to make the surface glass-smooth, then, wipe away all traces of dust with a turpentine-moistened cloth.
3. If you want to change the wood's color, brush or wipe on a suitable wood stain.
4. If the wood is open-grained like oak, walnut, mahogany or chestnut, and you want a very smooth surface, fill the grain with a paste filler of the desired color. Good trick: Spread the filler across the grain with a cardboard wiper. When the filler loses its gloss, wipe off the excess with burlap and sand lightly.

With these preparations complete, here are some quick finishes for you to consider.

WAX ALONE, or wax over a thin coat of shellac, gives a durable finish, easy to create and maintain. Spread wax evenly with a damp cloth. If wood is open-grained and not filled, use a staining-wax alone—it will give an excellent appearance. Polish dry wax thoroughly; soft brush makes a good tool for this. Finish with a soft cloth for maximum sheen. Apply at least two coats of wax, polishing each. Neutral-colored wax can, of course, be used over other finishes.

OPEN-GRAINED WOODS like oak, chestnut, walnut, or mahogany can be finished strikingly by filling grain with colored pigment. In picture, white enamel is being applied; oil paint or white paste filler may be used. Force pigment in with cardboard wiper. Stain may be applied first. Blend pigment on surface to uniform tone by rubbing with cloth. If you like, you can remove practically all pigment; cloth moistened with turpentine speeds removal. After blending, let pigment dry a day or two, then finish with white shellac and wax. A stain-wax does same job.

OIL POLISHING gives you a beautiful finish, especially on hardwoods. You simply brush on boiled linseed oil, let it soak in, then polish with a soft cloth. This is repeated at weekly intervals until a true oil polish results. A short cut that gives almost equal results is this: Apply oil liberally; warmed oil penetrates better. Wipe off excess oil, and let dry for several days. Then apply a thin coat of shellac and two of wax.

Try Gardening with Rocks

By Eleanor Avery Price

BREATHES there a vacation-er who can resist lugging home rocks he has found on his summer excursions? Rocks always appear so fascinating in the damp river bed or along the perpetually misted shore, but what to do with them once you have them home may pose quite a problem.

Fortunately, rocks can be utilized in many ways in the garden. Just a little experimenting and arranging is required to get excellent results. Rocks are casual subjects and usually look best when naturalized.

Rocks make good defining lines and are good to border paths or driveways. They prevent gravel from scattering where it doesn't belong. Low rocks are best along a driveway so there will be no danger of scraped fenders. Smooth rocks are preferred along paths where children run or ride their tricycles.

A garden pool practically cries out for the addition of rock trimming. They can be used solely to line the pool or may be used directly in the pool as well. Either way, it is best to place some of the rocks so they will appear to have tumbled there from an ancient earth upheaval.

If you are a tropical plant enthusiast, a supply of rocks will give you a field day of fun, for both rocks and tropical plants are ages old and simply belong together. You can scatter rocks freely among your plants or place them casually in front.

IF BULB gardening is on your agenda this fall, rocks will fit in nicely, for bulbs look well when naturalized, just as rocks do. Rocks will help hold moisture and keep down weeds. Of course, follow bulb planting instructions carefully.

Should you be of an artistic temperament, you may be able to create real works of beauty in or near the garden. You might, for example, use small rocks and a bit of cement to make a permanent mat before a door leading out to the garden — a mat that the puppy cannot possibly drag off and chew to a pulp. A strong hosing will keep such a mat clean even though you use it to scrape mud from your feet after gardening.

Never forget the limitless possibilities of using the rocks you bring home for the problem slope. Once you become interested in rock gardening you will have a life-long hobby if you so choose. Try to keep the rock garden simple, however, and in harmony with the rest of the landscape.

If you want a really lovely rock garden, prepare the ground before you place the stones. Then work upward from the lower level. Keep rocks and stratified material (which you may have to buy) running in the same direction and tilted slightly backward so they will seem connected with the bed-rock below. Firm earth around most of the rocks.

There are numerous rock garden plants for both shaded and sunny environments. Your nurseryman can offer valuable advice here. A few good plants to remember include evergreen drouth - resisting Erigeron mucronatus, storks' bill (Erodium chamaedroides), prostrate Rosmarinus officinalis, Helianthemum, numerous succulents and cacti. Arabis aubrieta, Saponaria ocyroides, ajuga and dwarf primroses grow nicely in shaded places.

Roz Quits 'Wonderful Town' to Accept Hollywood Offer

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK — (AP). They're good friends, but right now Carol Channing is trying to forget all about Rosalind Russell. That is because raven-haired Roz tonight wound up a fabulous year on Broadway in "Wonderful Town" and red-haired (for the moment) Carol steps into the hit musical's starring role come Monday.

"Nobody could imitate her and I don't want anybody saying that I'm trying," explains Miss Channing.

It will be an interesting switch, for sleek Roz, a red-eyed Carol are different types of performer.

Soon after the show opening—and long before she knew she'd be the replacement—Carol saw the show. Ever since the producers signed her up, she's religiously stayed away.

Her main concern, Carol avers, is "everybody keeps saying 'you'll be wonderful in it.' And I say, 'why?'"

The way she figures it, the "key" of the whole part is the Concha line that engulfs serious Ruth Sherwood midway through the show. Almost overwhelmed with advice, Carol is concentrating on developing the right "attitude" toward that dance.

ROSALIND RUSSELL
Good-bye Broadway for Now

Miss Channing is best known around the land for portraying wide-eyed Lorelei in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Now her hair, which once completely fell out during the "Blondes" run because of so much bleaching, has been tinted titan so she can be properly dignified, and Carol's happy.

"Henna is healthful for the hair, like Fuller's Earth for dogs," she volunteered, not too clearly. "Already I noticed how different people treat me when I was a blond. They speak to me as though they felt that maybe I do have brains."

Miss Channing, a large girl from Seattle, then hustled off from the interview to another rehearsal.

Miss Russell, also a big girl, was getting ready to be tearful about leaving the show.

"I can feel all the Irish in me getting ready to bawl," she said. Since opening Feb. 25, 1953, Rosalind has played 548 performances without a miss.

Through tonight, Pretty good, considering that she came east to turn the part down.

Miss Russell leaves "Wonderful Town" to return to Hollywood to make a film "The Girl Rush"—all about the old west vs. 1954 wild life in Las Vegas.

It will be produced by Miss Russell and her husband, Frederick Brisson.

Her ties to Broadway won't completely cease, however. Brisson is also producing a new musical, "The Pajama Game," due here in May, and Rosalind herself has some thousands invested in several other Rialto-bound shows.

After the movie, Rosalind hopes they'll be able to go off on "the first real vacation I've ever had." It will hardly be restful, for Roz' idea of relaxing is lots of skiing.

SEEING AROUND HOLLYWOOD

Judy Garland Climbs Ladder of Hit Songs

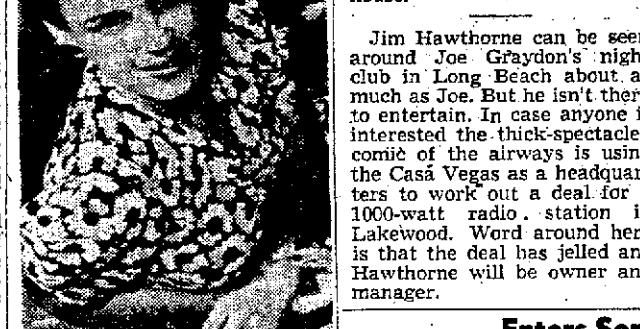

By KAY SEE

HOLLYWOOD—Move over you songs on the Hit Parade, here comes "The Man That Got Away." Offhand it doesn't sound like much of a name for a hit tune. But if past performances mean anything, it is going to climb. We are judging from Judy Garland's career.

Every milestone in her career has been marked by a song hit. She was unknown until in "Wizard of Oz" she sang "Over the Rainbow" and both she and the song came forward. Of late things slowed down. It was at Ethel Barrymore's 70th birthday party when Director George Cukor heard Judy's "Happy Birthday to You" that another milestone was reached.

Other tidbits of news of the theater world in Long Beach includes how the Egyptian Theater on last Tuesday night, even with it raining, had to close down the box office because of a complete sell out. Even for the last show, so popular is "Stalag 17." Manager Harry Bushmaier will bring in "Julius Caesar" next, about April 21. The Egyptian is installing a Panoram screen.

Joe R. Lewis, assistant manager of the Long Beach United Artists Theater has been elevated to the management of the company's Glendale house.

JUDY GARLAND
Sings Her Way Up Ladder

He decided to try her in a screen drama. So after four years, away from films, here comes Judy in "A Star Is Born."

"The Man That Got Away" is charged with dramatic emotion and cast members say it is a sure thing for the Hit Parade.

We've just hit a few of the high lights how songs have sent Judy to stardom. We might mention that it was "Jingle Bells" which gave her a start. She muscled in on her sister's vaudeville act one Christmas.

"Sing Went My Heart" in one of her first movies, "Listen, Darling," really sent Judy's stock upward and brought a good new contract. "Trolley Song" from "Meet Me in St. Louis" kept her solidly at the box office top. She toured military camps in World War II and her "For Me and My Gal" was solid.

In this new film Judy has several songs written just for her by Ira Gershwin and Harold Arlen. They include "Here's What I'm Here For," "Gotta Have Me Go With You" and "It's a New World." But watch "The Man That Got Away."

Paul Caylor, who has been manager of the Santa Fe and the Ebell Theaters with the Cabaret Theater chain in Long Beach is the new manager of the State Theater there. Don Dixon, who has been with Fox and Milt Arthur's Cabaret group since 1930, reportedly is entering business for himself. Don has a host of friends in the theater world.

Local Dancer Now in Miami

Philip Cook, 253 E. Plymouth St., graduate of Jordan High School and Pasadena Playhouse, opened April 1 in the Saxony Hotel, Miami, Fla., dancing with Diosa Costello in the troupe billed as Diosa Costello and Her Cabelleros.

Cook toured in "Oklahoma" as an understudy to Will Parker, and danced the role of "Curly" in the ballet.

He participated in the 1951 reopening at the Broadway Theater in New York and in Oct. 1951 was sent by the State Department to Berlin for the Berlin Cultural Art Festival, then returned for the U.S.A. tour. He also was assistant stage manager for "Oklahoma" in the summer of 1952.

He toured New England in "Kiss Me, Kate," playing the Bill Calhoun (Lucentio) role for 11 weeks. He danced on the Toast of the Town in New York. Last summer he spent 13 weeks playing Wiley in "Mr. Roberts" in the Houston, Tex. Playhouse and was lead dancer in a new musical, "Walk Tall."

Eaters Senate Race

DENVER—(AP). Former Democratic Rep. John A. Carroll of Denver announced his candidacy Saturday for the U. S. Senate.

WIN TALENT SHOW

Long Beach's contribution to future theatrical greats could be the dancing Voltmer brothers of 3254 Gale Avenue, who have won the quarterly finals of Chef Milani's "Talent Parade" and will appear as paid performers on the Chef's KCOB, Channel 13, show at 3 each day this week. Left to right are Richard, 14, Chef Milani, and Danny, 13. They won over 100 contestants.

Kilts Are Gay, but Life Drab in Scotland, Minister Learns

By ELISE EMERY
Independent Church Editor

The skirl of bagpipes, the gray flash of bright plaid kilts, gray stone churches built for generations of worshippers, strict headmasters and warm-hearted friends—these form a kaleidoscope of impressions for Dr. Grover C. Bagby, his wife, Dorothy, and their three children, who Wednesday returned from a six-month stay in Scotland.

"But jokes about Scotch thrift will never again seem funny to us," said vivacious Mrs. Bagby. "We saw the privations the people live under and know how meager their material lives are."

Dr. Bagby, pastor of Belmont Heights Methodist Church, his wife and Susy, 6; Lewis, 9, and Grover, 11, sailed for Scotland last September. He had a traveling fellowship from Drew University, augmented by a gift of $1900 from his congregation. At the University of Edinburgh he studied under the eminent Dr. John Baillie, dean of the School of Theology.

KILTS IN KIRK

"Every Scotsman who can afford it proudly wears a kilt of marvelous wool in the colors of his clan," Mrs. Bagby noted. "Kilts are worn for the most formal occasions and to church. Lewis longed for one, but they are quite expensive—$15 for a child—and I knew a 9-year-old boy would never wear one in Long Beach!"

Housekeeping in a furnished flat, the Bagbys learned about the repetitious meals of fish and chips, sausage, and vegetables of the cabbage family.

"Other foods are available, but are just too expensive," the minister's wife said. "Once when I bought a whole bunch of bananas, everyone in the market turned around to see who could afford to buy more than a couple."

Because of overcrowded schools, the three little Bagbys had to enroll in separate schools. They met head-on the problem of discipline when they heard the first thwack of a strapping—a routine punishment.

With only praise for the headmaster and teachers, the parents nevertheless admit that the rigid standards of conduct and study came as a shock to the youngsters.

"But they made the adjustment and are the better for it," they add, noting that the children made splendid academic progress.

LOW WAGES

While Dr. Bagby studied theology and the philosophy of mathematics, the family found time to explore Edinburgh by bus. Service is excellent and fares are a cent-and-a-half for children and two to five cents for adults.

"But the wages are low and prices are not low enough to permit a high standard of living," A laborer makes about seven pounds a week—equivalent to $20."

The Presbyterian Church is the state religion and, as Methodists, the family belong to the non-conformists.

"It was strange to be part of a minority group. In America, Methodists predominate, but there Methodism is a minor force and adherents are referred to as chapel-goers."

Though generally welcoming Americans, some Scots resent the inevitable social problems arising from the presence of our military personnel. Others mistrust our politics, fearing American

Fairchild Co. Buys Helicopter Factory

MANHATTAN BEACH—Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp. formed its first division west of the Mississippi when it acquired the American Helicopter Co. properties here.

The new division will include plants at Costa Mesa, Calif., and Mesa, Ariz.

Richard S. Boutelle, Fairchild president, said Saturday the new division would concentrate on development of rotary wing aircraft for the military.

The Costa Mesa plant, formerly Plastics Research, an American Helicopter subsidiary, is equipped for experimental and production work in the fields of fiberglass-reinforced plastics and metal honeycomb structures.

Power plant whirl testing activities are a function of the Mesa, Ariz., plant at Falcon Field east of Phoenix.

American Helicopter was incorporated in 1947 by C. D. Denney, who served as president and general manager. The company pioneered in pulse-jet craft, developing the KA-5 Top Sergeant, the XA-6 Buck Private and the XH-26 Jet Jeep.

The Jet Jeep is a collapsible, single-place helicopter which can be delivered by parachute and assembled for flight by two men in less than 20 minutes.

diplomacy will bungle the cold war.

"McCarthy makes news in Scotland. In fact, he is one of the main staples of British headlines. He arouses violent opposition and the feeling is that he has the wrong approach to ousting Communists."

"In Scotland, Communism is recognized as a political organization, and party members are allowed to circulate freely, but are closely watched. At the first sign of conspiracy the government clamps down on them," notes the pastor.

Taking up his duties again at the Long Beach church, where he will preach this morning, Dr. Bagby said:

"I hope to bring to my work a little broader view of life and to see my country from a wider vantage point after having lived in a country with a different social, political and religious background."

I'LL SAVE YOU MONEY AND GIVE YOU ALL THE CREDIT YOU NEED AT THE SAME TIME

You cannot afford to take chances with your health at anytime by putting off needed dentistry

April 4, 1954—
You can save on all dental plates and at the same time know that your work will be the very best. Dr. Beauchamp and his large staff can render "While it's true my tremendous volume is due largely to my low price policy," Dr. Beauchamp says, "I also attribute a great deal of this volume to my pay later credit plan that makes it easy for everyone to get all their dental work attended to when they need it. Regardless of how little you pay," Dr. Beauchamp continues, "I'll always give you the best work it is within my ability to render. I point with pride to the fact that most of my patients come to me recommended by others previously served in my offices, so I can honestly say, 'You don't have to fear my low prices.'"

NO NEED TO DELAY

"In my offices your dental needs come first, that is why I make my credit so easy, friendly and inviting to you. My prices are kept low by a large volume and I would like to point out that most of my patients come to me through the recommendation of former patients (about 3 out of every 4.)"

"Closing of Bite" Dangerous

Dr. Beauchamp wishes to point out the dental plate policy in all of his offices including adjustments of your dentures at any time, checking your bite and the fit so as not to impair your health by improper fitting dentures. Sometimes your bite can change through the constant wear and grinding of teeth thus causing pressure that may impair your hearing. This dentists call "closing the bite." For your own good health this condition should be carefully watched. Dr. Beauchamp points out.

Dr. Beauchamp Advises Yearly Check-up for Plate Wearers

"In many cases after dental plates have been worn for a period of time," Dr. Beauchamp said, "the gum tissues change, causing loose plates and an incorrect bite."

"This," Dr. Beauchamp stated "can be a very serious problem because if you damage your gums and ridges it might be extremely difficult to get a proper fit. If you are faced with this problem see your dentist. It takes only a few minutes of your time for an examination. Go into any of my offices and have this attended to immediately. I'll be happy to serve you."

DR. BEAUCHAMP WELCOMES YOUR CREDIT ACCOUNT

I gladly invite pensioners, retired persons and others with limited, fixed incomes to avail themselves of this long term credit offer.

1 DAY PLATE SERVICE

When no extractions are necessary, your impressions may be taken and your dental plates delivered to you the SAME DAY—provided you come to the office before 10 A. M. any day except Saturday. This service is SPECIALLY intended for out-of-town patients and those anxious to save valuable time.

Let Beauty Bloom Under Water

Underwater bouquets provide an interesting method of displaying flowers. Decorations last longer this way.

By John Ronson

DISPLAYING cut flowers by submerging them in a glass bowl filled with water is a most interesting way of decorating your home with garden blooms. The water acts as a magnifying glass and small flowers seem to increase in size and beauty. The flowers may last for a week or longer, during this entire period retaining their color and brilliance.

Display sets for those submerged garden effects are available at florist shops and garden supply stores. The glass containers can be obtained in several different sizes. The set includes, besides the glass bowl, a pin holder, cap and a small package of material useful in keeping the flowers and water fresh.

The flower stems should be cut short and placed firmly on the pin holder, often called a frog in floral arrangements. The glass bowl should be turned upside down and held under a cold water faucet. Fill to the brim to prevent formation of air bubbles inside the container. The bowl must be kept absolutely level when filling it with water; rest it on a surface if your hands are not steady.

Great care must be exercised in fitting the flowers into the bowl. Turn the pin holder upside down and, cupping your hand around the flowers, insert the pin holder inside the bowl. Then fit the cap on the rim of the glass globe and turn it right side up.

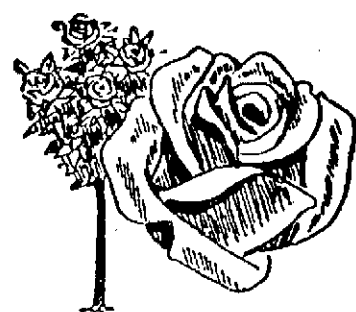

If the flowers come from your garden pick them early in the morning. At that time the cells are swollen with moisture and the flowers suffer less of a shock. Cut the stems on an angle, rather than straight across. Then place the blooms in a bucket filled with cold water to a point just below the buds. Allow them to rest for several hours before the final arrangement.

INDIVIDUAL FLORAL arrangements should be kept as simple as possible. The display should be kept low as long stemmed flowers seem to lack in design when used for this purpose. A single rose with an extremely short stem is ideal for submerged floral effects.

It is also advisable to clean thoroughly the glass bowl before placing the flower in position. After the cap has been attached make certain that the rim fits tightly to prevent seepage. Every time a new flower is arranged, the purifying powder should be added. This not only aids in keeping the water fresh but also increases the flower's longevity.

Just before placing the flower in the bowl hold the stem section under water and cut off part of it. This makes it impossible for air bubbles to move up through the stem, a condition which retards the flow of water. Air bubbles thus act as a barrier to the necessary movement of water from the stem to the flower head.

Twice as much
Growth Value in Every Red Star Bag!

Like fruit, manure should be ripe before use, says famed garden consultant Joe Littlefield. It must become humus before plants fully benefit. And it becomes humus only when well rotted.

AGED FOR MONTHS, Red Star Steer Manure already is well rotted when you get it. During the long aging process, it is constantly compressed and becomes more and more concentrated. You get two, three or even four times the humus value that you do in a bag of "green" manure which has had little or no aging. Just notice how much lighter such a bag of green manure feels. Right there in your hands is proof of Red Star's higher quality and greater value.

FREE FROM WEED SEED, too, because Red Star Steer is obtained only from concrete-floored feeding pens, where steers have no opportunity to eat weeds. Special processing while it ages makes freedom from weed seed doubly sure. Then it is thoroughly screened and bagged.

WISE GARDENERS USE PLENTY of well-rotted manure; they know humus is essential for proper plant growth. With Red Star Aged Steer, you get more humus for your money and do more good for your garden. So, at your nursery or garden supply dealer's, insist on Red Star.

Watch "Garden Chats with Joe Littlefield" Sundays, 12:30 p.m., KTTV, Channel 11. And get your 82-page Red Star Pocket Garden Guide, free at Red Star dealers.

Soil Conditioning Pays Dividends

By Bob Gilmore

SOIL CONDITIONING is one of the most important steps concerned with growing a plant. Yet even today it is one of the most widely misunderstood terms among both professional and amateur gardeners. The confusion is due to the erroneous belief that a soil conditioner is a fertilizer or a plant food. This is definitely not the case.

A soil conditioner is used to improve the mechanical or physical properties of a particular soil. But unless the structure of the soil is encouraging to plant growth, successive applications of plant food may prove a waste of both time and money.

The soil itself is not a continuous stratum. It is made up of individual particles varying in size from microscopic aggregates to huge boulders. In your garden, for example, the sand may have a diameter of from one to one-half millimeter while the clay particles may measure just about 1/200 of a millimeter. They are so tiny you can not see them with the naked eye.

THE IDEAL SOIL is one that has adequate porosity, proper aeration, satisfactory moisture retention and good drainage. Heavy soils are usually lacking in a number or even all of these factors. Plants find it difficult to grow in them. These soils pack down hard; they form a crust on the surface; they turn dusty when it's dry and soggy

Organic humus is good in heavy and sandy soil. Chemicals work best in heavy soil, last longer.

Shotgun Strip Visioned as Child's Wonderland

Green Paradise Planned in Park on Carson Blvd.

By GEORGE WEEKS

An elongated strip of little-used land bearing the unlovely title of the 'Shotgun Strip' will be transformed, section by section, into a garden paradise and a children's wonderland, if the city carries through on recommendations of its park consultant, F. Ellwood Allen.

This is Heartwell Park, whose multi-use development is one of the major projects proposed by Allen in a 125-page report submitted to the City Council and the public last week.

It is a strip 660 feet wide between Carson and Parkcrest Sts. and approximately 2 1/2 miles long from Clark Ave. eastward to the San Gabriel River. It is an important source of city water, but the only recreational uses are a City College archery range and a Girl Scout day camp.

That condition will be changed in sensational fashion if Allen's advice is followed.

"This undeveloped park," his report says, "is destined to play a dramatic part in the expanded park system because of its unusual shape and extent and its strategic location. With imagination in planning, it can become the horticultural center of the system."

THE CONSULTANT SUGGESTS a five-part development conforming with the division of the park area into five sections by major streets.

From an adult standpoint, the most spectacular section will be the half-mile between Bellflower Blvd. and Woodruff Ave., site of a "magnificent" sunken garden.

The long grass panel will be broken only by four shallow reflecting pools and carpet beds of ivy geraniums.

It will be enclosed by high screen planting, with four informal walks on the south side dedicated to such plants as bougainvillea, fuchsias and lantana.

In the center pool is proposed an electric fountain creating a spectacular night effect.

The formal treatment will continue for a short distance east of Woodruff Ave., blending as it approaches Palo Verde Ave. into an informal horticultural display. The latter is visualized as an arboretum where plants are exhibited for observation and identification. Each is to be labeled with both its common and scientific name. The cactus garden now at Recreation Park also is to be relocated here.

FROM A CHILD'S STANDPOINT the really important section of the park lies between Palo Verde Ave. and Los Coyotes Diagonal. Here is proposed a children's center complete with zoo, carousel, pony rides, miniature railroad, marionette shows and other features, all in a sort of fairyland setting.

Allen chose this section for the children's center because it is centrally located in relation to the child population of metropolitan Long Beach, particularly of newly-annexed sections and the city of Lakewood.

The extreme west section of the park, between Clark Ave. and Bellflower Blvd., is now occupied by the 15-acre nursery and the archery range.

Allen would move the nursery to a proposed park in Dominguez Hills and transfer the range to the present nursery site, more easily accessible to City College students.

ON THE EXISTING archery site will be developed a garden setting for a future municipal arts and crafts activity center.

At the opposite end of the park the section between Los Coyotes Diagonal and the San Gabriel River, the design calls for heavy forest planting with a series of winding bridge trails.

An equestrian center is suggested on the east side of the river, at the northwest end of the 186-acre park. The trails here are to be a part of an extensive system reaching along both sides of the river.

Because many of the details remain to be specified, the report gives no cost estimate for the project.

Nurses' Role Stressed on Health Day

The role of the nurse as the pioneer of health will be accentuated here this week in recognition of World Health Day Friday, Dr. I. D. Litwack, city health officer, announced Saturday.

Special displays at the Municipal Health Center, 2655 Pine Ave., will demonstrate the services of the department's staff of 20 public health nurses.

Nurses are the first professional group to be chosen by the World Health Day, Dr. Litwack pointed out.

Among the duties of the public health nurses here are home visits for instruction and nursing care of tuberculous patients; those with acute communicable diseases, maternity patients, infants, pre-school children and handicapped children; health supervision for well infants and pre-school children whose families are unable to provide private care, and instruction of expectant parents' classes meeting regularly at the Health Center.

Gardena Poker Reign at Stake in Election

Reform Rule Would Close Card Palaces

By JIM PHELAN

GARDENA—This "Little Las Vegas" will go to the polls April 13 in a councilmanic election that may decide whether the city's six multi-million-dollar poker palaces will shut down.

Fourteen of Gardena's churches are backing a reform ticket pledged to close the legal card parlors, last stronghold of commercialized gambling in the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

Through the agency of the Civic Improvement Committee of Gardena, the churches are urging the election of three young World War II veterans, Roy Bain, 22, Ray E. Harbold, 29, and Bob H. King, 29. The three candidates are campaigning together and have pledged that their first act on the council will be to start legal proceedings to shut the doors of the poker clubs.

"There simply isn't enough room in Gardena for both the churches and the card clubs," says Rev. Karl Oelschlager, Lutheran pastor who heads the Civic Improvement Committee.

Rev. Oelschlager says the committee induced the three young veterans to run "because we could not get a commitment against the card houses from the other candidates."

12 IN FIELD

A field of 12 candidates are seeking the three council seats at stake in the election. Gardena has a five-man city council, and the three members to be elected could be a controlling majority.

Draw poker is legal in California due to an omission from the state gambling laws of the words "draw poker" in the list of outlawed games. Cities can therefore license draw poker clubs under local option.

Gardena opened its doors to the card clubs in 1938, and voted 1527 to 1106 against outlawing them in 1945. The city charges each club $1000 a year per table in license fees, plus $250 per month per club if they gross over $40,000 a month. All six clubs have been topping the $40,000 figure.

"These fees will bring Gardena $206,500 in revenue in fiscal 1953-54, the largest single item on the city's budget. The city's realty tax yields only $98,963.

Recently full-page ads have appeared in the local press stressing the importance of the revenue from the card clubs. They are signed only by unspecified "businessmen."

MORE INDUSTRY

The anti-gambling candidates say that the card club fees can be replaced by attracting more industry to the city and by more efficient management. They charge that many industries shun Gardena because of the presence of the card clubs.

"The idea that Gardena must depend on poker to exist is nonsense," says King. "There are thousands of cities of our size that get along fine without such revenue."

NATION'S LARGEST

PTA District No. 1 Convenes Thursday

First District of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, which with a membership of 325,765 is the largest in the nation, will have its 43rd annual convention Thursday in Municipal Auditorium. Two thousand persons are expected to attend.

First District is all of Los Angeles County except the city of Los Angeles.

Highlights will include election of officers, reports of committees, an "Achievement Panorama" presented by Mrs. Edward G. Kemp of Hermosa Beach; district historians, and a program by the Mothersingers of the First District. Mrs. Walter E. Smith of Downey, president, will preside.

Candidates for officer are: for president, Mrs. Charles Burks, Alhambra; Mrs. H. A. Spurgin, Compton; second vice president, Mrs. C. F. Rees, Inglewood; Mrs. Miles Turpin, South Pasadena; fourth vice president, Mrs. Ray Reese, Pico; Mrs. L. O. Anderson, Hawthorne; sixth vice president, Mrs. H. H. Bennett, Pasadena; Mrs. Doyle Hoffman, El Monte; treasurer, Mrs. Allan Storms, Santa Monica; Mrs. Sam Sonnenleitner, Inglewood; historian, Mrs. E. G. McLaughlin, Pico; Mrs. Gordon N. Bannister, Long Beach. Offices are filled in alternate years.

The convention will be addressed by Mrs. John H. Koelko, president of the Long Beach Council, and Douglas A. Newcomb, superintendent of schools.

Convention committee chairmen are Mrs. David Scott, Alhambra, general chairman; Mrs. C. F. Rees, Inglewood, program chairman; Mrs. A. C. Turner, Torrance, credentials; Mrs. E. H.

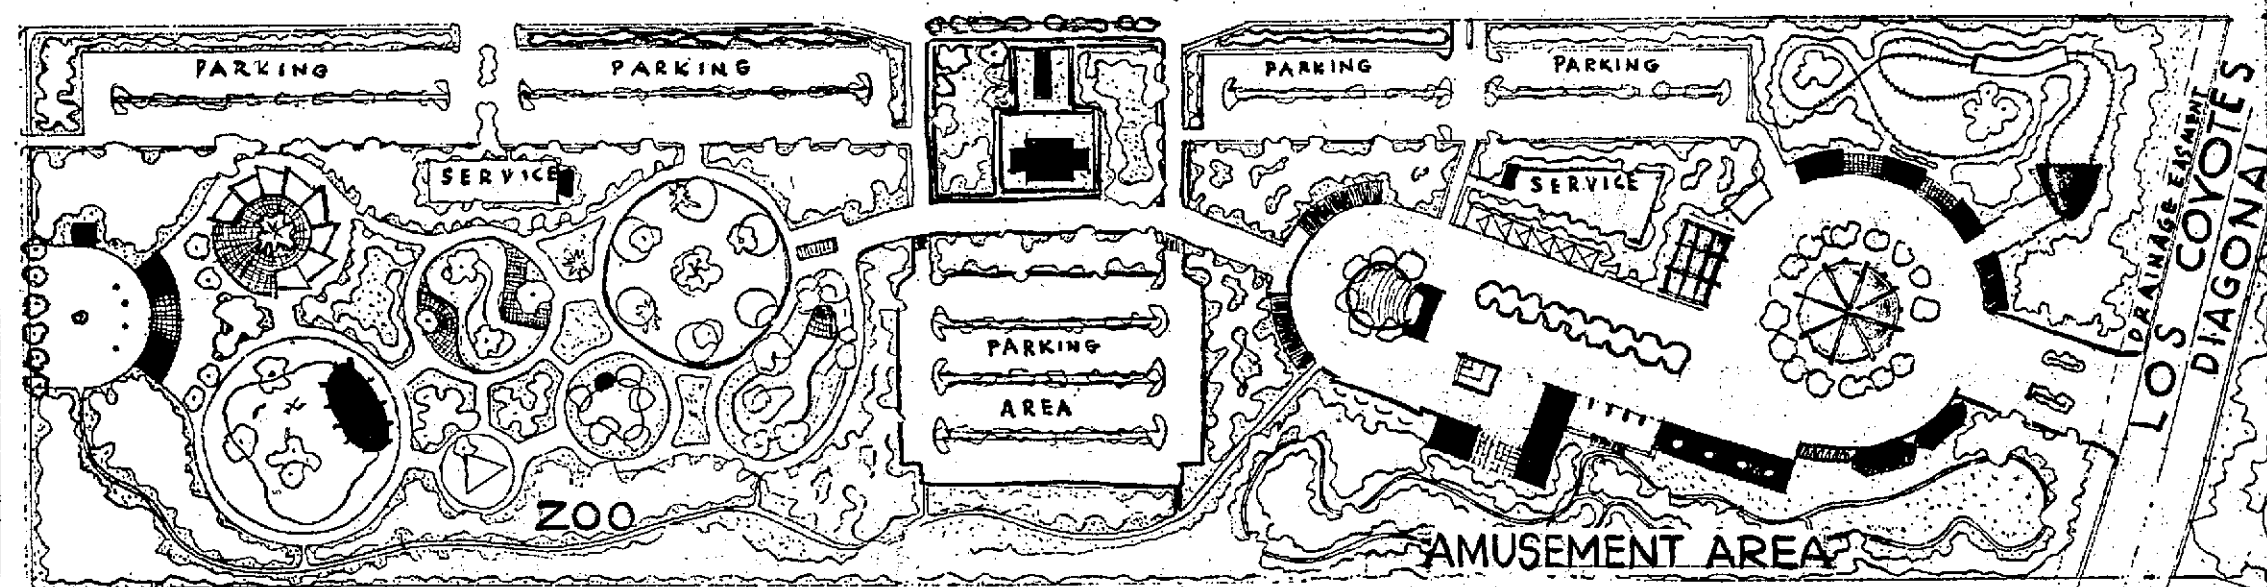

LISTS CLOSED

Bee Enrolls 42 Schools

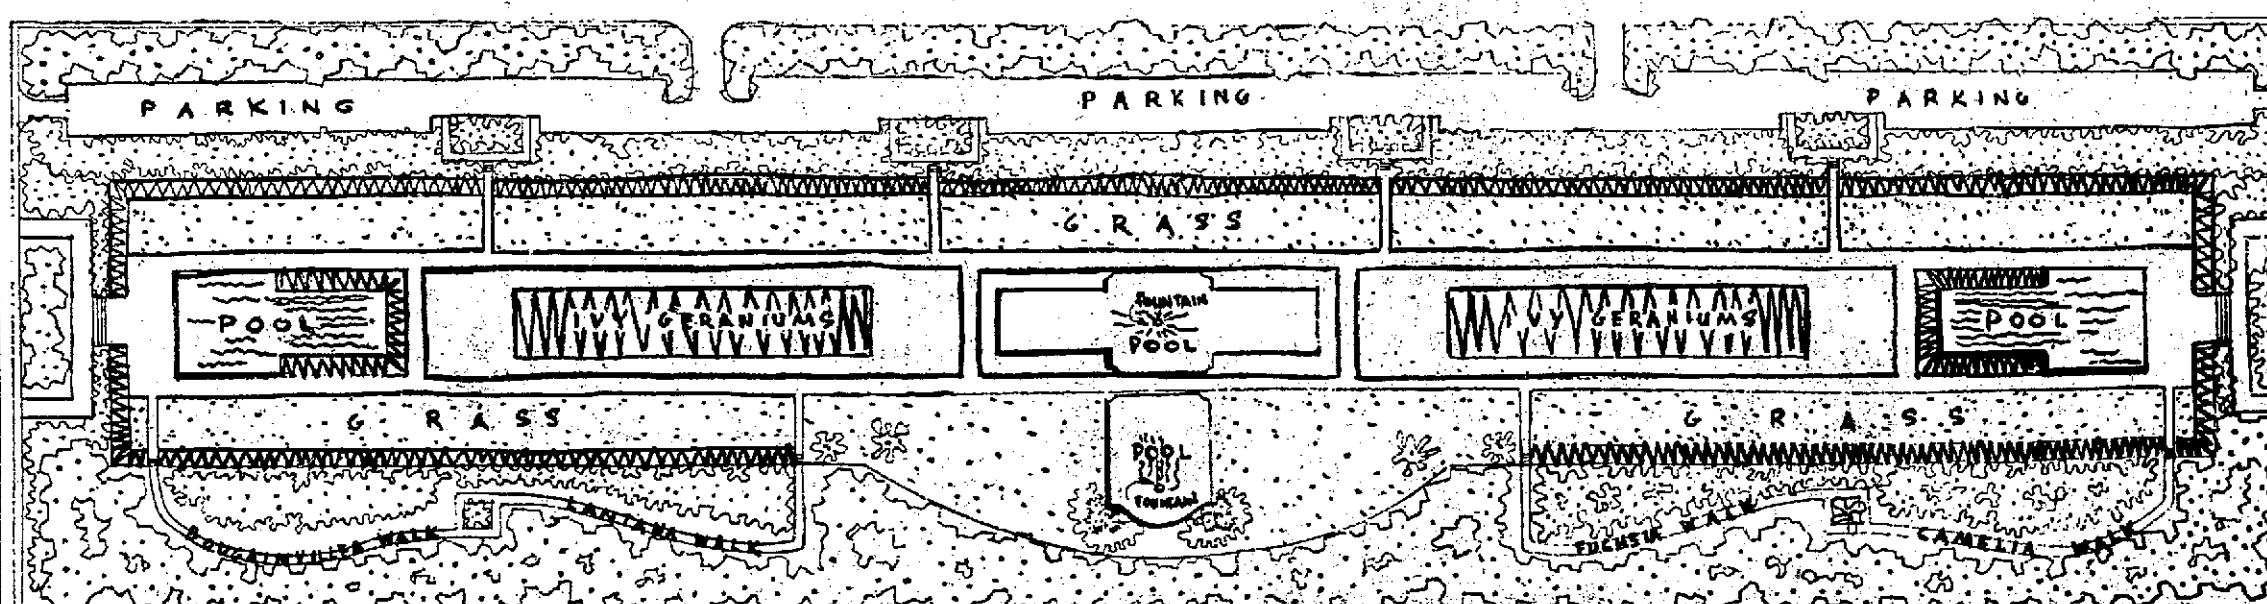

Entries have been officially closed with 42 schools entered in the Long Beach area finals of the National Spelling Bee. The Long Beach area event is sponsored by The Independent Press-Telegram.

Area finals will be at 2 p. m. April 24 in Poly High School. The I. P. T. will send the area champion to Washington, D. C. to compete in the National Spelling Bee May 20. Second prize will be a $50 savings bond, and third prize a $25 bond.

Each school champion will be given a Spelling Bee Certificate of Achievement.

HEARTWELL PARK Development in Master Plan Would Include Children's Zoo and Amusement Area Between Palo Verde Ave. and Los Coyotes Diagonal

SPECTACULAR GARDEN, Pool and Illuminated Fountain Area Fronting on Carson St. Would Be Developed Between Bellflower and Woodruff Avenues

THIS rates as an item because Ken McCafferty, the Sears adv. mgr., is an honest man.

McCafferty, George Hopkins and John Huffman were out for coffee the other morning and agreed to flip a coin to decide who would pay.

McCafferty remarked, "Just a minute, I'll get out my two-headed coin."

He drew a nickel from his pocket, flipped it, called heads and heads it was.

He picked up the coin and examined it idly as he finished his coffee. Suddenly, he was aware that the coin actually had heads on both sides.

Someone had split two pickles and carefully glued the head sides together. One was the Indian head which appears on the "other side" of a buffalo nickel, and the other the Thomas Jefferson head which is on the current issue of 5-cent pieces.

That's not a new trick, but anybody with such a coin hangs onto it as a valuable asset.

McCafferty, however, alleges that he simply got the trick nickel in change somewhere, and didn't know he had it until that morning. And McCafferty, as heretofore noted, is an honest man.

A MAN of justified optimism is the young fellow who is occasionally seen standing in the center of the Alamitos Traffic Circle, camera in hand and no doubt cocked and ready to shoot the next traffic accident out there.

RECENTLY, a very commendable drive has been worked up by the press and public officials in the Southland to induce people to quit scattering trash over the countryside, and to clean up the very considerable amount which is already scattered.

As an old and somewhat discouraged anti-litter man, I'm glad to see others take up the fight.

There are some places in the Long Beach area that are pretty bad. One of the worst is the area along both sides of Atlantic near the 27th and 28th St. intersections. Pools of inky liquid, a disintegrating automobile or two, a derelict building and an assortment of scattered trash make that area right up there among the community's landscape horrors.

Several pools of stagnant water mar the middle north side area. Over one stands a sign which reads: CALIFORNIA ORANGE JUICE.

FULL and enthusiastic houses saw the Harlequins of L. B. State College present Ibsen's "Pillars of Society" on the campus last week. The play was translated from the Norwegian by Dr. Frank Nelson, State College prof, who memorized "Pillars of Society" while imprisoned in Norway by the Nazis. Nelson's translation is in the modern vernacular, with even a bit of American slang, and the college players did a grand job with it.

RECENT notes here about steam cars reminded Percy Powell of the time he traded a 1912 White Steamer for an Inglewood lot—and he doesn't know yet whether he made a good deal.

Powell got disgusted with his White because a copper tube in the thing kept blowing out. He put an adv. in the paper, and a man showed up, wanting to swap an Inglewood lot for the car. The deal was made then and there, without a demonstration of the steamer or a look at the lot.

Powell never did see the property, which he quickly deeded to a local man to settle up a debt. He has often wondered if the lot has an oil derrick or an apartment house on it. A lot of things can happen to a lot in 40 years.

But he's pretty sure he did better with the lot than did the other man with the steam car. A few weeks after he got it from Powell, a story appeared in the papers reporting that the steamer owner had blown his brains out.

Powell thinks he knows why.

A BOXCAR headline in our paper told the other day how a jet plane had made a three hours, 45 minutes flight from San Diego to New York City.

As a long time resident of Gotham, Reader Cal Ruff wants to know just why anybody would want to get to New York that fast.

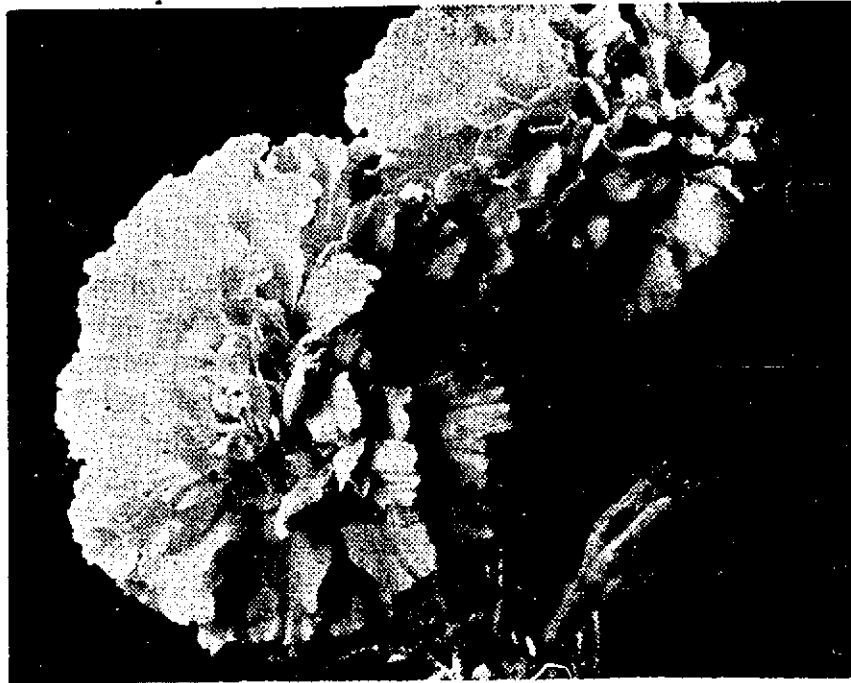

Splash Color in Your Garden

ANNUALS GIVE COLOR in the garden — quick color — and April is the ideal month of the year to put them to work in your garden pushing up showy masses of color to brighten your way.

One of the showiest quick color plant groups is the marigold family, which ranges from miniatures up to saucer size flowers in the giant African type. While red, orange and yellow shades predominate in the marigold family, new hybrids are available that are almost white. One of these new hybrids that is worth trying is Man in the Moon, a large cream-flowered marigold.

For full assurance of success there are many reliable varieties that are recommended by the California Bedding Plant Advisory Board. In the dwarf form Yellow Pygmy; Sunkist in the extra dwarf type; Butterball, Harmony, Spry, Naughty Marietta, Red Head and Sunkist in the medium dwarf type, and tall Sunset Giants and the African All Double Yellow and Orange are considered to be the best performers.

The dwarf varieties are best used for edging and for low beds. They have little use as cut flowers without hurting the appearance of the planting. The giant varieties on the other hand are naturals for cut flowers. They can yield bouquets for months on end and still present a bright show of color in the garden. Dwarf or giant — marigolds are terrific! Plant them in full sun, water and fertilize sparingly and enjoy one of the easiest-to-care-for annuals known.

Marigolds, dwarf or giant, add color to the garden; giant variety makes excellent cut flowers.

Tips on Gardening

GARDENING TIPS for the week . . . Plants are now growing vigorously and, unfortunately, so are bugs. That means you should institute a rigorous spray program. It is almost impossible to kill all the bugs in your garden but some measure of control is obtainable. Spraying at intervals of every 10 days should assure fairly good control.

Citrus may now be transplanted to your garden. This area is noted for its commercial production of citrus and in your garden many types of citrus will prove ornamental as well as of utilitarian value.

This is a good time to check your watering equipment. The time is fast approaching when getting moisture to your plants will be your most important garden chore. Nursery and garden supply outlets are showing many new kinds of watering equipment.

when it's wet. And they are difficult to work.

Today you have your choice of two kinds of soil conditioners. The oldest type is the organic conditioner which has been used for many hundreds of years. Organic soil conditioners are available in the form of humus such as peat moss, leaf mold, bean straw and strawy manures.

THE SECOND KIND of soil conditioner is of fairly recent introduction. This is the synthetic soil conditioner which may yet prove to be one of the most revolutionary garden products of our time.

Proof definitely exists that both have the capacity for loosening up a soil. While neither is a plant food yet both make it easier for plants to absorb the nutrients already in the soil or those which may be added from time to time.

But synthetic soil conditioners have a more limited use than the organic types. They are valuable only for improving heavy soils. But humus may be applied, and with equally good results, to both heavy or light soils. It should be stated, however, that the benefits of the synthetic soil conditioners seem longer lived; and a smaller amount is required for treating a particular area.

An important distinction between synthetic and organic conditioners is that the former is not attacked and broken down by soil bacteria; and that the soil aggregates formed are not easily separated. Perhaps the ideal soil conditioning program will result from the combined use of synthetic and organic conditioners.

Lakeland terriers are sturdy and brave. Three puppies of the breed are displayed here by Mrs. S. C. Thompson.

PET PARADE

They'll Do or Die

By Karen Smith

LAKELAND TERRIERS are one of the oldest working terrier breeds in existence, their career starting in 1870, yet only recently have they been shown, probably because the English farmers in the rugged mountain and lake districts of Cumberland County had need of him for his splendid working ability in destroying foxes raiding the sheep folds.

These farmers admired him for his strength, endurance, determination, and his courageous disregard for danger. He has been known to crawl underground many feet. In one instance, he became lodged 23 feet under rock and had to be blasted out, an extensive operation that took three days, but the dog suffered no ill effects. Others have been locked underground for as many as 12 days. His body is narrow, approximately the same width as his head, a feature which enables him to crawl into crevices after his quarry.

The Lakeland terrier is a tireless companion, can easily travel 35 to 50 miles in a day! He is excellent as companion for active children and has a quiet disposition. He is unexcelled as a house pet for he does not shed and he has no odor. He makes a fine watchdog indoors or out.

Only recently has the United States Lakeland Terrier Club been founded. It is headed by Robert Wiel of San Francisco. Vice president is S. C. Thompson, 440 W. San Antonio Dr.

The three Lakeland terrier puppies shown in the accompanying photograph were raised by Mr. and Mrs. Thompson. They were sired by Ch. Aristocrat of Greeba. The mother is the Thompsons' Suzy, who won best of breed, opposite sex, at Harbor City Dog Show in Long Beach last year.

Here's That 'Stomp and Whistle' Rhythm

HARRY JAMES and his orchestra, one of the few major dance ensembles to remain in continuous existence since a decade ago when bandhoo was in flower, make lively music in a new Columbia waxing, "Stomp and Whistle," a popular version of a current "rhythm and blues" song. There's a lively vocal by drummer Buddy Rich, and, of course, a driving solo by Harry.

Flip is "Ya Better Stop," an instrumental in somewhat slower tempo.

TWO HIT SONGS from the 1930s have reappeared all dressed up in new arrangements and should enjoy new popularity. One of these songs, "I'm Gonna Bring a Watermelon to My Girl Tonight," came out exactly 30 years ago on a thick Edison biscuit and immediately became a top tune of the day.

Sammy Spear and his Society Eight have corned up the 1954 version on a Mercury single, but it's a light song and needs a playful touch. The title has been shortened to just "Watermelon" but the catchy lyrics remain unchanged.

The other old song, "Me and My Shadow," has been remembered largely because it's been a standard number in Ted Lewis' band act for many years. Occasionally it would be included in plush orchestral medleys or on the flip side of a sure-fire hit.

RCA-Victor has just issued a sparkling new arrangement of "Me and My Shadow." Noro Morales treats it whimsically in the mambo manner and the lyrics are dragged out in the Billy May fashion. It's a real sleeper.

The great drum classic of the early 1940's, "Big Noise from Winnetka," is back on a Mercury single. Ralph Marterie and his orchestra have given it new zest by bringing a guitar into the cast.

LEROY HOLMES, one of the country's most underrated band leaders, pays tribute to the other baton wielders in his latest M-G-M lp, "The Great Ones."

The songs recorded by Holmes are trademarks of such as Count Basie ("One o'Clock Jump"), Glenn Miller ("Tuxedo Junction"), Artie Shaw ("Back Bay Shuffle"), Duke Ellington ("Take the A Train"), Woody Herman ("Woodchoppers Ball") and Tommy Dorsey ("Boogie Woogie").

Holmes plays all of these pop classics, plus two others, as though they were written for him. There is no attempt at imitation.

TEN TOP TUNES—Jo Stafford's "Make Love to Me" continues in top spot on your local hit parade this week, closely followed by Perry Como's "Wanted"; (3) "Cross Over the Bridge," Patti Page; (4) "Youth at Heart," Frank Sinatra; (5) "I Get So Lonely," Four Knights; (6) "Secret Love," Doris Day; (7) "From the Vine Came the Grape," The Hilltoppers; (8) "Til Then," The Hilltoppers; (9) "Changing Partners," Patti Page; and (10) "Answer Me My Love," Nat King Cole.

MODERN AND CLASSIC concertos are represented on new lps at the Long Beach Public Library. Especially fine performances are given in Beethoven, "Concerto No. 1 in C Major" (Badura-Skoda, pianist); Bliss, "Concerto for Piano and Orchestra, 1938-1939" (Winterthur Symphony with Mewton-Wood, pianist); Mozart, "Concerto No. 3 for Violin and Orchestra" (Chamber Orchestra with I. Stern, violinist); Rachmaninoff, "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini" with "Concerto No. 1 in F Sharp Minor" (Philadelphia Orchestra with Rachmaninoff, pianist) and Vivaldi, "Concerto in B Minor for Piano and Orchestra" (Orchestra of Radio Italiana, Mario Salerno, pianist).

The week brought reserves for even the more difficult languages of Japanese and Chinese. The popularity of foreign language study by records continues at the library.

Research by VA to Measure Lung, Heart Functions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Veterans Administration announced Saturday the beginning of co-operative research to measure heart and lung functions to provide more accurate standards for diagnosing and treating heart and lung diseases.

It said that when satisfactory normal standards have been established, abnormal heart and lung functions will be measured. The two studies "will provide contributions of considerable importance to VA and the medical world at large," it said.

VA has the largest group of hospitalized patients with heart and lung diseases susceptible to follow-up exploration. It also pointed out that it has a hard core of well-trained investigators in this field, with modern laboratories equipped to carry out such studies.

Coast League Race Opens on Note of Optimism Tuesday

LOS ANGELES—(UP) The Pacific Coast Baseball League, something of a stubborn old cuss who refuses to roll over and play dead, launches its 32nd season this week with a brave show of optimism and probably a few fingers crossed for good luck.

The 158-game regular season begins Tuesday, and while the league was condemned to extinction in some quarters last year, or at least to be decimated, the same eight clubs are ready for the campaign.

Fundamentally, the rivals are pretty well set. But now that restored with major league clubs and the no option rule rescinded, revisions may be expected for a while as additions come from the big league brothers.

Clarence Rowland, the ever-optimistic president of the league, says he is confident there will be a marked upswing in attendance from last year's disappointing total of 1,759,785 paid admissions.

He predicted the league might even approach the all-time minor league record of 4,068,432 set in 1947.

Only Los Angeles and Sacramento showed increases in 1952 over 1951, which means that six clubs, at least, must get on the ball this year.

CHEERFUL OUTLOOK
Rowland maintains that several factors contribute to his cheerful outlook. Perhaps the main one, he said, is the change in ownership of the San Francisco franchise. It is now, in effect, by the fans of San Francisco—scores of so-called little people who kicked in and bought stock.

"I believe the enthusiasm up there has seeped to the other league cities," Rowland said. "This feeling is shared by all the other owners and is a fine thing."

"The relative absence of major league clubs in exhibitions in California this spring has also been a factor," Rowland continued. "The fans haven't snored too much baseball before the real season begins," he said.

Restoration of trading and optioning relations with the majors will also help, in that clubs once again can strengthen themselves with players who were unavailable last year. The go-it-alone policy simply didn't pan out.

Who will win the pennant? The dapper prey reacted as expected.

"Oh, No, you don't get me on that," he exclaimed. "But I do."

DAYS NUMBERED?
Many baseball experts feel that the days of the Coast League, as it is now constituted, are numbered and will not extend beyond 1957, at least. But as of 1954, the oft-reported demise has not materialized.

Quite a few new faces are on deck this year with more expected when the first shipment of optionees begins to come in. But a lot of old faces are around too, especially on second division clubs which may not fare much better than last year.

One returnee everybody is glad to see is Charley Dressen, who has taken over the Oakland Oaks again after three years in Brooklyn where he piloted the Dodgers to two National League pennants. He left Flatbush after a salary dispute last fall and instantly was snapped up by Brick Laws, his old sidekick and owner of the Oaks.

A lot of fans are looking to Dressen to turn the seventh-place A's into a pennant contender.

Hollywood, which is favored to win its third straight pennant, opens at home against the aging Portland Beavers. Fireballer Mel Queen (8-7) is slated to start for the Stars against Red Adams (9-10) before a crowd of about 10,000 at Gilmore Field.

Los Angeles, now being managed by Bill Sweeney who is back for his second time around with the Angels, opens in San Diego where Cal McLish (16-11) probably will pitch for the Seraphs against Eddie Brant.

The Padres, strengthened at third and first by the addition of powerhitters Bob Elliott and Dick Sisler, threaten to turn the pennant race into a real scramble. The Angels are minus Shortstop Gene Baker, Centerfielder Bob Talbot and Pitcher Bill Moisan, all called up by the parent Chicago Cubs, but have Tommy

Capacity Turnout Expected

By DAVE LEWIS
Sports Editor

With a new forecast of a sunny afternoon replacing earlier predictions of rain . . . local fans will be able to sit in on the final exhibition game of the spring season today between the Hollywood Stars and Los Angeles Angels billed for 2 p. m. at Recreation Park.

Tuesday the two clubs open the 1954 Pacific Coast League race—Hollywood hosting Portland at Gilmore Field and Los Angeles playing at San Diego.

Extra bleachers have been set up in the local park to accommodate a crowd of more than 3000 fans . . . and a capacity crowd is expected.

Today's final exhibition game will be broadcast direct from Recreation Park over KFWB and KMPC beginning at 2 p. m. moderate a crowd of more than 3000 fans . . . and a capacity crowd is expected.

Today's exhibition will pair two of the top teams in pre-season estimates . . . the Stars generally being picked to repeat as league champs while the Angels are tabbed for second or third with a good chance of pressing the Twinks for the pennant.

The two clubs will carry into the game the reputation for carrying on one of the most bitter feuds in baseball . . . one that makes the Hatfields and the McCoys look like amateur debaters.

WILD BRAWLS
Ill feeling between the two clubs finally exploded in two violent eruptions during the first game of a Sunday doubleheader last summer which produced a pair of the wildest brawls in baseball history.

While such extra-curricular activity is not generally expected in an exhibition game . . . anything can happen when these two rivals get together.

Two of the finest managers in minor league ball—Bobby Bragan of the Stars and Bill Sweeney of the Angels—will match strategy for the first time although this is the fourth meeting of the clubs this spring.

Los Angeles has won two of the three meetings thus far . . . the first by a lopsided 22-6 margin.

Sweeney was re-appointed manager of Los Angeles early the past week when Stan Hack moved up to the National League to take charge of the Chicago Cubs in a surprise move that found P. K. Wrigley firing Phil Cavaretta.

Sweeney managed the Angels from 1943 through 1946 . . . and won two pennants for Los Angeles in '43 and '44.

He piloted Seattle last season, but stepped down at the conclusion of the campaign and was planning to remain out of baseball this season until the surprise change in the Cub chain of command.

SWEENEY'S PICK
Sweeney will rely on 32-year-old Sheldon Jones, a major league veteran, to pitch the full nine innings today.

Jones, who saw service with the Giants, Cubs and Braves, reached the high point of his career with the Giants in 1948 when he appeared in a total of 55 games—both as a starter and a "fireman"—and posted a 16-8 record.

Meanwhile, Bragan also will counter with an ex-major leaguer . . . Roger Bowman, acquired from Pittsburgh during the winter. Bill Macdonald, who posted a 5-2 record with Hollywood last year, is available for relief.

Bowman, incidentally, pitched a no-hitter against Hollywood in 1952 when he was with Oakland.

NEW ANGELS
Several new faces will be in the Angel lineup . . . Gene Mauch, who managed Atlanta in the Southern Association last season, will be on second; Herb Adams from Springfield will be in centerfield, while John Pramesa, obtained this winter from the Cubs, will be behind the plate unless Al Evans' injured thumb is able to stand the gaff. Pramesa didn't play last year, being out with an injury.

Another Angel newcomer is Ed McDade, an infielder, who spent the last two years in the Army and was with Springfield prior to that. He replaces Angel veteran Bud Hardin at shortstop. Hardin and Third Baseman Tommy Brown are sidelined temporarily with slight hand injuries sustained Friday.

Nilsson, Michigan Rap Tribe

PALO ALTO—(UP) Michigan's powerful track team, with Olympic veteran Roland Nilsson and business student John Vallortigara each winning two events, swamped Stanford 86-35 Saturday in a lopsided intercollegiate meet.

The Wolverines won 11 of 14 events with little difficulty. Stanford's only victories came in the two hurdles races and the high jump.

Nilsson, who competed for Sweden in the 1952 Olympic Games, won the shotput with a heave of 54 feet 6 inches and followed up by throwing the discus 161 feet 5½ inches to nail down another first.

Vallortigara, a junior from Chicago, won the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds flat, breaking away from the pack with the sprint about half over. Then he clocked 22.2 to win the 220-yard dash with teammate Art Brown close behind him in second spot.

Stanford's best effort came in the 220-yard low hurdles, captured by Jim Luttrell in 24.3.

Municipal Art Center: "Classical Motif," Paintings by contemporary artists: "Medieval Image," work by faculty and students of Immaculate Heart College.

Spectrum Club Gallery, 225 E. Third St.: Paintings by members.

Hotel Lafayette Gallery: Paintings and drawings by David and Lois Cytron and Robert Clark.

Long Beach Branch, Los Angeles County Medical Association, 814 Pine Ave.: Water colors by Dr. John W. Olsen.

JULES LANGSNER, noted art critic, will speak at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at Long Beach City College, Lakewood campus art building, Faculty Ave. at Harvey Way, on "Contemporary Art From the Critic's Point of View." The lecture is open to the public.

Langsner is associate editor of "Arts and Architecture," regional critic for the "Art News" and a free-lance writer on art for newspapers and magazines throughout the country. He also is art consultant for the Ford Foundation for Adult Education.

A NEW SHOW opens Thursday in the City College art gallery, featuring the work of architect Alden B. Dow. The exhibit will be closed during Easter week, April 12-16, but then will remain open through May 14. Visiting hours at the gallery are 10-4 Monday through Thursday, 7-10 p. m. Thursdays and 10

a. m. to noon on Fridays.

The Dow exhibit will include photographs, drawings and working prints, arranged to show the various steps in an architect's work. Dow, a pupil of Frank Lloyd Wright, is considered one of the country's leading residential designers, and one of his major projects has been planning the entire community of Midland, Mich.

FOR THE SECOND YEAR, Long Beach Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., will have the west coast showing of items from the annual Good Design show in the Merchandise Mart in Chicago and the Museum of Modern Art, New York. The Long Beach showing, April 25-June 6, will include 250 items selected from some 5500 initially screened items. It will include furniture, floor coverings, drapery and upholstery fabrics, wall coverings, lamps, accessories, tableware and kitchen equipment.

A WATER COLOR entitled "Judas Iscariot," by Jay Meuser, San Pedro painter, has been accepted by the jury of the 24th annual All-California Art Exhibition at Santa Cruz. Among other well known Southern California artists whose work was accepted are Emil J. Kosa Jr., Clyde Scott and Paul Lauritz. The state-wide show closes April 7.

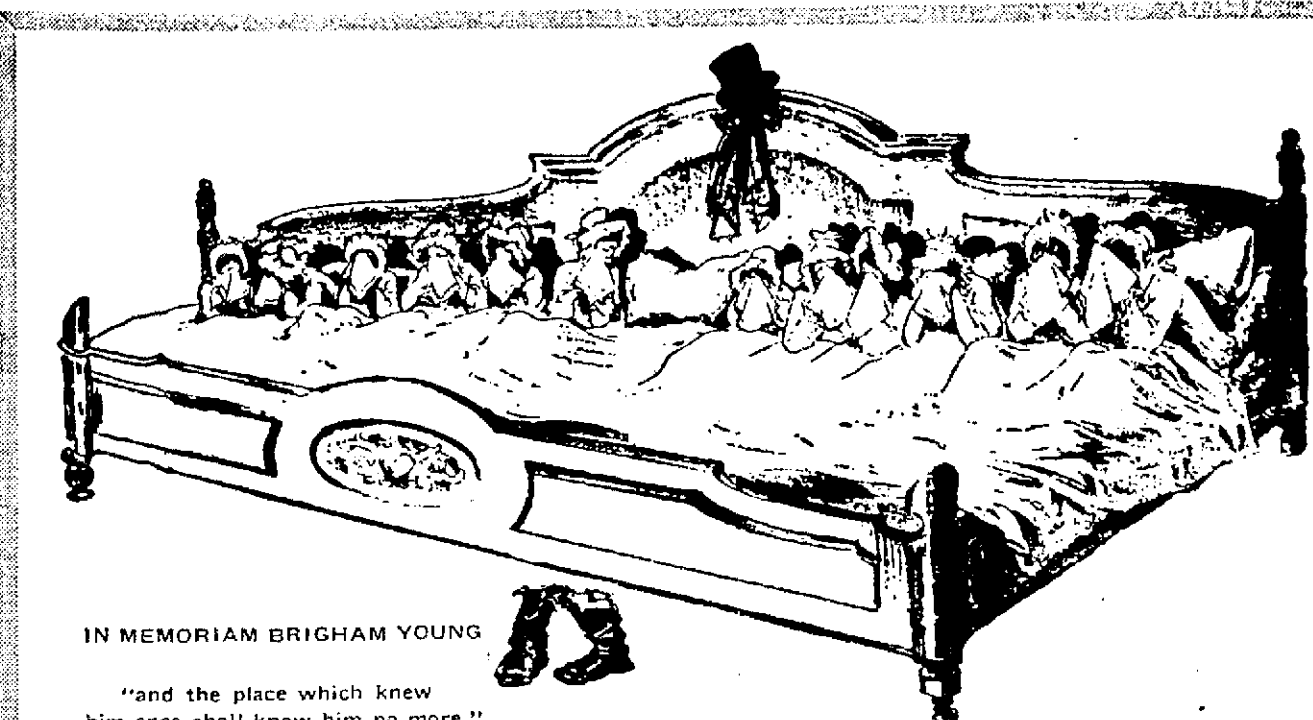

THE 1954 annual exhibition of artists of Los Angeles and vicinity will be in Los Angeles County Museum May 14-June 27. Current exhibitions at the Museum in Exposition Park, Los Angeles, include prints and drawings, recent acquisitions of graphic arts; Chinese gold and silver from the world-famous collection of Dr. Carl Kempe of Stockholm from the ancient Chou Dynasty to the more recent Ch'ing Dynasty. Recent acquisitions include "St. Jerome in the Desert" by Benvenuto di Giovanni and a still life painting by Karl Knaths. The third annual Southern California Science Fair, exhibit of the work of students from the seventh through the 12th grades interested in science will be April 24-April 29.

PAINTINGS by Hubert Stowitts, dancing partner of the great Pavlowa, will be shown through April 28 in the Laguna Beach Art Gallery. Spending two years in India, he wandered from the Himalayas to Ceylon, living in the courts of Indian potentates and in the humble cottages of native craftsmen. Among the portraits shown are Gandhi and Nehru as well as the fabulous maharajahs.

IN MEMORIAM BRIGHAM YOUNG

"and the place which knew him once shall know him no more."

Frontispiece from "Isn't One Wife Enough?" by Kimball Young

KIMBALL YOUNG, a grandson of Brigham Young, the great Mormon leader, tells the story of Mormon polygamy—from its inception through its turbulent years to the time it was outlawed by the church, and even to the recent Short Creek settlement episode—in "Isn't One Wife Enough?" (Holt, $6). Declaring he has tried to steer as an objective a course as possible in the telling, author Young adds: "Whatever the officials of the Mormon Church think of this book, I feel sure that many a descendant of polygamous unions will be glad that I have told this story, and tried to explain how the system operated."

BOOK REVIEWS

They Dared to Gamble Their Initiative

HOME BELOW HELL'S CANYON, by Grace Jordan. (Crowell: $3.50.)

The wife of the governor of Idaho tells how she, her husband and three children won a home from the wilderness in the depression years of the '30s, establishing their sheep ranch in some of the wildest and least accessible country in modern America.

Kirkwood Bar Ranch was on the Snake River almost at the mouth of Hell's Canyon, cut off from civilization by towering sheer rock reached only at uncertain long intervals by the mailboat that felt its way up and down the twisting, menacing Snake. Here Grace Jordan made her home, helped her husband in his dawn-to-dark ordeal of raising lambs, shearing, lugging supplies over dangerous trails, moving flocks, getting necessities in and his wool and lambs out.

She cooked for ranch hands, helped build a kitchen and make-shift furniture; taught and cared for children who for as long as seven months saw no other child. Her torturous, sometimes terrifying experiences make a rich story of people who dared to gamble on their own endurance and initiative.—L. A.

YOU'D BE SURPRISED! by Shirley Thompson (Enterprise Press, Maywood, $1).

Worry over past errors never has brought anything but pain and heartache. We all make mistakes — but let's not make the old ones over again. Let's make new ones, if we must. We have problems, always, but the problems are not beyond our capacity of solving. The bigger the mind, the bigger the problem.

That is what Mrs. Thompson, Los Angeles counsellor and lecturer, believes and she has put her principles of solving problems, adjusting to life and getting right with God in a handy, compact, readable volume. In it she handles such subjects as cause and effect, health, retribution, self-development and abundance.—V. W.

LAUGHTER ON THE STAIRS, by Beverly Nichols (Dutton, $3.75).

This is the account of Nichols' restoration of the 200-year-old Georgian mansion to a state of grace, after having been inhabited by a person named Mr. Stebbing. It's a gay and sprightly book, and its pages are filled with eccentric characters who pass through Merry Hall. Even the ghosts of dead-and-gone horses come to visit with Nichols, his cats and his friends. The humor is sometimes sly, sometimes pathetic, but it is always present, and Beverly Nichols shares it beautifully with the reader. With drawings by William McLaren, the book is lovely to see.

DEATH OF AN AD MAN, by Alfred Eichler (Abelard, $2.50).

To be a grade-A suspect and still be able to solve the murder is a trick which would be difficult in real life. It's rough enough as accomplished by one of the varied characters in this mystery story. Setting is an advertising agency and the background is authentic, the author being a big-time ad copywriter of 25 years' standing. In fact, principles of advertising are applied by the character who solves this baffling crime. Full of suspense, the story will keep even the most avid mystery fan guessing.

CASINO ROYALE, by Ian Fleming (Macmillan, $2.75).

James Bond has a double zero before his number in the secret bureau in which he serves. That means he has served as an assassin in line of duty, so his selection to destroy a notorious French Communist comes as no surprise. But he has to do it at the baccarat tables. Up to the point where he follows the beautiful Vesper Lynd into a rough captivity by Communist agents, the story carries a great deal of suspense. After Bond is tied to a bottomless chair, and whipped on the bare fundament by a carpet beater, the reader has had most of it. From then on the story fades and the reader fumes because it would not have to.

THE FOUNDING FATHERS, by Nathan Schachner (Putnam, $6.00).

In the beginning of our national fight for survival there were troubles that seemed unsolvable. Not only were small political factions quarreling but states and the officials of states had a long list of demands which clouded the view into a sound future for America. This is the account of those troubles, dealt with to show a miracle of survival in the face of the deepest gloom. The first 12 years of the nation were the worst, and they were also exciting and dramatic.

SPIDERS' WAR, by S. Fowler Wright (Abelard, $2.75).

This is labeled as a "shocking tale of the future." Lemno, the hero, apparently thinks nothing of disemboweling his own wife and then thoroughly enjoying her liver for breakfast. He also leads his people into a war with giant spiders, 50 feet across. There's a love story, too — somewhat tame — told in a formalized style that is in itself interesting. Readers will probably hope that the future, as pictured in this book, never comes.—J. G.

DICK DEEBLE
IT'S COMMON TALK among gourmets everywhere that Ric-art's Restaurant, 4343 Atlantic Ave., serves wonderful prime rib and steaks.

But even some of the gourmets aren't aware that Ricart's creates other specialties which are just as outstanding. For example, there's Ricart's Shish Kebab, which is spring lamb marinated in wine, charcoal broiled and served on a flaming sword. It never fails to cause a stir of excitement whenever it's served.

And there's also Ricart's Scal-lopini of Veal, au Marsala, which is simply delicious, and Ricart's planked chopped sirloin with onion rings which is a veritable symphony of flavor on an oak plank.

The decor at Ricart's is just as outstanding as the food. More than $108,000 was spent on the interior paneling and fixtures when the restaurant was opened in 1946. On the walls are outstanding oils of Flemish drinking and dining scenes painted by Alan Woods. The eyes of one of the paintings in the cocktail lounge — that of a dashing cavalier — are so realistic patrons have been known to comment with surprise: "He's staring at me!"

OWNERS AND HOSTS at Ricart's are Art Morgan and Dick Deeble, who have also been partners in the building and auto trades here. Deeble's family is one of Long Beach's oldest, having settled in the city in 1909.
A friendly chap with a twinkle in his eye and a good word for everyone, Deeble is married and has three children, Tom, 9; Jim, 7, and Gayle, 4.

The man who presides over the piano-organ bar at Ricart's is Lloyd Hart, last of the Hart Players, a family group which put on weekly musicals and dramas nearly 30 years ago at the Pike and later in the Ebell Theater.

Ricart's is open daily except Monday from 11:30 a. m. to 2
a. m. —TEDD THOMEY.

Once Over Lightly

by DAVE LEWIS

What a fighting machine that Bobo Olson is!

I never particularly cared to watch him fight until I saw him score his great victory over Randy Turpin. It was then that I recognized him for what he is... truly a master craftsman.

Friday night we sat spellbound and watched him cut down Kid Gavilan—a superb fighting man himself—with a truly great ring performance.

Bobo is a throwback to the old-time fighters in style, condition, savvy... well, just everything concerning the boxing profession.

And there doesn't appear to be anyone on the scene today at his fighting level. He is the one who speaks well for Olson's future in the business.

Certainly his next opponent—Joey Giardello—doesn't figure to turn the trick.

Giardello will get a crack at Bobo in September—probably in an outdoor show at Yankee Stadium—only because he happens to be one of the hottest box office draws in New York at the present time.

Getting back to the Olson Gavilan affair... the bout went exactly as we described it in advance in Friday morning's column.

The only bad thing about it is Gavilan's quick alibi of an injured right hand. It was obvious 48 hours before the fight that the excuse was being hatched in order to "protect" the Kid's drawing power when he dropped back to the welterweight class.

AS WE POINTED OUT Friday, Gavilan's best punching combination is a series of left jabs, then a hook with the same hand.

He never has been a powerful right-hand puncher. His "famed" hold with his right has never been more than a "showboat" maneuver to catch the eye of the officials and the crowd. It never has worried opponents.

His left hook, though, is something else again. Normally, it's plenty potent. However, it didn't faze Bobo.

In a championship go as important as this one, a man does not enter the ring with a sore hand. A postponement is requested. After all, a fighter's hands are the most important tools of his trade.

What's more, a "sore hand" doesn't show up in the final work of training after the heavy work is over and the fighters are merely going through light drills to keep their condition razor sharp.

Furthermore, a shot of novocaine—which Gavilan is said to have refused—would have taken care of any discomfort on the part of the Kid without affecting his punching.

The use of novocaine has become very common in sports to allay any pain during a performance pending, of course, the injury is not a serious one to begin with.

Many major league pitchers, for instance, who are bothered with sore arms or elbows are shot with novocaine just before taking the mound.

MEANWHILE, the important things to remember whenever anyone talks of the Kid's "one-handed fight" are these: (1) Gavilan's best punch is his left hook which always has been his "money in the bank" punch; (2) his right, including the bolo, is primarily a "showboat" punch; and (3) he actually did use his right during his occasional flurries.

This undoubtedly was overlooked by many viewers because wherever the Kid opened up with a flurry... Olson took the play away from him by outfighting him.

In many of these flurries, viewers may have been fooled into thinking Gavilan was out-punching Olson because of his more spectacular style. This undoubtedly swayed the one judge who called the bout a draw. But in the end, it was Olson doing the most damage in the toe-to-toe slugfests.

In the flurries, Gavilan always was punching from the outside, laced power in his blows because he wasn't able to get his body behind them because Olson was always "inside" of him. Then, too, a good portion of the Kid's punches were caught by Bobo on his arms and shoulders.

Meanwhile, Olson's punches carried more steam and were more accurate because he was shooting them straighter due to the fact he was on the inside.

By the way, Olson's body blows were a tremendous factor... but they are always difficult to follow on TV. As we pointed out Friday, Bobo's right to the liver as he moves in is a proven strength-sapping punch.

We caught the punch several times as Olson moved in after slipping a left lead from Gavilan.

OUR SCORECARD showed Gavilan piling up an early lead; then losing every round from the fifth on. The count was 147 to 139.

We called the first even... and gave the second, third and fourth to Gavilan. We believe the Kid's best round of the fight was the third when he landed some good left hooks while Olson was still content to "feel out" the Cuban.

Although we gave Gavilan a glim edge in the fourth, it could easily have been called even. It also was the turning point of the fight. This is the round in which Olson took the best the Kid had to offer, knew it wasn't good enough and thus gained the count.

Brooks Blast Spahn, 9-1

'We've Looked Lousy, But Don't Worry,' Stengel Cautions Yankee Supporters

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(UPI). "Just tell 'em we'll be all right."

Those were the words that Casey Stengel asked be sent home to New York Yankee fans Saturday as the five-times world champions left Florida for the trek back home prior to the start of the major league season on Apr. 13.

"Sure, we've looked lousy this spring," Stengel admitted. "But tell 'em not to worry. We'll perk up and be ready by opening day. After all, if you're gonna lose 'em, now's the time when they don't count in the standings."

He admitted to an infield worry. But that's only because, Jerry Coleman and substitute Third Baseman Andy Carey are out with injuries.

"But if the weather is good going back north they should be all right," Stengel said.

He claimed he wasn't worried about the club's lack of hitting.

"I know what these guys can do and I know they'll be ready when the time comes," he said.

Then he praised three rookies—Bob Cerv, Bill Skowron and Bob Grim.

"Cerv and Skowron are hitting the hell out of that ball," Stengel pointed out. "And that Grim has been pitching great ball."

Cerv and Skowron were with the Yankees' American Association farm club, Kansas City, last year. Both hit the long ball. Grim was in the Marines in 1952 and 1953 after winning 16 at Binghamton in 1951.

Stengel also praised another rookie pitcher, Bob Wiesler, a southpaw who won only eight while losing seven at Kansas City last season.

"He can throw the ball real hard," Stengel observed. "It's a question of control with him and so far it looks like he has it."

Getting back to the poor showing the Yankees have made in exhibition games, Stengel admitted his club was not hitting.

"But not too many other teams we have played—except those Dodgers—have looked too good either," he recalled.

"We raked up the Red Sox one day and I thought to myself—why in the hell shouldn't we beat that ball club? They had (Ted) Williams, (George) Kell, (Jim) Piersall and (Jackie) Jensen out of there. That's their power, so when you beat a club with the hitters out of there, it's nothing to gloat about."

"Now let me tell you about those Dodgers. Boy, what an infield they've got! That guy at third base (Billy Cox). I've seen him play a lot and he's only missed two ground balls, one in a World Series and one in spring training. But the other day he caught three where the third base coach is supposed to stand."

"It must be a nice thing for a Dodger pitcher on a day he doesn't have his stuff. All he has to do is to pitch to the batter so he'll line it around third base. Cox will take over from there."

Giants Tip Tribe, 6-1; Mays Hot

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(AP). Brooklyn's vaunted righthanded power finally came to life Saturday at the expense of Warren Spahn, an old Dodger cousin, and the Brooks blasted the Milwaukee Braves, 9-1.

Spahn, who hasn't won a National League game since 1951 or won at Ebbets Field since 1948, was knocked out under a 12-hit attack in the sixth inning.

Meanwhile, Russ Meyer allowed only one hit in seven innings as he retired the Braves four times in order.

In other exhibition activity, the New York Giants combined a 13-hit attack with three-hit pitching to lower the boom on the Cleveland Indians, 6-1.

Willie Mays led the way for the Giants with a perfect day, going four-for-four on two singles, a double and a homer.

The Washington Senators exploded with homers by Johnny Schmitz and Roy Sievers and a three-run double by Tom Umpshett to overcome a five-run deficit and beat the Cincinnati Redlegs, 12-7.

Yogi Berra and Irv Noren hit homers as the New York Yankees blanked the Jacksonville Braves of the Sally League, 6-0.

Steve Bilko missed a sharp grounder with the bases loaded in the eighth inning, letting in the deciding runs of an error-marked game which the St. Louis Cardinals lost to their Houston farm club, 6-3.

With Bob Keegan pitching one-hit ball for seven innings, the Chicago White Sox defeated the Beaumont Exporters, 5-0. The Sox' attack included a three-run homer by Bill Wilson, his fifth round-tripper of the spring exhibition season.

A 12-run, fifth-inning explosion against three Atlanta pitchers, with Jackie Jensen setting the pace, sent the Boston Red Sox rolling to a 14-1 victory over Atlanta of the Southern Assn.

EX-CUB IN GIANTS CLOTHING

Phil Cavarretta, fired early last week as manager of Chicago Cubs, tries on New York Giants uniform for a pre-game workout in Dallas Saturday. Manager Leo Durocher was impressed and may keep the veteran as pinch-hitter and utility first baseman.—(UP)

ROGOVIN OPTIONED

Cavarretta Sharp in Giant Workout

DALLAS, Tex.—(UP). Phil Cavarretta, still "disappointed" but not mad at anybody over his dismissal as Chicago Cubs manager, worked out with the New York Giants Saturday and said he hoped to catch on with the Giants or some other major league club by today.

And the opinion of those close to Manager Leo Durocher of the Giants was that chances were about 50-50 that it would be the manpower-shy Giants who would pick up the sharp-eyed fancy-fielding Cavarretta.

Cavarretta said he also was dealing with the Milwaukee Braves, Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians and that he "hopes to know something definite by today."

The one-time boy wonder of the Cubs, who never has worn any other major league uniform until he put on a Giants uniform Saturday, looked as good as ever in the batting cage but, showed a lack of practice trying to scoop up grounders around first base.

In another top baseball development Saturday, Saul Rogovin, former Chicago White Sox pitching star, was optioned to Harlan of the International League by the Cincinnati Reds.

Rogovin, obtained by the Reds in a winter trade deal, has been shelled hard in three of his four exhibition starts. Playing for the Red "B" squad in Tampa Friday, he was clubbed for 11 hits in five innings by the Detroit Tigers.

The Reds may recall the right-hander on 24 hours notice.

The Brooklyn Dodgers reconsidered and brought back rookie Pitcher Pete Wojciechowski, who only Thursday was ordered to return to the club's Vero Beach training center for assignment to one of the farm clubs.

Wojciechowski, who is 31 years old and has been pitching minor league ball for 15 years, appeared in four games with the Dodgers this spring and allowed only one earned run in 12 innings. He will rejoin the Dodgers today in Nashville.

The Baltimore Orioles pared their squad to 34 players by optioning Outfielder Bob Balenica to Toronto and selling outright First Baseman Ed Mickelson and Outfielder Rocco Ippolito.

McCormick Cops Dive; LAAC Wins

LOS ANGELES—(UP). The Los Angeles Athletic Club had little difficulty Saturday night in winning the team title in the Southern California indoor women's swimming championships of the SPAAC.

LAAC racked up 70 points as Olympic diver Patricia McCormick won the diving, Mary Lynn Daggett took first in the 100-yard butterfly, and LAAC's team won the 400-yard medley relay.

In second was the Pasadena Athletic Club with 30 points, followed by the Sherman Oaks swim school, 17, and Brentwood swim club, 14.

The results: 100 freestyle—Gerry Marcus (SOS), 1:00.4; Mary Lynn Daggett (LAAC), 1:00.7; Barbara Mohr (BSC), 1:01.0; Mary Lynn Daggett (LAAC), 1:01.0; Mary Lynn Daggett (LAAC), 1:01.0; Mary Lynn Daggett (LAAC), 1:01.0.

POLO BOWS Sawyer Falls to Savage

HOLLYWOOD—Milo Savage, 157, Riverside, handed Charlie Sawyer, 151, Los Angeles, his first defeat in two years Saturday night as he won a unanimous 10-round decision in the main event at Hollywood Legion Stadium.

The fight was dull with only occasional flurries. There were no knockdowns.

In the semi-windup, Bobbie McLean, 156, Van Nuys, punched out a unanimous six-round decision over Marko Polo, 156, Wilmington.

Andrade Scores Easy Verdict Over Bassett

WASHINGTON—(UPI). Cisco Andrade of Los Angeles, unbeaten in about two years of professional fighting, won a unanimous decision over Percy Bassett of Philadelphia, interim featherweight champion, in a 10-round non-title fight here Saturday night.

Andrade, a rugged lightweight, won every round as he handed the featherweight king a bad lacing. One judge called the fourth round even, but otherwise it was Andrade all the way.

In the voting under the 10-most scoring system, Referee Charley Reynolds had Andrade in front, 100-73; Judge Charley Buck had it 100-79, and Judge Joe Busna had it 100-81.

Andrade has now won 21 bouts since turning pro, has been held to a draw once and has never been knocked off his feet.

Andrade quickly took command and never let up as he pounded out his victory over the man who rules the featherweights while Champion Sandy Saddler is in the Army. Bassett had a face full of left hooks all

Angels Slap Seattle for 12-5 Victory

Fred Richards slammed a two-run homer for the Angels in the sixth, while Seattle's Joe Joshua blasted a 455-foot round tripper in the same inning.

Gene Bearden worked five innings for Seattle and was tagged for 11 hits and the defeat. Starter Larry Hinchman got credit for the Angel win. Seattle closes its exhibition slate today in Glendale against Portland.

At Glendale, the Portland Beavers defeated the Glendale Dons, 6-3, as Pitchers Glenn Elliott and Bill Bottler limited the semipro squad to five hits.

The Sacramento Solons pounded three Oakland pitchers for 16 hits to clobber the Acons, 17-7, at Santa Cruz.

The Solons hammered Oakland for five runs in the second, seven in the fourth and scattered the remainder over the third, sixth, and seventh frames.

In San Diego, Manager Lefty O'Doul announced his starting lineup for the Padres' twin openers Tuesday against the Angels.

In the afternoon game the lineup, in batting order, will be Al Federoff, 2b; Dick Faber, cf; Earl Rapp, rf; Dick Sleser, 1b; Bob Elliott, 3b; Harry Elliott, lf; Buddy Peterson, ss; Red Mathis, c; and Eddie Erault, p.

In the evening game, it will be the same lineup except for Milt Smith, cf; Dick Aylward, c; and Cliff Fannin, p.

Los Alamitos Meeting Opens Friday

Leading Jockeys, Trainers on Hand

The Southland's racing spotlight shifts over to Los Alamitos Race Course this week, with the quick quarter horses taking over top billing from the trotters and pacers on Friday.

WILL APPEAL

Man Guilty of Cage Fix

DES MOINES, Iowa — (UP). Floren Di Paglia, 27, Des Moines businessman, was convicted Saturday of trying to bribe former Drake star Ben Brumby to "shave points" in a Drake-Iowa State basketball game.

The first person ever tried under the state's new anti-athletic bribery law, Di Paglia still protested innocence and said he would appeal. Drake lost the contest in question, 69-59, but Brumby was the star of the game with 17 points.

Selvy Top Scorer in History

NEW YORK — (UP). They've been busy proving it the last three weeks, but NCAA Service Bureau statisticians announced Saturday that basketball fans have suspected since January—Frank Selvy is the greatest scorer in major-league basketball history no matter how you look at it.

The 6-3 Furman flash from Corbin, Ky., broke every significant record in existence, for one game, one season, two seasons and career, in field goals, fouls, total points and average. And to top it off he played every second of every Furman game, never fouling out and never being relieved.

Selvy scored 427 goals, 355 fouls and 2,209 points in 35 games, an average of 41.7. He became the second player to win two national offense crowns (George Mikan was the first) and bettered his 1953 mark of 29.5—an all-time record then—by more than 40 per cent.

His career covered 78 games in three years and surpassed anything anyone else had ever done even in four. He had 2538 points or 32.5 a game. That point total even wiped out the small college standard. He beat Seattle's Johnny O'Brien, who played two seasons in minor classification and one in major, by just one point. And through his career, Selvy sank 42 per cent of his shots and 77 per cent of his free throws.

The 22-day all-quarter horse meeting that continues through May 6 has an unprecedented amount of talent lined up, including every leading money-winning quarter horse in training, 14 of last year's 15 leading trainers and every star jockey in the game.

No other meeting anywhere—thoroughbred, standardbred or quarter horse—has ever before attracted so many leaders in each division.

The lure for most of them is the whopping $216,800 offered in stakes and purses, itself a record for the colorful cow ponies.

Heading the parade of talent ready to break from the starting gate is O. C. Meyers' Miss Meyers and Ken Fratts' Miss Pitapat.

Miss Meyers won the California Quarter Horse Championship Stakes at Los Alamitos last year and then went on to become the year's leading money-winner.

Miss Pitapat, the 2-year-old sensation of the year, won every one of her seven starts, one of them the $18,000 Pacific Coast Quarter Horse Racing Assn. Stakes at Bay Meadows by seven lengths.

Then there is Rukin String, Barbara L., Miss Myrna Bar, Gold Star, Super Charge, Mackay Boy, Clabbertown G., Amber's Star, Tonta Lad, Bardella and Monita to name a few.

Guy Purinton and Ralph Banks, who wound up in a typical quarter horse finish for national training honors, a dead heat, head the list of trainers.

Tommy Chavez, the 1953 Los Alamitos riding champ, is back in search of new honors along with Nilton Patisio, the 1952 leader, and Felix Durrouseau, who led the inaugural meeting in 1951.

The track itself has been completely rebuilt.

OLD PLANT JUNKED

Frank Vessels Sr., who started the Los Alamitos course as a back yard venture just a little more than three years ago, junked the old plant at the end of the last meeting and has constructed an entirely new one at a cost in excess of $500,000.

Major improvements in the new plant include a four-story steel and concrete clubhouse, 35 acres of paved parking and the installation of American Trolizer Co. equipment.

The track itself was relocated and expanded into a 13/16ths of a mile oval with a three-furlong straightaway chute.

General admission prices remain $1, tax included, with clubhouse admission $2, including tax, and parking 25 cents.

Eight races will be conducted daily, Tuesday through Friday, with nine races on Saturday. Post time week days is 1:30 p. m. and 1 p. m. on Saturdays.

Find Easy Winner in Excelsior

NEW YORK — (UP). Find made it two straight for the Alfred Vanderbilt Stable in the $30,250 Excelsior Handicap and Hal Price Headley's Kentucky Derby colt, Revolt, captured the High Quest Purse as 40,220 fans flitted with pneumonia in 32-degree weather at Jamaica Saturday.

Vanderbilt's 4-year-old gelding, who has been subbing until Native Dancer returns to action in a few weeks, took the lead near the top of the stretch in the mile and one-sixteenth Excelsior and galloped home an easy 3/4 lengths winner over Count Cain. Find earned $21,250.

Count Cain, who set the pace with Jockey Ted Atkinson, until the favored Find took charge about a half mile from home, popped second money three lengths ahead of Capeador.

James Cox Brandy's Landlocked, who had top weight of 126 pounds, showed nothing and finished eighth.

Revolt won the 5 1/2-furlong High Quest in 1:05 3/5, with Privacy a half-length back and the touted Errand King third. Eric Guerin was aboard both the winners for an outstanding riding double.

DeSpirito

LINCOLN, R. I. — (UP). Tony DeSpirito completed a highly successful week of riding at Lincoln Downs Saturday when he piloted four winners on a nine-race program.

In the featured Springfield Purse, Sonic, with DeSpirito aboard, finished in a dead-heat for first with Pusan. It was probably Tony's best ride of the day, for Sonic hit the stretch with a two-length lead and then tired badly. But DeSpirito kept the former King Ranch horse under a strong drive to gain a split of the winner's purse.

DeSpirito also accounted for both ends of a $19,600 daily double, winning the opener with Traveler at $7.80 for $2 and the second with Charles at $4.20. His other winner came in the eighth race when he booked Top Spring to a $5 payoff. The 1952 national jockey champion wound up with 17 winners this week.

In the feature Pusan paid $5.80 and Sonic, the favorite, returned $2.80.

X-Ray Jockey After Tumble From Horse

NEW YORK — (UP). Additional X-rays will be taken of Nick Wall, the jockey who was injured in a spill at Jamaica Saturday.

Wall, 49, was thrown at the start of the second race and taken to Physicians' Hospital with a back injury. It was feared he suffered a spine injury but examination disclosed only bruised muscles.

Eddie Arcaro also was injured when his mount stumbled at the start of the fifth race. Just before his mount stumbled he reared her head, striking Arcaro on the nose. It was bruised but not fractured.

DINNER WINNER SECOND

Royal Bay Gem's Stretch Surge Nets 2-Length Win

LAUREL, Md. — (UP). Royal Bay Gem staged a typical come from behind rush Saturday to show 24,641 fans that he hadn't lost his 1953 form and win the Laurel Handicap by 2 1/4 lengths.

It was the first stakes victory this year for Eugene Constant Jr.'s 4-year-old black colt who last year earned money in each of the triple crown races besides winning five stakes.

Jockey Jimmy Combest waited as usual until the field of eight started to turn into the homestretch of the mile and sixteenth race before making his move with Royal Bay Gem. They sailed ahead on the outside to win in 1:45.

Dinner Winner was second and Mr. Paradise third. Marylanders were given little Kentucky Derby hopes when the homestead Staffordshire faded to fourth after leading into the stretch of a three-quarter mile allowance race for $4500.

Determine Romps to 5th Straight Victory

SAN MATEO — (UP). Kentucky Derby rominee, Determine, won a stirring stretch duel from Fault Free as he captured the $15,000 Peter Clark Handicap at Bay Meadows Saturday over a one-mile distance.

It was Determine's fifth consecutive victory and once again established him as one of the favorites for the "run for the roses."

The victory was worth $9750 to owner A. J. Crevolin and made Determine the leading money winner of the year. The gray son of Alibhai now has $139,950 this season, compared with $138,900 for second place Rejected.

Determine's lifetime money winnings are $166,385.

With Jockey Ray York in the irons, Determine had a rugged battle down the stretch with Fault Free but inched ahead in the last few slides to win by a head. Stablemate Allied was third, with Arrogate, the second favorite, in the fourth slot.

The big crowd of 23,885 bet Determine to odds on favoritism and the entry of Determine Allied paid only $3. $2.20 and $2.20. Fault Free paid $2.90 and $3.10 in the eight-horse field.

Running on a fast track for the first time this meeting, Determine, winner of the mile and 1/16th, $100,000 Santa Anita Derby, traveled the mile in 1:36 2/5.

Determine and Fault Free waged a neck and neck duel down the stretch with Willie Shoemaker, aboard Fault Free, getting a tremendous performance out of his mount. They finished 3 1/4 lengths ahead of the rest of the field.

Long Beach and area golfers can well be proud of their representatives at the annual Southern California PGA Pro-Forest-Director dinner at the Brentwood Country Club the past week.

For when Long Beach's "Mr. Golf," George Lake—head professional at Recreation Park and national vice president of the PGA—was toastmaster, called Long Beach "the golf capital of California," he was more than just teasing the assembled delegates.

Following Lake to the podium were Milt Arthur and Joe Robinson, two of the most active Southland golfers and golf enthusiasts, both from Virginia Country Club. Robinson is first vice president of the SC PGA; Arthur an honorary member.

The Long Beach parade became so exhaustive, that when introduced, genial Scotty Chisolm brogued, "I'm sorry, I'm from Santa Monica, not Long Beach."

Recreation Park Men's Club president Norm Savidge led a large Park contingent at the dinner as did prexy's Lyle Tripp of Meadowlark, Les Carden of Willowick and Charles Bradford of Lakewood and Charles Pierce of the South Course and Hal Ludwig, Alondra Park and the Publican association.

Strength lies in intelligent and positive leadership, and because of these men and organizations, local golf has prospered.

Locals to score in the afternoon's annual championships were Arthur with a second place in the honorary member flight and Palos Verdes Country Club's duo of pro Bud Oakley and president Bob Yetter who tied for third in the Pro-President flight, which was won by Ralph Evans and Jim Crowl of the newly formed Clock Country Club with 64.

The Park's assistant pro Wayne Otis and director Mark Greer carded 69 in the pro-directors flight but that was one stroke from placing. Paul Runyan and Edward Cranise of Amundale captured the flight with a 65 tally.

THE SCPGA released its annual report at the dinner and it contains several interesting items.

Total membership in its jurisdiction which extends north to Bakersfield, east to Phoenix and south to Tijuana, is 201. The SC section is exceeded only by the Metropolitan (New York City), Illinois and Philadelphia sections.

Leading money winner for 1953 was Babe Lazane with a total earnings of $2359. Second was Elly Vines, $2210; third, Zell Eaton, $2199; fourth, the champion Eric Monti, $1790; and fifth, Mac Hunter, $1204.

Locals high in the rankings were Jimmy Clark in 12th with $689; Dale Anderson, 13th, $604; and Harry McCarthy, 20th, $340.

A total of $80,914 in prize money was played for, which should set an all-time high.

A noteworthy financial achievement had the PGA's rehabilitation fund spending over $1000 for golf facilities at San Fernando and Long Beach Veterans' Hospitals. An additional $1000 went directly to junior golf and junior golf promotion.

Projects for 1954 include the conditioning of a Loyola University pitch and putt course, a golf clinic at the sports show in the Pan-Pacific Auditorium, April 15-25, and other clinics at the Manchester pitch and putt course and Pomona Fair.

HOLE-IN-ONE honors for the week were garnered by Joe Mulday, long competition which is a lark of 3595 California Ave. and the Virginia Men's Club who willaced the 134-yard seventh hole start next Saturday and continue at Virginia with a 7-iron playing in a foursome with Dr. Ken Mooney, Burt Galleher, and C. K. Jones.

RALPH IRWIN fired a gross 73, net 65 to edge Jim Ferrie by one stroke for first place in the Virginia Men's Club Saturday Sweepstakes. Ferrie carded an outstanding 68 gross.

Robert Sellery, 78-10, Sol Deebie, 75-7, and Pete Drake, 81-13, tied for third at 68. Fourth at 69 were Newt Scifres, 89-20; Alan Hess, 85-16; Jess Shakelton, 81-12

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

This appeal is addressed not only to the hunters who actually go into the field and shoot ducks and geese, but also to all outdoorsmen and friends of our feathered friends.

There is one way that you can help the ducks and geese of North America and that is by supporting the eighth annual duck hunters' night at the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles Thursday, April 29.

This show is one of the tops of the spring season and well worth the $1 you'll pay for a ticket. There will be several top-quality stage acts and a showing of DU's latest picture, "The Canada Goose." Awards will range from a shotgun to a four-passenger sedan.

DU annually stages this show for its friends in Southern California. Clubs and organized hunters spend weeks of time selling tickets and preparing for the event. It nets a large amount and a portion of the $100,000-plus which California each year donates to DU for its conservation work in Canada, where ducks and geese are born.

Other shows and donations by individuals raise the rest of the money. This year, however, is just as acute this year as it always has been and always will be. Constant work must be done at the breeding grounds in Canada to keep the ducks and geese flying.

HERE'S DU HISTORY

Just in case you have forgotten, or haven't heard, the story of DU, here it is briefly:

Ducks Unlimited was started back in the late thirties when it looked as though all governments in North America would have to ban the shooting of migratory waterfowl in order to keep them from becoming extinct.

A group of American sportsmen decided that the only way to save the ducks was to increase their breeding grounds. They went to work and it took several years to convince hunters that they were on the right track. Donations were slow at first, but then results began to show and limits on birds were raised and the hunters saw the light.

In the last few years, Americans have raised from $100,000 to $450,000 per year for DU in Canada. DU could use twice that much, but it gets the most of each dollar by careful preparation and spending.

In its 17 years of existence, DU has done these things:

Created 367 permanent breeding areas; built 600 dams; created and restored 1,500,000 acres of marsh habitat with more than 3000 miles of shoreline nesting area; built hundreds of miles of fencing and fireguards, exterminated 5,000,000 crows and magpies; banded 65,000 ducks and geese; has been instrumental in formation of water boards in the prairie provinces to the end that no uneconomic marsh drainage occurs.

The list is endless, but that should give you a general idea. Don't forget to help the ducks; get a ticket to the April 29 show. Tickets may be purchased at 1003 Security Bank Bldg., Long Beach headquarters for DU. Most clubs will have tickets. If you fail there, this columnist has a book handy and will be glad to serve you.

SPIN-FISHING TRIP

Thirty members of the Long Beach Spin-Fishing Club have signed for a charter trip on the 104-foot yacht Velron, which will leave Newport next Saturday night for either Catalina or San Clemente Islands. The group will return Sunday.

Several members of the LBSFC are at Burbank today where the national tournament is in its final day. The Long Beach members are new at the game but promise, after observing the 1954 tourney, to have teams in the 1955 event.

RAMER, FINNEY LAKES

Don't look now, but before you know it, there'll be two new lakes in Southern California. Both lakes are situated between Brawley and Calipatria in Imperial Valley and are not exactly new; they are just being restored by the Department of Fish and Game. One is Ramer Lake and it is being converted into a 275-acre pond for bass, crappie and bluegill, as well as a wintering place for ducks and geese.

The other, Finney Lake, will be for waterfowl shooting. Ramer will be stocked later this year but will be kept closed until sometime in 1955 to allow the newly stocked fish time to grow and start reproduction.

TACKLE PERSONALS
Railroad Canyon Reservoir, once noted as a hot bass-fishing lake, will open May 22 for an indefinite season. Fishing permits will cost 50 cents per day per person. Boats will be $2 and outboards $4.

The commercial fishing industry is getting ready for a big abalone season off Mexico. More than 1000 trawlers and jig boats are en route from Alaska, Oregon, Washington and northern California and will base at San Diego by the end of this month. Phil Bertram, fleet captain of the Van Camp cannery at San Diego, says that the fishermen will ask $500 per ton for their catches this year.

Don't think that the abalone don't get around. A longfin tagged by the DFG last August off Lower California has been recovered by Japanese fishermen 540 miles northwest of Midway Island.

In its 17 years of existence, DU has done these things:

Created 367 permanent breeding areas; built 600 dams; created and restored 1,500,000 acres of marsh habitat with more than 3000 miles of shoreline nesting area; built hundreds of miles of fencing and fireguards, exterminated 5,000,000 crows and magpies; banded 65,000 ducks and geese; has been instrumental in formation of water boards in the prairie provinces to the end that no uneconomic marsh drainage occurs.

The list is endless, but that should give you a general idea. Don't forget to help the ducks; get a ticket to the April 29 show. Tickets may be purchased at 1003 Security Bank Bldg., Long Beach headquarters for DU. Most clubs will have tickets. If you fail there, this columnist has a book handy and will be glad to serve you.

Viking Nine After 2nd Azusa Crown

Long Beach City College's baseball team defends its title as king of Southern California's jaycees nines starting Thursday in the annual Azusa Invitational Baseball Tournament, highlight of the local sports scene this week.

The Vikings, defending Southern California champions and state finalists last season, have set new hitting records in sweeping to the Azusa tourney crown in 1952. They'll be favored again this year.

One Coast League title contender will fall from the unbeaten ranks Tuesday when Wilson and Lynwood baseballers battle on the Bruin diamond. Bill Krenwinkle will hurl for the locals against highly touted Ed Isherwood.

On the minor sports front Jordan's hopes of regaining the loop tennis crown will get a stiff test from defending champion Compton in a Tuesday match. Rescheduling of several rain-out events may swell this week's already heavy slate.

Cage Coach Picked

PORTLAND, Ore.—(AP) Portland University Saturday named Art McLarroy, 45, former University of Washington coach, to become basketball coach here next season.

'54 INBOARD INAUGURAL

L.B. Pilots Go at Bakersfield

By BOB RUSKAUFF

The west's inboard motorboat racers, including some of the hottest shots of Long Beach and environs—which also means America—will open the waste 1954 race season before an expected 25,000 today at Bakersfield's Hart Memorial Park Lake.

For motorboaters the meet will lead off a spring circuit of four major races, which will follow May 2 at Parker, Ariz.; May 23 at Friant Dam, Fresno and climax May 30 at Marine Stadium here in the sixth annual Memorial Day Sweepstakes.

Several top Long Beach drivers will still be sitting on the beach today with outfits not quite ready for 1954 action. But the list will be imposing. In fact, one driver alone could almost make it that—250-pound bakerman Ed Olsen, U. S. king of the E-Racing runabout class in Cream Puff III.

Fred Hubbard with his 48-cubic-inch hydro Little Jim and possibly two or three new Long Beach Cracker Box runabouts will be in the array.

Added feature—the entire day is dedicated to Eddie Meyer, 60, of Hollywood, inboarder's old-timer. Eddie's son Bud will drive the 135 ex-record holder, Avenger IV.

At 60 Meyer pere promised his wife Alberta he'd quit driving. On his "last ride" he flipped and wrecked the boat and himself no little. The promise stuck. Now Eddie is stuck with it though he says:

"Retire? I'm fully repaired now and never felt better in my life. I was tricked."

OCEAN RACE BOOM

When boats which left outer harbor Saturday at 11 a. m. on their dual races around San Clemente and Catalina Islands reach haven at Newport Bay today, they'll be tied up ready to race in another top blue-water event.

This Saturday will be the Newport Harbor Yacht Club's Rhodes sloop.

annual windward-leeward Ship's Rock race, a 50-mile battle. The new SCYA policy of fewer and bigger ocean races, arranged to eliminate too much cruising to and from race sites, is paying off in record-shattering entry lists.

JAYSEE SERIES
A 14-mile all-class race from a starting line off Cabrillo Beach YC to Pt. Fermin and return, is expected to bring out no less than 25 boats to action in the opening 1954 event of CBYC at 1 p. m.

Other action on today's agenda includes windup of the Harry March trophy series for Lehman dinghies, and start of the spring series for all classes, both off Newport Harbor YC today.

Allied in importance with the Ship's Rock race, events of next week-end will feature the annual Junior College spring championships at Balboa. Defending is Pasadena City College. College state sailors will sail borrowed Rhodes sloops.

NEXT SUNDAY

Cycles on Carrell Flat

Another big crowd of motorcycle racing fans is expected to turn out at Carrell Speedway a week from today when J. C. Agajanian presents the first flat-track cycle sprint of the year.

Many national champions of the two-wheeler brigade will be back for the Class C cycle races, featuring 16 events and 100 laps of racing.

A 20-lap main event for experts and amateurs highlights the program. There'll be a 10-lap main for novice racers.

The series of five-lap races should provide plenty of action as the heavy bikes whirl over the course without brakes.

Oxford Wins Classic

LONDON — (AP) Oxford's lighter oarsmen proved superior rough water sailors on the choppy, wind-swept Thames River Saturday and won the 100th renewal of their crew racing classic against Cambridge by four and one-half lengths.

Larsen Ousts Mulloy, Gains Tennis Finals

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico.—(AP) Art Larsen, former United States champion from San Leandro, Calif., easily gained the men's singles final Saturday at the Caribe-Hilton International Tennis Tournament with a 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Gardner Mulloy of Miami.

Larsen will play Vic Seixas, Wimbledon champion from Philadelphia, today for the title. Seixas scored a straight set victory over Kurt Nielsen of Denmark in an earlier semi-final.

Doris Hart of Miami qualified to meet her doubles partner, Shirley Fry of Akron, O., in the women's singles final today by defeating Mrs. Joy Mottram of Britain, 6-3, 6-3.

Miss Hart and Miss Fry won the women's doubles title with a 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 triumph over Mrs. Baba Madden Lewis of Newtonville, Mass., and Betty Rosenquest.

Larsen will play Vic Seixas, Wimbledon champion from Philadelphia, today for the title. Seixas scored a straight set victory over Kurt Nielsen of Denmark in an earlier semi-final.

Homes Overlooking Ocean Go on Sale in San Pedro

The opening sale of 52 high-ground ocean front homes in the new community of SouthShores is announced by Fred W. Marlow, developer and builders representative of the residential seashore development located at the southerly terminus of Western Avenue at 25th Street, adjoining Palos Verdes Hills.

Located on ground well above the adjacent seashore, the homes overlook the Catalina Channel, the busy Los Angeles Harbor, the colorful shore line and ships at sea.

Marlow explained that the new homes, just being completed, are products of well known individual contractors; all are custom built and contain interesting innovations in harmony with the challenging marine beauty of the sites. The dwellings, of varied architectural designs, contain three and four bedrooms, have multiple baths and feature spacious picture windows and outdoor living areas.

Average prices of the initial homes offered range from $15,900 to $17,500. Improvements include sanitary city sewers, paved curvilinear streets, sidewalks, curbs and all city utilities including fire and police protection.

The property is a portion of the old Sepulveda Rancho held intact through the years. The SouthShores development contains over 400 acres and, when completed, will constitute a self-contained community with a modern shopping center, churches, stores and schools.

Marlow emphasizes the healthy smog-free climate of the new community, the extreme scarcity of close-in residential ocean frontage and the fine recreation facilities including fishing, swimming and boating in which SouthShores abounds.

The property is easily accessible from all parts of Los Angeles and Long Beach and will directly benefit by the Harbor Freeway now under construction.

The new homes are reached by driving south on Western Ave. southwest

Realtors to Hear Teacher Tuesday

"The Realtor's Greatest Asset" will be the subject of a talk to be given by Thomas J. Francis at the Tuesday Breakfast Forum of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, according to Hal General, program chairman for the month.

Francis is vice president of the Liberty group of 22 escrow companies located in Los Angeles County. The North Long Beach Escrow is a member of this group. Francis came to Los Angeles at an early age and has spent most of his life in the driving south on Western Ave. southwest

Easier Terms Now Offered

WITH SALES in his two newest units of luxury type homes continuing on record levels, L. S. Whaley, developer of Los Altos Village announced that he has worked out an agreement with FHA for easier down payments and lower monthly terms on many of the homes. This typifies the three-bedroom, two-bath and multiple-purpose room home offered in the units where a joint sales office is operated at 2800 Bellflower Blvd.

Second Halecrest Unit to Open

The Hale Co., builders of Halecrest Estates, Garden Grove, on April 10 will open Halecrest Estates No. II, also located in Garden Grove, for public inspection and purchase. Houses are in every stage of construction, with the model homes nearly completed.

Like the first unit, Halecrest Estates No. II will offer desirable qualities of construction and modern styling with the price advantages made possible by mass production methods. However, the homes in Halecrest Estates No. II will be entirely different in floor plans and will be of a much more de luxe character than those in the first unit.

Thus, future home owners may choose from a wide variety of homes in the luxurious Halecrest Estates No. II or in the more conservative, lower-priced Halecrest Estates.

The second unit will contain 156 three and four-bedroom, two-bath homes priced as low as $12,800. Down payments for veterans begin as low as $475, plus impounds.

Some Payments Cut on Los Altos Homes

A modification to ease both the down payment and the terms for amortization for the larger homes in his newest Los Altos units was announced Saturday night by L. S. Whaley.

The change in terms will become available in sales made on some of the homes effective today, the developer of the "Planned Community" of East Long Beach said. While Whaley was notified of the FHA terms modification he was awaiting full details.

The large homes in the 16th and 17th units just off 2800 Bellflower Blvd. now may be amortized over a 29-year period instead of the former 25 years.

A survey of buyers at Los Altos where Whaley offers homes for families of every size and income, shows that approximately 30 per cent of the thousands of new residents are business and professional men and executives, according to the developer.

It was noted that an additional 42 per cent of the buyers have been craftsmen, clerical workers, sales representatives and similarly-employed persons.

Whaley declared sales are continuing on record levels in the nearly sold-out 16th unit and the newly-opened 17th unit.

Large crowds every day in the week, are reported from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. in the furnished model homes, completely outfitted by Aaron Schultz.

WIDE STYLE RANGE
Popularity of the 16th unit and its style and price counterpart, the new 17th, was said to lie largely also in the wide range of style and size availabilities. The sales office for both units at 2800 Bellflower Blvd., is just south of Spring street, and north of the Los Coyotes Diagonal.

These homes, embodying all the distinguished features and engineering that go with a development which has won the National Award for Planned Communities, boast two to four bedrooms and one to two baths, and are priced from $11,750 to approximately $15,000.

Expect Crowd for Seminar

Walter E. Elieson of the U. S. Department of Commerce and Real Estate Association's one-day conference being held in Long Beach April 30, reports will open at 9 a. m., continuing from the many boards in the "Raise Your Score in '54." 22nd District.

To Expand

An apparent extension of Lakewood Estates in northeast Lakewood is planned by Jack Baskin, Inc., West Los Angeles. Sub-contract bids are being taken on 226 three-bedroom homes of 1150 square feet in each.

Carson Park Offers Low Down Payment

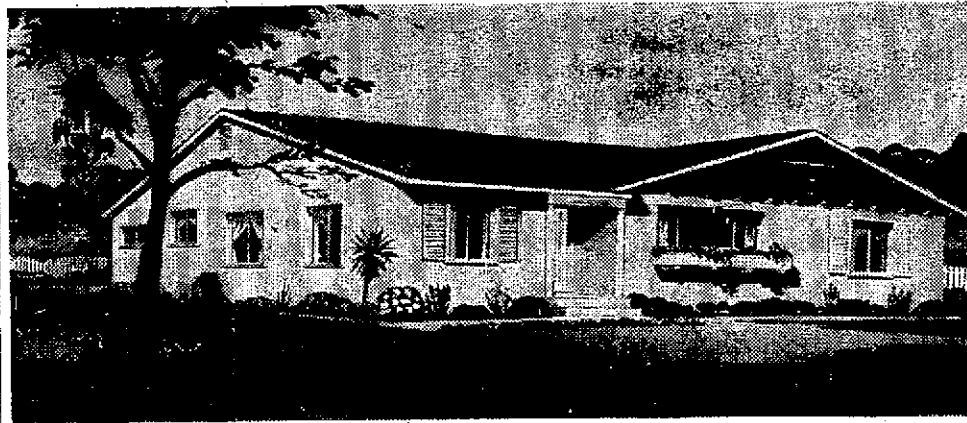

Veterans who have already used their GI rights for a home purchase may be eligible to buy a home under the FHA approved financing plan at Carson Park. It was announced by the builders of the Lakewood development. Down payments for veterans at Carson Park start at $295 for 2-bedroom homes and $495 for 3-bedroom homes. Any 2 or 3-bedroom home at Carson Park is available to non-veterans for $595 down.

Carson Park Mutual Homes features include steel sash windows, full double garages, garbage disposals, double drain sinks with heatproof, stainless laminated drainboards, Columbia steel kitchen cabinets, 57,000-BTU dual floor furnaces, cedar shingle roofs, inlaid linoleum, hardwood floors, separate service porch with laundry facilities, abundant wardrobe and walk-in closets, chrome accessories and hardware, and interior tones painted by a noted color stylist. "To offset the variable Southland climate all homes have rock wool insulation to provide an even temperature," officials said. All architect-designed homes are constructed under continuous FHA inspection to assure quality in materials and craftsmanship. Each home is landscaped with lawns, shrubs and trees at no additional cost to buyers.

Realty Course to Open April 19

The realty course, according to Herschel Hart, chairman, will start April 19 and will be held in the Realty Building, Room 25, have signed up for this five-week, 10-lesson class. The school has been running for the past 30 years. Subjects to be covered will be deeds, leases, synopsis of the real estate laws, instruments of finance, escrows, title insurance, selling and financing a sale. The course costs $30.

For Comfortable Living

LAWNS, trees and shrubs are already in at Carson Park Mutual Homes in Lakewood. Spacious two and three-bedroom homes provide modern, comfortable living.

He continued with the bank until 1952 and for the last 29 years was manager of the Fourth and Cherry Ave. branch.

"I handled so many escrows and real estate financing arrangements that I became well acquainted with most of the brokers," explained Bowen. "So with too much idle time after I retired from the bank, I took the examination and became a broker. I opened in January of 1953 and it certainly is a wonderful profession," said Bowen.

Long Beach representatives of the Sears Roebuck and Co. All-state Insurance Co. rate among the top producers in the nation. Multiple awards to the men have been presented by Stedman C. Gould, manager of the Long Beach Sears store, and Ray Lowe, resident manager of the Long Beach regional office.

Gould presented Carl Allen and W. E. Armstrong, each a gold cup for being top producers in automobile and resident liability production in the Long Beach regional sales office for the first period of the nationwide "Blue Chip Contest."

Ray Lowe, resident manager of the Long Beach regional office, presented to W. E. Armstrong a diamond signet ring as a reward for his outstanding production achievement in 1953 in the region. "Bill" Armstrong also received a trip to Chicago to attend the "Conference of Champions" for writing the most automobile insurance in the Pacific Coast zone.

"Wes" Godfrey won a trip to the Conference of Champions in April in Chicago as a reward for writing the most comprehensive personal liability policies in this zone.

Still Available in Lakewood

THE DEVONSHIRE is among the most popular stylings in four-bedroom, two-bath homes still available at Aldon's "King-Size" Lakewood Plaza units, situated in the Lakewood district at Studebaker Rd. and Los Santos Dr., one mile south of Spring St. The homes may be bought by veterans for nothing down, except costs and impounds.

Aldon's Plaza Unit
Is Nearing Sell Out

More than 80 per cent of the four-bedroom, two-bath "King-Size" unit is sold out at Lakewood Plaza, it was announced by Aldon Construction Co., developers of the property at Studebaker Rd. and Los Santos Dr., in the Lakewood district.

As noted by general sales agent E. (Billy) Hamburg, a continued no-down policy for veterans, except impounds and costs, and immediate occupancy should assure quick sell out of the remaining homes, which are still available in a wide selection of stylings that range from farmhouses, provincial and colonial to functional modern and conventional modern.

Priced at $13,000, the dwellings 1350 square feet of living area, plus a two-car garage. It was emphasized by the Aldon spokesman that the present unit of 509 four-bedrooms, two-bath homes would be the firm's last residential construction in the Lakewood area because of no more available land.

Features credited as sales factors in the current development are highlighted by the "queen" kitchens with their built-in "convertible" dining nook-breakfast bar-buffet-desk, garbage disposal unit, extra large cabinets, easy-to-clean washable enamel and double sink with coved, self-edged plastic top. Other features include rear living rooms linked by French doors to the out-of-doors; shower in one bathroom and tub in the other, with electric heaters in both; custom-designed lighting fixtures, 50-gallon automatic gas water heater, parquet block hardwood floors, two large wall furnaces, a minimum of seven closets and Aldon's written full year warranty.

Hamburg said the Aldon firm has now sold in the Lakewood area more than 6000 homes. Typifying the extensive variety of stylings and floor plans of the homes are three model residences. Furnished by Aaron Schultz, they are open daily from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Plumbing Group to Convene Here

The annual convention of the Associated Plumbing Contractors of California will be held at the Wilton Hotel here April 27, 28 and 29.

Officers of the association are: Richard Heald, Long Beach, president; Joseph C. Sand, San Francisco, vice president; John Holczer, San Diego, secretary-treasurer; and J. D. Mack, San Francisco, executive manager.

Hutton Office
Joins in Fete

The Long Beach brokerage office of E. F. Hutton & Co., 219 E. Broadway, joined in celebrating the company's first half century on the west coast.

A few years after the firm opened its first western office in San Francisco, the Los Angeles office was opened in 1907. California's population in those days was only 2,000,000, compared to some 12,000,000 today.

The present network of fully staffed California offices now numbers 15.

Through the years, E. F. Hutton & Co. has pioneered virtually every new brokerage development for better service to California investors.

The Long Beach office, with a staff of 13 persons, offers complete ticker and Trans-Lux service on the New York Stock Exchange and other major exchanges. Well-known in Southern financial circles, manager William C. Ferguson points out that during the firm's 31 years in Long Beach it has seen the city grow from a "quiet, residential beach resort to one of the leading cities of the west."

The company is now geared to serve the newer and smaller investor. A good example is the recently announced "monthly investment plan," which enables the middle-income investor to buy stocks on the "installment plan."

Attractive Kitchens

BUYERS ARE ATTRACTED to the Skylark Terrace Homes in Garden Grove by the many "extras" offered, says the Tietz Co., builders. This shows a kitchen in one of the models.

Buyer Looks for 'Extras' in His Home

"The rapid rate at which the luxury-type homes of Skylark Terrace are selling has proven that the GI buyer today is looking for a home filled with 'extras,'" says Harry S. Rinker, secretary-treasurer of the Tietz Construction Co., developers of the Garden Grove subdivision.

"Veterans and their families have been enthusiastic about these 3-and-4-bedroom homes on the low down payments allowed under GI financing," Rinker continued.

Lots with 85-foot frontages allow net livable areas of more than 1300 square feet, not including 2-car garages and covered terraces. There are sliding glass lanai walls in living rooms, plus unusually large windows throughout. Most lots are a quarter of an acre, and all are landscaped and bear as many as 12 mature orange trees. Buyers are offered a wide choice of color combinations.

Among the high lights are massive Roman fireplaces, interior planters, golden hardwood floors, plastered walls and ceilings and decorator-planned color schemes.

Provided for veterans and their families on GI terms are electrical features which include Thermador built-in ovens and ranges, Hotpoint dishwashers, G. E. garbage disposals, electric heaters, exhaust fans and flood-lighted yards.

Skylark Terrace, built to FHA standards, are priced from $14,300 to $15,000 and are available to veterans on down payments of $450.

Large Homes Selling Fast

Sales of Golden West Park, new subdivision of four-bedroom, 2-bath homes in centrally located Anaheim, continue at a brisk pace, according to Frank Hart, sales manager of Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents.

"Vets and non-vets alike were agreeably surprised to learn that so much in a home can be bought for so little, and on such easy terms," said Hart. "Families may move into these four-bedroom, 2-bath homes for a moving-in price of only $495," Hart continued.

There are 12 exterior elevations in a wide variety of ranch colors and a choice of floor plans. Existing orange trees are on each lot.

Curtis MacFadden and Kenneth Albright, who combined for the building firm, Mac-Bright, engineered and designed the homes.

The developers conducted research into the demand for houses for larger families before deciding to launch Golden West Park as exclusively a four-bedroom residential development engineered to meet the needs of the growing American family.

Living area of each house is about 1300 square feet, exclusive of two-car garages and porches. Living rooms are available on front or rear.

If desired, the master bedroom and one bath can be made a separate suite by closing a door.

From Long Beach, visitors drive east on Carson St. to Santa Ana Freeway and turn right. About four-fifths of a mile south of Carson St., visitors veer off the Freeway to Golden West Park.

Brookhurst Ave., Garden Grove. Built on large, tree-shaded sites, Lifetime Homes offer numerous built-in features including Thermador range and oven, mahogany kitchen cabinets, G. E. garbage disposal, breakfast nooks, forced air heat and fireplaces.

According to the builders, Lifetime Homes were planned down to the most minute detail for better living, including such items as Venetian blinds and shades, screened windows, insulated ceilings and lingerie dryers.

Prospective homeowners may inspect the furnished model Lifetime Home, which is open on Chapman Ave. just east of daily.

Comfort, Luxury Stressed in Lifetime Homes by Cox

"With modern planning and design, a modestly-priced home can offer many of the living comforts and luxuries usually associated only with much higher priced homes," according to Morrie Crawley, sales manager for Henry C. Cox and Affiliated Companies, developers of Lifetime Homes, which are available to veterans with no down payment, except in-pounds.

Among such features Crawley cited the 1 1/2 and two bathrooms with Pullman lavatories, ceramic tile showers and built-in exhaust fans, available in these new 2- and 4-bedroom Lifetime Homes now nearing completion on Chapman Ave. just east of daily.

By DICK KLINE

Editor to Witness Economy Run End

Dick Kline, Independent, Press-Telegram Auto Editor will leave Monday from Union Station, Los Angeles to be on hand at Sun Valley for the finish of the Mobil Gas Economy Run. The run will start from Los Angeles Monday morning and cover 1300 miles of the toughest driving ever, which will include more city driving than ever before. Sometime Wednesday forenoon 20 stock American production cars will cross the finish line at Sun Valley, Idaho.

SALESMEN HONORED—432 retail salesmen who earned membership in Chevrolet's Los Angeles Zone 100 and 50 Car Clubs for 1953 sales performance were honored at a banquet recently at the Moulin Rouge as the guests of the Chevrolet Motor Division.

J. W. Steele, Los Angeles zone manager, presided and pointed out that the members of the club totaled only 35 per cent of all Chevrolet retail salesmen in this area, yet produced 57 per cent of the new passenger car sales, 70 per cent new commercial and truck sales, 36 per cent of the used passenger car sales, 46 per cent used commercial and truck sales and 49 per cent of the total unit sales. First year-members of the clubs received membership pins. Veteran members had diamonds added to their pins. A diamond is added for each year of membership and many of the pins now have clusters of 10 or more diamonds.

Among the top Chevrolet salesmen honored from Long Beach were Jerry Choppin, Pete Kloehn, Billy Van, Robert Barr and Dave Davis from Beach City Chevrolet; R. Caigne, H. Gibbs, Harry Messersmith, Roy Roberts, Don Swanson, S. Issacs and Tommy Thompson from Cormier Chevrolet; Omer Bernard, Bruce Kerr, Ken Martin, Fred Holmsen, Darrel Figgins, Richard Lineberger and K. W. Pryor of Harbor Chevrolet.

ALONG THE ROW—The Studebaker Company presented a five-year pin to Al Roberts, parts manager for the M. Verne Holmes Studebaker dealership. Happy to report that Mickey Gould of the R. O. Gould Company is home from the hospital.

Clarence W. Richardson, owner of the Richardson Tire Company, welcome his son, Don, and his family last week. Don is on spring vacation from Stanford University. When he visited the company, Mr. Richardson sought to convince Don that the tire business is for him when he finishes school. Hal Reek, newly appointed general manager of the firm, joined in "selling" tires to Don.

NEW DRIVE-IN—Ground is scheduled to be broken in about two weeks on the new Los Altos drive-in theater that Milt Arthur, Long Beach theater magnate, will erect. Plans, being completed, are certain to draw world-wide attention for it will be a four-screen theater and will cost nearly $1,000,000.

Now Offered in Garden Grove

AVAILABLE IN BOTH three and four bedrooms, the Casas Lindas Estates of 40 new FHA homes will be opened formally today in Garden Grove. The homes are designed around a central hall system.

Casas Lindas Homes Sets Opening Today

Casas Lindas Estates, 40 newly completed FHA homes in Garden Grove, will be formally opened today, according to Walker & Lee, Inc., exclusive sales agents for the developers, Eastern Builders Co.

A model home, professionally decorated, will be open to the public on Ninth St., between Garden Grove Blvd. and Chapman Ave. These "Master-Bilt" three and four-bedroom houses are available on FHA terms with down payments from $2750.

Each Casas Lindas floor plan is based on the central hall pattern. The central hall system is recognized as most efficient and easiest to maintain. Floor plans include service porches and breakfast areas.

Redwood and stucco siding combined in a variety of traditional exteriors.

Features include two bathrooms, touch-plate lighting systems with master control panel, forced-air heating, landscaped lots with wide set-back lines.

Natural birch cabinets, electric exhaust fans, dishwasher, garbage disposers and ceramic tile counter tops are keynotes of an efficient kitchen.

From Long Beach visitors may drive east on Seventh St., which becomes Garden Grove Blvd., to Ninth St. in Garden Grove and turn left.

Termites May Infest Both New and Old Structures

Termites make no preference as to the age of a home they attack, says Roger Kander, manager of the Long Beach office of the Southern California Tract Termite Control, a leader in the field of pest control. The office is at 6735 Long Beach Blvd.

"New homes are subject to attack as are old ones," says Kander. "Termites have not yet learned to distinguish between the ages of homes nor do they attack only the homes of those who can afford the expense of treating. In many cases infestations remain undetected and are a part of the structural members that go into the construction of a new home."

The Southern California Tract Termite Control suggests pre-treating with 20-year pest control service. Treating in mass production is being accomplished through the use of specially made tanks, mounted atop 1½-ton trucks. The treaters also are aided by improved portable equipment.

The manager came to Long Beach after discharge from the U. S. Marine Corps following World War II, attended Whittier College and received his bachelor's degree from the Long Beach State College.

Schooling programs are given employees under the direction of Leon Saddler.

Also serving on the staff is John Ige, the bug man, so called because John specialized in the study of insects at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, receiving his Bachelor of Science Degree in entomology.

Robert Sherman, accountant and credit manager, serves on the board of directors. Trained in accounting and business administration at Northwestern School of Commerce and a veteran of 42 months service in the Air Force, Sherman had administrative duties for two years in the European theater of operations.

Also serving on the board of directors is Julius W. Feldman, attorney.

It has been proven from experience that the "big" pest control jobs which cost each home owner hundreds of dollars are caused through neglect, says Kander. This negligence in most cases is due to home owners not being aware of infestations that have started and are continuing to multiply. In almost all cases infestations are found to have existed unnoticed for long periods of time until trained, licensed inspectors search out the evidence which reveals the true condition.

Sears Men Here Win Phoenix Trips

Two men from the Sears Store of Long Beach won free trips to Phoenix for a week of fun and relaxation at the Jukaki Inn, for themselves and their wives, the store announced Saturday.

Robert L. Chatterton, supervisor of appliance sales, won the trip when his department sold the greatest number of automatic gas clothes dryers in competition with other Sears stores in Southern California. James W. Hudson was the top sales person in the contest and also won a trip. Norman Mickelson, sales promotion manager of Southern Counties Gas Co., made the awards to the winners.

Opening Tract of Low-Priced Homes

Special preview showing of 217 new Award Homes begins today in Chapman Gardens, Garden Grove. All have 3 bedrooms or 2 bedrooms and den and will sell for $7495 full price. Non-vets will be able to move in for $299 with low monthly payments.

Six new completely furnished model homes will be open to the public today and home seekers will be given a choice of 6 different exteriors at Chapman Gardens. A further choice of 6 different floor plans is available. According to the developers, Volk-McLain Co., these are the largest homes on the market today for $7495. The houses contain an average of 950 square feet. Lots are wide and contain 7200 square feet and more.

The new Award Homes were designed by Architect Edward H. Pickett, A. I. A. Exterior and interior colors were selected by William Manker, color consultant.

All utilities are in and paid for and property improvements include sewers, paved streets and concrete curbs. Since Chapman Gardens occupies a site which was formerly an orange grove on the northern outskirts of Garden Grove, some lots contain full grown orange trees.

Featured in Award Homes are natural hardwood kitchens, Holly dual gas furnaces, covered carports, wide paved drives and interior walls of sheet rock. All have colorful Bermuda roofs, topped with white, red, pink and gray crushed rock.

Chapman Gardens is served by markets, schools and churches in nearby Garden Grove. Bus transportation to downtown Los Angeles is only a few minutes away.

The model homes, which are open today, are located on Harbor Blvd., Garden Grove between Lampson Ave. and Chapman Ave., just a short distance south of Firestone Blvd.

Kitchens in Brookhurst Homes Attracting Buyers

"The kind of kitchen you read about in home magazines, but seldom see in reality" is the way Henry C. Cox & Affiliated Co., developers of Brookhurst Park Electric Award Homes, describe the attractive, labor-saving layout of these ultramodern all-electric kitchens. Built-in features include a "no-stoop," fully automatic Thermador electric oven and range. Ample storage space is provided in hardwood, natural grained birch cabinets. There is plenty of conveniently arranged work surface. Lavish use of tile makes these scientifically planned kitchens easy to maintain as well as pleasant and colorful. Cove base linoleum and the complete elimination of any hard-to-clean crevices also make maintenance easy.

According to salesmanager Morrie Crawley, the Electric Award kitchens exemplify only a few of the 42 luxury features offered in these three-bedroom, two-bath homes located at Gilbert and Lampson, Garden Grove. Brookhurst Park Electric Award Homes may be purchased with down payments as low as $2450. FHA terms for non-veterans. Terms for veterans begin as low as $900 down payment.

THE MONTEREY, shown here, is one of six different designs offered at Chapman Gardens, Garden Grove. Non-vets can move into these three-bedroom Award Homes for $299, with low monthly payments. Full price is $7495. Home buyers also have their choice of six different floor plans. Six model homes are open for inspection today on Harbor Blvd. at Chapman Ave., Garden Grove.

Charlotte Abrams, Lt. Sommerfeld to Wed

Miss Charlotte Ann Abrams

By MARY LOU ZEHMS
Press-Telegram Women's Editor

Romantic news from across the ocean takes precedence over the social scene in Long Beach today with the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. William Carl Abrams of the engagement of their daughter, Charlotte Ann, to Lt. (jg) Nicholas Ulrich Sommerfeld, USNR, son of Mrs. Martin Sommerfeld of Northampton, Mass., and the late Professor Sommerfeld.

The popular and attractive daughter of the Abrams, is now teaching at the Dependents' School on the Port Lyautey Base in French Morocco and is hostess to her parents who are on a two-month trip through North Africa and Europe. The family home is at 3955 California Ave.

The announcement was made Friday at the Port Lyautey quarters of Capt. and Mrs. John Leslie Melgaard (she is the former Carol Badger of Long Beach). Capt. Melgaard, commander, Naval Activities at Port Lyautey, will soon become commander of Long Beach Naval Base.

Miss Abrams has distinguished herself in the academic field during high school and college. She was graduated from Long Beach Polytechnic High School in 1949 with Gold Scholarship Seal, served as Commissioner of Organizations and also was awarded the Gold "L" with Jewel. Last year she was graduated "With Distinction" from the University of Arizona, where she was elected to Pi Lambda Theta, women's educational honorary; Spurs, and the Dean's List.

Charlotte's many other activities at the university included the office of vice president of Gamma Phi Beta sorority; member of the Social Life Committee; Senior Class treasurer; attendant for the Desert Queen and president of the Future Teachers' Association at Arizona. She is listed in Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

Lt. Sommerfeld prepared for college at Deerfield Academy where he was elected to "Cum Laude," and was graduated from Princeton University where he was a member of Cottage Club. He also is a Harvard Law School graduate where he belonged to Lincoln's Inn. Since his graduation, he has been on active duty with the Navy. Prior to that time he had been associated with the Berkshire Evening Eagle in Pittsfield, Mass., and with the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood.

The couple plan to marry in September.

Harbor City Church Scene of Duncan-M'Daniel Nuptials

By MARY VONDERAHE

Dover, Delaware, will be the temporary home of newly-wed Mr. and Mrs. Harold Duncan, who plan to live near his U. S. Air Force Base for several months. In a ceremony performed last Sunday afternoon in Harbor City Foursquare Church, the young serviceman claimed as his bride, Miss Wanda McDaniel, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Curtis McDaniel of 2248 W. 243rd St., Lomita.

The bridegroom is the son of the Claude Duncans of 1338 W. Carson St. Rev. Marion Piles officiated in the presence of 250 wedding guests.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a bouffant gown of nylon and lace. Her fingertip veil of nylon illusion was caught with a coronet of ruffled tulle embroidered with seed pearls. On her white Bible she carried stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Robert Williams attended as matron of honor. Brenda Purcel, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl and Michael Turman, cousin of the bride, served as ring bearer. Misses Lois Finley and Barbara Curren served as guest registrars. Ushering were J. C. Taylor and Robert Williams.

Both young persons were graduated from Narbonne High, where she was active in social and service organizations and he was an outstanding athlete.

Following the reception they left for a honeymoon and will motor east, visiting en route with relatives in Arkansas.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Lowen of 904 Beech Ave. entertained as their house guests their daughter, Neva June, and her children last week end.

Mrs. Arthur W. Radford, wife of Adm. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was the guest in whose honor, Mrs. Charles S. Thomas, wife of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (soon to be Navy secretary), entertained at luncheon at the Chevy Chase Club.

In the company were three ladies whose husbands are Congressmen from California: Mrs. Craig Hosmer, Mrs. Pat Hillings, and Mrs. Edgar Hiestand. Also, Mrs. Herman Phleger, wife of the legal adviser to the Department of State; Mrs. Thomas Gates, wife of the Navy undersecretary; and Mrs. James Smith, wife of the Navy assistant secretary for air; Mrs. George Holderness, wife of Rear Adm. Holderness, and Mrs. Robert Dennison, wife of Rear Adm. Dennison.

The first Chinese bishop ever consecrated in the United States, the Rt. Rev. Quentin K. Y. Huang, preached to a large congregation at a mid-week Lenten service at All Souls Memorial Episcopal Church in Washington.

Prior to the service, Bishop Huang, known as the "Bishop of the Burma Road" addressed the Men's Club supper meeting. Bishop Huang discussed the conditions that confronted him in Communist China. Bishop Huang was the first bishop of Yungkwai. His book, "Now I Can Tell," will be released in May.

At the Armed Forces Hostesses Association musicale, Mrs. Eisenhower was presented with a corsage of rare cymbidium orchids by the association's president, Mrs. H. A. Fravel. The orchids had been sent from Honolulu by Mrs. George Russell.

Mrs. Louis de Steiguer, widow of Adm. de Steiguer, former commander in chief of the United States Battle Fleet, entertained at luncheon on Sunday at the Sulgrave Club in honor of the Chief of Naval Operations and Mrs. Robert B. Carney.

Miss Carol Nation, who is home on holiday from the University of North Carolina, assisted her parents, Capt. and Mrs. M. A. Nation when they entertained at a brunch at the Town House in Georgetown.

Young Adult Group Meets

A meeting of the newly organized young adult group of the Lakewood-Bellflower Jewish Community Center will be held today at 8 p. m. at the home of Marlys Booth, 2802 E. Dashwood, Lakewood. Bowling will be enjoyed by all after the meeting.

Dave Fingerhut, Carrie Landau, Herb Ruderman, Marlys Booth, Ted Chorack, Arlene Mendelson, and Larry Booth, members of the organizing committee, have announced that many affairs are being planned by this social club. Mrs. Lou Rosen, wife of the president of the Lakewood-Bellflower Jewish Community Center, is adviser.

All single young adults in their 20s are invited to attend.

Pair to Wed

The engagement of Miss Virginia G. Goodenough of Long Beach to Leslie R. Jacob is being announced. The bride-to-be, daughter of Mrs. Mary T. Goodenough of St. Louis, Mo., is a graduate of Sacred Heart Convent. Her fiancé is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. Jacob of St. Louis. They plan a fall wedding.

Mrs. Paul H. Ramsey and Mrs. Courtney Shands also assisted Mrs. Nation at the party. Capt. Nation is commanding officer of the USS Hornet.

Spring is indeed a fact when the Marine Corps' historic sunset parades are once more scheduled.

The first parade of the season will be on April 9 at the Marine Barracks when Defense Secretary Wilson will receive the honors.

The troops will be reviewed at 5:15. General and Mrs. Shepherd will be hosts to Mrs. Wilson. A reception will follow the parade.

Mrs. Hudson to Address Education Group Parley

Mrs. Elizabeth Hudson of the Long Beach Board of Education will speak on the topic, "Teachers as Moral and Spiritual Leaders of Youth" at a breakfast this morning at the Arrowhead Springs Hotel. The occasion is the two-day spring conference of Pi Lambda Theta, national honorary society for women in education, which opened yesterday. Also on this morning's program will be selections by Miss Marion Zinn, teacher of voice at Hamilton Junior High School. Both are members of the chapter.

At today's luncheon, speaker will be Mrs. Jane Hood, consultant in teacher education, California State Department of Education, whose subject will be "Developing Mature Leadership."

Special guest at the semiformal banquet last evening was Mrs. Gladys Potter, deputy superintendent of the Long Beach School System. Twelve Long Beach members of the organization are at the conclave, including Helen H. Thompson, 1953-55 president.

The Long Beach chapter will be hostess chapter for the Founders' Day banquet in November, when about 200 will be present. The local group has two projects, collection of magazines and home sections of Sunday editions of community newspapers, as well as educational periodicals, which are sent in bundles to teachers and other educational leaders in the world, and secondly, the presentation of a "Teacher Recruitment Program" on the Hancock Educational television station some time in May.

At the March meeting of the Long Beach Pi Lambda Theta chapter held in the Belmont Shore Bank recreation center, plans were made for the chapter's participation at today's conference. Dr. Gladys Corvill, librarian at UCLA, was a special guest. Discussed was the use of the group's publication, "Educational Horizons," as to possibilities of serving a useful purpose in the Long Beach city libraries, City College and State College libraries. Local members will present a panel on this topic at the conference.

Naomi Miller in Charge of Installation

President Naomi Miller, Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary 1746, has been appointed as co-chairman for the fourth annual mass installation for VFW posts and auxiliaries. Active in her own unit, Mrs. Miller also is completing her year as district guard.

Others assisting Mrs. Miller on the committee, representing the Long Beach area, are Misses Lyla Hougardy, Fran Moore, and Phyllis Withee, Auxiliary 1392; Janet Charter, banquet chairman, Auxiliary 279.

Installing officer for the women will be Mrs. Mary McFall, senior vice president, department of California, from Hawthorne. The event will be open to the public.

Music Club to Present Style Show

One of the gala events of the week will be the annual Symphony in Fashions, which is being sponsored by members of Woman's Music Club. Setting will be Lakewood Country Club, and the date is 1:30 p. m. Wednesday. The president, E. B. Leihammer, and other officers, will welcome members and guests. A throng of many hundreds is expected to attend this colorful style pageant which is being presented with all the verve and originality characteristic of talented members of this active club.

Theme, a musical one of course, is "Gaité Parisienne," a la Offenbach's charming ballet, and advance notices give promise not only of a delightful afternoon's entertainment but of a dramatic presentation of the latest fashions as well, as displayed by the Parisienne, 539 E. Ocean Blvd.

Mrs. Hugh B. McDuffee, chairman of the ways and means committee, is general chairman for the event. The public is invited and tickets may be procured from Mrs. McDuffee at her home, 4639 Pepperwood Ave., who announces that while advance reservations are being requested, there will be a small number of tickets available at the door Wednesday. Tea will be served after the performance.

Commentator will be Virginia Waters, and hospitality chairman, Mrs. Ethel Rine, and her committee, will assist throughout the afternoon. Mrs. Andre Giuliany, in charge of decorations, reveals that a pink and black color scheme will be used. A string quintet will provide incidental background music.

Workshop to Stage 'The Merry Widow'

By SUE ROBERGE

Once again the unforgettably charming Sonia Sodoya—perhaps, you prefer to call her "The Merry Widow"—will reappear and breathtaking waltz scenes unfold anew as opening night of Franz Lehar's beloved operetta approaches.

The curtain will go up Friday evening in Municipal Auditorium's Concert Hall to reveal Pat Zieg as the beguiling widow in the Singer's Workshop's 12th and most lavish production since its founding in 1920. Succeeding performances will be Saturday and Sunday nights.

STARRING as the widow's Prince Charming, Danilo, will be tenor Harvey Wagner, a young but accomplished veteran of Workshop operettas.

Other principals are Baroness Popoff, Betty Kimber; Baron Popoff, Don MacRoberts; Madame Nikoff, Fern Zuniga; Nikoff, Bob Hope; Count Zanzara, Ken Waltz; Raymond, William Dusan; Madame Derval, Hazel Thompson; Derval, Bill Johnson; Marquis de LaCroche, Johnny Green.

Joining in the staging of such lulling and remembered melodies as "Villia," "Merry Widow Waltz," "Maxim's," "Love in My Heart" and "Women," will be an 80-voice chorus, a corps de ballet of 30, and a 16-piece orchestra.

This is the first Workshop production to feature such ambitious dancing numbers. Ballet director is Albert Ruez.

Overall director is Henri C. Scanlon, co-founder of this local nonprofit municipal group. He has starred in many workshop productions and has sung with several operetta companies including the Breckon-Savoy Gilbert and Sullivan Company and the L. A. Civic Light Opera Company.

OTHERS ACTIVE behind scenes are C. Blaine Ellefson, music director; Rose Bishop, assistant music director; Cecil Julian and Babette Mann, costumes; Jim Burnett, sets.

Aim of the workshop, which presents two productions a year, is to teach singers and dancers every phase of theater work. Citizens from all walks of life volunteer their time and work as a team to stage spectacular musicals for the community.

Tickets for Friday, Saturday and Sunday performances are on sale at Municipal Auditorium's box office.

Bach's Viola da Gamba

A unique program is scheduled as the last in the Municipal Art Center's current series of chamber music concerts at 4 p. m. next Sunday at the Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Entertaining at this free public concert will be the Renaissance Music Society of UCLA playing a concert of 16th and 17th century music on the authentic ancient instruments from the world-famous collection of Dr. Erich Lachmann.

This collection, now housed at UCLA, contains the viola da gamba, which was made especially for Johann Sebastian Bach and which will be used in the concert.

ARTISTS TO PERFORM are Harry Blumberg, viola d'amore; Rebecca Hathaway, viola da gamba; Carol Rosenstiel, harpsichord; Myron Sandler and Tibor Zelig, treble viol.

Selections to be played are Palestrina's "Ricercari for Four Viols," Handel's "Sonata for Viola da Gamba and Harpsichord," Ariosti's "Sonata for Viola d'Amore and Harpsichord," Locke's "Concert for Four Viols" and Leclair's "Trio-Sonata for Viola d'Amore, Viola da Gamba and Harpsichord."

A reception honoring Dr. and Mrs. Lachmann and the Renaissance Music Society will be held before and after the concert. The public is invited to the reception as well as the concert.

Mrs. van Hook to Represent Sisterhood Luncheon Wednesday Speech Club

Mrs. Christine van Hook will represent Copa de Ora Toastmistress Club of Lynwood in the area-wide speech contest slated for April 14 at Lynwood Community Center.

She had competed among club members of Copa de Ora, using as subject, "Saucer Symposium." Other competing members included Clara Little and Mary Skiriston.

Ada Bridge and Genevieve Parker were timekeepers and serving as tellers were Ruth Wagner, Kay Kersey and Alice Morgan.

Judges for the speak-off were Thelma Cook, chairman of Council 9, International Toastmistress Clubs; Marilyn Olsson, Walnut Park Toastmistress Club; Hugh Shira Lynwood Toastmasters Club, and Evelyn Hamil, supervising nurse at Rancho Los Amigos.

A luncheon given by Temple Sinai Sisterhood will take place Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. at Temple Sinai Auditorium, Seventh St. and Molino Ave.

A Passover program is being planned, and Mrs. Sylvia Strum, program chairman, with the co-operation of the Sinai Book and Gift Shop, has arranged a display of cards, books, records and religious articles symbolic of the season.

Hostesses for the luncheon are Mrs. Esther Alpert, Esther Cohn, Ann Enmons, Alice Fleischer, Leonore Frank, Estelle Halpern, Ruth Haupt, Esther Leddel, Lil Ross, Sarah Roska, Rose Schwartz, Dora Share and Emma Stein.

Democratic Study Club to Hear Dr. Appelgate

By RUTH REECE
Press-Telegram Club Editor

Dr. Kenneth W. Appelgate, instructor in the social service department of Long Beach City College where he teaches anthropology and European history, will be the featured speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Democratic Women's Study Club at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Marine Room of the Wilton Hotel. Mrs. Joseph C. Parker will preside. Dr. Appelgate will have as his topic, "Your City College."

At the morning session starting at 10:30 o'clock, reports of officers and committee heads will be made. Mrs. Zita Remley will discuss legislation, and Mrs. Eva Moise will present current events.

An especially interesting study hour has been arranged by the chairman, Mrs. E. B. Rinearson, who will present a "Political Quiz," with membership participation. Reservations for the luncheon are to be made by Tuesday with Mrs. John A. Sullivan, first vice president.

University Women

Young mothers who can give understanding word to their children in disaster, teachers responsible for calming crowded classes of children, veteran women who remember the earthquake in 1933, are expected to attend the "Survival" program of the American Association of University Women Tuesday at Municipal Art Center. This is a part of the government's national plan for defense.

The civil defense and social studies committees, headed by Mrs. C. W. Braswell, George R. Lackey, J. R. McCleskey, George L. Curtis, and A. J. McKillop, will present Roland R. Bach, director of the American Red Cross of the Long Beach area, Lt. William J. Mooney, assistant director of civil defense, and Ernest Glaser, director of Red Cross mass feeding, in this disaster program. They will limit their panel discussion to the part and preparation which the home makes to the emergency plans.

Bach will emphasize the psychological preparation which should be made by parents to their children in planning for disaster by enemy action. Lt. Mooney will tell how police will direct public works, schools, utilities, transportation, communications, and how fires will be fought. The Red Cross, in the event of disaster, will feed, clothe and house victims. Glaser will tell of preparation of vast quantities of food.

A new department in the local club, civil defense stems from an order from AAUW headquarters in Washington, D.C., asking the 1257 branches, nationwide, to organize a plan to take a leading part in the event of disaster by enemy action.

In a short business session before the program, new officers and directors of the club will be elected. Mrs. Roland Bach will preside.

Republican Women

April meeting of the 18th Congressional District Republican Women's Federated will take place at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Supper Room of the Lafayette Hotel, with the vice president, Mrs. Richard Bixby, in charge, in the absence of the president, Mrs. George P. Taubman.

After a brief business session, the speaker of the day will be introduced by the legislative chairman, Mrs. Paul Thompson. Speaker is N. Bradford Trenham whose subject will be "Your Tax Prospects as of April 7, 1934."

Auxiliary Plans

At a meeting of the Compton Eagles' Auxiliary Wednesday evening, the planning of a Mother's Day dinner was discussed and the date set for May 12. Nominations for officers to be elected April 7 were made. The meeting was a celebration of birthday night, when all members with a birthday or anniversary during the month were remembered by their secret pals.

General manager of the California Taxpayers' Association, Trenham was a Rhodes Scholar from Arizona at Oxford during 1921-24. He received his master's degree from the University of Southern California in 1928. Among many other honors, he was a member of the commission for the reorganization of city government in Los Angeles during 1934, is an author on education, taxation, population and social philosophy and other kindred subjects, and for the past 25 years has been a consultant for many federal, state and local commissions for the improvement of governmental efficiency and economy.

Mrs. F. E. Guber, ways and means chairman, will give a report of the recent rummage sale, and will also hold her sale from her "Do-Re-Mi for G.O.P." Mrs. F. E. Hagelberg, press chairman, will give a report of the School for Politics convention held in Long Beach. Coffee will be served at the close of the program by the hospitality chairman, Mrs. Gustaf Erickson, and co-chairman, Mrs. John Eagleton, and committee members.

Landscaping Talk

"We'd like a nice shade tree, but we don't know the proper place to plant it in our yard," is a typical remark often made by the average home owner in the Plaza.

In order to answer such questions, the Plaza Garden Club has asked Edward R. Lovell, noted landscape architect of the Southland, to speak at the club's next meeting set for 8 p. m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Richard Huizenga, 2515 Ostrom Ave.

Lovell will use actual scaled drawings of Plaza homes to show how proper landscape line and design will complement the good features, or will obliterate the bad features, of the architecture of the buildings.

"Landscaping your home," believes Lovell, "should encompass the use of the land and should consider the ornamental aspects of the yard as well." He also thinks that trees should be the dominating features of landscaping, to be used to frame the house and to provide shade, but never to be allowed to interfere with a lovely view.

Lovell, a native of Long Beach, was graduated from Oregon State College, and has been in practice in Long Beach since 1912. He resides with his wife and three sons at 3916 Pine Ave.

Presiding will be the president, Mrs. Norman L. Chapman. Recent appointments made by her include Mrs. Irving E. Silvers, benevolence chairman; Mrs. Effie Powell, welfare chairman; and Jack Maxwell, who was named to assist Norman Chapman, plant chairman, with the plant table. Plaza residents with problems concerning placement of trees, shrubs, or flower beds, play areas and patios, are invited to attend this meeting.

Easter Music

North Long Beach Women's Club will meet at noon Wednesday in Houghton Park clubhouse for luncheon and a delightful Easter musical program. Mrs. J. L. Montague will preside.

Group Seven, Mrs. Martha Milford, chairman, and her committee, will have charge of the luncheon. Reservations are to be made with the reservation chairman, Mrs. Rawlin Abrahamson, 201 Adams St. Mrs. Virgil Koon, program chairman, has arranged an Easter music program featuring Miss Harriet Wood, harpist, and Miss Alice Felkner, vocalist.

Attention is called to the forthcoming annual flower show sponsored by the club. The affair is slated for May 1 and 2 at the NLB Public Library and will be open to the public. It will be noncompetitive, and the club hopes that this feature will attract many exhibits which otherwise would not be shown. Anyone interested may obtain further information from Mrs. William Lambe, 6243 Lewis Ave.

Ebell to View Australian Pictures

A treat is in store for Ebell Club members and their guests tomorrow when Arthur O'Connor, Australian reporter and foreign correspondent, will show a color film on Australia. Entitled, "Australian Wonderland," the picture will include many beautiful scenic views, the native tribal dances and customs of the people. Mrs. Fred E. King will preside.

Group U, Mrs. H. K. Allen chairman, will serve the luncheon.

Home Sweet Home—It's a Dangerous Place

Home is the most dangerous place in the world for the average American.

Nearly 4 million people are injured in their homes each year—with home accidents totalling almost four times as many as automobile injuries. Many of these accidents in the home are minor, and can be remedied by prompt first aid.

It is suggested that Americans observe "Emergencies Don't Wait Week," October 5-11, by checking the contents of their first aid kits.

You can prepare one or more attractive emergency kits for your home that will go a long way toward helping you meet any emergency.

Buy one (or several) small plastic boxes at the five-and-ten-cent store. If you plan to keep your emergency kit in one room, paint or wallpaper it to match the color scheme of the room. Keep it in an easily accessible place. Or you can prepare several smaller boxes and keep them in the "danger zones" around the house, the rooms where most home accidents occur—the bedroom, the kitchen, the children's room.

Stock your kit with the essential first-aid items—adhesive tape, band-aids, bandages, sterile cotton, cotton tipped applicators, a needle, a piece of soap, an antiseptic and a surgical ointment.

When preparing an emergency kit, it is a good idea to use only new first-aid equipment. Tincture of iodine, for example, may burn the tissues around a wound if it has been kept so long that the alcohol has evaporated. Other antiseptics may increase in strength in a similar manner. Some, like hydrogen peroxide, break down with age and become ineffective. Mark your bottles with the purchase date so you'll know exactly how old they are.

Since more home accidents happen in the bedroom than in any other room, you may want to prepare a drawer of your night table as an emergency "kit." The drawer can be conveniently partitioned into sections by cardboard or masonite board. If you use a drawer for this purpose, keep only first-aid equipment in it. Should an accident occur, you don't want to waste precious minutes rummaging for the needed items.

Young People Must Choose Goals They Wish to Achieve

By ANGELO PATRI

The young people now in the high schools of the country have troubles of their own. Every generation born into this world of care does have just that, and each feels that his are surely the worst ever known. Maybe they are, but nobody will ever be sure of that, so there is little use in thinking about it. All the thought that can be spared should go toward finding a way out of the difficulties and into clear roads to success.

First I would say to these young people: Stop fussing about what you cannot do and, fixing your goal firmly in your mind, work toward it in faith. The faith you have in yourself is what is going to carry you over all the difficulties that arise. You can have that faith, which is power beyond any you will ever know, if you accept the fact that all the power you will ever need to do anything, to be anybody, was set in you before you were born. What you have to do is to call on it, use it and keep your mind on the task you set yourself.

Don't be discouraged because you seem to be failing in the direction in which you want to succeed. If it is your earnest desire to succeed, you will. Maybe you have not developed, as yet, the power necessary to learn the subject? There have been people, some of them world famous, who did not master a subject essential to their success until long after the accepted time for that mastery had passed. But, because they were dead in earnest, because they worked with all their mind and with all their body and soul in quest of their goal, they made it. First, faith. Faith in yourself and faith in the work you want to do. So many people mix a wish with a will and give up saying, "I just can't make it. I haven't it in me." Nobody with a grain of faith like a mustard seed says that. Wishing is no good unless it is backed up by will, the will to work, the will to endure, the will to sacrifice. Success in any field demands these. Don't say you haven't them in you. You have. All you will ever need of power was set in you before you were born, remember. Call on it. Encourage its growth by making use of it. Work for your goal, work at it, and have faith in it and yourself and you will become the personage you long to be.

Experts Show Keen Sense of Analysis

When today's hand was played, North bid three diamonds in the hope of finding safety in one of the minor suits. Lester Bachner, a prominent New York attorney, who has been my partner in several national championships, thereupon jumped to four spades with the South hand, expecting to have a fine play for game even if North happened to have only a singleton spade. Bachner was a bit disconcerted to discover that North had no spades at all. As he won the first trick with the king of clubs he noted that he would probably lose a trump, a heart and two diamonds—if the opponents were alert enough to take their tricks.

The best chance for the contract was to develop a sort of squeeze and this could be done only if the enemy came through with a bit of co-operation. Declarer's first step was to lead a low heart toward's dummy's king. West played the nine, and dummy won with the king. Bachner then returned a heart. West winning with the ten. West continued with the ace of hearts, and South ruffed. Bachner's next step was to lead a low trump. East won with the five of spades and could have defeated the contract immediately by leading the ace of diamonds followed by a low diamond to his partner's king. Instead, not seeing his danger, East returned another heart to make declarer ruff again.

After ruffing this heart, declarer led out all of his trumps, beginning with the ace and the king. When he led his last trump, he had two diamonds and a club in his own hand, saving the queen of diamonds and two clubs in the dummy.

East had to save two clubs, since otherwise declarer would lead his queen and overtake with dummy's ace. If East saved the blank ace of diamonds, it was clear that South would cash the queen of clubs and then lead a diamond to make East lead a club to dummy's ace.

East tried to save himself by discarding the ace of diamonds, but Bachner could then lead a diamond to force out West's king and thus set up his own jack. West had discarded his last heart, so there was no longer any way to defeat the contract.

Janet Hart's Troth Announced

Joining the ranks of brides-to-be is Miss Janet Hart, who is engaged to Glen Mitchell. The betrothal news was announced at a tea Saturday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Hart, 3636 Walnut Ave.

Miss Hart, a graduate of Flintridge Sacred Heart Academy and USC, is an elementary teacher at Sutter School. She is affiliated with Bachelorettes and Pi Beta Phi.

Son of Mrs. Harold Johnston of Los Angeles and Graham Mitchell of Whittier, the future bridegroom is in the Naval Reserve at Los Alamitos Air Base. He is a graduate of USC and plans to continue law study after being discharged from the Navy. His fraternity is Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Assisting Mrs. Hart at the tea were Meses. A. A. Williams, Kenneth Jacques, Eugene Pierson, Robert Ivey, Wesley Rush and Miss Sharon Hilleary.

Cards in a silver basket tied with yellow satin ribbon told of the betrothal. Featuring a yellow and white color scheme, Mrs. Hart centered the tea table with yellow roses, white stock and yellow tulips.

Pledging Ends With Ceremonies

Initiation of new members in the four coed service clubs at Santa Ana College climaxed the recently completed pledge period, according to Miss Agness Todd Miller, dean of women.

Candlelight ceremonies were conducted by Louise Wilson, president of Las Gitanas, in the home of Mrs. Orville Knutsen, when seven new members were welcomed, including Jo Ann McCracken and Lois Pratt of Garden Grove, Ruth Beutler of Orange, Jackie Anderson, Barbara Buehner, Kay Pence and Robert Temple of Santa Ana.

Three initiates were admitted to Las Hidas at a dinner at Knott's Berry Farm, when President Connie Durham welcomed Josephine Courreges and Jeanette Rosenberg of Santa Ana and Carol May of Orange.

Miss Leta Blythe, faculty adviser for the Spinsters, entertained the group in her home, when President Janice Masters initiated Hortensia Chavarria, Barbara Lawrence, Marlene Monahan and Connie Rojo.

New Actives in Sorority

"Going national" has been the hue and cry at Long Beach State College the past semester and to bring it to the proper conclusion was the recent formal initiation of Beta Alpha chapter of Delta Zeta national academic sorority.

Taking their proper place in the sorority circle are actives at State College, Gloria Marie Bell, Janice Ann Brown, Betty Joan Brozovsky, Dorothy Lois Case, Connie Jeanne Caster, Catherine Lee Caster, Patricia R. Flint, Dorothy Ann Fowler, Diane M. Gray, Barbara J. Harris, Maureen Ann Hutchinson, Lora Lee Litten, Bertha Tove Olsen, Patricia O. Posten, Vera Ruth Powell, Jean Ann Pritchett, Betty Ann Reid, Ruby Van Malsen, Phyllis Ann Wheeler, Norma Jane Williams and Dorcas Jean Wilson.

The new group was sponsored by alumnae of Omega Phi Delta and include Meses Maxine Alice Butler, Barbara Cleveland, Mary Margaret Leuer, Ethel Anne Massey, Virginia Taylor, Thelma Witter, Meses. Dale Winans, Charles E. Crouch, Morris Hayter, Joseph Stott, and Loran Swigert.

BETROTHAL of Patsy Anne Odette to Robert William Hobbs is being announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. Odette, of 6391 Gundry Ave. She is a student at LBSC and a past worthy adviser of Lake-wood Rainbow for Girls. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hobbs of Anaheim, is a student at USC School of Dentistry.

BETROTHED PAIR, Carol Ann Durant of 2922 E. Sandwood St. and Willard Lowell Bergen have set their wedding date for May 1. Their betrothal is being told today by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. William L. Harrahan of Duluth, Minn. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Bergen of Santa Cruz.

Education Is Dowry of Today's Bride

Not so long ago, brides came to their bridegrooms with land and/or money as a dowry. But today, an education and the self-assurance that goes with it have come to be a new—and even more valuable—kind of dowry which a girl can bring to her married life, says famous anthropologist Margaret Mead in an article in the November issue of a national magazine.

In all societies, says Miss Mead, stable marriages are based on some clear social agreement as to what the bride brings and what the bridegroom brings to a new marriage. Each society, in each period of history defines those things which are desirable contributions from each partner, whether they be a cow with a calf, a feather bed, a set of brass kettles, a new house or automobile.

American society has always been unique among western cultures in the very small demands that have been made on either bride or bridegroom as prerequisites to marriage. But today the recognition that marriages in the United States in 1933 are terminable, and therefore have to be worked at if they are to continue, forms the background of a new evaluation of marriage, not by parents and elders but by each succeeding generation of young people.

Boys are beginning to demand some assurance as to what kind of wives their girls will become. They do not ask that a girl know how to cook, sew, sweep the floor, rear children, deal with social security forms and house rental plans. But they do expect that the modern girl will be capable of learning these things.

Even more important, the present day young man asks that the girl be able to take care of herself and the children, if necessary. He hopes that she won't have to, but with today's tax structure and cost of living he can no longer carry enough insurance to protect her through the 40 years ahead that is now her life expectancy, nor provide—in case of his death or disability—for the 20 years or so it will take to educate each child.

Freed of worry about what will happen to a helpless, uneducated, protected woman and to the children left to her charge, his own chances of life and health are better.

In a recent survey made by the American Association of University Women, education as the modern dowry was emphasized over and over again by the married members. In the past, particularly in the 20's and 30's, many women graduates felt that to manage a home and several children was "doing nothing" as compared with some classmate who had a job—any sort of job, called, mistakenly, if done by a woman, a "career."

But today's college graduates should be more aware of the demands which modern homemaking makes upon them, more alert to the years when their children will have grown up and they will have too much time on their hands—and they need no longer feel that they are not "using" their education.

To Elect Officers

Hostess committee for the day is composed of Meses. Edward C. Morgan, Virgil Pendergast and Cora Klein.

The Wild Waves Are Saying:

Spring Means Many Things to People

By IOLA MASTERSON

Spring comes in different ways to different people. To a whole lot of us on the Pacific Coast it will begin in a blaze of glory Tuesday night. A hush will fall over the eager crowds as those gentlemen in blue march out on brightly lit fields, then—there it is—the call: "Batter up!" Swoosh goes the ball, splat goes the bat and it's here! It's spring!

Yep. Spring means many things to many people. To Netha and Vic Eckland it means a trip to this mainland of ours from their home in Honolulu. But they've just about "struck out" because they sail again for home next Wednesday. Vic, who for many years was a familiar voice on local airwaves, is a public relations man for Matson Steamship.

Lucille Brown Greene continues to "bat 1000" in the world of art. Currently she is being honored as one of "Eight California Artists You Should Know" by the Los Angeles Art Association. There was a fashionable reception in Los Angeles for Lucille and the seven others a week ago Friday to begin the special showing of these works. They will continue to be on display at the L.A. Art Association (right next door to the Otis Art Institute) until mid-April.

Veima Snyder and Bob Reese, who have both been "batting single" will begin "batting double" as of April 10 when they "improve their averages" at a wedding ceremony to be held at Bay Shore Congregational Church. Their honeymoon will be taken in two "innings." Immediately following the ceremony they will divide their time between Palm Springs and Santa Barbara, and maybe a couple of other places. Then on April 30 they'll board the Lurline for a trip to the islands. Shortly after June 1 they'll be back at "home plate" which, in their case, is 296 Park!

"Home runs" for Sally and Red Nesmith take them to 34 55th Place since moving day to their new and very attractive Peninsula home last Monday. "Teammates" Janie and Jimmy are ecstatic over their new "berths" on the Nesmith team.

The "bases are loaded" at Pearl and John Schmitt's home, 5911 Greenbrier Rd., and no manager could be happier than the host and hostess because of it. John's brother and his wife are here from North Dakota for a visit. To the family here it's "Nick" and Eleanor, but to the folks back in North Dakota they are respectfully addressed as Sen. Nickolas Schmitt and Mrs. Schmitt. "Nick" (whoops!), the Senator serves in the State Legislature.

It looked for awhile like there was going to be a traffic jam in the 600 block on Ultimo Wednesday but the gals are pretty good drivers at that and soon they were all capably parked in front of Jane Smith's home and the party was on. Jane, who is corresponding secretary for Ebell Juniors, entertained her committee at a just-for-fun bridge and canasta party.

A close inspection of driver's licenses revealed the guests to be Shirley Bell, Shirley Guidi, Ruth Hoegh, Harriet Lacy and Virginia Leininger. That's not all.

Jane's an energetic hostess and also present were Maurine Linke, Billie Litschke, Pat Lowen, Claire Ludlum and Theora Lyons. Others who munched the delectable French pastries, and sipped fragrant coffee were June Montgomery, Mary Ellen Peck, Maria Stevens, Marion Watson, Evelyn White and Jane Boyd.

Bob Windham is the "rookie" father of the week but he'll be a "seasoned veteran" before the year is over! He and Helen brought their baby daughter, Deborah Lee, home from the hospital last Sunday. She "made the team" March 23 at Harriman Jones.

Twenty guys in 10 boats have been whipping Lake Mead to a froth and terrorizing the fish therein since last Wednesday. This is "spring training" for the rather-fish-than-eat boys (and they may have to!) of the Long Beach Casting Club. Among the drag net crew are George Jagerson, Mel Masterson, Ray Metzgar, Wally Stoltz and "Turk" Warner. Hot the pan and raid the freezer, they're coming home today!

It's a "double header" out at Virginia Country Club but their diamond has an irregular shape and there are 18 holes instead of four bags. The teams carry clubs instead of bats and the balls are much smaller. Come to think of it, guess they don't know it's baseball time; they must still be playing golf out there!

Friday the Women's Tournament—a matched play, partner's best ball affair—began and will continue into this coming week. Lou Messall and Mollie Reid are tournament co-chairmen. General chairman Rose Northrup, while she isn't ready to resume golf quite yet since that February car accident, will most certainly be a sidelines watcher. Assisting with tournament work are Ann Molina and Estelle Mooney.

Then there's the story of what happened to Virginia's men's golf team last week end at Red Hill in Upland. What's that, folks? Rather we wouldn't mention it? Okay. Not a word. Sorry, folks, promised we wouldn't tell you about the shellacking they took. However, we can tell you that teammates were Julie Bescos, Dell Walker, Roy Spawr, Bob Reid, Amos Ayers, Bill Cook, Roy Brown, Sol Deebie, Dick Lawson, Kenny Welch, Ralph Irwin, Roy Taylor, George Messall, Ed Davies, Dr. Cliff Easley and Cliff Menig.

Six feet two Bob Wenke has been tucking those long legs of his under a new desk these past couple of weeks since his affiliation in the law offices of John Joseph Albert Paap in the Security Building.

Well, that's the bottom of the 9th for today. See you at the park!

Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Sides

Pair to Fete Golden Year

A surprise open house today from 2 to 5 p. m. will honor Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Sides on their golden wedding anniversary. The fete will be at the home of Mrs. Joseph Chmiel, 201 E. 65th St.

Assisting the hostess will be two of Mrs. Sides' sisters, Mrs. Leola White and Mrs. Decy Szneider.

Mrs. Chmiel is the Sides' youngest daughter. The other children, Mrs. Fred Sanders, Mrs. Zeila Worden, Ralph, Rudy and Gregory Sides, all live in Detroit, Mich. The honored couple also have 14 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Mr. and Mrs. Sides were married in Greenwood, Ark. They lived in Detroit from 1926 to 1946 when they moved to Long Beach.

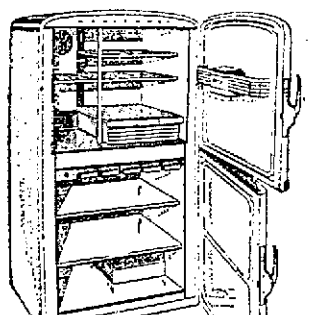

Garden Club

Alamitos Bay Garden Club will have a fashion show April 29 in the home of Mrs. H. L. Wagner, 6910 E. Ocean Blvd., for the benefit of the American Cancer Society.

Mrs. Burton Carlson

Miss Baker Is Lovely Bride

Honeymooning in Palm Springs following their marriage in First Presbyterian Church are Mr. and Mrs. Burton C. Carlson. The attractive bride is the former Miss Barbara Jean Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elzy R. Baker of 6136 Gundry Ave. Dr. Reuben F. Pieters officiated in the presence of many friends of the young pair.

For her wedding, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace styled with fitted bodice and the tulle skirt was enhanced with lace medallions. A seed pearl tiara held her veil and she carried a white orchid nestled in white carnations.

In the bridal entourage were Mrs. Richard L. Dorr, sister of the bride, matron of honor; Barbara Douglas, bridesmaid; Jack Carlson of Vancouver, Wash., brother of the bridegroom, best man, and Howard Meyers and Robert Compton, ushers. The former Miss Baker is a graduate of Jordan High, where she was a member of Phi Lambda Theta. Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carlson of Eugene, Ore., was graduated from Oregon State College.

Homelife With Alyce

By MARYALYCE RIVARD

In an effort to stop Junior from taking swipes at the family cat with the neighbor's ax... a gal we know keeps gently reminding him he won't get to heaven acting that way. . . Unfortunately this doesn't seem to upset him any because he says he doesn't like harp music anyway and besides he doesn't want feathers growing on him... wings or no wings!

Have you ever tried the Mexican magic of poking stuffed olives in the center of meat balls? Real good... takes a little nerve, though.

Guess most of us try to economize every way possible to get something special with our savings... but a gal we know is cutting down on the heat at her house to get a fur coat... (she's gonna need it too... in order to sit in that front room without getting frost-bite).

You probably don't walk under ladders... but here's another unlucky thing... painting your ladder. Paint hides weak, split wood... makes rungs slippery too. Ladder preserved with linseed oil is good looking and doesn't provoke accidents.

Having quite a time convincing our son that by the time you're old enough to stay up all night every night (if you want to) somehow it isn't as much as you thought it would be and the bed begins to look pretty good around 10:30 to a set of weary, 30-year-old bones.

Half yourself a ball... a rubber ball that is slit and slipped on the handle will catch the paint drips as you paint the ceiling. Saving money for your old age is a great thing... granted... but the best thing we could save for our old age is a little pep.

REMEMBER: "Man's best possession is a sympathetic wife." —Euripides.

Bride Wears Lace, Tulle

Under an archway, twined with white carnations and gardenias, Miss Wanda Jeanette McDaniel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis A. McDaniel, 2252 W. 243rd St., Lomita, recited lines with Harold Duncan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Duncan, 1338 W. Carson St., Torrance. The ceremony took place in the Harbor City Four-square Church, with the Rev. Marian Piles, pastor, officiating.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride carried a white Bible, with a single orchid nestled in a spray of stephanotis and satin ribbon streamers. Her gown was ballerina-length with a Chantilly lace bodice and a round yoke neckline. The sleeves were long, and a bouffant skirt of tulle over satin, had insets of lace panels. A coronet of ruffled net, with seed pearls, adorned the sweetheart cap, which caught the fingertip illusion veil of nylon tulle.

Attending the bride was Norma Lee Williams, Ring-bearer was Michael Turner, with tiny Brenda Purcell as flower girl. Preceding the bride party was Verna Bates as candlelighter.

Standing for the bridegroom was Clyde Purcell, and ushers were Bob Williams and J. C. Tyler.

A reception followed in the chapel. Registering guests were Lois Finley and Barbara Curren.

The couple are graduates of Narbonne High, where the bride was a member of U. A. A., Lettergirls and the Guilders.

The bridegroom, who was active in sports, won laurels in varsity football, track and was a Vigilante. An airman first class in the Air Force, he just returned from a tour of duty in French Morocco.

The couple will honeymoon in Dover, Del., where he is currently stationed.

Why Grow Old?

More Jobs for Older Woman

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

People are living longer and longer and remaining youthful for years longer than they used to. Life expectancy has been increased 20 years in the past 50. Not long ago a woman was actually considered old at 40 while she is not even thought of as middle-aged today at that age.

This is wonderful but it poses some problems. It was always too bad to retire men at 60 or 65 when they were at the peak of their usefulness and in good health, and the age restrictions in the classified advertisements have always been absolutely ridiculous.

But in the light of today's well-cared for woman or man of 40, 50, 60 and even 70, this situation is laughable. Business and the professions are beginning to take notice of this and to act.

I know of two banks myself which are now employing older women, even on a part-time basis when they have home duties which make full-time impossible. In many territories practical nursing has taken off the age ban. Henry Ford was a pioneer in employing the older worker.

According to the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, the median age of the five million women employed as clerical workers is 31 and the clerical occupations monopolize 42 per cent of all women under 25 years in the labor force.

This has been a terrific problem for thousands of so-called middle-aged women. The majority of these women are in good health and they have the edge on the younger woman because of experience and greater reliability and in the older group there is less change-over because of marriage.

Many women past 35 must make their own living and with the high cost of living and big taxes many more must add some to the family income.

Well, things are looking up! Things are changing! Take heart! The Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor sponsored two experiments, the results of which are quite enlightening. And let me tell you a secret, today there tap, classical toe and jazz toe numbers on the Community Program, sponsored by the Recreation Department, in Exhibit Hall, Municipal Auditorium, on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

Highlighting the show will be a novelty toe dance to "Vanessa" performed by Miss Barbara Wilson, and a "Boogie Tap" by two young tappers age 4½ years, Janie Nutt and Cherie Wilson. Featured dancers will include: Ronnie Jenkins, Joan Bodorff, Shari Stennette, Wynne Wilson, Carol Craft and Suzanne Fulton. These dancers have recently appeared on television and Red Cross shows.

Community singing will open the program at 7:30 p. m. directed by George Griffith with Mrs. Madeline Frazer as the accompanist.

Old time square dancing with Bill Simmons as caller, and music furnished by the Tio Four Orchestra will follow the stage performance.

The public is invited to attend this free civic program. Doors will open at 6:30 p. m.

Vows Spoken in Lakewood

Reciting wedding vows in a late afternoon ceremony at Lakewood Village Community Church a few days ago were Miss Nevalyn Kay Redwine and Herbert W. Prosser Jr. with Rev. W. R. Hall officiating.

For the ceremony the former Miss Redwine chose a gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle skirt over satin. The bouffant tulle skirt was paneled with lace. A coronet of seed pearls and rhinestones held the bride's silk illusion fingertip-length veil. She carried feathered carnations surrounding a white orchid.

In the bridal entourage were Miss Shirley Ann Ramstein, maid of honor; Joan King, bridesmaid; Earl Sylvester, best man; Joe E. Luppens Jr. and Fritz E. Klassen, ushers; Corkey Prosser, ring bearer, and Teri Lynn Pack, flower girl.

The reception was at the church after which the young couple left for a honeymoon to Arrowhead. They will reside at 498 Plymouth St.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Redwine Sr., of 360 Platt

St., the bride attended Jordan High and City College. The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Prosser Sr. of Bellflower, attended high school in Tucson, Ariz.

Trip South of Border?

Be 'Helplessly Feminine' if Dating Latin Swain

By DOROTHY ROE
By Associated Press

Girls who plan tropical vacations in search of Latin romance should practice up on some old world manners, advises handsome Carlos Pellerano, who handles tourist matters for the Dominican Republic.

Any girl who expects to get to first base with a Latin swain, says Carlos, should observe these rules:

1—Never make a noise like a career woman. The Latin ideal of feminine charm is strictly a clinging vine.
2—Never try to pay your own dinner check, even if it is included in the price of your package tour, if you are dining with a Latin. This is considered a mortal insult by male Dominicans, as well as others.

3—Never wear shorts or slacks on the street. It just isn't done by local nice girls.
4—Remember that most young men south of the border have been reared in the old tradition of strict formality, says Carlos:

"I courted the same girl for seven years, but I never was allowed to see her alone until after we were married. After the engagement was announced, I was permitted to call at her home from 8 to 10 in the evening, but even then, there had to be a chaperone present. That's why Latin men marry young—you have to get married to see your girl."

5—Practice up on your rumba. All Latins love to dance.
6—Learn to look helplessly feminine, and you'll always find a courtly swain eager to help.
7—Don't giggle when your Latin beau kisses your hand. This is merely a mark of his deep respect, and corresponds to the American custom of tipping the hat to a lady.
8—Don't be afraid to accept the attentions of a Latin-American beau. You'll find him the soul of chivalry.
9—When on a date with a Latin, don't talk about such subjects as your job or politics. Your escort would much rather discuss the length of your eyelashes or the light of the tropical moon.

10—Don't be surprised if your evening ends with a serenade. It's an old Latin custom still observed, and one enjoyed by the gentlemen as well as their ladies. Says Carlos:

"I've been married 13 years, and just the night before I left for the United States I serenaded my wife. She liked it, too."

BABY'S HIGH SHOES vs. LOW

By G. R. FOSHOLOTT

High shoes are necessary until baby's feet have developed enough so that the heel can be fitted properly in a low shoe, and a good sense of balance has been reached.

At this stage (around 3 years old) the low shoe serves the same purpose as the high IF the stiffening around the heel is shaped properly, and is firm enough to guide the forepart of the foot.

For example grip your child's heel from the back, holding it firmly. Now have him try to twist his foot out of position, or tip inward, putting too much weight on his undeveloped arch structure. As you may notice, there is far less chance of a distorted foot with this important guide. All this would be less necessary if our children of today were walking most of the time on mother earth's natural, guiding surface.

If you desire to change your baby from high to low shoes at the age mentioned above, first consider if he is overweight, has more than a slight tipping in of the ankle, or if there is an abnormal condition present. On all three, consult your doctor before making the change.

Here are the practical points of a high shoe:

1. On extremely narrow feet more length can be allowed.
2. Less chance of blister forming due to the heel slipping.
3. Shoes can't be pulled off without unlacing.
4. No chance of cutting under the ankle bone.
5. Less chance of sand and dirt getting in.

Some have the erroneous idea that high shoes act as a cast on the foot. If this were true the child would walk stiff-legged. If you will notice two children playing, one wearing high shoes and the other low, you will see that they use their feet and ankles with equal freedom.

OPEN FRIDAY 'TIL 9

New Salon Opens Monday

Bringing to Lakewood Center its 31st business establishment, the Slenderella Salon will open Monday. Tape-cutting ceremonies were held earlier but the opening was delayed until Monday because of delay in the installation of necessary electric power.

The salon, at 5052 Faculty Ave., is the 36th in the Slenderella chain which operates in 16 American cities and London.

Slenderella employs the use of a specially designed mechanical table perfected at a cost of $40,000 after extensive research by Ohio State University. This table is used to improve posture, redistribute weight, firming and toning muscles and stimulating circulation.

Supplementing this portion of the slenderizing system is a special diet prepared by Ann Williams-Heller, and a special mint perfected for the company.

Larry L. Mack, president, was here last week supervising final installation and presided at the tape-cutting.

The salon has 10 private booths equipped with the scientific table. The decor is in cool blue, green and turquoise and was designed by John Blair of New York to provide restfulness. This is accentuated by a large tropical mural which captures a Virgin Island scene as viewed from a native hut window.

Japanese silk grass cloth wallpaper and custom woven blinds are used to add to the decor. Floors are light gray tile and the oriental motif is used with teakwood furniture. Miss Irene Ward, West Coast director for Slenderella, said that Mrs. Betty Roosen will manage the Lakewood salon.

Benefit League Installs; Reports Progress of Year

Mrs. Carl Young was installed as president of the Children's Benefit League at the semiannual membership meeting at Lakewood Country Club. Also inducted were Mrs. Max Parkin, vice president; Mrs. A. A. Schlaegel, recording secretary; Mrs. Byron Morris, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Fred Gosch, financial secretary; Mrs. R. F. Trapp, treasurer; Mrs. E. E. Adams, parliamentarian, and Mrs. Claude Simpson, historian.

Presiding was the outgoing president, Mrs. Ervin E. Adams. Reports of the league activities for the past year were given by the various officers and chairmen.

Mrs. Claude Simpson, head of the philanthropy committee, reported on a number of projects supported by the league. Among them, a $1000 donation to the March of Dimes; $1000 to the children's wing of the City of Hope to be used for leukemia research; a donation of $500 received from the Hollywood Turf Club which was used to buy lucite oxygen vaporizers for the children's wing at Community Hospital; $100 per month for seven months being given to the Exceptional Children's Foundation.

The league also was instrumental in placing a child faced with inevitable blindness in the Braille School in Berkeley. Five children received operations for crossed eyes. One boy lacking an ear now has a plastic ear which was made to match his good ear. In addition, the league has given aid in hospital fees and operation costs for several children.

League members have participated in the many fund-raising projects and activities, which have included two rummage sales, a dance, Christmas bazaar and silver tea, spring fashion show, and individual parties and dances, and have maintained the "Show Case" at Community Hospital which is staffed and operated by league members. Here many articles are sold to visitors and patients at the hospital, as well as to hospital personnel.

Molly Mayfield

Tells of 'Desperate Problem'

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a seemingly desperate problem. I'm a young man, college education, good job, etc. And I plan to be married in about two months.

Before I state my problem, perhaps I'd better describe me better. I've always been a shy, reserved type of person, rather introverted. I've never asserted myself too much. I'm not much of a conversationalist. I'm afraid. I'm sensitive and need someone to urge me and give me confidence in myself.

When I was living at home, my mother was my driving force. You might say, "Now, the girl I plan to marry despises weakness in a man and she is always running me down for not talking and not asserting myself."

I feel that if she were more sympathetic toward me I'd probably be encouraged to talk. However, she becomes "cold and refuses to say a word unless I talk, too."

You see, I've always been a good listener. When she takes this attitude of "coolness," she cuts me off short when I try to say anything. This makes me "freeze up" more than ever and everything I want to say sticks in my throat and I feel like a nitwit.

If this is any preview of my married life, it won't be a happy one for me, being tense all the time.

Do you have any answers? I'm in love with her and she says she loves me. Do you think we will be able to make a go of it?—DISCOURAGED.

DEAR DISCOURAGED:

Of course, all marriages aren't made in heaven—but I'd say this one would be made a long, long way off from any celestial parts.

Naturally, I'm not going to sit here and say to you it will or it won't work. Good gracious, no one could be sure of that. I've seen marriages I wouldn't have bet a nickel on last right down through the

Youngster Is 6 Years Old

Verdee Irene Holton celebrated her sixth birthday when 12 of her friends joined at her home for a dinner party.

Elf figurines and ceramic pixie house planters formed a miniature village as the table centerpiece. The children used ceramic cups painted with their names and imprinted pixie faces. The cups were given to each child as a party souvenir.

Cartoon movies were shown to the young guests in the early evening.

Attending were Jan Dangers, Luana Bruce, Johnny, Lynn and Terilyn McCutcheon, JoAnne Craine, Stephen and Johnny Miller, Joel Reynolds, Tracy Tucker, Bob Rollo and Sharon Lee Holton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess S. Holton Jr. also entertained their families at a buffet dinner in honor of daughter Verdee's birthday. Present were Verdee's great-grandmother, Mrs. G. W. Holton; grandparents, Mrs. C. E. Horton, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Holton; aunts and uncle, Miss Edith Holton, Mrs. George Ann Trower, Mr. and Mrs. Smith Crain; cousins, Jennie Lee Trower, Richard, Donald and Carol Crain, and her small sister, Sharon Lee Holton.

years, and some I'd have staked my mortgage on, and they blew up, right off.

But what I can say is that if you are the type you say you are, then it seems highly unlikely that you could get along with a girl who definitely doesn't like your type.

Sounds to me like you ought to let her find herself the dominating male she wants you to be, and you ought to find yourself a woman who could really charge your batteries.

Aren't you inclined to agree?—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

What do you think of a woman who will be 40 years old next month and has three children, their ages 19 and 12, and three—a woman who will soon be a grandmother—and who wants to have another baby?

My friends and relatives all say I am very foolish, but I ask you why? Isn't it natural for a woman to want children? And is 40 old? And just because she is a grandmother—about-to-be, should that stop her?

I'm eager for your opinion as well as that of your readers.—M. V.

DEAR M. V.:

If there is no physical reason why you shouldn't have a baby—I mean, if the doctors have not advised against it—then why on earth shouldn't you, if you want to? It seems to me this is a matter entirely up to you.

After all, you have a three-year-old who is still pretty much of a baby. So why not another one to keep him (or her) company.—M. M.

P. S. The world has reached a sorry state when friends and relatives have to tell one when and when not to have a baby.

William Clemo Reveals Method of Broiling Steak

By MILDRED K. FLANARY Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

He earned his degree in Petroleum Engineering—but somewhere along the line he went astray and landed in the lumber business. Chef of the Week William H. Clemo is partner and assistant manager of the Century Lumber Co., 2541 East Anaheim St.

Born in Tooele, Utah, (he even had trouble pronouncing it), Bill moved to Long Beach with his family at the age of four. He actually spent most of his childhood at Redondo Beach, however.

Upon graduation from Stanford University the oil fields of Texas held fascination for him and he by-passed Long Beach en route to Longview. His knowledge of oil engineering was put to use as manager of that branch of the National Tank Co.

Four years followed in which he spent sweeping the wide Pacific Ocean for mines. With his discharge as a lieutenant after World War II, he disembarked at the port of Long Beach and decided to make it his home.

Gladys Morgan, president of the Long Beach branch of the United Association of Registered Cosmetologists, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Plaza Women's Club set for 8 p. m. Monday in St. Cornelius social hall.

A change in the club's by-laws has dropped the "Lakewood" in the name of the organization, in order to avoid confusion resulting in the past with other Lakewood groups.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mmes. James Pack, Owen J. Concanon, James Hayes, Donald Hazzard, Howard Hinds, and Bernard Hordowski. All residents of all Plaza units are invited.

Tea Hostesses at Spring Fete

Spring in all its glory predominated at the tea meeting of the Compton Pathfinder Club Thursday with Christie Twombly and Riley Ralls, members of the club group, presenting potted marmosets, plants to each member and guest upon arrival. The colorful tinted daisies on the tea table carried out the spring theme.

Tea hostesses were Mrs. Morgan Ralls and Mrs. Reese Kerr. Following the brief business session conducted by the president, Mrs. Harry Evans, Mrs. Lambert Brunner, past president of the club and district chairman of California history and landmarks, presented a film on the early missions of California.

Exchangettes of Uptown Long Beach met at the home of Jean Fisher, 10415 Chaney Ave., Downey, with six guests from the Anaheim area present. They are in the process of organizing their own Exchangettes of Anaheim and were interested in the procedures of the Uptown Ettes. Plans were made for the coming plant exchange at the April meeting.

What to wear at the convention for identification this year? A committee to decide this matter was put to work. This is the state convention of all the California Exchange Clubs to be held the latter part of June in San Diego. It has been an advantage in the past to wear some type of identification carrying out the Exchange Club's colors, it was pointed out.

An interesting exhibit of cake decorating was presented by Margaret Larsen. Two cakes and several cup cakes were decorated. One cake was decorated with yellow roses and blue forget-me-nots in conjunction with the National Exchange Club's Birthday. The other cake was decorated in an Easter theme. The cupcake decorations were varied. These were baked by members of the Uptown Exchangettes and were the refreshments for the evening.

Weaning Must Be Gradual

By BEULAH FRANCE, R.N.

(Q) "What will be the best way to wean our baby from the bottle?" Mrs. J. C.

(A) Make the change gradually. Sudden or insistent weaning often sets off a series of serious eating problems.

Carefully avoid these. They can change a sweet, co-operative infant into a hostile, suspicious and antagonistic one. Eating should never become a battle between child and adult, though all too often it does.

At the age of five months, let your baby have sips of milk from a cup. She'll be taking fruit juices that way by then, but will expect to have milk from a bottle. Let her learn that milk comes in cups too.

At ten months, she may either accept the cup completely or reject it. If she chooses the negative method, do not force her, or even urge her. If you do, bottle-battles will start. She'll probably win them, while becoming upset about all food.

Offer the cup, casually, when she's most hungry. If you touch the cup's rim with honey or a bit of sugar syrup (never put any into the milk!) that may make it more alluring.

You can also dilute the bottle-milk with water. The contrast between it and the milk in the cup may become a deciding factor.

To compensate for any loss of nourishment when you do that, or whenever for any reason a child turns against milk, stir dry milk solids into other foods—such as cereals and potatoes, soups, custards and eggs.

The suggestions just made are not to be carried out over your little daughter's protests. Many mothers make up their minds that bottles are to be discarded at any cost. But the price they pay in the end is far too high.

For, if your child has a mind of her own, open opposition will only serve to set her will more strongly. When that happens where food is concerned, it may have long-lasting, disastrous results.

Ask Beulah France to help you with your child care problems. Write her in care of Press-Telegram, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for her reply.

Teen Talk

Real Doll Sobs to Ace 'Get Facts'

By VIVIAN BROWN

You know the old joke about Ohio being round on the ends and high in the middle—well, now you'll have to amend it to accommodate all the squares that hail from that state. And judging from reporter Ricardo Brown's teen roundup they're a drama worth observing.

Two of the biggest influences on Columbus teen-agers, he says, are author Mickey Spillane of "I, the Jury" and "Dragnet"—radio, TV crime show. A typical every-day scene goes like this:

A doll, a real doll, alive and warm with cherry lips, moved close to the silent boy and, in a voice drained of emotion, breathed:

"Get the facts."

Her companion nodded, then disappeared briefly into a cramped room.

Returning from the phone booth, he reported: "No get-away car tonight."

His voice, which tried to strain out all emotion, still held notes of tragedy.

The blonde sighed, slumped into a seat at the soda fountain, and muttered, "Powie! right on the kisser!"

"Ace," nattily attired in levis and charcoal-gray sport shirt, stood by nervously. He refrained from scuffing his spotless white suede shoes.

But little blue cashmere sweater was colder than a day in February couldn't get the family car tonight, they'd have to take a bus to the school dance.

The dragnet theme, comes by way of two currently popular records, the song from the show and "Little Blue Riding Hood," dialogue satire of Dragnet format.

Students seem neater, a bit more conservative and better dressed than in some previous seasons.

Their mimicry, however, is closely related to the "cool cats" of a recent season, those who never got excited or "hot."

Girls mainly wear skirts and sweaters—mostly cashmere. The boys cling to comfortable levis but many add class with bright sport shirts and blue or white suede shoes. Girls are sporting boys' French shirts with fancy cuff links.

Slacks, that old taboo, are about as passe as "23 skidoo." Ordinary slacks, that is, not the new pegged ones.

Suede and leather jackets are favorites for both girls and boys.

There are a few scattered revivals of the old pirate's skull and crossbones and flags and, in less glorious quarters, a few isolated cases of home-made tattoos—knife carved initials on arms, occasionally with permanent ink painted into the raw cuts.

But that is rare and exceptional.

Will Baja California Become a Utopia?

By Hubbard Keavy
Associated Press Writer

MEXICALI.

Mexico's new State of Lower California is worth watching. Its first elected governor is a man zealously determined to put Baja California on the economic map.

Until a year ago, the upper half of this peninsula was a province and the governors were appointed by the president of Mexico. When the state was formed a year ago, the PRII (Peoples' Revolutionary Party) chose Braulio Maldonado as its candidate. There was only token opposition.

Maldonado is small in stature and, at first glance, undistinguished. A lawyer and a legislator before his election, he may be an old 40 or a young 60.

When I met him in his home he was wearing a gray flannel shirt, inexpensive blue suit, scuffed brown shoes. He would not stand out in a crowd until he began to speak. Then he'd take over.

His interpreter said His Excellency speaks English, but prefers Spanish because he thinks in that language. My questions seldom needed interpreting; usually the Governor began his reply as soon as the question was given. As a youth, Maldonado worked for three years in the shipyards of San Francisco, where he acquired a good bit of colloquial English.

Upon taking office last Dec. 1, he issued a statement of policy. If he can accomplish a small portion of the ambitious program laid down in that statement, a Utopian life — and it's about time — should follow. So far Baja California, with a population of 280,000, has had little claim for glory, except perhaps for the ardor of its patriots.

THE STATE, adjoining U. S. California, is one of the richest virgin areas in the world. One authority for this is Carl W. Schooss, general manager of the Imperial Publishing Co. of El Centro, who has hunted and fished in most of Baja and in so doing has become an expert on conditions.

Another is Maldonado, who speaks glowingly of the long-neglected potentialities—in agriculture, in oil, in ores and, as profitable as any crop, tourists. Seven and a half million crossed the border into Baja last year, most of them to buy gewgaws in Tijuana. Maldonado wants better roads to bring in more tourists. A project not far off, he says, is a freeway to Ensenada, a resort and fishing spot on the Pacific side visited each year by thousands of Southern Californians.

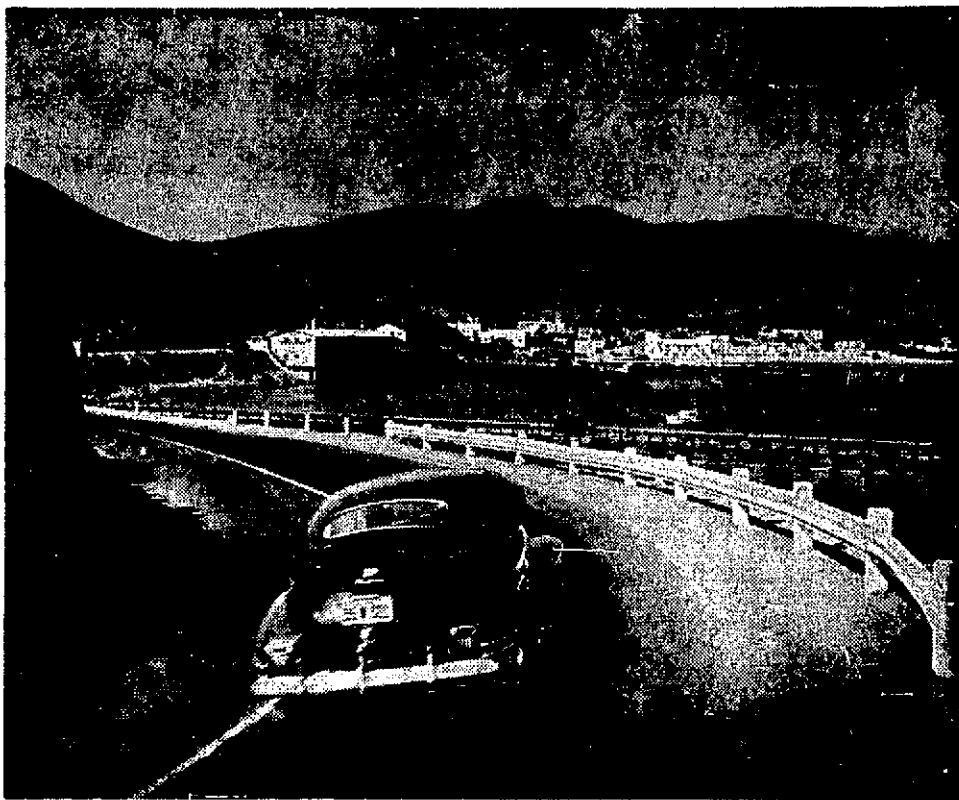

Primarily, Maldonado wants new industries — matches and cement, to name two. All the resources exist. Matches and cement are imported from the United States.

Mining? There are 37,000,000 tons of iron ore south of Ensenada, the governor says. The Henry Kaiser interests want to mine it and so do the Krupps of Germany. There are sulphur and copper, too.

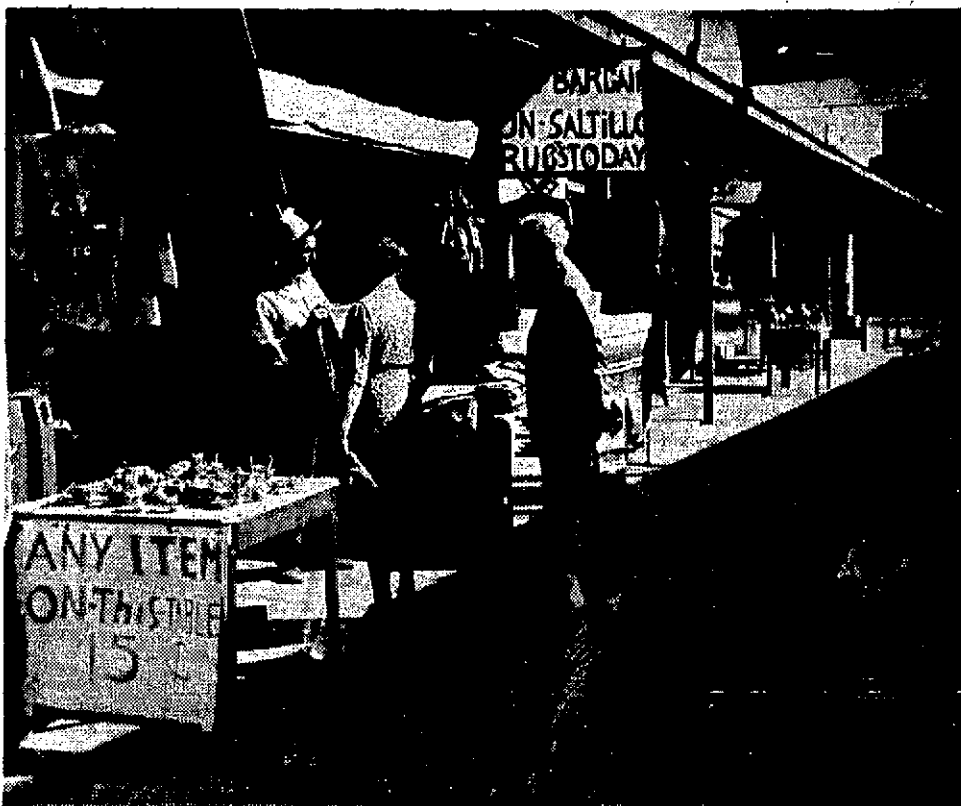

Farming? Only 150,000 acres are now under cultivation in the whole state, and many say the soil is as good or better than that of the Imperial Valley of California, one of the world's fabulous agricultural regions. Imperial has a half million acres planted. Maldonado says the potential in his state is 1,000,000 acres. Water, however, will be a problem; Mexico does not get enough Colorado River water to support so much acreage.

He wants more roads, electrification, hospitals, elementary schools, trade schools and a university. The people of Baja have had little. After hearing Maldonado's plans, I am convinced.

Baja California's new Governor Maldonado wants many things for his neglected land. Not far off, he says, is a freeway to replace this road to Ensenada.

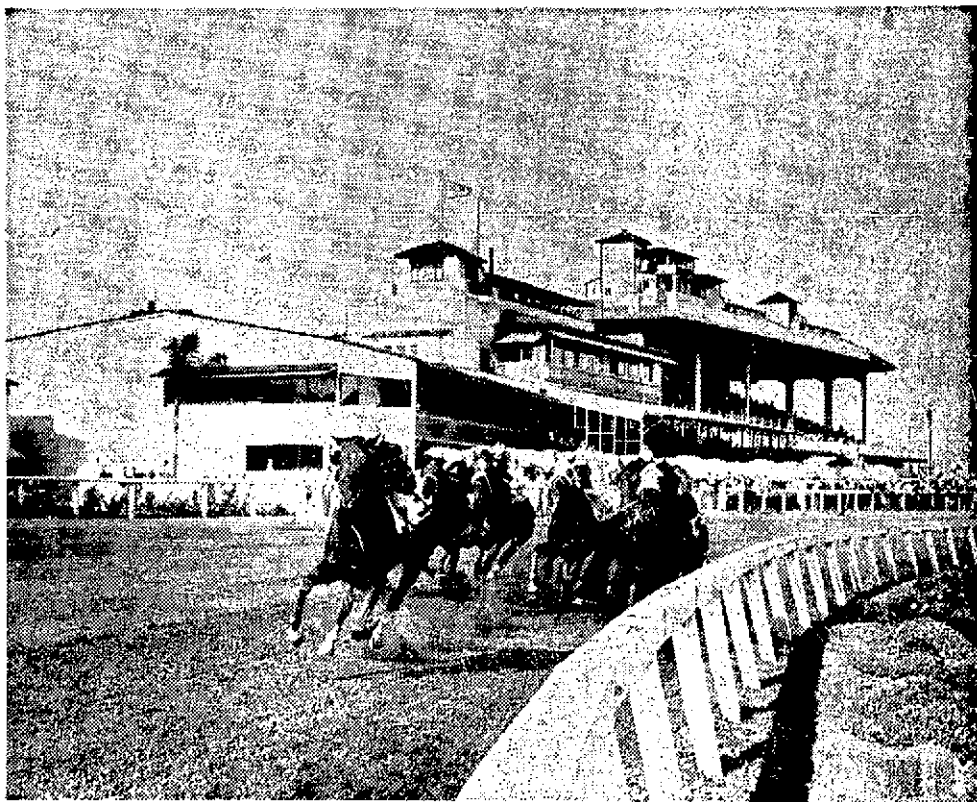

Seven and a half million people crossed the border into Baja California last year, most of them to buy gewgaws in Tijuana. Maldonado wants better tourist facilities.

Many Southern Californians go to Tijuana for the races. Maldonado hopes American dollars will help buy better things for his people who've had so little.

He Stood on the Bastions of Heaven

By Douglas Nelson Rhodes

ROMAINE WILHELMSSEN of Pasadena has an attention-getting reply for friends who inquire casually, "Done anything interesting lately?"

"Well, yes," the handsome, 29-year-old explorer answers, "recently I stood on the Bastions of Heaven and saw the work of men who died a hundred centuries ago."

And Wilhelmsen isn't kidding. He can prove his statement by showing skeptics more than 5500 feet of color movies he photographed in a fantastic lost city perched on a three-mile-high, mist-shrouded peak in the Peruvian Andes. He is believed to be the first white man to visit the place since Spanish conquistadores stumbled on it more than 400 years ago.

Young Wilhelmsen, a noted explorer-archaeologist who has made many successful Mexican and Guatemalan explorations, recently returned from a seven-month expedition into the wilds of Colombia, Bolivia, Ecuador and Peru. He brought back priceless artifacts and films from the legendary lost city of Huasachugo, a square-mile ancient metropolis, and its sister city, Acque, a smaller but equally remote mountain fortress. Both cities are situated nearly 16,000 feet above sea level. Though a few rugged explorers have visited Acque, the only other white visitor known to have seen Huasachugo was a Spanish soldier who found it in 1540. The Spaniard returned to Lima and wrote an account of the lofty city which Wilhelmsen found in Peruvian historical archives. It was from this document that the Pasadena explorer positively identified his find.

"The names 'Huasachugo' and 'Acque' are from ancient Inca words meaning 'brother' and 'sister,'" Wilhelmsen explained. "About 2000 years ago they were among the most important political and agricultural centers in Peru. Huasachugo, the 'brother' city, however, was a larger and more progressive metropolis than 'sister' Acque, according to Peruvian legends.

DISCOVERY of Huasachugo came as a victorious climax to a gruelling 20-day trek during which the athletic Wilhelmsen lost 35 pounds. Leaving the civilized portion of Peru, he journeyed up rivers aboard ancient stern-wheeler riverboats that once plied the Mississippi River before 1900. Then, with three Indian guides, he crossed blistering desert areas and finally reached an ancient Inca trail skirting a deep abyss on one side and a series of lofty overhanging cliffs on the other. Using a tracing of the faded primitive map made by the 16th Century Spanish soldier, Wilhelmsen's little party climbed craggy mountainsides, crossed scorching deserts and cut through dense undergrowth for several weeks without encountering a sign of human life. The faint trail petered out eventually and, after a three-day futile attempt to pick it up again, Wilhelmsen decided that perhaps Peruvian savants at Lima were correct when they had advised him not to waste his time in quest of the lost city. "Huasachugo has certainly mouldered into dust over the centuries," they scoffed. "You'll never find a trace of it."

"I was about to admit defeat," Wilhelmsen recalls, "when suddenly one of my guides pointed to the sky northward and exclaimed in native dialect: 'Behold! Behold! The Bastions of Heaven!'"

"A gust of icy wind parted the everlasting mist and there before us was revealed a sight I'll never forget. High overhead and due north was a tremendous peak (later proved to be 15,750 feet high) topped by the battlements of Huasachugo — a mighty citadel perched in majestic loneliness above the clouds like the illustrations in fairy tale books. Giant condors wheeled in spirals over the silent city like guardian angels watching over a ghostly kingdom. It was truly an unearthly spectacle," Wilhelmsen declared.

Another two days of hard travel passed before the young explorer stood at last on the fabulous Bastions of Heaven. But he feels the effort was well worth while because Huasachugo remains in a remarkably good state of preservation. Though no sign of original woodwork is evident, most of the finely executed stone construction is in as good a state of preservation as the day it was built, about 20 centuries ago.

THE CITY, about a square mile in area and surrounded by a 30-foot-high, 12-foot-thick stone wall, is a formidable fortress, indeed. At regular intervals on the wall are huge battle turrets and the wall itself is topped by hundreds of tremendous boulders poised in delicate balance—apparently as an ever-ready defense against attack. Narrow streets, laid out in geometrical patterns, criss-cross the site and are lined with thick-walled stone buildings, market places and huge Inca shrines. Though no mortar was used in construction, the buildings are solid and many boast roomy interiors. One structure, erected solely of big granite blocks piled one upon the other without bonding material, is particularly interesting as an archaeological find, Wilhelmsen said, because it is three stories in height without windows and doors at each level — a genuine rarity in Inca architectural design.

From Huasachugo's massive

ramparts two lower peaks are visible on each side of the city. These were Inca equivalents of suburban development. Terraces below the city obviously were used for farming purposes. Faint traces of ancient irrigation ditches still can be seen from above.

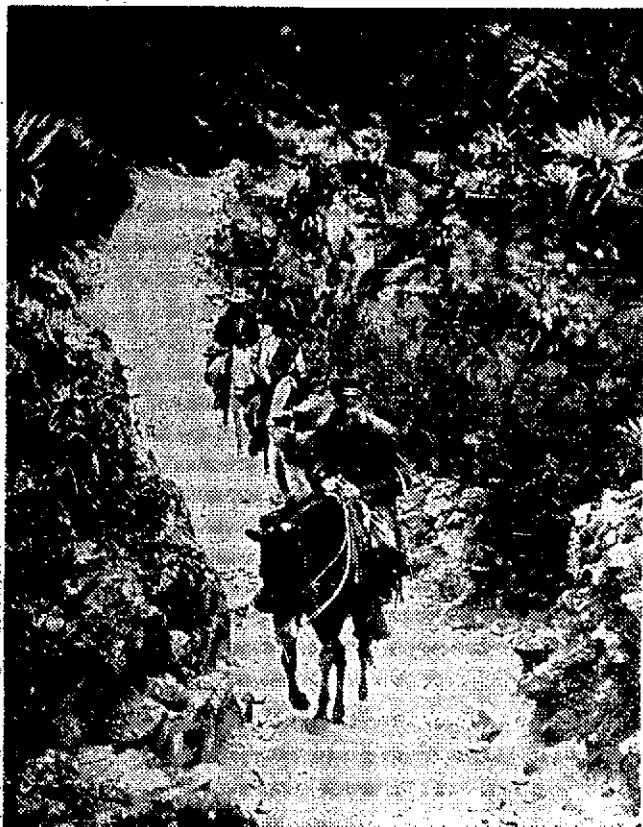

Discovery of some hitherto unknown pre-Inca civilization was made when Wilhelmsen dug into the rubble for relics — a find that has created a new mystery for ethnologists and archaeologists to unravel. About 20 feet below the foundation courses of Huasachugo he uncovered still another set of foundations indicating organized community life of far greater antiquity than the newer city atop it. The sub-surface foundations were of an entirely different architectural pattern than that of the known Inca culture. Wilhelmsen believes it to be the remains of a 10,000-year-old civilization.

How does he set the time of this city's existence? His theory will be a hard one to explode, the young explorer insists, because it is backed by simple analysis of the material forming the geological strata between Huasachugo and the city beneath it.

"My ground samples show that the layer of earth material, forming the 'meat' in this geological 'sandwich,' is almost entirely of pure volcanic ash — in an area where the last volcano erupted about 7000 years ago!" Wilhelmsen explains. "Therefore, unless the accepted geological timetable is in gross error — and that seems hardly likely, scientists agree — then I must have found real clues to bolster the growing belief that man trod the Western Hemisphere at least a hundred centuries ago."

WILHELMSSEN has contributed before to this latter-day scientific school of thought. Several years ago, when on a Mexican exploration, he filmed the uncovering of a pyramid which Skulls of men who died 2000 years ago and a huge clay kettle are studied by Wilhelmsen at ancient Huasachugo.

Act of Love

Love makes the world go 'round—the movie world, anyway. Here are a few examples: Above, Gary Cooper and Helen Hayes in World War I "Farewell to Arms."

"Red Dust" was the first of five pictures in which Clark Gable and Jean Harlow heated up the screen with their brand of love. "Red Dust" was a hit for M-G-M in 1932.

Greta Garbo and John Gilbert show what clinch should be like in "Flesh and the Devil."

Doug Fairbanks Sr. and Marguerite de la Motte in "Three Musketeers."

Rudolph Valentino was the films' great lover. Above, "Son of the Sheik," with Vilma Banky.

In the modern mode, Kirk Douglas makes love to Dany Robin in Paris story: "Act of Love."

Most movie fans know that charming Ann Blyth is a fine dramatic actress, but most of them did not know — until a few nights ago — that she also is well on her way to become one of Hollywood's top musical stars. First inkling to many a fan came during the nationally televised Academy Award ceremonies when she sang "Secret Love," the Oscar-winning tune. She drew rave notices everywhere, over coffee cups and in the press. Now, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is releasing her newest film, and it's a musical.

Morro Rock, a hunk of granite 576 feet high, towers above Morro Bay, west of San Luis Obispo.

By Bettie Payne Welles

NO SPOT along the central California coast offers more varied interests for the visitor than Morro Bay, named for the 576-foot hunk of granite known as Morro Rock, which is often referred to as the Gibraltar of the Pacific, on Highway 1 just 13½ miles west of San Luis Obispo.

In the shadows of Morro Rock, an oyster industry began

Boat Landing of Morro Bay State Park. An oyster industry, began here 30 years ago, still is thriving.

30 years ago. It now thrives in the sheltered waters of the bay. Oysters develop within two years while on the east coast growth takes about four years. Commercial growers hope to supply California markets in the near future with these tasty bivalves.

Clams are also found in the sands of Morro Bay. If you do not have a clam fork for digging them, you can rent one by making a small deposit. A California fishing license is necessary for any one over 16 years of age who wants to go "clamming." Some things to remember: (1) Take only 10 legal size clams; throw undersized ones back in the water. (2) A legal-size clam, according to the game warden, is a clam that is five inches in length.

Prices for lodging and meals in Morro Bay compare favorably with those of other vacation spots in California. You may stay at a hotel or a motel, or you may park your trailer in a private court along the bay front. You may prefer to register at Morro Bay State Park for a 10-day period and a nominal fee. Here there are trailer and camping spaces. Besides boating, golfing, hiking rustic trails, swimming or loafing on the beach, the rugged area is a paradise for rock hounds, camera fans and naturalists.

Elderly?
"Not I," asserted 79-year-old Dr. E. E. Gage.

"Isn't true," echoed 86-year-old Phil Campbell.

"Poppycock," affirmed 91-year-old Frank Hyde.

"Age is for people who like to sit home and get sympathy," answered 70-year-old Nat Leipsic. "We believe in being out-of-doors and staying young and healthy."

And five days a week, Monday through Friday, for the four months of their visit, the park undergoes this South Dakota invasion.

Then ten — Hyde, Campbell, Dr. Gage, Leipsic, Steowe Neal, 75; Bill Gage, 61; H. E. Doolittle, 71; Clint Halladay, 61; H. L. Dow, 75, and the self-avowed "youngster" 53-year-old Norm Stoneback — are as enthusiastic a group of golfers as can be found anywhere, according to chief starter Gene Combs.

"They make me feel young, myself," quipped Combs. "I've seen many elderly golfers play the park, but rarely do they possess the spunk of our South Dakota friends."

"It's that cold Sioux Falls climate," said Za Mona Schoepflin of the park pro shop and a former native of the town.

Spunk is a good word to characterize the whole troop.

Take the time they planted a fake ball loaded with water on the tee from which Dr. Gage was about to drive. The good doctor put everything he had into the swing and the result was a small squirt of water.

"Guess I put too much power into the backswing," said Gage, shaking his head in puzzled fashion.

Then there was the occasion that a foursome with 91-year-old Hyde overlook a foursome with 79-year-old Doug Young, a Recreation Park regular. Someone pointed Young out and commented, "Isn't he spry for 79."

"Bah," grunted Hyde, "when the young fellow grows up to my age, then we'll be able to tell!"

HYDE IS A GOLF MARVEL, shooting his age or close to it almost every time out. He

Americans Cut Costs of Travel in Foreign Lands

AMERICAN TRAVELERS are becoming more and more familiar with ways to cut the costs of their foreign travels. As a consequence more travelers are buying their foreign money in the United States before leaving the country. Increasing numbers of American tourists and business men are finding that by buying the currency of the foreign countries before departing they are able to secure the currency from 1 per cent to 60 per cent under the official rates of exchange.

According to an estimate recently released by Nicholas L. Deak, president of the foreign exchange firm of Deak & Co., Inc., New York City, foreign exchange dealers supplied the American traveler through banks, travel agencies and through their own offices with more than $45,000,000 worth of foreign currency during 1953. This was an increase of about 15 per cent over 1952 and an increase of about 25 per cent over 1951.

In addition to the individual travelers taking advantage of the saving by buying their foreign funds in the U. S., an increasing number of travel agents and hotel representatives are drawing on blocked foreign funds to meet their obligations in foreign countries. Instead of remitting U. S. dollars in payment for services given their traveling clients, blocked funds are purchased at a substantial discount and settlement is made in the foreign country. (Blocked funds can generally be used freely inside a country. They are blocked against conversion into U. S. dollars or other hard currencies).

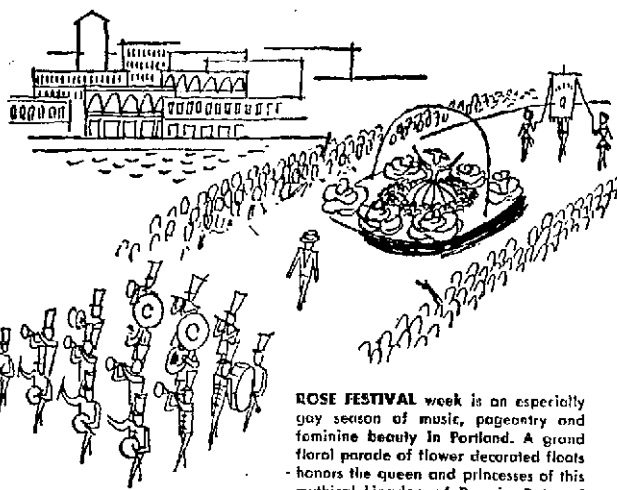

In Deak & Co.'s estimate this type of payment amounted to approximately $20,000,000 in 1953. It is expected that 1954 will show an increasing use as more and more travel agents and hotel representatives learn that that they are able to increase their profits by settling their foreign accounts with blocked foreign funds.

To Help You Plan how to get the most fun out of your 1954 vacation, Oregon offers you the free literature listed in the coupon, below. Oregon's many kinds of Pacific Northwest playlands and the things to enjoy in them are described in text and pictures in the 32-page color booklet, "Oregon, Cool, Green Vacationland." Dates of more than 200 community celebrations and shows are listed for you in the folder of coming events. The map, of course, is of Oregon's network of easy-to-drive scenic highways. Hundreds of parks, modern travel facilities and friendly people await you in Oregon's nearby playlands. So, begin planning your Oregon trip now by checking and mailing the coupon.

IN THE WALLOWA MOUNTAINS of Northeastern Oregon is the scenic Grand Canyon of the Snake River—often called Hells Canyon—deepest earth gash in North America. Part of the great gorge forms the Oregon-Idaho boundary.

OCEAN BEACHES along the unrestricted, 400-mile Oregon Coast are popular with vacationists of all ages. This scene is at Harris Beach State Park, just off U. S. 101, eight miles north of the California state line.

ROSE FESTIVAL week is an especially gay season of music, pageantry and feminine beauty in Portland. A grand floral parade of flower decorated floats honors the queen and princesses of this mythical kingdom of Rosaria. Dates of this year's Festival: June 7-13.

More Families Take to Air

ALTHOUGH MORE than half of the airline passengers are men, more women and children are flying than in previous years. Families are taking advantage of early-in-the-week rates.

These facts were revealed by a survey made by Trans-World Airlines of men, women and children travelers based on 38 selected flights which represented about 24,500 passengers.

The report shows there was an increase of 3.1 per cent in women passengers last year. Although women's travel is slightly higher on tourist flights than on standard flights, the proportion has increased on each class of service.

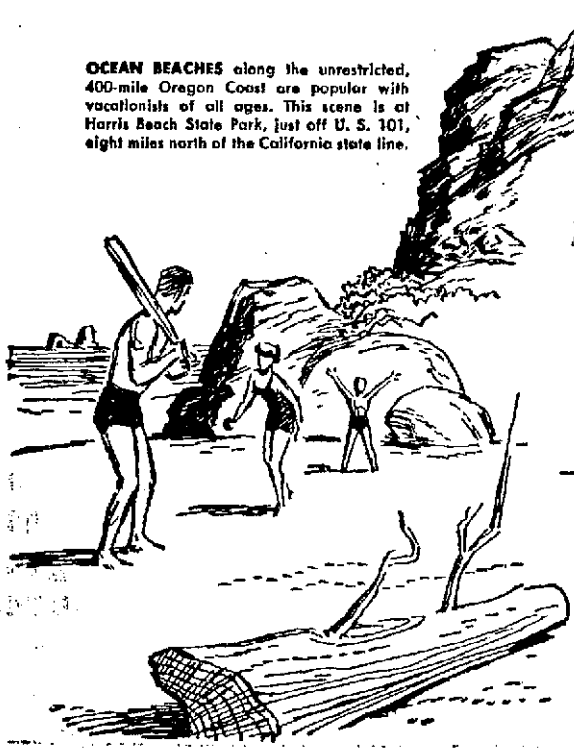

The percentage of men shows a decrease, but men continue to constitute well over half of the passenger miles.

On standard flights, the long-haul Super Connie flights carry the highest percentage of women.

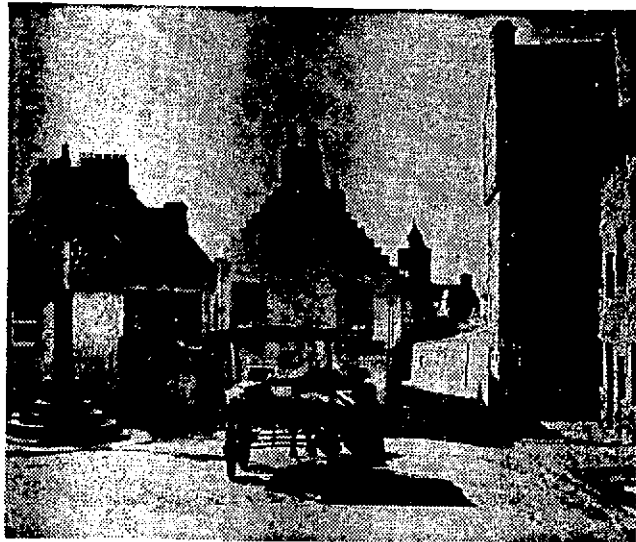

Mama, Papa and children, traveling at a discount on the first three days of the week, accounted for an average of nearly $600,000 a month in passenger revenue in 1953.

The increasing popularity of TWA's "Family Fare" plan is indicated by the fact that dollar revenue from this source of traffic increased by 10 per cent over the volume in 1952.

Under the plan, a family group may travel on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday for the price of one full fare for the head of the family and half-fare for his wife and each child under 22 years of age. The plan applies to all TWA domestic flights except Sky Tourist services.

THE LOVELY, wild beauty of Scotland, the country of Robert Burns and Sir Walter Scott, may be seen in one-week tours which the Scottish have arranged for visitors next summer.

To be seen on these tours are the lovely Loch Lomond, immortalized by the poet, and also the awesome beauty of the Trossachs, in which Loch Katrine lies surrounded by a range of mountains, so aptly described by Scott.

Glasgow, because of its location near Prestwick Airport, is the ideal starting point for tours of Scotland.

One tour from Glasgow in the space of a week includes Edinburgh, the lakes, the Trossachs, the Firth of Clyde and the Burns country. It is unique in guided tours in that three forms of transportation — bus, rail and boat — are used. It costs $25 for the complete week, including lodging, breakfast and dinner, transportation and tips.

The most expensive of the Glasgow-based tours comes to about $50 for the week.

Glasgow, an industrial city, boasts, however, of churches of great beauty and antiquity and a city hall with lavish marble staircases and ceilings.

One aspect of its industrial nature which must be seen to be believed are the Clyde Shipbuilding works outside the city. Some of the world's greatest ships,

Tour Scotland in One Week

Including the Queens, were launched here.

EDINBURGH is also an ancient and solid city, but it is filled with reminders of Scottish history. Its buildings have a mellowed beauty all their own. It is 40 miles and a pound's fare ($2.80) from Glasgow, which lies 33 miles from Prestwick Airport.

The best way to see Edinburgh is to walk. It takes a bit of walking, but armed with a guide book, which may be obtained at the information center on George St. in the center of the city, and a sturdy pair of legs, the Scottish capital may be seen in a day.

Edinburgh also offers the opportunity for side trips by bus and train to near-by towns with historic interest. An excursion to St. Andrews, holiday resort, ancient university center and birthplace of golf, costs $2.50 round trip. The train makes it in two hours from Waverley Station.

THE BIG EVENT in Scotland this summer, as it has been for the last seven summers, will be the Edinburgh Festival from Aug. 22 to Sept. 11. Artists from all over the world will take part in the program of opera, drama, ballet, symphony concerts and chamber music.

On the program are the Glyndebourne Opera Co., the Copenhagen and Hamburg Symphony Orchestras, the Halle Orchestra and the Philharmonia Orchestra, as well as the Sadler's Wells Ballet and a performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" by the Old Vic.

Round-trip fare from New York to Prestwick by Pan American's Rainbow Service is $258 one way, $464 round trip.

THE HITCHCOCK CHAIR

For the person who appreciates a bit of authentic Early Americana in their home, the Hitchcock Chair is the answer. First made in 1815, the chair made by Lambert Hitchcock was a probably the original of the sturdy, distinctive type of chair that bears his name. He was one of the first large manufacturers of furniture in America and according to the old records made "Chairs and cabinets—stands of all descriptions."

Lambert Hitchcock died in 1862. At that time he was called "America's most famous chair maker." The settlement in which his factory operated was named Hitchcockville and the entire population of about two hundred men, women and children depended upon the factory for their livelihood. After the Civil War the village was renamed Riverton. The famous Hitchcock Chairs are still being made in the original factory.

Hitchcock signed his chairs with the famous stencil signature that is still in use today.

HITCHCOCK, HITCHCOCKVILLE, CONN. WARRANTED.

These beautiful chairs, true in every detail to their famous and valued predecessors of more than a century ago, are sold only in selected stores throughout the country. Alexander Shultz Furniture Co., at 3538 Atlantic Ave., is honored to be appointed the exclusive Hitchcock representative for the entire Long Beach area.

These superbly constructed, authentic replicas with frames of selected hardwood, genuine hand-woven rush seats and authentic decorative stencils are available in beautiful finishes of black with gold; antique maple with gold; and antique cherry with gold.

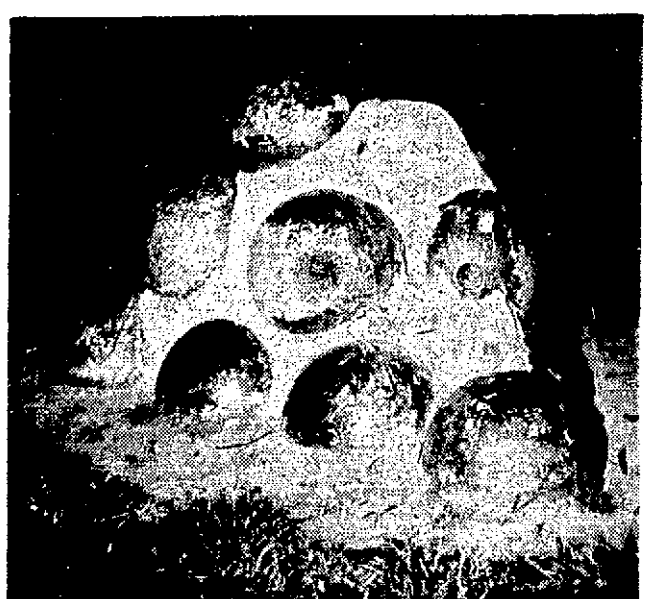

Watch for the special offer we are making this week on these famous Hitchcock chairs.

Alexander Shultz invites you to inspect these fine chairs and the many other exclusive lines in Modern, Maple, Cherry and Mahogany in his new and only store at 3538 Atlantic. Open every Monday and Friday evenings 7-11 p.m.

Strange Case of the Missing Cannonballs

By J. L. Combs

ANYONE HAVE A PAIR of Long Beach parks superintendent? Civil War cannon balls — These cannon balls are needed preferably of northern make — they will donate to the city of to replace the two stolen from one of the stacks which stand on each side of the Civil War cannon in Lincoln Park.

Two cannonballs were taken from this big stack. Note space near top where one ball is missing.

It's sad enough to think of this sort of thievery, but not 20 feet away stood "Honest Abe," high on his pedestal, watching the culprit and unable to raise his voice in furious objection.

What long, bitter hours he must have endured while the thief chiseled the balls from their cement encasement.

City Park Superintendent Ernest Barker could shed no light on the missing ordnance except that his department didn't have them.

Frank Anderson, foreman for the park commission, said they have been gone for quite some time, which eliminates the possibility that some patriotic citizen removed them and shipped the pair to Korea to help relieve the ammunition shortage.

"And," said Anderson, "we don't have any more in stock. Furthermore, I have no idea where replacements can be found."

AS AN AFTERTHOUGHT, he suggested Ft. MacArthur as a possible place for locating the needed replacements.

But Maj. E. W. Sullivan, in charge of the fort's ordnance department, only added more gunsmoke to the situation.

"They aren't necessarily Union," said the major. "Around 1867, Jeff Davis of the Confederacy shipped cannons and ammunition to the old drum barracks in Wilmington. Perhaps that's where the city of Long Beach got theirs in the first place."

Jeff Davis? Confederate cannons? In Lincoln Park? Certainly this couldn't be true.

"Actually," the major continued, "we can't help the city, anyway. We don't have either of the two types at the fort, but I suggest if the city finds replacements they should weld them together instead of using cement."

Thanks to the major, the problem has turned from where the cannon balls went to where did they come from. The South or the North?

THIS TIME, Park Superintendent Barker shot for the files on Lincoln Park.

He scored a direct miss.

Plenty of information on the statue, but nothing on the cannon or the ammunition.

Superintendent Barker reloaded, aimed at now retired City Engineer Col. Jesse A. Jackson and fired.

donado, I am convinced he will accomplish many times more than all of the previous appointed administrators.

MALDONADO is an intense man with deep-set, fiery black eyes. His patriotism and sincerity cannot be questioned. He speaks with compelling, dramatic enthusiasm, a native characteristic.

But determination alone is not enough to increase the economic and cultural well-being of a region. "I know what you mean," says Maldonado. "Yes, we will need pesos — many millions. We will encourage industry to come here, make inducements to foreign investors.

"Our generous land and our great resources can do much. And we will continue to buy as much as we'll sell. We spend $60,000 a day in your country now for consumer-level products."

Maldonado speaks often of

"our people," promising his government will be "a leader of the human liberties: Freedom of work, freedom of speech in all its forms, freedom of creeds."

A key to the Governor's philosophy may be seen in this statement: "The big companies have great reserves, but they have forgotten the human reserves."

The Governor stood to conclude the interview, explaining through the interpreter that he had to return to an important conference. Then, in fine English, he added: "A couple of big shots from L. A."

can probably answer your questions."

When asked about the missing missiles he replied, "They were stolen about 16 years ago and at that time we didn't think we could find replacements for them so nothing was done about it.

"As for their origin," he continued, "I took it for granted they were Northern cannon balls.

"But that shouldn't be hard to determine because there was a great deal of difference between Northern and Southern steel during the Civil War. Maybe Maj. Sullivan will send over an ordnance technician to measure the size of the shot and take samples of the iron for analysis."

SIMPLER YET, how about the culprit returning the missing two? Then we'll return the monument to its original condition with no questions asked.

Until then, though, don't mention any doubt of the Lincoln Park cannon balls' possible Dixie origin. It's bad enough to see the Great Emancipator's stony glare concerning the missing balls, but the shock of learning they could have come from the South might topple him off his pedestal.

Like Springtime in Paris

SPRINGTIME in Paris is no more enchanting than springtime in the Huntington botanical gardens at the Henry E. Huntington library and art gallery, San Marino.

Visitors relaxing in the shade of a mammoth 200-year-old oak rest their eyes on the wide sweep of lawn centered by the majestic tree.

Along the North Vista, pink and white masses of rhododendrons hobnob with azaleas and camellias. South of the art gallery, the "powder puff" and "pom-pom" bushes are billows of feathery lightness near the cup of gold vine that clings to the balustrade.

Strolling west across the lawn from the art gallery, visitors pass through the rose arbors that overlook the gardens where the newest roses of the All-American selections are displayed. Then they walk down stone steps to the Oriental garden where a tranquil pool reflects the Japanese maple and the Oriental bridge.

ELSEWHERE in the gardens, Chinese magnolias, white and purple-tinged, bloom early in the season and later the fringe tree is a canopy of snow.

At the foot of the sloping lawn the lily ponds offer lotus and water lilies, while just around a bend visitors find themselves in another world — the far-famed cactus garden. Here 15 acres are planted with 2000 varieties of cacti and other succulent plants, the low, dainty echeverias contrasting sharply with the tall, white yuccas and the orange and red aloes and agaves.

Just now interest centers on

1000 varieties of camellias in the five-acre garden. A number, including the white "Margarete Hertrich" were developed in the Huntington gardens. The "Margarete Hertrich," of the formal double type, is of the species camellia japonica. Specimens blooming on the hillside west of the Oriental garden have attained a height of 10 feet.

Displayed in the seven principal galleries and 15 smaller galleries and halls are 400 objects of art, including 65 paintings, and tapestries, furniture, rugs, clocks, porcelains and miniatures produced in England and France in the 18th Century and rare manuscripts and books.

AMONG CANVASES exhibited are 11 paintings by Gainsborough, 12 by Reynolds, 11 by Romney and seven by Lawrence. Among others represented are Constable, Hogarth, Hoppner, Kneller, Raeburn, Ramsay, Stuart and Turner. The most popular paintings include "Sarah Siddons as the Tragic Muse" by Sir Joshua Reynolds, "Pinkie" by Sir Thomas Lawrence and "The Blue Boy" by Thomas Gainsborough.

Gardens and galleries are open each afternoon except Mondays and certain holidays from 1 to 4:30 p. m. Admission is free but reservations must be made in advance by telephone or mail. Cards of admission are dated

WHILE THE LENTEN SEASON does have a special significance, life goes on very much as usual. Hostesses will still reign over luncheons, buffets and supper parties and their desire to please their guests will be just as keen.

Fortunately, there are just as many taste-tempting recipes available for this special season as for any time of the year and, better still, a change from the usual is a mighty good morale builder.

Contrary to general thinking, however, these dishes need not be fish in any form whatsoever. Eggs, cheese, casserole dishes which contain the bulkier foods such as rice, noodles, macaroni, etc., are all popular and interesting to prepare.

One Long Beach homemaker and popular hostess who anticipated this particular season is Mrs. Oliver P. Roemer, 4211 Pacific Ave. She's perused her file and has sent along two recipes which she has found to be the favorites of her family and friends. They're for Curried Deviled Eggs and Cheese Cake. The Curried Eggs recipe is featured elsewhere on this page today and the recipe for Cheese Cake is given below.

Cheese Cake
20 graham crackers (single)
½ cube melted butter
3 tablespoons sugar
Dash of cinnamon
Roll graham crackers fine and add sugar, cinnamon and butter. Mix and pack into large pie plate as for pie crust.

Filling
4 eggs, beaten foamy and lemon color
½ cup sugar beaten well into eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 packages cream cheese (soft)

Beat cream cheese until soft and creamy. Then mix with egg mixture and beat until smooth and creamy. (can be done with electric mixer). Pour into crust and bake at 375° until set (about 20 to 30 minutes). Remove and cool 10 minutes. Cover with topping of 1 pint sour cream
4 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Return and bake 8 to 10 minutes more at 400°. Cover and chill in refrigerator six hours or more. This can be frozen and kept in your deep freeze.

Cheese Fondue
1 cup milk
½ cup grated sharp cheese

Curried Deviled Eggs as prepared by Mrs. O. P. Roemer, add zest to Lenten dining.

¾ teaspoon salt
Few grains cayenne
2 teaspoons butter or fortified margarine
2 eggs
2 slices buttered bread
Heat milk and cheese in top of double boiler until cheese is melted. Remove from heat. Add salt, cayenne, butter and well-beaten eggs. Cut bread into ½-inch pieces and add to cheese mixture.
Place in four greased heat-resistant glass custard cups, five-ounce size. Bake in moderate oven (325° F.) for about 35 minutes or until delicately browned and firm to touch. Serve in the custard cups. Yield: 4 servings.

Baked Cheese Puff
8 slices bread
Butter
4 slices American cheese
4 eggs
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
Make two ordinary cheese sandwiches with the bread, butter and cheese. Place the sandwiches in shallow baking dish.

Beat eggs slightly (as for custard). Add milk and salt. Pour this mixture over the cheese sandwiches and bake in slow oven (325° F.) about 45 minutes. Serves 4.

Kitchen Tip:

Mrs. Roemer's Kitchen Tip: A recipe card can be kept handy and clean while mixing ingredients by placing the card between the tines of a fork in a tall glass.

Mrs. Roemer's Curried Deviled Eggs:

8 deviled eggs (16 halves)
(Add dash of curry powder to yolks)
Place in single-layer in flat casserole and cover with following sauce:
5 tbles. butter or margarine
3 tbsls. flour (heaping)
¾ teaspoon season salt
Few grains of cayenne
2 to 3 cups milk (after thickened)
Add 1¼ cups grated nippy cheese
½ tsp. Lea & Perrin
Just let cheese melt. Do not cook or let boil. After covering eggs let stand (can be overnight). Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees. Just long enough to heat through.

He Stood on the Bastions of Heaven

had been completely swallowed up by an erupting volcano. At that time, scientists found indisputable evidence that the volcano had been "dead" for not less than 8000 years!
But, probing deeper into the Huasachugo area's hoary mysteries was impossible for the young archaeologist during his stay, since he was alone — except for the two guides — and had only a few hand tools to use in excavating. He spent several weeks in filming the lost city's wonders and poking about the ruins but finally was forced to return to civilization when his food supplies and film were exhausted.

Returning to Lima by a slightly different route, as indicated on his ancient map, he made one of white man's rare visits to Acque, sister city of Huasachugo but many days' travel southward. He postponed extensive explorations there, however, until his next Peruvian expedition planned for next year, when he will return with special equipment and additional manpower to resume and extend his scientific snooping.
"I've more than just archaeological reasons for wanting to return real soon," the tall, boyish-looking Wilhelmssen admits. "Another explorer recently turned up a half million dollars' worth of gold artifacts, bullion and a pint jug of pink pearls while he was scouring around the remains of a Peruvian village once occupied by relatively poor Incas. I believe Huasachugo was an upper crust community populated by members of the ruling class. That suggests the existence of an Inca-style First National Bank somewhere in that maze of stone buildings. If so, I want to be first in line to present my withdrawal slip at the cashier's window!"

When you swing open the door to ANDY'S HOT CAKE HOUSE
643½ Pine Ave.

The friendliness of this informal restaurant greets you. It seems to say: "Welcome! Please come in." Andy's cooking is just about as close to home cooked foods as you're liable to find. His patronage are folks who, like us not, eat all their meals with him. Breakfast, lunch, dinner—they dine with ANDY. The fussiest diners savor his cooking—real home flavor away from home.

The dinner hours at Andy's are different from most places. Of course, he serves breakfasts and lunches. But his dinner time begins at 4 and he closes his doors at 6:50 on the dot. That's because he gets up around 2 a. m., so that he can return to his domain on Pine and start baking his feather light rolls, breads and array of fabulous pies that must carry him through the day.

Andy's proud of his products. He uses only the largest, freshest eggs in his baking and old-fashioned buttermilk hot cakes, which he serves throughout the day. They make a mighty pleasing meal—breakfast, lunch, supper or snack. He always serves them with all the golden Danish butter you wish, plus rich, deep flavor Lor Cabin syrup.

As you move along the line at dinner time looking at the varied array of foods, you have fun watching Andy carve juicy Prime Ribs, tender Roast Turkey, Ham, baked to perfection. It's also a real pleasure when you eat the food. Cranberries, of course. The complete turkey dinner—vegetables, salad, flaky rolls, coffee is under a dollar—56c.

On THURSDAY a complete fried chicken dinner headlines the menu. A quarter of golden fried chicken, real Southern Cream Gravy, homemade breads better than you'll find south of the Mason-Dixon line.

BAKED HALIBUT and again his renowned ROAST TURKEY give Friday evening shoppers a choice of dinner specialties. Andy always serves a nourishing Child's Plate for 65c.

SATURDAY the specialty of ANDY'S HOT CAKE HOUSE will be flavorful SWISS STEAK.

Whether you order these daily specials or the everyday standbys of hot cakes, Eastern Prime Rib from top graded Chicago beef, tender baked ham—you'll always find the quality high, the prices reasonable.

In a matter of hours a new house is under way. In eighteen days, house will be completed, ready for occupancy, under a newly-devised construction plan.

Still to be reckoned in a matter of hours is the building time at this period of the construction. Photo shows how beams and panels fall into place.

Roof's on and work is speeding toward completion in this photo. New idea in building, called Panel Aire, was devised by Henry C. Cox, Garden Grove.

Bare Lot to House in Only 18 Days!

GARDEN GROVE.

SOMETHING NEW in home construction has, figuratively speaking, popped out of the ground in this community — something that has attracted attention far beyond this immediate community. By this new construction, a complete home can be built ready for occupancy, starting with a bare lot, in 18 days!

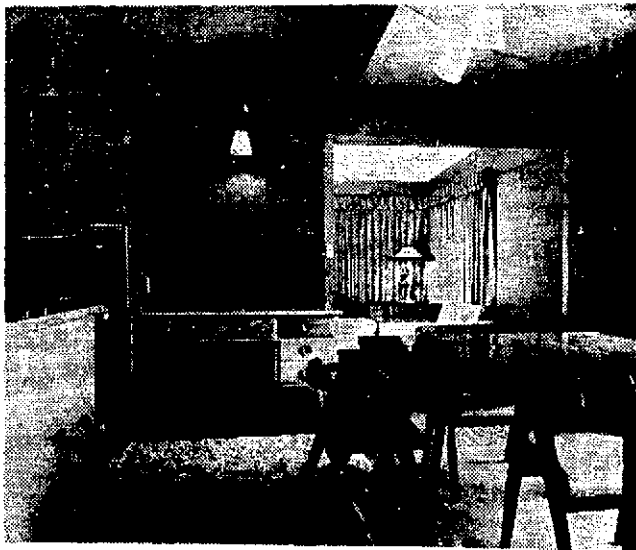

Furthermore, this high-speed home is stronger, more conservative of heat and less costly to construct than the conventional type of building that takes three months to erect. Or so its originator, Henry C. Cox, 9999 Lamson Ave., and his associates claim — and they have laboratory studies and model homes to back up their assertions.

The magic of the new plan is achieved with panel-and-beam construction. Original model home — given the name of Panel Aire and located at 12552 Edith St. — is laid on double-poured, insulated concrete slabs but the method is suited to wooden floor construction. First Panel Aire units are all-mahogany where exposed panels and beams are concerned. Beam construction is steel-doweled for sturdiness, electric wiring is concealed in raceways detailed in the beams. A sliding glass window has been designed to be an integral part of the panels, but present models are air-conditioned for both heating and cooling and windows are sealed.

More elegant of the two models from the standpoint of fittings, including built-in electric range and oven, touch plate switches with master panel, full year-around heating aid air-conditioning, massive fireplace, birch cabinets, indirect lighting, ceramic tile wainscoting and counters, electric exhaust fans in bath and kitchen, dishwasher, garbage disposal, flood-lighted yard, can be duplicated on the prospective householder's lot for $13,900, its makers claim. A smaller 3-bedroom unit, including all above features except air-conditioning, dishwasher and master panel, can be duplicated for $10,500.

The completed home is of modern design and is flexible in style or size and arrangement. This flexibility suits the style of construction to lavish home, guest house, mountain cabin or suite of offices, Cox claims. He developed the Panel Aire method of building over a two-year period of research. Patents are pending.

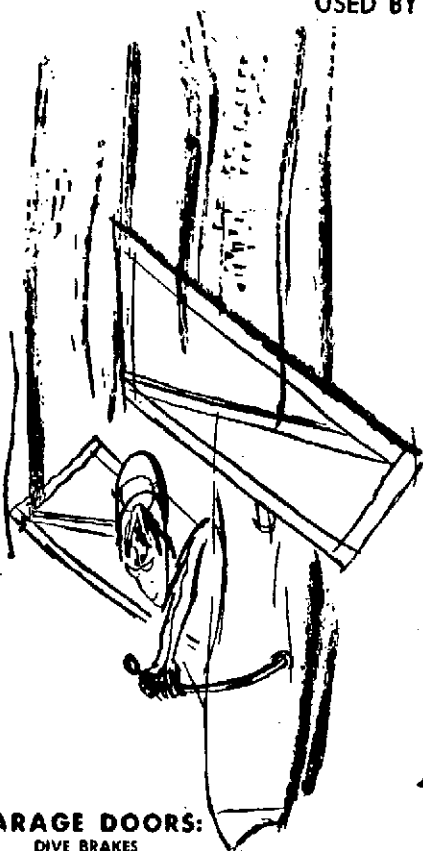

Built-in electric oven, ceramic tiling, air conditioning, many comfortable features are discernible above.

Massive fireplace, beamed ceiling, free movement between rooms are features of this Panel Aire dwelling.

A GLOSSARY OF TERMS
USED BY PIPE JOCKEYS

GARAGE DOORS:
DIVE BRAKES

Jet pilots have a jargon all their own. It makes little sense to anyone else, but when spoken at an air base, labels the user as a gent who's been around. For instance, they do not say a pilot started the engine when he really "hit the wick." If he does something wrong while airborne, he "takes a star." And they don't say he doesn't get excited; instead, they say "he doesn't hit the panic button." If he makes a tight turn and a smooth landing, they say he "hawks it and spikes it on." Tony Miller adds more terms to the Directory of Jet Lingo with these drawings.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

AWAY FROM THE CITY and enjoying a beach all its own is the two-story home of Mrs. Helen Ringler, 23-A Surfside Colony. This attractive dwelling of cocoa stucco and driftwood has the sort of "nonchalant elegance" that comes with a well designed beach home.

But possibly more exciting than its exterior is the unusual floor plan of this 2300-square-foot home. For, with no thought for tradition, Mrs. Ringler specified that her living room be located on the second floor while the den and dining room share equal honors downstairs. And once one has visited Mrs. Ringler in her home, it becomes perfectly logical why this was done. An excellent cook and charming hostess, Mrs. Ringler has long been characterized for her pleasant dinner parties. And this unusual room arrangement lends itself ideally to such entertaining.

Mrs. Ringler may invite her guests upstairs into the living room where, apart from the bustle of the kitchen and the preparation of the dining room, the second-story ocean view inspires tranquility and leisurely pre-dinner conversations. And then, when everything is in readiness, the group may go down to the dining room, which is situated adjacent to the den area with its great open fireplace.

By Eileen Ball

fectly logical why this was done.

After dinner, Mrs. Ringler says, her guests often prefer to adjourn into the den-playroom large room, is a Louis XVI sofa, its downy cushions upholstered in a rich rose brocade.

Diaphanous, fully-pleated semi-sheer rose fiber-glass draperies fall in deep folds over the windows, casting a soft glow over the room. Pulled back, they reveal an entire wall of view windows that overlook the sea. The carpet is a carved design in wood-rose tone. And adding a needed note of coolness to the scheme are the pale blue-green walls.

FOR YEARS Mrs. Ringler has been an ardent admirer-collector of rare Meissen and Dresden figures. Distributed throughout the room are exquisite pieces — small bowls, flamboyant candelabra and intricate figurines. The most fragile are displayed in an antique cabinet of English origin. Wedge-shaped, it shows off its precious contents on mulberry velvet through its pie-shaped plate glass doors.

Across the hall from the living room is the master bedroom. Uncompromisingly feminine, it is memorable for its hunter's green and shell pink color scheme.

The ceiling and the wardrobes are painted pale pink, while the walls are papered in a very high-styled pattern involving pink cabbage roses superimposed on a deep green ground.

The furnishings are traditional mahogany, the beds spread with rose quilted taffeta.

The guest room is considerably less formal with its pale yellow walls and matching curtains. Spreads on the maple twins are white, royal blue and yellow provincial print.

Mrs. Ringler's daughter has a room with a sweeping view of the ocean. The view sets off the bedroom, which has aqua, chocolate and coral paper to its best advantage. Draperies are heavy brown linen-like fabric, and the twin spreads have been custom-made to match.

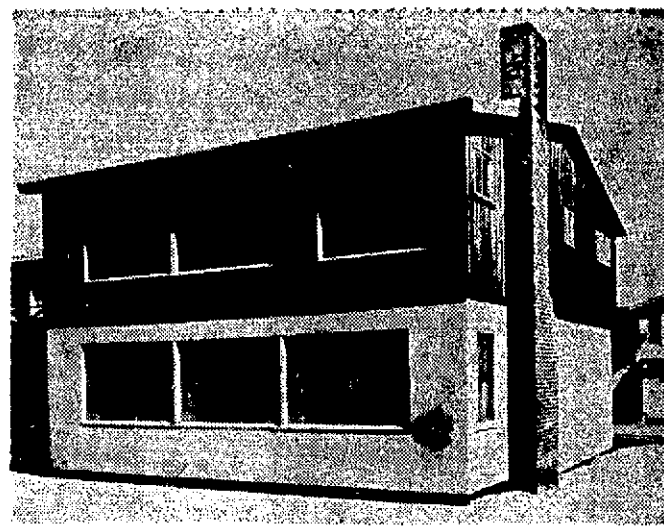

DOWNSTAIRS, the den-playroom and the dining room occupy the entire front of the house. The den is paneled with cedar. And set into a magnificently paneled wall, flanked with open bookshelves, is the large open fireplace that warms and cheers both the den and the dining area beyond. Amber-tinted windows are hung with split bamboo draperies and draped with a soft fabric in an avocado green tone.

Furnishings throughout this area are carried out in shades of cocoa, chocolate, soft green and gold.

The dining area is somewhat more formal with its oval French provincial table and open

Welch cupboard. Lending a great deal of charm to this end of the room is the antique oil lamp that Mrs. Ringler had converted into an over-the-table light fixture.

Kitchen cabinets have been crafted of cedar. The hardware is hammered copper, which adds a note of the provincial to the room. The tile and the walls are butter yellow, and the gaily-ruffled curtains are bright yellow trimmed in chocolate.

Exterior finish in driftwood style and cocoa-colored stucco is pleasing at the home of Mrs. Helen Ringler.

Mrs. Ringler's daughter enjoys the luxury of a view window surveying a wide expanse of the rolling sea.

Campbell, at 86, has been golfing for 56 years and still delights at a par hole.

"You can tell everyone that we love it here in Long Beach and plan to be here every year," said Leipsic.

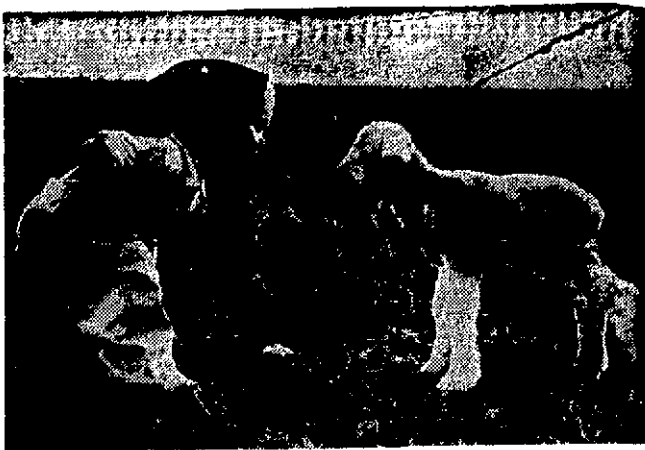

"We've played the best courses in Florida and Texas, but none have finer greens than they do here at Recreation Park."

"How do their wives feel being daily golf widows?"

"I think they are secretly glad to get rid of us," Hyde said. "They like sitting around the hotel (the Villa Riviera)."

To the question if they showed any aches or pains from their daily golfing, Dr. Gage replied, "they brought me along to take care of them, and I'm happy to say I haven't done a moment's work. Too busy playing golf, anyhow."

"Why, son, I would have died 30 years ago if it weren't for golf," Hyde concluded.

This is a good example of a human interest snapshot with universal appeal. In fact, it won a top prize in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards contest.

Snaps that 'Catch On'

By the Shutterbug

HAVE YOU EVER noticed how often newspapers use pictures that aren't connected with any important news development and are not of local origin? Chances are these are pictures that immediately catch the eye, and perhaps cause you to smile to yourself, or murmur, "Isn't that cute?"

Probably there are people or animals involved — people and pets you don't know, will never see. Yet you like the picture because of the situation, because it has what the editors would term "human interest."

What has this to do with your snapshotting? Well, you can use these pictures to help make yours even more interesting. If they are set up in such a way that they have universal appeal, that the picture is of interest to people thousands of miles away, couldn't you profit from them in making pictures of subjects that in themselves could make almost any type of snapshots satisfactory to you?

Most of the newspapers' "human interest" pictures involve people. This isn't surprising, since people are one of the most popular amateur photographic subjects. But these aren't just pictures of people — they are pictures of people who are doing something.

If these people were simply standing staring into a camera, the paper wouldn't use the picture in the first place, and if they did, you wouldn't stop to look at it. Usually, the activity in which they are engaged is the key to the interest of the picture. It is the factor that makes it appealing.

Keep this in mind in snapping pictures of your favorite people. It'll make a picture you'd enjoy in any case even more enjoyable.

How To - Apply Quick Wood Finish

NOTHING SPOILS THE APPEARANCE of anything made of wood so thoroughly as a poor finish. Yet there is little excuse for a shoddy complexion on wood. With modern materials and reasonable care, even the unhandy man can do a good finishing job.

Actually, some of the most pleasing and durable of finishes are the easiest and quickest to produce. Four quick finishes are pictured. Before a satisfying finish can be applied, the wood must be properly prepared. Here are four preparation points to remember:

1. When you finish, strip off all traces of old finish with paint remover. Fine steel wool is helpful. If your remover contains wax, wash the residue away carefully with turpentine.
2. Use fine sandpaper to make the surface glass-smooth, then wipe away all traces of dust with a turpentine-moistened cloth.
3. If you want to change the wood's color, brush or wipe on a suitable wood stain.
4. If the wood is open-grained like oak, walnut, mahogany or chestnut, and you want a very smooth surface, fill the grain with a paste filler of the desired color. Good trick: Spread the filler across the grain with a cardboard wiper. When the filler loses its gloss, wipe off the excess with burlap and sand lightly.

With these preparations complete, here are some quick finishes for you to consider.

WAX ALONE, or wax over a thin coat of shellac, gives a durable finish, easy to create and maintain. Spread wax evenly with a damp cloth. If wood is open-grained and not filled, use a staining-wax alone—it will give an excellent appearance. Polish dry wax thoroughly; soft brush makes a good tool for this. Finish with a soft cloth for maximum sheen. Apply at least two coats of wax, polishing each. Neutral-colored wax can, of course, be used over other finishes.

OIL POLISHING gives you a beautiful finish, especially on hardwoods. You simply brush on boiled linseed oil, let it soak in, then polish with a soft cloth. This is repeated at weekly intervals until a true oil polish results. A short cut that gives almost equal results is this: Apply oil liberally; warmed oil penetrates better. Wipe off excess oil, and let dry for several days. Then apply a thin coat of shellac and two of wax.

OPEN-GRAINED WOODS like oak, chestnut, walnut, or mahogany can be finished strikingly by filling grain with colored pigment. In picture, white enamel is being applied; oil paint or white paste filler may be used. Force pigment in with cardboard wiper. Stain may be applied first. Blend pigment on surface to uniform tone by rubbing with cloth. If you like, you can remove practically all pigment; cloth moistened with turpentine speeds removal. After blending, let pigment dry a day or two, then finish with white shellac and wax. A stain-wax does same job.

possibly drag off and chew to a pulp. A strong hosing will keep such a mat clean even though you use it to scrape mud from your feet after gardening.

Never forget the limitless possibilities of using the rocks you bring home for the problem slope. Once you become interested in rock gardening you will have a life-long hobby if you so choose. Try to keep the rock garden simple, however, and in harmony with the rest of the landscape.

If you want a really lovely rock garden, prepare the ground before you place the stones. Then work upward from the lower level. Keep rocks and stratified material (which you may have to buy) running in the same direction and tilted slightly backward so they will seem connected with the bed-rock below. Firm earth around most of the rocks.

There are numerous rock garden plants for both shaded and sunny environments. Your nurseryman can offer valuable advice here. A few good plants to remember include evergreen drouth - resisting Erigeron mucronatus, storks' bill (Erodium chamaedroides), prostrate Rosmarinus officinalis, helianthemums, numerous succulents and cacti. Arabis aubrieta, Saponaria ocymoides, ajuga and dwarf primroses grow nicely in shaded places.

Let Beauty Bloom Under Water

Underwater bouquets provide an interesting method of displaying flowers. Decorations last longer this way.

By John Ronson

DISPLAYING cut flowers by submerging them in a glass bowl filled with water is a most interesting way of decorating your home with garden blooms. The water acts as a magnifying glass and small flowers seem to increase in size and beauty. The flowers may last for a week or longer, during this entire period retaining their color and brilliance.

Display sets for those submerged garden effects are available at florist shops and garden supply stores. The glass containers can be obtained in several different sizes. The set includes, besides the glass bowl, a pin holder, cap and a small package of material useful in keeping the flowers and water fresh.

The flower stems should be cut short and placed firmly on the pin holder, often called a frog in floral arrangements. The glass bowl should be turned upside down and held under a cold water faucet. Fill to the brim to prevent formation of air bubbles inside the container. The bowl must be kept absolutely level when filling it with water; rest it on a surface if your hands are not steady.

Great care must be exercised in fitting the flowers into the bowl. Turn the pin holder upside down and, cupping your hand around the flowers, insert the pin holder inside the bowl. Then fit the cap on the rim of the glass globe and turn it right side up.

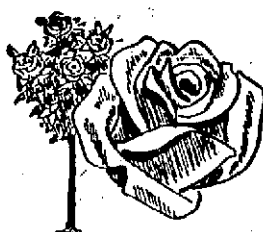

If the flowers come from your garden pick them early in the morning. At that time the cells are swollen with moisture and the flowers suffer less of a shock. Cut the stems on an angle, rather than straight across. Then place the blooms in a bucket filled with cold water to a point just below the buds. Allow them to rest for several hours before the final arrangement.

INDIVIDUAL FLORAL arrangements should be kept as simple as possible. The display should be kept low as long stemmed flowers seem to lack in design when used for this purpose. A single rose with an extremely short stem is ideal for submerged floral effects.

It is also advisable to clean thoroughly the glass bowl before placing the flower in position. After the cap has been attached make certain that the rim fits tightly to prevent seepage. Every time a new flower is arranged, the purifying powder should be added. This not only aids in keeping the water fresh but also increases the flower's longevity.

Just before placing the flower in the bowl hold the stem section under water and cut off part of it. This makes it impossible for air bubbles to move up through the stem, a condition which retards the flow of water. Air bubbles thus act as a barrier to the necessary movement of water from the stem to the flower head.

Twice as much
Growth Value in Every Red Star Bag!

Like fruit, manure should be ripe before use, says famed garden consultant Joe Littlefield. It must become humus before plants fully benefit. And it becomes humus only when well rotted.

AGED FOR MONTHS, Red Star Steer Manure already is well rotted when you get it. During the long aging process, it is constantly compressed and becomes more and more concentrated. You get two, three or even four times the humus value that you do in a bag of "green" manure which has had little or no aging. Just notice how much lighter such a bag of green manure feels. Right there in your hands is proof of Red Star's higher quality and greater value.

FREE FROM WEED SEED, too, because Red Star Steer is obtained only from concrete-floored feeding pens, where steers have no opportunity to eat weeds. Special processing while it ages makes freedom from weed seed doubly sure. Then it is thoroughly screened and bagged.

WISE GARDENERS USE PLENTY of well-rotted manure; they know humus is essential for proper plant growth. With Red Star Aged Steer, you get more humus for your money and do more good for your garden. So, at your nursery or garden supply dealer's, insist on Red Star.

Watch "Garden Chats with Joe Littlefield," Sundays, 12:30 p. m., KTTV, Channel 11. And get your 82-page Red Star Pocket Garden Guide, free at Red Star dealers.

Well-conditioned garden soil is friable. Result can be achieved through humus or new chemicals.

Soil Conditioning Pays Dividends

By Bob Gilmore

SOIL CONDITIONING is one of the most important steps concerned with growing a plant. Yet even today it is one of the most widely misunderstood terms among both professional and amateur gardeners. The confusion is due to the erroneous belief that a soil conditioner is a fertilizer or a plant food. This is definitely not the case.

A soil conditioner is used to improve the mechanical or physical properties of a particular soil. But unless the structure of the soil is encouraging to plant growth, successive applications of plant food may prove a waste of both time and money.

The soil itself is not a continuous stratum. It is made up of individual particles varying in size from microscopic aggregates to huge boulders. In your garden, for example, the sand may have a diameter of from one to one-half millimeter while the clay particles may measure just about 1/200 of a millimeter. They are so tiny you can not see them with the naked eye.

THE IDEAL SOIL is one that has adequate porosity, proper aeration, satisfactory moisture retention and good drainage. Heavy soils are usually lacking in a number or even all of these factors. Plants find it difficult to grow in them. These soils pack down hard; they form a crust on the surface; they turn dusty when it's dry and soggy (Continued on Next Page.)

Organic humus is good in heavy and sandy soil. Chemicals work best in heavy soil, last longer.

Lakeland terriers are sturdy and brave. Three puppies of the breed are displayed here by Mrs. S. C. Thompson.

PET PARADE

They'll Do or Die

By Karen Smith

LAKELAND TERRIERS are one of the oldest working terrier breeds in existence, their career starting in 1870, yet only recently have they been shown, probably because the English farmers in the rugged mountain and lake districts of Cumberland County had need of him for his splendid working ability in destroying foxes raiding the sheep folds.

These farmers admired him for his strength, endurance, determination, and his courageous disregard for danger. He has been known to crawl underground many feet. In one instance, he became lodged 23 feet under rock and had to be blasted out, an extensive operation that took three days, but the dog suffered no ill effects. Others have been locked underground for as many as 12 days. His body is narrow, approximately the same width as his head, a feature which enables him to crawl into crevices after his quarry.

The Lakeland terrier is a tireless companion, can easily travel 35 to 50 miles in a day. He is excellent as companion for active children and has a quiet disposition. He is unexcelled as a house pet for he does not shed and he has no odor. He makes a fine watchdog indoors or out.

Only recently has the United States Lakeland Terrier Club been founded. It is headed by Robert Wiel of San Francisco. Vice president is S. C. Thompson, 440 W. San Antonio Dr.

The three Lakeland terrier puppies shown in the accompanying photograph were raised by Mr. and Mrs. Thompson. They were sired by Ch. Aristocrat of Greeba. The mother is the Thompsons' Suzy, who won best of breed, opposite sex, at Harbor City Dog Show in Long Beach last year.

ANNUALS GIVE COLOR in the garden — quick color — and April is the ideal month of the year to put them to work in your garden pushing up showy masses of color to brighten your way.

One of the showiest quick color plant groups is the marigold family, which ranges from miniatures up to saucer size flowers in the giant African type. While red, orange and yellow shades predominate in the marigold family, new hybrids are available that are almost white. One of these new hybrids that is worth trying is Man in the Moon, a large cream-flowered marigold.

For full assurance of success there are many reliable varieties that are recommended by the California Bedding Plant Advisory Board. In the dwarf form Yellow Pygmy; Sunkist in the extra dwarf type; Butterball, Harmony, Spry, Naughty Marietta, Red Head and Sunkist in the medium dwarf type, and tall Sunset Giants and the African All Double Yellow and Orange are considered to be the best performers.

The dwarf varieties are best used for edging and for low beds. They have little use as cut flowers without hurting the appearance of the planting. The giant varieties on the other hand are naturals for cut flowers. They can yield bouquets for months on end and still present a bright show of color in the garden. Dwarf or giant — marigolds are terrific! Plant them in full sun, water and fertilize sparingly and enjoy one of the easiest-to-care-for annuals known.

Soil Condition Pays Dividends

when it's wet. And they are difficult to work.

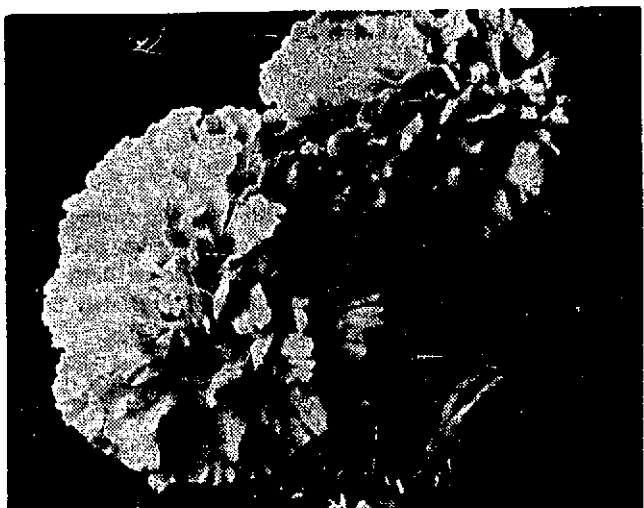

Today you have your choice of two kinds of soil conditioners. The oldest type is the organic conditioner which has been used for many hundreds of years. Organic soil conditioners are available in the form of humus such as peat moss, leaf mold, bean straw and strawy manures.

THE SECOND KIND of soil conditioner is of fairly recent introduction. This is the synthetic soil conditioner which may yet prove to be one of the most revolutionary garden products of our time.

Proof definitely exists that both have the capacity for loosening up a soil. While neither is a plant food yet both make it easier for plants to absorb the nutrients already in the soil or those which may be added from time to time.

But synthetic soil conditioners have a more limited use than the organic types. They are valuable only for improving heavy soils. But humus may be applied, and with equally good results, to both heavy or light soils. It should be stated, however, that the benefits of the synthetic soil conditioners seem longer lived; and a smaller amount is required for treating a particular area.

An important distinction between synthetic and organic conditioners is that the former is not attacked and broken down by soil bacteria; and that the soil aggregates formed are not easily separated. Perhaps the ideal soil conditioning program will result from the combined use of synthetic and organic conditioners.

Marigolds, dwarf or giant, add color to the garden; giant variety makes excellent cut flowers.

Tips on Gardening

GARDENING TIPS for the week . . . Plants are now growing vigorously and, unfortunately, so are bugs. That means you should institute a rigorous spray program. It is almost impossible to kill all the bugs in your garden but some measure of control is obtainable. Spraying at intervals of every 10 days should assure fairly good control.

Citrus may now be transplanted to your garden. This area is noted for its commercial production of citrus and in your garden many types of citrus will prove ornamental as well as of utilitarian value.

This is a good time to check your watering equipment. The time is fast approaching when getting moisture to your plants will be your most important garden chore. Nursery and garden supply outlets are showing many new kinds of watering equipment.

Here's That 'Stomp and Whistle' Rhythm

By Delos Smith

HARRY JAMES and his orchestra, one of the few major dance ensembles to remain in continuous existence since a decade ago when bandhood was in flower, make lively music in a new Columbia waxing, "Stomp and Whistle," a popular version of a current "rhythm and blues" song. There's a lively vocal by drummer Buddy Rich, and, of course, a driving solo by Harry.

Flip is "Ya Better Stop," an instrumental in somewhat slower tempo.

TWO HIT SONGS from the 1930s have reappeared all dressed up in new arrangements and should enjoy new popularity. One of these songs, "I'm Gonna Bring a Watermelon to My Girl Tonight," came out exactly 30 years ago on a thick Edison biscuit and immediately became a top tune of the day.

Sammy Spear and his Society Eight have corned up the 1954 version on a Mercury single, but it's a light song and needs a playful touch. The title has been shortened to just "Watermelon" but the catchy lyrics remain unchanged.

The other old song, "Me and My Shadow," has been remembered largely because it's been a standard number in Ted Lewis' band act for many years. Occasionally it would be included in plush orchestral medleys or on the flip side of a sure-fire hit.

RCA-Victor has just issued a sparkling new arrangement of "Me and My Shadow." Noro Morales treats it whimsically in the mambo manner and the lyrics are dragged out in the Billy May fashion. It's a real sleeper.

The great drum classic of the early 1940's, "Big Noise from Winnetka," is back on a Mercury single. Ralph Marterie and his orchestra have given it new zest by bringing a guitar into the cast.

LEROY HOLMES, one of the country's most underrated band leaders, pays tribute to the other baton wielders in his latest M-G-M lp, "The Great Ones."

The songs recorded by Holmes are trademarks of such as Count Basie ("One o'Clock Jump"), Glenn Miller ("Tuxedo Junction"), Artie Shaw ("Back Bay Shuffle"), Duke Ellington ("Take the A Train"), Woody Herman ("Woodchoppers Ball") and Tommy Dorsey ("Boogie Woogie").

Holmes plays all of these pop classics, plus two others, as though they were written for him. There is no attempt at imitation.

TEN TOP TUNES—Jo Stafford's "Make Love to Me" continues in top spot on your local hit parade this week, closely followed by Perry Como's "Wanted"; (3) "Cross Over the Bridge," Patti Page; (4) "Youth at Heart," Frank Sinatra; (5) "I Get So Lonely," Four Knights; (6) "Secret Love," Doris Day; (7) "From the Vine Came the Grape," The Hilltoppers; (8) "Til Then," The Hilltoppers; (9) "Changing Partners," Patti Page; and (10) "Answer Me My Love," Nat King Cole.

MODERN AND CLASSIC concertos are represented on new lps at the Long Beach Public Library. Especially fine performances are given in Beethoven, "Concerto No. 1 in C Major" (Badura-Skoda, pianist); Bliss, "Concerto for Piano and Orchestra, 1938-1939" (Winterthur Symphony with Mewton-Wood, pianist); Mozart, "Concerto No. 3 for Violin and Orchestra" (Chamber Orchestra with I. Stern, violinist); Rachmaninoff, "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini" with "Concerto No. 1 in F Sharp Minor" (Philadelphia Orchestra with Rachmaninoff, pianist) and Vivaldi, "Concerto in B Minor for Piano and Orchestra" (Orchestra of Radio Italiana, Mario Salerno, pianist).

The week brought reserves for even the more difficult languages of Japanese and Chinese. The popularity of foreign language study by records continues at the library.

JULES LANGSNER, noted art critic, will speak at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at Long Beach City College, Lakewood campus art building, Faculty Ave. at Harvey Way, on "Contemporary Art From the Critic's Point of View." The lecture is open to the public.

Langsner is associate editor of "Arts and Architecture," regional critic for the "Art News" and a free-lance writer on art for newspapers and magazines throughout the country. He also is art consultant for the Ford Foundation for Adult Education.

A NEW SHOW opens Thursday in the City College art gallery, featuring the work of architect Alden B. Dow. The exhibit will be closed during Easter week, April 12-16, but then will remain open through May 14. Visiting hours at the gallery are 10-4 Monday through Thursday, 7-10 p. m. Thursdays and 10

By Harry Rickard

IT LOOKS as though the new postal administration is going to be the first to make a radical change and give the collectors of U. S. stamps something to be proud about. This month the United States will issue its first bi-colored regular issue postage stamp. Yes, we have had bi-colored commemoratives before, but never a regular series postage stamp.

The stamp will be an 8-cent denomination, primarily designed for overseas use. The Statue of Liberty will be the central motif and also appearing for the first time will be the motto, "In God We Trust." Colors will be red and blue with white background.

Those desiring First Day Covers of this stamp should send their envelopes and money order to cover postage at 8 cents per cover to the Postmaster, Washington, D. C. Place the words, "First Day Covers," on the bottom corner of your package so that they are forwarded without delay. The First Day will be some time in April, no special date given, so do not delay. It will be a good idea for you to place a medium filler of cardboard or papers in the covers you want back, to lessen the chances of becoming wrinkled during transit.

THE FIRST TWO commemoratives to be announced are the Nebraska Centennial on May 7 with first day at Nebraska City, Neb., and the Kansas Centennial from Fort Leavenworth, Kan., on May 31. Details of the designs will be released later. It is not expected that they will be of the bi-colored type for the stamps made by the Bureau of Printing and Engraving are in one color.

a. m. to noon on Fridays.

The Dow exhibit will include photographs, drawings and working prints, arranged to show the various steps in an architect's work. Dow, a pupil of Frank Lloyd Wright, is considered one of the country's leading residential designers, and one of his major projects has been planning the entire community of Midland, Mich.

FOR THE SECOND YEAR, Long Beach Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., will have the west coast showing of items from the annual Good Design show in the Merchandise Mart in Chicago and the Museum of Modern Art, New York. The Long Beach showing, April 25-June 6, will include 250 items selected from some 5500 initially screened items. It will include furniture, floor coverings, drapery and upholstery fabrics, wall coverings, lamps, accessories, tableware and kitchen equipment.

A WATER COLOR entitled "Judas Iscariot," by Jay Meuser, San Pedro painter, has been accepted by the jury of the 24th annual All-California Art Exhibition at Santa Cruz. Among other well known Southern California artists whose work was accepted are Emil J. Kosa Jr., Clyde Scott and Paul Lauritz. The state-wide show closes April 7.

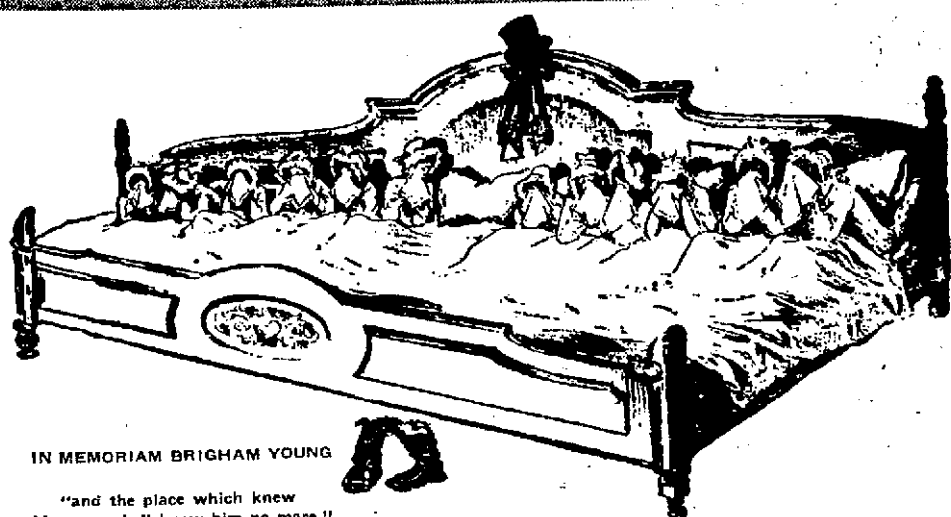

THE 1954 annual exhibition of artists of Los Angeles and vicinity will be in Los Angeles County Museum May 14-June 27. Current exhibitions at the Museum in Exposition Park, Los Angeles, include prints and drawings, recent acquisitions of graphic arts; Chinese gold and silver from the world-famous collection of Dr. Carl Kerpe of Stockholm from the ancient Chou Dynasty to the more recent Ch'ing Dynasty. Recent acquisitions include "St. Jerome in the Desert" by Benvenuto di Giovanni and a still life painting by Karl Knaths. The third annual Southern California Science Fair, exhibit of the work of students from the seventh through the 12th grades interested in science will be April 24-April 29.

PAINTINGS by Hubert Stowits, dancing partner of the great Pavlowa, will be shown through April 28 in the Laguna Beach Art Gallery. Spending two years in India, he wandered from the Himalayas to Ceylon, living in the courts of Indian potentates and in the humble cottages of native craftsmen. Among the portraits shown are Gandhi and Nehru as well as the fabulous maharajahs.

"and the place which knew him once shall know him no more."

Frontispiece from "Isn't One Wife Enough?" by Kimball Young

KIMBALL YOUNG, a grandson of Brigham Young, the great Mormon leader, tells the story of Mormon polygamy—from its inception through its turbulent years to the time it was outlawed by the church, and even to the recent Short Creek settlement episode—in "Isn't One Wife Enough?" (Holt, $6). Declaring he has tried to steer as an objective a course as possible in the telling, author Young adds: "Whatever the officials of the Mormon Church think of this book, I feel sure that many a descendant of polygamous unions will be glad that I have told this story, and tried to explain how the system operated."

BOOK REVIEWS

They Dared to Gamble Their Initiative

The wife of the governor of Idaho tells how she, her husband and three children won a home from the wilderness in the depression years of the '30s, establishing their sheep ranch in some of the wildest and least accessible country in modern America.

Kirkwood Bar Ranch was on the Snake River almost at the mouth of Hell's Canyon, cut off from civilization by towering sheer rock reached only at uncertain long intervals by the mailboat that felt its way up and down the twisting, menacing Snake. Here Grace Jordan made her home, helped her husband in his dawn-to-dark ordeal of raising lambs, shearing, lugging supplies over dangerous trails, moving flocks, getting necessities in and his wool and lambs out.

She cooked for ranch hands, helped build a kitchen and makeshift furniture; taught and cared for children who for as long as seven months saw no other child. Her torturous, sometimes terrifying experiences make a rich story of people who dared to gamble on their own endurance and initiative.—L. A.

YOU'D BE SURPRISED! by Shirley Thompson (Enterprise Press, Maywood, $1).

Worry over past errors never has brought anything but pain and heartache. We all make mistakes — but let's not make the old ones over again. Let's make new ones, if we must. We have problems, always, but the problems are not beyond our capacity of solving. The bigger the mind, the bigger the problem.

That is what Mrs. Thompson, Los Angeles counsellor and lecturer, believes and she has put her principles of solving problems, adjusting to life and getting right with God in a handy, compact, readable volume. In it she handles such subjects as cause and effect, health, retribution, self-development and abundance.—V. W.

LAUGHTER ON THE STAIRS, by Beverly Nichols (Dutton, $3.75).

This is the account of Nichols' restoration of the 200-year-old Georgian mansion to a state of grace, after having been inhabited by a person named Mr. Stebbing. It's a gay and sprightly book, and its pages are filled with eccentric characters who pass through Merry Hall. Even the ghosts of dead-and-gone horses come to visit with Nichols, his cats and his friends. The humor is sometimes sly, sometimes pathetic, but it is always present, and Beverly Nichols shares it beautifully with the reader. With drawings by William McLaren, the book is lovely to see.

DEATH OF AN AD MAN, by Alfred Eichler (Abelard, $2.50).

To be a grade-A suspect and still be able to solve the murder is a trick which would be difficult in real life. It's rough enough as accomplished by one of the varied characters in this mystery story. Setting is an advertising agency and the background is authentic, the author being a big-time ad copywriter of 25 years' standing. In fact, principles of advertising are applied by the character who solves this baffling crime. Full of suspense, the story will keep even the most avid mystery fan guessing.

CASINO ROYALE, by Ian Fleming (Macmillan, $2.75).

James Bond has a double zero before his number in the secret bureau in which he serves. That means he has served as an assassin in line of duty, so his selection to destroy a notorious French Communist comes as no surprise. But he has to do it at the baccarat tables. Up to the point where he follows the beautiful Vesper Lynd into a rough captivity by Communist agents, the story carries a great deal of suspense. After Bond is tied to a bottomless chair, and whipped on the bare fundament by a carpet beater, the reader has had most of it. From then on the story fades and the reader fumes because it would not have to.

THE FOUNDING FATHERS, by Nathan Schachner (Putnam, $6.00).

In the beginning of our national fight for survival there were troubles that seemed unsolvable. Not only were small political factions quarreling but states and the officials of states had a long list of demands which clouded the view into a sound future for America. This is the account of those troubles, dealt with to show a miracle of survival in the face of the deepest gloom. The first 12 years of the nation were the worst, and they were also exciting and dramatic.

SPIDERS' WAR, by S. Fowler Wright (Abelard, $2.75).

This is labeled as a "shocking tale of the future." Lemno, the hero, apparently thinks nothing of disemboweling his own wife and then thoroughly enjoying her liver for breakfast. He also leads his people into a war with giant spiders, 50 feet across. There's a love story, too — somewhat tame — told in a formalized style that is in itself interesting. Readers will probably hope that the future, as pictured in this book, never comes.—J. G.

DICK DEEBLE
IT'S COMMON TALK among gourmets everywhere that Ricart's Restaurant, 4343 Atlantic Ave., serves wonderful prime rib and steaks.
But even some of the gourmets aren't aware that Ricart's creates other specialties which are just as outstanding. For example, there's Ricart's Shish Kebab, which is spring lamb marinated in wine, charcoal broiled and served on a flaming sword. It never fails to cause a stir of excitement whenever it's served.
And there's also Ricart's Scallopini of Veal, au Marsala, which is simply delicious, and Ricart's planked chopped sirloin with onion rings which is a veritable symphony of flavor on an oak plank.
The decor at Ricart's is just as outstanding as the food. More than $108,000 was spent on the interior paneling and fixtures when the restaurant was opened in 1946. On the walls are outstanding oils of Flemish drinking and dining scenes painted by Alan Woods. The eyes of one of the paintings in the cocktail lounge — that of a dashing cavalier — are so realistic patrons have been known to comment with surprise: "He's staring at me!"
OWNERS AND HOSTS at Ricart's are Art Morgan and Dick Deeble, who have also been partners in the building and auto trades here. Deeble's family is one of Long Beach's oldest, having settled in the city in 1909. A friendly chap with a twinkle in his eye and a good word for everyone, Deeble is married and has three children, Tom, 9; Jim, 7, and Gayle, 4.
The man who presides over the piano-organ bar at Ricart's is Lloyd Hart, last of the Hart Players, a family group which put on weekly musicals and dramas nearly 30 years ago at the Pike and later in the Ebell Theater.
Ricart's is open daily except Monday from 11:30 a. m. to 2 a. m. —TEDD THOMEY.

WAY DOWN SOUTH...

● Richard Harrington, PARADE's roaming photographer-reporter, has now seen the American continent from top to bottom.

On previous trips he has pushed far beyond the Arctic Circle. His latest "safari" took him south almost to the Antarctic.

He visited Navarino Island, a desolate speck beyond the tip of South America. There he found the world's southernmost resident (above) — an Indian woman, last of her tribe.

More than 90 years old, blind in one eye, partly crippled, she lives on seafood she gathers on the beach. Read Harrington's story about her on page 18.

FIVE FEET-seven, 245 pounds, Mac dwarfs a classmate on basketball floor. But he doesn't like games, unless he's playing with younger children.

MAC TUSSLES with his best pal, his dog Buff, in cellar of Ray home. He says, "The other kids think I'm too big. Buff doesn't mind if I'm rough."

Don't

A mother's tender,

COPPERTON, Utah.

ONE AFTERNOON my 13-year-old son, Mac, came home and walked right past the icebox, his usual stopping place.

He plopped his five-foot-seven, 245-pound frame down on the living room floor beside my chair and said:

"Mom, do kids hate me just because I'm fat?"

At first, I groped for an answer. Then I realized Mac didn't want one.

He wasn't really talking to me; he was just pouring out years and years of frustration.

For three hours, he talked. Listening was like meeting him for the first time.

I learned something that day—something that other mothers of overweight boys might not realize.

Mac wasn't 100 pounds overweight because he was too lazy to reduce, or because he loved food.

His waistline was his armor, protecting him from the barbs of the world.

▶ When things got tough, he retreated behind an ocean of malteds, a mountain of gooey pastries.

Oh, I'd known my boy was shy, that he seemed to like being alone better than mingling with other children.

But I thought—or maybe I pretended—that these were normal growing pains, and he'd grow out of them soon.

He Was Insecure

THAT AFTERNOON, a lot of things began to fall into place. Habits and little quirks I'd noticed, vaguely, over the years, could now be tied up to the same source:

Mac was woefully insecure.

Years before, a child psychologist had talked to our PTA about the relation between a child's eating habits and his anxieties.

At the time, I refused to believe that he was talking about Mac. Now I know that he was almost drawing a picture of him.

For instance, Mac always said being fat didn't bother him. But the psychologist had said some kids use their weight as a defense.

revealing story of how she came to understand her 13-year-old boy

They can say, "Look, I'm fat. How can you expect me to be a good athlete or get along with girls?"

My boy always said he didn't want any close friends. "I want to be friendly with everyone," was the way he put it.

I knew that his two best pals were Buff, his dog, and Charlene, our three-year-old daughter. He spent hours with Charlene, reading and playing games with her.

He had one close school friend—a boy who had been hurt in an auto accident years before and attended school in a wheelchair.

A Lonely Life

HE AND MAC found solace in each other's loneliness.

Mac stayed close to the house, puttering around, cleaning his rifle, repairing things.

All this fell into a pattern of avoiding other children.

The psychologist had had an explanation for that. The child, he said, held people at arm's length so they wouldn't find a flaw in his personality.

And that friend-to-all attitude meant simply that he was afraid of offending someone.

That's the reason for the mistaken idea that all the world loves a fat man, that fat men are always jolly.

In school, Mac told me that afternoon, the kids picked him as the butt of their jokes. They tied erasers to his feet, hung "Kick Me" signs on his back.

And Mac, the jolly fat boy who never got mad, laughed harder than the rest of the youngsters.

Then, he confessed to me, he'd slip out to his locker and gulp chocolate milk and munch cookies. He kept a well-stocked larder for such emergencies.

Sometimes, though, the larder wasn't big enough. I'd be appalled, some afternoons, when he came home and wolfed down peanut butter and jelly sandwiches until the bread ran out.

The kids would taunt him at school because he was fat, and then he'd come home and get fatter!

To make the tie-in between Mac's insecurity and his eating habits even more obvious, my other three children—Roy, 16; Russ, 8, and Charlene—are actually underweight.

Of course, Mac didn't do all his eating at home. He worked at odd jobs and delivered newspapers during the summer, and all that money went into his savings.

He doled it out to soda fountains and candy shops during the winter, at a clip of 10 malteds a week, two or three candy bars a day, dozens of pastries, boxes and boxes of cookies.

When we went to Salt Lake City, 30 miles away, on Saturday, he'd spend the whole day in an ice cream shop.

He drank milk constantly.

And he got very little exercise to work it off.

He tried out for the football team—but the laughter was so loud and long that he quit.

He Shunned Games

THE KIDS PUT up a basketball hoop a few doors away. Mac wasn't a bad shot, but he shunned the game unless only younger boys were playing.

That way, you see, he didn't feel inferior. With boys his own age, he often hung back.

Sometimes he went hunting with his older brother, Roy. But Mac was embarrassed because he couldn't climb fences. Mostly, he hunted alone.

► One outlet that has helped him is the local Boy Scout troop. The younger boys look up to Mac because of his size, and he's a good leader for that reason.

I'm grateful to the Scouts for helping Mac at a most troubled time in his life.

I'm also grateful to two boys who, however crudely and unintentionally, set Mac on the right track.

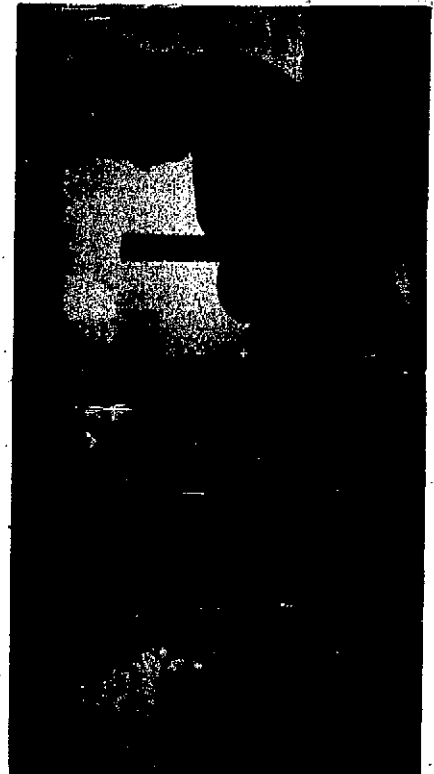

It was their conversation he overheard the day he drifted home to pour out his heart to me. Just this fragment reached Mac:

"Don't forget the party Friday night, and remember, don't tell Mac."

Missing the party didn't bother him. Being "frozen out" did.

QUICK GULP of chocolate milk and a bite of cake means something has upset Mac in school. He used to keep his locker crammed with food. But he's changing now.

MAC CHECKS his weight on bathroom scale. Until recently, he said he "didn't mind being fat". Now he's on a low-calorie diet, intends to shed 100 pounds.

A TALK with his mother convinced Mac he did want to reduce, showed him he was hiding from the world "behind oceans of malteds and mountains of cakes."

BUTT OF jokes, Mac doesn't notice as a schoolmate pins a "Kick Me Hard" sign on his back. When he discovered it, Mac laughed harder than others.

A BIG STEP for the new, streamlined Mac is learning social poise. His 16-year-old cousin, Beverly Ray, helps him along with his first dancing lessons.

... a change is in the making

That set my boy to thinking. All this time he'd been holding people off, but now, he realized, he'd marked himself as an "outsider". And he wanted desperately to "belong".

For an hour or so, he loitered around the corridors at the school, turning the problem over and over in his mind. Then he decided to come home and talk to me.

We figured out a lot of things, sitting there in the late afternoon.

I saw my boy as I'd never seen him before.

More important, Mac saw himself anew. And he resolved to do something about it.

The reserve supply of chocolate milk and cookies has vanished from his locker; those two or three malteds after school are out.

For my part, I'm trying to keep him on a diet of low-calorie foods that are still tasty.

He's making new friends, mingling more, asserting himself more.

100 Pounds Off

AND MAC'S taking his first steps in learning the social graces. Just the other night, his 16-year-old cousin, Beverly Ray, gave him his first dancing lesson.

Mac is determined he'll take off nearly 100 pounds. And the next time there's a party, he's going to be the first one invited!

AIRMAIL. Laundries are so slow in some European places that a few impatient people have their shirts flown to New York City, washed, and flown back. Takes just three days, so I'm told.

PATIO PLATE. Connie Haines writes: "Read your column about the average woman spending two years of her life doing dishes. Here's a recipe that will save her a few minutes. It's called Patio Plate, serves eight, uses only one plate per person and one skillet.

"Fry 2 sliced onions and 2 chopped green peppers slowly in 3 tbsp. Spry in skillet till onions turn yellow.

"Add 1 lb. hamburger. Fry until mixture falls apart.

"Add 2 cups canned tomatoes, ½ cup uncooked rice, 1 tsp. chili powder, 2 tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. pepper, and mix. Cover. Cook over low heat for 1 hour or until done."

(Here are two more ways to make dishwashing faster and easier to do: 1) Use Surf. 2) Let things soak for a while first.)

Your nose tells you what your eyes can't see

Next time you take your wash out of the machine, we'd like you to do us (and yourself) a favor. It will only take a second. First, look at it; then smell it. You can tell how clean your laundry looks by using your eyes. But your nose tells you how clean it really is.

Your nose "sees" below the surface, deep down inside the cloth fibers themselves. And that's where SURF comes into its own. SURF doffs its cap to no product when it comes to getting white things white and hard-to-wash play or work clothes clean-looking. But it doesn't stop at the surface. SURF gets things clean clear through, so clean that they smell like sunshine.

We'll match SURF against any product in the world and let you be the judge. If you don't think SURF does a better job, we at Lever Brothers want to be the first to know about it. We'll refund every cent you paid (postage, too) in return for the information.

When you wash them with SURF they smell like SUNSHINE

[... you know that they're clean clear through!]

THEATER

How You Behave . . .

Two ballet stars compare American & French theater audiences

NEW YORK.

THEATER AUDIENCES are like babies—all beautiful, but all different.

That's the opinion of the two French ballerinas at the left—Leslie Caron and Colette Marchand of Roland Petit's Ballet de Paris.

While touring U. S. cities, they compared American audiences with those in France.

There's a big difference.

French audiences are noisier, more critical, more demanding. American audiences are polite, encouraging, sympathetic.

► "Here they applaud a little even if they do not like the performance," says Miss Marchand, who began dancing when she was 10. "They are so kind. Opening night on Broadway, the scenery fell down. Nobody got angry or laughed. People clapped harder to show they were sorry for our trouble."

'Then They Fight'

IN PARIS, an opening night can be dangerous," says Miss Caron, who made her debut there when she was 16. "Some cry 'Bis' meaning they want an encore, while others boo and jeer. Then they fight with each other while you tremble on the stage."

Paris audiences often throw flowers at their favorites. Miss Marchand remembers one night when an audience pitched candy at her.

"I couldn't dance without stepping in chocolate," she says. "I think they meant they liked me."

To show dislike, French audiences whistle. Thus, when Miss Marchand heard her first U. S. audience whistle, she was upset.

"I thought I was bad," she says, "until I found out that an American whistle means you are very good. Now I like to hear them."

French fans seldom storm a stage door.

"In this country, they wait for you at the stage door even if they haven't seen you dance," says Miss Caron. "Everybody's your friend. A boy from Yale invited me to his prom. A little girl crocheted two pot holders for me. Many men propose marriage—even though they have seen me only in costume!"

Miss Marchand sums up.

"In Paris they like the ballet you are in," she says. "In America, they like you in the ballet!"

CARON & MARCHAND: "French audiences have strong reactions: they shout, cheer, stamp on the floor and call you back for 25 curtain calls. U.S. audiences are much more calm."

How everybody helps the FBI

When a crook reaches the "Ten Most Wanted" list, his days are numbered.

"CAPTURED" sign goes up on another "Wanted" poster in FBI Washington headquarters. Over 60 men on "Most Wanted Fugitives" list have been captured—27 of them through tips by citizens.

WASHINGTON.

ON A SEPTEMBER day, a vicious, 20-year-old hoodlum named Joseph James Brletic, with a record of arrests for rape, armed robbery and auto theft, cut through a wall with barber's shears and broke out of St. Louis County Prison, Clayton, Mo.

For more than four years, the young gunman remained at large.

Then on Feb. 9, 1953, the FBI flooded newspaper offices across the country with photos and descriptions of Brletic.

The next day, a citizen of Lancaster, Calif., picked up his evening paper and then phoned local authorities. By 9:15 p.m., Brletic was in handcuffs.

What happened to Brletic was the worst fate that can befall a professional criminal: his name had been placed on the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Men."

When a fugitive from justice is elected to the Top Ten, he knows that the jig is up. In the glare of national publicity, his chances of escaping recognition by someone, somewhere, are mighty slim.

Since the FBI set up its "Most Wanted" program in 1950, over 60 men who made the list have been captured.

And 27 of them have been picked up as the result of tips from private citizens who saw the wanted man's photograph or heard a description on the radio.

Private citizens were responsible for the arrests of half the 26 picked up in 1953 alone.

Who are the Ten Most Wanted Fugitives?

Director J. Edgar Hoover says they're habitual law-breakers, not one-time offenders.

They're active operators who'll strike again, if they're not caught. The "fraternity" has included murderers, safe-crackers, stickup artists, confidence men.

HERE'S WHAT J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, told PARADE:

"The safeguarding of our communities from the criminal element is the duty of all good citizens, and every man charged with enforcing the law is dependent upon their assistance . . .

"I am particularly pleased that you are featuring in your story the inestimable aid given the law enforcement profession by alert citizens . . ."

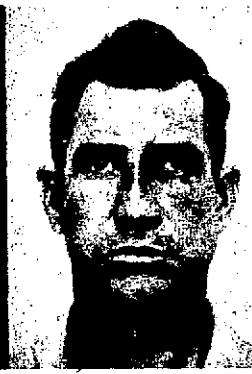

The FBI's 52 field offices send in the names of "candidates". Sometimes, the man has broken jail. More often, he has committed a crime and then fled before local authorities could nab him.

In either case, once he crosses a state

Peter E. Kenzik
Murder

Wanted for stabbing wife. Also stabbed first wife, broke jail afterwards. Constant gum chewer, heavy drinker. One upper tooth missing. 46; five-seven; scar on bridge of nose.

Alex Whitmore
Assault, Robbery

Charged with hatchet assault on robbery victim. Fled hospital after robbery. Nose has been broken. Cut scars on nose, chin. Five-eight; 145 pounds; 45. Left leg has been broken.

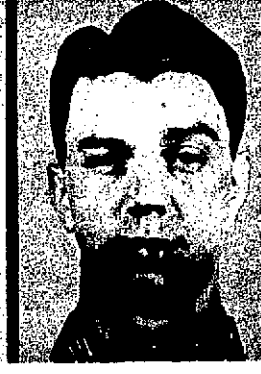

Charles Falzone
Robbery

Charged with stickup of payroll messenger. Likes card games, takes long walks alone. Likes grey suits. Carpenter. 41; five-six; 150 pounds; scar on forehead, scar on chin.

Basil K. Beck
Burglary

Even as this story was being written, Beck was captured by FBI in San Pablo, Calif. By the time you read this, more of Top Ten may be in jail. But others will take their places.

Clarence Dye
Armed Robbery

Newest member of group, wanted for Akron, O., lunchroom stickup. Shot it out with victim. Tattoo, "C.D." on forearm. Heavy drinker, avid movie fan. Scar on face.

capture criminals

Even a 13-year-old schoolboy spotted one dangerous fugitive line, he's eligible for the list—under the Federal statute on unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

When he's caught, he is returned to local authorities for questioning, trial and imprisonment.

A fugitive needs no special qualification for the Top Ten. "We don't discriminate," says an FBI official. The FBI simply tries to pick men who are considered most menacing to society.

A few names are kept regularly on hand as replacements for captured men.

The Presses Roll

WHEN A NEW name moves up to the list, the presses begin to roll at FBI headquarters here. Into the mail go 125,000 big "Wanted" posters, to be tacked up in post offices, railroad stations and law enforcement agency headquarters across the country.

The nation's news services are given pictures and a sketch with every available bit of information about the fugitive—his scars, birthmarks and tattoos, his dress and manner of speech, his nicknames, girl friends and living habits.

And here's what happens next:

A customer in Lewis Hillsberg's restaurant in Coral Gables, Fla., ordered fried chicken, then settled down to read the evening paper.

Suddenly, to Hillsberg's surprise, the customer jumped up, folded his paper and bolted from the place without finishing his meal. Hillsberg took a look at the day's papers himself.

There, in the Miami Herald and Miami Daily News, he found pictures of his customer—Ernest Tait, a fugitive burglar. He called the Miami FBI office.

The next day a jeweler, a haberdasher and a garage employee all reported they had seen Tait in the vicinity. With a description of Tait's auto from garage man PRESSES get ready to roll off 125,000 pictures of another hunted man. Soon his picture will be seen across the country.

Jesse Marrs, the FBI nabbed him at a service station that afternoon.

Dr. R. J. Cobble, a veterinarian in Dixon, Calif., saw a picture of jailbreaker Chester Lee Davenport in the Vallejo News Chronicle. He recognized Davenport as a worker on a local dairy farm.

His tip sent local officers and FBI agents to pick Davenport up. Davenport went back to the Oklahoma State Reformatory to serve out a robbery sentence.

Thirteen-year-old James Radeck went home for lunch in St. Paul, Minn. The kitchen floor was freshly mopped, and his mother had spread newspapers to walk on.

Watching his feet, the boy stepped close to a picture of a man he knew—a strange hermit the kids had found living in a cave near the Mississippi River.

The man was identified as escaped murderer William Raymond Nesbit. Jimmy called the cops, and the FBI crossed off another member of the Top Ten.

The net of publicity is as wide as the continent. Take the case of Joseph Franklin Bent, Jr., wanted for robbery and attempted murder.

A man in Alaska picked up Pageant Magazine, recognized Bent, and told the FBI Bent once had lived in Monterey, Mexico. Agents went to Mexico and easily picked up Bent's trail. A few days later, he was nabbed in Texas City, Tex.

FBI continued

One fugitive has eluded watchful citizens four years

SINCE THE START of the program, newspaper publicity has been responsible for the capture of 12 fugitives. Magazines have accounted for five—three of them the result of a single article in the Saturday Evening Post.

Most of the tipsters who helped snare the criminals remain anonymous. The FBI makes it a rule never to reveal their identities.

The vengeance slaying of young Arnold Schuster, who "put the finger" on Top Tenner Willie Sutton, came after Schuster publicly claimed a reward. Sutton had been captured by New York City police.

The FBI gives no rewards to helpful citizens. They do get a personal letter of thanks from J. Edgar Hoover.

Only one member of the original Top Ten is still at large—Henry Randolph Mitchell, a graying, stocky little man who has spent most of his 58 years in jail.

Mitchell, who sometimes works as an auditor, has been convicted of grand larceny, narcotics law violations, breaking and entering, and forgery.

The Williest

SOUGHT SINCE 1948 for a Williston, Fla., bank robbery, this veteran criminal rates as the williest of them all. But the FBI is confident that sooner or later, he'll be crossed off too.

Most Top Ten alumni are now behind bars. One cheated justice by committing suicide. A murder suspect was acquitted.

Then there was Fred Bowerman who never went to jail. Surprised in the middle of a bank holdup last April, he died in a gun battle with St. Louis police.

No woman has ever made the list. There just aren't any female crooks in a class with Henry Mitchell and Fred Bowerman. Several times, though, wives or girl friends believed hiding out with fugitives have rated special posters.

The FBI is delighted with the success of its "Ten Most Wanted" program. The fugitives, though, feel a little differently.

Kidnapper Thomas Jackson Massingale, flushed from cover by a magazine article, complained bitterly about the "notoriety."

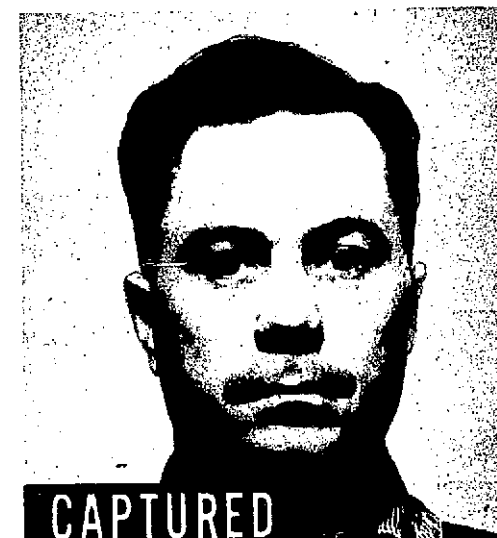

Another fugitive couldn't stand the strain. After 14 years of hiding out, Bank Bandit Meyer Dembin made the FBI list.

He saw his picture in so many places at once that he just gave up and turned himself in.

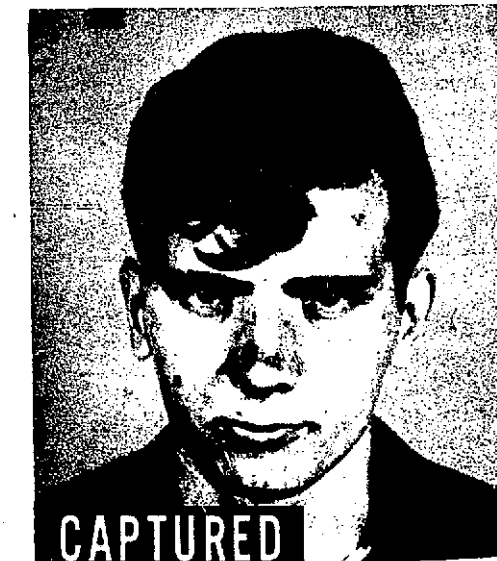

CAPTURED

CAPTURED

A BOY trapped William Raymond Nesbit, wanted for murder. He saw this picture of Nesbit in newspaper on freshly-scrubbed floor, recognized him as hermit living near Mississippi River.

CAPTURED

JUST A FEW hours were required for the capture of Joseph James Brletic. California man saw this picture in the evening newspaper, phoned the authorities. By 9:15 p.m., Brletic was behind bars.

Puzzled kids watch Charlie set pogo stick record.

He Acts Just a 'Little Crazy'

CROWBOROUGH, England.

WHAT ON EARTH is going on in the picture above?
Answer: A man is hopping to a new world's record on a pogo stick—12,000 hops, 12 times the old record and a total distance of seven miles.

More than that, Charlie Macey, golf pro at this Sussex town, is trying to prove his claim that the world needs a slight streak of madness. It takes itself too seriously now, he says.

Maybe you read about the pogo stick record—the first time word of his "madness" sneaked out of town. But Crowborough residents, who agree when he calls himself "Crazy Charlie", point to the ways he's startled them in the past:

He once played 12 consecutive rounds of golf in 16 hours, wearing a tin helmet and no shoes.

He raced a passenger train down Mount Snowdon, highest point in England and Wales, and won.

He walked backwards 16 miles to Lewes Prison.

Another time, he walked six miles (forward) in an hour, twirling a yo-yo all the way.

Future Surprises

CHARLIE HAS some future surprises planned, including a walk from the tip of Scotland to the tip of Cornwall (about 900 miles). And he wants to roll a hoop to Brighton, 30 miles from Crowborough.

Charlie says he's "marathon-minded". He likes to see how long he can keep going after he's completely exhausted. He plans his stunts weeks ahead of time; grows more and more enthusiastic as the time nears.

His wife, who caddied for him during his golf marathon, worries when he first has a brainstorm, then becomes enthusiastic, too.

"They do cheer up the quiet winter evenings," she says. "But I didn't like his pogo stick jumping. That one seemed so childish to me."

SALUTE: Lt. Col. Maffry, squadron commander, inspects a launching crew in front of the upraised Matador. He is exchanging salutes with the launching crew chief. Matador rests on its mobile launcher in position for take-off. (Colonel would normally not be on scene while missile was being prepared for firing.)

Roaring skyward, B-61 Matador takes off from launcher during test flight at Air Force Missile Test Center, heads seaward from Cape Canaveral. Flame spurts from booster unit.

● By NORTON WOOD

First look at our Pilotless Bombers

A Matador squadron in action shows how U.S. airmen will fight a push-button war—if "the bell rings"

HOLIDAY FISHERMEN who troll the warm Gulf Stream off this strip of Florida coast sometimes see the Matador.

It glints bright red in the sunlight as it climbs for altitude above the ocean.

The Matador is a pilotless jet bomber of the U. S. Air Force.

For three years this new weapon has been streaking across the Atlantic in test flights, while Glenn L. Martin Co. engineers worked to perfect its design.

Now the Matador is combat ready. The 1st and 69th Pilotless Bomber Squadrons have been assigned to the NATO defense forces in Western Europe.

I watched the 69th in action here at the Air Force Missile Test Center and PARADE cameraman David Preston photographed the outfit just as it will look in combat if "the bell rings."

The squadron is a tactical air unit whose wartime job would be to strike swiftly against an aggressor's armies, or against supply centers, bases, or communications lines. The Matador, officially designated as B-61, is reported capable of carrying a nuclear charge in its warhead. It dives into its target to create a tremendous area of destruction on the ground.

This pilotless aircraft, which is about the size of a jet fighter, will be used in tactical operations. Its speed is reportedly "near-sonic"—in the neighborhood of 650 m.p.h.

EXCLUSIVE: Pilotless bombers, the Defense Dept. has announced, are moving up to the Iron Curtain—to be on hand if they're ever needed. This is the first story written about a push-button bomber squadron, how the men in it go about their strange new jobs.

THE EDITORS.

Steering the "bird" to its target is done from the ground, by electronic devices that the Air Force doesn't talk about for publication.

A U. S. highway, Route A1A, runs right through Patrick Air Force Base, and vacationing motorists drive within a few hundred feet of some of the most hush-hush equipment in America. But the guided missile work areas are fenced off and tightly restricted. With written permits, and careful official escort, Preston and I were admitted to certain areas. Other areas are tightly screened off from all but "specially-authorized" eyes.

We found the commander of the 69th Squadron at his office inside a large hangar. Rugged, six-foot Lt. Col. Richard W. Maffry, West Point '42, served in Europe with a light bomber squadron in World War II. He flew 53 combat missions as a B-26 pilot. Ten years later Dick Maffry doesn't find it strange to be going back to Europe with a light bomber squadron whose flight crews stay on the ground.

Maffry has been working with guided missiles for more than six years, but he admits he is no technical expert on their complicated inner workings. Other men can do the engineering. "My forte," he says in his quiet voice that carries the twang of a Missouri boyhood, "is to take something the technicians develop, and devise the best way to put it into operation."

COMMANDER of 69th Pilotless Bomber Squadron is Lt. Col. R. W. Maffry. World War II bomber pilot, he wears Air Force senior pilot's wings.

READYING the Matador for firing, airmen of the 69th Pilotless Bomber Squadron swarm over great wheeled launcher as zero hour approaches for missile's take-off.

ASSIST: RATO bottle ("rocket-assisted take-off" unit) fits under Matador's tail. After missile gains altitude, bottle drops, jet engine takes over.

This plane has a 'brain'

THE SQUADRON'S Assembly Section is a hangar which receives all the pieces of the Matador direct from the factory and puts them together into main components, ready for trucking. Three big highway trailers were being moved gradually along in file, towed from one station to the next by darting little "tugs." Air Force specialists in mechanics, armament and electronics swarmed over the trailers and their loads, installing and "checking out" equipment.

As finally prepared for the road, each missile body rested complete on a supporting cradle. Wings, joined together, stood in an upright V alongside.

The test missiles used here in research flights are painted a luminous red, for easy tracking by optical instruments and cameras. With sunshine flooding through hangar skylights, the assembly area was a blaze of color.

The colonel pointed out that the assembly line would function exactly the same under field conditions. It could be set up in a parking garage, a warehouse, or even a big tent.

Strange Vehicles

LEAVING THE HANGAR, we found an array of strange-looking vehicles parked on the concrete ramp behind. A 40-foot, flat steel trailer with 12 enormous tires—the Matador launcher. An assortment of box-like vans carrying electronics and communications equipment. Portable electric generators. A huge crane.

The great tactical value of the B-61 squadron lies in its mobility; every piece of needed equipment rolls on wheels.

We had seen the hardware. Now how did it all fit together when the squadron went into action? We found out on the day one of the launch crews was scheduled for a field exercise under combat conditions.

A wild area of sand and palmetto bush on nearby Cape Canaveral had been selected.

Out from the base, heading north on Route A1A, rumbles the convoy—launcher, covered missile, flat-bed, vans, crane, and escorting jeeps —through the little resort town of Cocoa Beach. Guided missiles on Main Street are an everyday occurrence in Cocoa Beach. Housewives and shopkeepers scarcely turn to look as the convoy roars through town.

En route to the Cape, Capt. Max Feibelman, the squadron operations officer, explains that his station in combat would be a communications center set up in a tent or building of some kind near the missile launching area. From this command post, his orders would go out by radio-telephone to launch crew commanders at widely scattered launching sites. He also would be in contact with Assembly, to keep new missiles rolling up to the launchers. The Guidance Section would be off by itself, in some hidden location perhaps many miles away.

We reach the practice site—nothing but a clearing near the ocean, with surface hardened to take the weight of the vehicles. In combat, Matador could be launched from the middle of a highway, from a beachhead, from any piece of flat, hard ground accessible by truck.

Quickly the vehicles are deployed. Swiftly and silently the men go to work. Every man knows his job. The Test Center's rigorous training program requires the crews to launch even at night: they can handle the bird just by feel.

The launcher is set on the desired heading and its truck disengaged.

A crane swings the body of Matador aboard the launcher in one clean motion. Another arc of the crane's long arm and the wings drop into their slot to be locked in place.

Last item in position is the black, gunpowder-packed RATO (rocket-assisted take-off) bottle, hitched under Matador's tail.

Now the bird is complete, lithe, deadly, astonishingly beautiful.

Power Supply

A POWER GENERATOR unit has been rolled up and cables plugged into the missile. Its racking motor will supply the power to start Matador's turbojet engine.

But before firing, the missile is "dry-flown" without leaving the launcher, as a final check on guidance equipment. Electronics men sitting before instrument panels in one of the mysterious blue vans feed impulses into the missile's "brain"—a bewildering maze of tubes, wires and transistors. Matador is thinking clearly; its control surfaces respond to the signals received.

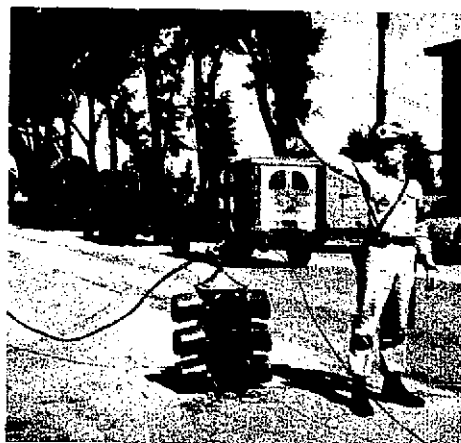

Pre-flight checkout completed, Sgt. Wilcox passes the word to elevate the launcher. The gleaming bird tilts slowly upward.

Now comes the warning whine of the starter. Men scatter from the bird's tail. Suddenly the jet engine fires, its hot blast raising a cloud of black dust. The noise mounts to a roar overlaid by a high-pitched scream.

Vehicles move away, and most of the launch crew are behind barriers.

Crew commander Mayes crouches behind sandbags, his hands on a black box from which wires run to the rocket igniter.

As zero approaches, the last man yanks out

TRAFFIC signal in Cocoa Beach hung too low for Matador convoy (background) to clear, had to be removed. Air Force cop holds other cars.

that can do a pilot's job

the power cables and runs for shelter.

If this were an actual launching, Mayes would now press a button and Matador would leave the earth with a thunderous explosion, trailing 30 feet of orange flame.

From then on, it's up to Guidance to "fly" the bird to the target. And the launch crew can ready another Matador.

Can It Be Shot Down?

CAN MATADOR be shot down by an enemy? I asked Maj. Robert Burns, guided missile operations expert of the Tactical Air Command. It's possible, he admits. But a small, fast jet aircraft is a tough target to spot on radar. The Russians might have supersonic fighters capable of intercepting the missile. But jet fighters won't stay in the air very long, could never be kept in position for interception.

Matador launching units far behind a war-time front, would be hard to find by enemy bombers.

In short, the Air Force thinks Matador can take care of itself.

But this first missile to take the field is recognized as a Model T among pilotless aircraft.

"Many people have failed to grasp the real implications of the Matador project," says Lt. Gen. Donald C. Putt, chief of the Air Research and Development Command. "The development of the Martin B-61 as the nation's first operational missile heralds the long-range trend toward elimination of the crew in all phases of Air Force combat operations."

It looks as if Dick Maffry and his boys are an advance echelon of a new breed of fighting men. The push-button era has finally arrived.

WITH ONLY seconds left before firing, launch crew commander (foreground) crouches in shelter, ready to press button that will send Matador skyward. He waits until crewmen dash to cover.

Map locates Navarino Island, which lies between Straits of Magellan and Cape Horn.

She lives farther

Southernmost resident is an Indian

RECENTLY, Richard Harrington, PARADE'S Arctic expert, went from the far north to the far south—looking for the world's southernmost resident. Here, he tells what he found. THE EDITORS.

ON MY LAST LAP south, I landed by plane at Ushuaia, on the island of Tierra del Fuego, off the tip of South America. Ushuaia, the world's southernmost town, is a Chilean settlement of 2,000 people.

My goal was still 40 miles farther south—the island of Navarino, across treacherous Beagle Channel. At Ushuaia, I made contact with an interpreter and also chartered a boat for the trip across the channel.

We had to wait five days to cross. A howling wind from the south whipped the channel into a fury of whitecaps. Day after day the rain pelted down.

But one morning, the owner of the boat, an unshaven Argentinian with yellow teeth and long hair, said: "Ah, today we go, si."

I Found Her

THE CABIN of the battered, 40-foot craft is filthy. Spray bubbles through the cracks. Loose tools clank about in the sloshing bilge.

All around are dirty plates and mugs. The only cheerful thing in the cabin is a tiny stove. We make very strong black coffee and eat dry bread.

Finally we cast off and head for the channel. The boat bucks and heels. Solid green water boils over the prow into the cabin. Half-drowned, chilled to the bone, we try to keep on our feet.

Four hours later we make our way into a sheltered cove of Navarino Island. Here I find what I am looking for—the world's southernmost permanent resident, a woman.

She's an ancient, shriveled crone with a face like wrinkled leather, pointed teeth and straggly grey hair. She is blind in one eye and partly crippled.

This mere shell of a human being is a full-blooded Yaghan Indian, the sole survivor of a once-proud South American tribe.

Her home is a tent-like structure of corrugated iron sheets and wood about eight feet in diameter. It is supported by poles set up inside. The place is hazy with smoke from a little stove in the center. At one side is a pile of driftwood for fuel.

The old woman sleeps on three sheepskins spread on the bare ground. She lives mostly on mussels which she claws off the rocks at low tide. The shells are heaped all around.

We enter the tent. The woman crouches on her sheepskins, her bare feet tucked under her. The interpreter begins talking. She answers in gibberish made up of Yaghan, Spanish and English (she had learned English from missionaries who once visited her.)

How old is she? I ask: "fifty?" She merely grins. I say: "sixty . . . seventy . . . eighty . . . ninety?" At "ninety" she nods. (Chilean records indicate she is over 90.)

She smokes my cigarettes, asks for tea. Through an interpreter, she tells me she had five sons and 10 daughters. They are all dead now. Her name, it seems, is Julia. No surname—just that: Julia the Yaghan.

I ask Julia if I might photograph her. She cackles and nods.

We give her bread and butter, which she eats ravenously. Then I pour her a drink of grappa (a strong brandy). She almost chokes on it, makes a face and splutters: "Muy malo!" ("Very bad!").

Before we leave, we give her some gifts—cigarettes, chocolate, bread, tea.

We gather our belongings, get up to leave, and shake her hand. She sits hunched on her sheepskins, staring with unseeing eyes, saying nothing, thinking—who knows what?

Aboard our boat, we look back Julia, last of her tribe, is alone again on a desolate island at the end of the world.

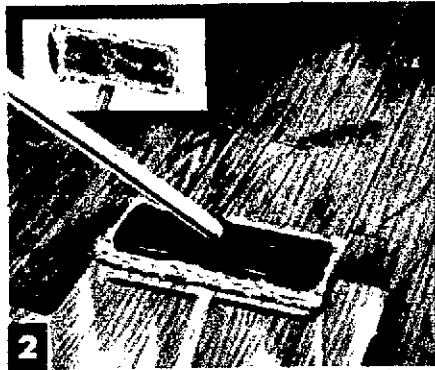

HOME is this tent of corrugated iron and wood. Navarino, 40 miles long, 20 miles wide, rarely has day without rain or snow. Some 50 miles south is Cape Horn. Beyond that are ice fields of the Antarctic.

BOOKS FOR YOUR LEISURE

John juggles for the Virgin Mary while monks watch in horror. (Pictures are from "Juggler of Notre Dame".)

The Juggler's Tribute

A familiar legend is rewritten for children

By MARY FIDELIS TODD

THE JUGGLER OF NOTRE DAME," a touching story of the ragged juggler who gave his only gift to the Mother of God, has charmed readers for hundreds of years.

Now it has been rewritten, with bright drawings in a new book by Author-Artist Mary Fidelis Todd.

No doubt you remember the story—how the poor juggler was sheltered in a French monastery, where the monks were preparing for the Feast of the Virgin. Some made paintings; others, statues; others wrote hymns while the juggler thought and thought of what he could dedicate to the Virgin. Here is the story's climax as written by Miss Todd. THE EDITORS.

The day of the great Feast arrived and John awakened early. He jumped up eagerly, for at last the idea had come to him.

"Our Lady is not proud. If I but serve her in my own way, if I do the very best that I am able, she will be pleased even by poor stupid John, the juggler..."

...When he was dressed, he hurried to the chapel and stood humbly before the great white marble statue of the Blessed Mother.

Gift of a Smile

I WISH TO GIVE you for your Feast Day, Holy Mother, a precious gift—a smile. The happiness of a smile!" he announced. "John has cheered many with his tricks and made people laugh..."

"So the juggler dares to honor you, Blessed Lady, even as the shepherd with his tune..."

With that, John began to tumble and twist and dance with more spirit and grace than ever before. Then, up on his head he stood, while balancing a plate on a knife he held in his mouth. And then, tossing three bright balls into the air, he juggled them with his feet. Never had he given such a performance!

Just then, Brother Gregory came into the chapel for a last practice on the organ before Mass.

He stopped short... and hurried off to tell the Prior and the other monks what was happening.

The monks rushed down the hall and into the chapel in time to see John complete one last great leap into the air and then fall exhausted at the feet of the Virgin.

The Prior was horrified by what he saw and started for the youth in rage.

But Brother Boniface held him back. He exclaimed, "Look! She smiles! And see, now she bends down and wipes John's brow with the hem of her mantle!"

"A miracle," gasped Brother Gregory.

"Truly," breathed the Prior, "young John has served Our Lady in humility and so has honored and pleased her more than any of us. It is no longer the statue that stands there, but the living Mother of Jesus!" And the monks fell to their knees.

John looked up at the Blessed Mother and smiled. And his heart was glad. ■

Who Are All These Redheads?

RED BUTTONS & Rhonda Fleming: They're in a big "family".

● SOME OF OUR most popular Americans are affectionately known as "Red"!

There's a redhead who's hit the top in almost every walk of life...

"Red" Grange, perhaps the most famous football player who ever lived, made his jersey number "77" as well-known as the designation of bankruptcy, 77B, which became a by-word during the depressing early thirties. But how many people know that his name is Harold?

"Red" Buttons spent many years working in the borscht circuit and on club dates before CBS discovered they had a star on their hands. Despite the fact that I've known "Red" all the way back when he didn't have a button to his name, I couldn't give you his full name if it was the jackpot question on a quiz and the prize was a million bucks, tax deductible. (His real name is Aaron Chwatt.)

"Red" Skelton is another comedian who made the grade with few people knowing his first name (Richard). He's been at the top so long he was even able to get his new television packaging boss, the Ziv Company, to insert a precedent-shattering clause in his contract. It says if the thermometer hits 90 degrees he's to be given two hours off from filming his show to swim in his private pool.

Arthur Godfrey is perhaps radio and television's most talked-about, listened-to character —which is only natural for a redhead. But for some reason or other nobody ever bothered to plant the tag "Red" on him.

"Red" Schoendienst (born Albert Schoendienst) is considered by many sports writers to be the top second baseman in the National League and his record with the St. Louis Cardinals seems to bear out this opinion. Another top-notch in the field of sports is the syndicated sports columnist "Red" Smith, otherwise known as Walter Wellesley Smith.

"Red" Barber, a Southern gentleman who didn't even lose his you-all drawl through the years he broadcast the Brooklyn Dodger ball-games, is a real renegade this year, switching loyalties from Dem Bums of South Brooklyn to those damn Yankee World's Champions. By the way, he's really Walter Lanier Barber.

... And the Ladies

GLAMOR DOLLS like Lucille Ball, Susan Hayward, Rhonda Fleming, Jeanette MacDonald, Maureen O'Hara, Greer Garson, Mitzi Gaynor, Deborah Kerr, Janet Leigh, Ann Sheridan and Arlene Dahl never had to worry about being called "Red" in their pigtail days. For some reason their red tresses were envied and in later years millions of other women tried dye to match their locks.

GLUES ALMOST ANYTHING

● With a new adhesive, you can bond wood, hardboard, cloth, leather and paper permanently—in any combination. It's good for repairing broken furniture and toys, holding fabrics on drapery cornices, mounting upholstery on furniture, gluing torn leather onto luggage frames. It's a white liquid that dries colorless. You can dilute it and use it as a preserving film on pictures or maps. 1½ oz., 25¢. U. S. PLYWOOD CORP., 55 W. 44th St., New York 36, N. Y.

GETS WEEDS OUT

● Want to get rid of weeds, roots and all, quickly and easily without even stooping? A handy new tool for the job is a 34"-long lightweight aluminum cane with metal jaws at the end and a trigger on the handle. Jaws penetrate toughest soil and lock around weed roots of any size when you pull the trigger. You can pull out the roots readily, dump them into any container by releasing trigger. No chemicals are involved. $6.95. OVERHOUSE ENGINEERING, Dept., PP, 44 Overhouse Building, East Lansing, Mich.

WINDOW SILL SHELF

● You can turn a narrow inside window sill into a gallery for your greenery and bric-a-brac with a new steel shelf. It's easy to install without marring woodwork. It protects the sill and broadens it to 5½" width. Shelf is 22" long and has a 1½" high fence of decorative openwork. In red, yellow or white. $1.49. MILES KIMBALL, Dept. P, 174 Bond St., Oshkosh, Wis.

POCKET VIEWER: This vest pocket-size viewer is 2½" long, 2¼" wide when folded. It accommodates both 2" x 2" cardboard mounts and glass slides. A ground, polished optical glass lens gives 4 times magnification. $1.95. PEERLESS CAMERA, 415 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y.

Biggest health news about oranges in 30 years!

Remarkable health factors found in The "meat" of fresh oranges

The "meat" of the orange, as well as the juice, is full of health values nutrition scientists now find. You get these extra values in the meaty parts only when you eat the whole fresh orange.

HERE'S WHAT YOU GET FROM THE "MEAT" OF FRESH ORANGES

PROTOPECTINS	Help prevent many digestive ills and upsets in both adults and children. Aid regularity. Improve digestion, so you get more good from the food you eat.
INOSITOL (of the B vitamins)	One of the substances credited with protecting the liver from harmful fatty deposits. Similar deposits are associated with hardening of the arteries and other degenerative diseases.
BIOFLAVONOIDS	Research indicates the bioflavonoids strengthen the tiny blood vessels of the body—help them keep elastic and youthful in their function.
PRO-VITAMIN A	Pro-vitamin A is changed in the body to vitamin A, which is necessary for children's growth and important for normal vision and healthy skin.

The peeled whole orange contains 10 times as much protopectin and bioflavonoids, 3 to 6 times as much pro-vitamin A, and up to twice as much inositol as the strained juice alone. Few other foods even approach the fresh whole orange as an all-round source of elements the body needs.

Look for the navel. It means:
Richer flavor...Easy to peel...No seeds.
To peel an orange—score skin in sixths.
Strip off as shown, leaving the white material that clings naturally.

Orange juice is your best breakfast juice, important for its rich content of vitamin C. But nutrition scientists also stress the value of the whole fruit.

They now advise that you regularly include fresh oranges among the eating fruits you give your family.

That's a special pleasure now during the navel season. Sunkist Navel Oranges are the finest eating oranges in the world. They're also the finest oranges for juice, because they give you more vitamin C per glass than any other orange or orange juice.

For better health, eat a NAVEL orange every day.

THE PROTOPECTINS and 3 other remarkable health factors in fresh oranges are found, to a large extent, not in the juice but in the "meat"—in the walls of the juice sacs and segments.

Macaroni with a New Sauce

WITH LENT drawing to an end, new ideas for meatless meals are at a premium. We are sure you'll welcome this new macaroni recipe. Begin with grapefruit juice. Serve cucumber and olive salad and cheese loaf* with the macaroni; finish with frosted angel food cake.

|-----------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 3 tablespoons butter or margarine | Pepper to taste |
| 1 cup sliced onions | 1 cup broken walnut meats |
| 3 tablespoons flour | 1 tablespoon salt |
| 1 No. 303 can tomatoes | 3 quarts boiling water |
| 1½ cups tomato juice | 8 oz. (3 cups) shell macaroni |
| 1 tablespoon soy sauce | |

Melt butter or margarine; add onions; cook slowly until onions are tender. Stir in flour; cook until flour is lightly browned. Add next 4 ingredients; cover; simmer 20 minutes. Add walnuts; heat. Meanwhile, cook macaroni shells in boiling salted water until just tender (about 10 minutes). Drain. Serve with sauce. Makes 4 servings.

* Slice French bread almost through. Spread cut surfaces with mustard; insert slices of process American cheese. Place in 350°F. oven until cheese melts and loaf is hot.

Kitchen Hint: A chef suggests adding a tablespoon or two of salad oil to cooking water for macaroni—to keep the pieces separate.

JUMPS like this, by driver Walter Lee King, of Frog City, Fla., are part of thrill of watching the "airboat" races. He's traveling 60-miles-an-hour.

60 mph Boat Races ... over 'Dry Land'

You've got to watch for logs & snakes

MIAMI, Fla.
THEY RUN mile-a-minute boat races around here over what looks like dry land.

Go out along the Tamiami Trail on the edge of the Everglades and you'll see daredevil drivers like the one above. He's bounding through the swamps at speeds up to 75-miles-an-hour in a specially-designed "airboat."

The boats, light aluminum or plywood, are equipped with 65 to 150 horsepower airplane motors and cut-down propellers.

The breathtaking shot was snapped for PARADE by photographer Carroll Seghers II, during the elimination trials for the annual Airboat Derby held here in January. But you can see jumps like it any Sunday.

The drivers—mostly Seminole Indians with a sprinkling of white hunters and trappers—come in from the depths of the swamps to see who has the fastest boat.

Sitting on high seats (to see over the tall swamp grass) they line up their 15 by 5 foot craft in a clearing.

Then, gunning the powerful motors, they roar off in a couple of feet of water steering by means of airplane-type rudders.

It's wonderful the way Chewing-Gum Laxative

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT is so wonderfully different.

FEEN-A-MINT is different because you chew it. It's different, too, because it removes mostly waste—not good food! You see, FEEN-A-MINT does not work in the stomach, where food is being digested. That's why it does not take away a lot of the good food you need for energy.

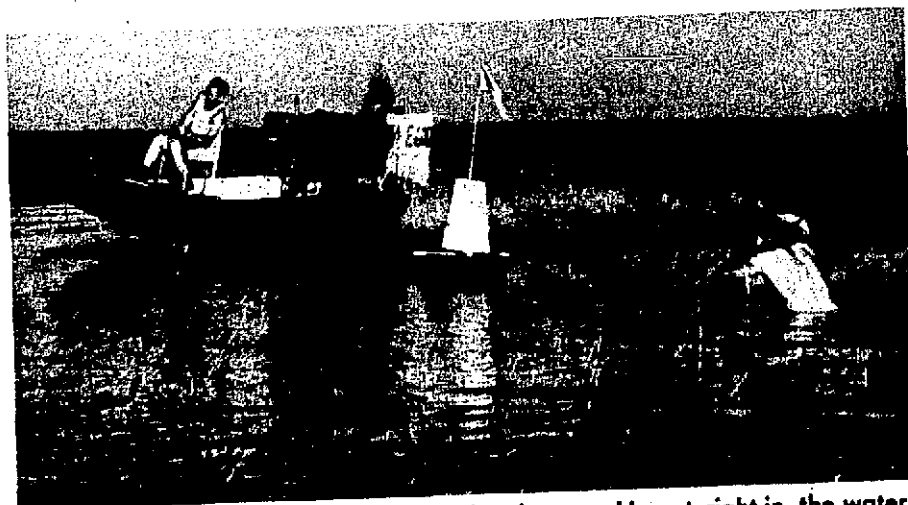

Doctors know that FEEN-A-MINT works chiefly in the lower bowel... removes mostly waste, not good food!

So to feel like a million, do as millions do. Chew delicious FEEN-A-MINT... and feel full of life and energy! Get FEEN-A-MINT!

Feen-a-mint
THE CHEWING-GUM LAXATIVE

Starting in open water, drivers gun their plane motors, roar off over the swamp.

Sometimes, after striking a log or hummock, they jump four or five feet in air. Upsets are frequent and drivers have been killed by falling into the flailing propeller or pitching headlong into the snake-infested water. Submerged stumps have been known to rip hulls from stem to stern, causing serious wrecks.

Who invented the "airboat"? Nobody knows. They first appeared in the Everglades about 20 years ago when the operators of illegal stills and law-breaking hunters used them to outdistance revenue agents and game wardens.

Today, they have become the automobile of the swamps, used by law abiding Seminoles who catch frogs in the Everglades (for their legs) and race them to market. Law officers use the boats for patrol work and rescue missions.

The ambition of every driver is to compete in the big Airboat Derby, with its $3,000 in prize money.

Throughout the summer and autumn, drivers of West Palm Beach, St. Petersburg, Miami and smaller towns around the Everglades hold local races to tune up for the semi-final eliminations in winter. The winners go to the Derby, to race in open water before crowds of over 20,000.

The winner (below) gets a trophy and a kiss from Miss Airboat.

UPSET: Walter Lee King's boat smacked piling, was ruined, couldn't enter Derby.

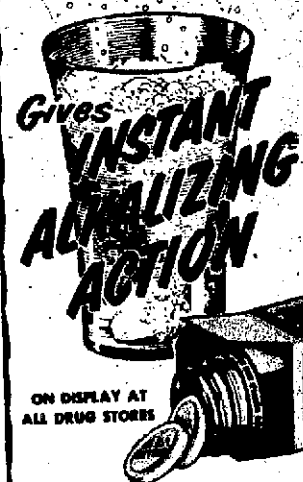

ANOTHER driver, E. W. King, of Miami, won a cup and a kiss from Air Derby queen.

You're so right...to use TIDE in your precious automatic washer

1 Tide is recommended by the makers of 25 automatic washers.

2 More women use Tide in every leading make of automatic washer than any other washing product.

Yes, the makers of 25 automatics recommend Tide! In their machines, no other washday product known—with or without suds—

NOTHING ELSE WILL WASH

AS CLEAN AS TIDE — yet is so mild!

Use Tide in your automatic washer!

Follow the example of millions of women. Take the word of the manufacturers who recommend Tide for their automatic washing machines. Remember! No matter whether you own one of their up-to-the-minute automatics, or a popular wringer-type machine—nothing else will wash as clean as Tide, yet is so mild. No washday soap, no other detergent known—including the new low-sudsing products—nothing else can match Tide!

You see, Tide—with its full-action suds—is actually designed to deliver the greatest possible cleaning power in all of these washers. Naturally, you want the cleanest, whitest washes possible... so, no matter which of these machines you own, use Tide and nothing but Tide.

IN ANY WASHING MACHINE—AUTOMATIC OR WRINGER-TYPE —THERE'S NOTHING LIKE TIDE!

No wonder more women use Tide in every leading make of washer known than any other product! It's a fact! No matter how you wash... there's just nothing like Tide! For clean, clean clothes, use Tide in your washing machine.

Just compare new Detergent Oxydol with any other suds -- it's terrific!

It Actually Beats the Sun for getting clothes white!

HERE'S WHY:

1. Oxydol has changed to a new detergent formula that's really different!
2. We added a remarkable new whitening ingredient never before used in any washday product!

HERE'S PROOF! An Oxydol wash DRIED INDOORS is whiter than any wash DRIED OUTDOORS in brightest sunshine!

Test after test has proved it -- that this great new detergent Oxydol actually beats the sun for getting clothes white. For example, we took some pillow-cases and washed them in all the leading suds. Then we dried them outdoors in the brightest sunshine.

But a pillow-case washed in new detergent Oxydol and dried indoors -- like the one shown -- was noticeably whiter than the other pillow-cases. Now you can have gorgeous white washes always -- with new detergent Oxydol. Get a package for your next wash!

Reader's Digest Reports: ONLY NEW COLGATE DENTAL CREAM with Miracle Anti-Enzyme Ingredient GARDOL* HAS THE CLINICAL PROOF!

(Proof that Brings New Hope to Millions for LIFETIME PROTECTION AGAINST TOOTH DECAY)

5 QUICK FACTS FROM THE READER'S DIGEST ARTICLE

"What About Anti-Enzyme Toothpastes?" December, 1953

1. Reader's Digest says—The most effective anti-enzyme toothpaste ingredient tested was developed in the Colgate laboratories.
(It's Colgate's miracle ingredient Gardol (Sodium N-Lauroyl Sarcosinate)—found in no other leading toothpaste!)
2. Reader's Digest says—One of the foremost dental authorities in the world proved that this ingredient binds itself effectively to the teeth—holds acid formation below the decay level in 95 per cent of cases tested.
(Unlike ordinary toothpaste ingredients, effective only for minutes, this protection won't rinse off—won't wear off—all day or all night!)
3. Reader's Digest says—Even 12 hours after brushing, this new Colgate anti-enzyme discovery continues to guard against the enzymes that cause tooth decay.
(Thus, just daily morning and night brushings guard against decay-causing enzymes every minute of the day and night!)
4. Reader's Digest says—In clinical tests, supervised by leading dental authorities—for a full year—people who used ordinary toothpastes averaged almost two and a half times more new cavities than those who used New Colgate Dental Cream with Gardol (Sodium N-Lauroyl Sarcosinate). In fact, of the group using New Colgate's, 4 out of 5 developed no new cavities at all!
(A group of distinguished dentists examined this evidence and agreed—New Colgate Dental Cream with Gardol gives the surest protection against tooth decay ever offered by any toothpaste!)
5. Reader's Digest says—New Colgate Dental Cream is the only toothpaste with clinical proof of its effectiveness in actually reducing the formation of new cavities.

How a bad back almost beat Ben Hogan!

First reported by Tom Anderson in The Knoxville Journal, June 13, 1953

FAVORED TO WIN IN THE 1953 U.S. OPEN, CHAMPION-GOLFER BEN HOGAN IS PLAYING IN THE FIRST QUALIFYING ROUND BEFORE THE TOURNAMENT, WHEN...

WOW! I REALLY WRENCHED MY BACK ON THAT ONE!

WITH A STRAIN LIKE THAT, HE MAY HAVE TO DROP OUT OF THE TOURNAMENT.

IT SURE WILL SLOW HIM DOWN ANYHOW!

FINISHING THE ROUND IN PAIN, HOGAN SCORED 77 - 5 OVER PAR

YOUR BACK BOTHERING YOU?

YEAH, I'M AFRAID IT'LL STIFFEN AND THAT WOULD REALLY BOTHER ME. THINK I'LL GET SOME BEN-GAY ON MY WAY TO THE HOTEL

2 DAYS LATER, IN THE OPENING ROUND OF THE U.S. OPEN, HOGAN IS PLAYING WITH HIS USUAL BRILLIANCE

I DON'T BELIEVE IT! EVEN HOGAN CAN'T SHOOT LIKE THAT WITH A BACK ACHES!

A 67! THAT'S 5 UNDER PAR! HOGAN'S IN GREAT FORM!

HOW'D YOU EVER MANAGE TO FIX UP THAT STRAINED BACK, BEN?

BEN-GAY DID THE TRICK! IT'S GREAT STUFF FOR MUSCLE ACHES

FROM UP CLOSE

Jack Joyner, WBIR, was among those present when Ben Hogan was interviewed following his 67 in the first round of the U.S. Open in Pittsburgh.

One of the reporters, relays Jack, asked Hogan how he apparently had cured his strained back muscle overnight.

Hogan said he had applied Ben-Gay to the aching area...

"That stuff's great," he said in effect.

Ben-Gay, ne Ben-Gay, is a tube of ointment practically every household keeps in the medicine cabinet.

MUSCLE ACHES CAN REALLY CRAMP A GOLFER'S STYLE. THAT'S WHY I ALWAYS COUNT ON BEN-GAY FOR FAST, SURE RELIEF

I'VE USED BEN-GAY FOR YEARS. IT'S REALLY EFFECTIVE AGAINST MUSCLE ACHES AND STRAINS!

JET SCOTT

WITH BIX'S HELP, JET STARTS AN AVALANCHE OF PEBBLES WHICH SHATTERED THE MIRROR SMOOTHNESS OF THE SOLAROID REFLECTOR AND SAVED KING BENJ. BUT QUEEN HA'RUBA AND SHIEK JALA HAVE ESCAPED.

IN MY OWN ROYAL CAR, NO LESS!

THE WAY I MAKE IT, THEY'RE HEADING FOR JEDDI B'UN.

I DON'T MIND THEIR LEAVING THE COUNTRY, CHAPS. BUT MY DEAR QUEEN HA'RUBA WON'T GO EMPTY-HANDED-- MY PALACE IS LOADED WITH JEWELS AND SHE KNOWS PRECISELY WHERE THEY ARE!

SHIELDON STARK
JERRY ROBINSON

KEEP YOUR BURNOOSE ON, YOUR HIGHNESS, IF BIX IS AS HANDY AS I AM WITH A LARIAT, WE'LL ROPE TRANSPORTATION RIGHT NOW!

HANDY? I'LL LATCH ON TO THREE OF 'EM WITH ONE THROW!

JALA AND HA'RUBA WON'T BE TOO FAR AHEAD OF US, RELAX, YOUR MAJESTY-- WE'LL HIT JEDDI B'UN AROUND SUNDOWN.

THAT'S NOT WHAT BOTHERS ME, SCOTT. IT'S THIS PASHED SADDLE THAT I KEEP HITTING-- HAVEN'T BEEN ON A HORSE IN YEARS!

MEANWHILE-- MILES AHEAD IN THE ROYAL CAR ...

JALA, YOU WOULD BE FOOLISH TO LEAVE THE COUNTRY WITH- OUT ME.

OUR PLAN TO TAKE OVER THE KINGDOM HAS FAILER YOUR NECK IS PRETTIER, MY PIGEON, BUT ALL I CARE ABOUT NOW IS MY OWN!

EVEN IF MY NECK WERE COVERED WITH THE PALACE JEWELS?

MY BELOVED, I HAVE CHANGED MY MIND ABOUT LEAVING YOU BEHIND. FOR SOME REASON, YOU HAVE SUPPENLY BECOME MORE PRECIOUS TO ME THAN ANY JEWEL!... FASTER, DRIVER- TO THE KING'S PALACE!

THE HORSES CAN'T TRAVEL ON AIR, YOUR HIGHNESS. DON'T BE IMPATIENT!

OLD CHAP, IT'S NOT IMPATIENCE THAT MAKES ME STAND IN THE STIRRUPS-- IT'S SIMPLY THAT I WISH I COULD RIDE ON AIR!
